Cov. Davis on the Bostrum,

The partisan and mendacious enemies of Gov. Davis, who determined in the beginning, when he arst ran for Governor in 1869, to have him condemned without a hearing, and who have, from that time to this, used all their power on the stamp and through the press, to fire the prejudices of the people against a man whom they had never seen nor heard, are now meeting their just deserts in the jucreasing condemnation of a deceived and be trayed people. They have adver-tised the Governor so extensively by their clamorous abuse, that everybody wishes to see sud bear him whetever he goes, is everypart of the State. When to this is added the growing suspicion that they have heretofore been deceived in relation to him, and the new gen-eral verdict of all parties that he is a thoroughly honest man, protecting the financial interests of the people with all his official watchfulness and power, the desire to see and hundred times per day for three hear him has become so great that be has larger andiences whereever he goes than either Coke or Habbard, or both of thein put together He has recently spoken at the same in extenuation, that he was discourplaces where these gentlemen had spoken before, and he has had

Gov. Davis in his speeches scorps the use of any clap trap, ffattery or sentimentality, or any bombastic attempts at ornamental oratory. But his English is idiomatic, terse and powerful; bis delivery easy. fuent and deliberate, though sufficiently and earnest; his facts are abundant and undeniable, and his recollection of them is perfect. He speakes from two to three hours with one steady unbroken atream of such solid English, and such unansweruble facts and logic, that he holds the audience in the most intense of dionality of the prehibitory liquor tention from beginning to end. The disent pal. isfied candidates imagine that they have a fine field for political skirmishing among the dissatisfied of both parties, and are in expectation of receiving valuable nesistance from candidates who have failed pefore the conventions.

Here is a miscalculation to begin with They will receive assurance of sympathy from defented eandidates, but that is about all. Experience has shown that affeglance to party is too atrong to be broken asunder by the efforts of a lew deserters, whose sole cause of complaint is that they were not strong enough to obtain the nominations n the conventions. They are severe ly left alone, and the party gets along without them. These deserters of course belong to the independant candidates. THERE was a Democratic meeting in the 2nd Ward night before last that nominated Mr. William Smith, a colored barber, for alderman, in opposition to Frits Schreiner. The idea is to detach a portion of the colored vote from the Republican party, and this pomination was made as an entering wedge. "They that humble themselves shall be exalted," and there is so telling what amount of self stultification a genuine Democrat is cauable of when there is chicken pie in sight. This reminds us that Indian Commissioner Williams was Chairman and Dootoe Kingsbury Secretary, The number of persons present was about fifty and the voting strength twenty six, and that, too, in a ward where there are npwards of four hundred registered voters.

This morning quite a number of Demo-crats have been feeling to see if their timehonored principles are all sate.

Smith, on parting with his family on Thursday morning after breakfast, was officially informed by Mrs. Smith if he returned to dinner once more without that pinking iron that grave complications might be expected. It will be remembered that on Thursday the creaks were up generally, and the man that eloped with Lord Ullin's daughter would hardly have attempted to cross the mad and alough called Commerce Street, and the bardware establishment where pinking irons are sold was on the other side of the rie. But Smith knew full well that if he faltered his chances of slapjack for dessert were precarious. The thought nearly crazed bim. He reached the bank and gazed lu despair at the hardware establishment on . the opposite side. It was at that hour when business in San Antonio was intensely absorbing and the proprietor and his clerks were playing marbles or drivks in the back yard. They heard the critic help and dropped their playthings, and thanks to business energy and push of the concern the horse and draw vere gotten out and Smith after various perils was able to carry home the pinking irons, and after dinner he got slapiscks and molasses and several other nice things he wanted.
