A terrible famine ensued ; a famine such as Europe during the last few ages has never known, even in its rudest, districts, or behind beleaguered walls. Throughout the wide valley of 'the Ganges the country places were deserted, 6-12-71dtf. and the cities, where alone there might be hope of food, became thronged with starving multitudes from whom piteous cries were heard * * Thousands and tens of thousands of human beings vultures swooped down and the dogs and jackals flocked in quest of their ghastly prey. In calcutta alone there were daily employed one hundred men on the company's account, to pile the dead bodies upon sledges and cars and throw them into the Ganges. The broad river itself was so tainted that the fish ceased to be wholesome food. Hogs, ducks and geese, which had likewise taken part in devouring the carcasses, could no longer themselves be safely eaten; and thus, as the famine grew greater, the means of subsistence, even to Europeans, grew less. It was computed, not in any rhetorical flight, nor amidst the horror of the sufferings described, but in a grave dispatch written two years afterwards, that throughout Bengal this dread ful famine had destroyed in many places one balf, and, on the whole, above one third of the inhabitants."

Though great famines now, when railroads, steamships and fleets of sailing vessels equalize the products of the world, and scarcity at one point is quickly supplied by the inflow from other points, are of infrequent occurrence, set the grim monster of starvation is no new enemy to the human race. From

The Women's Crusade in Texas.

There is no doubt the women's crusade is marching on to Texas, or rather has already invaded our fair State. It is one of the blessings of railroads that they import good as well as evil, and we are indebted to the iron borse for the sudden appearance of that pestilen tial plague Ohio is infected with. Thank to some intemperate Galvestomians who need the help of the church to get sober, the Reverend Hammond, the modern Peter of Amiens, the leader of the saviours in perticoats, being invited to visit Galveston and pray for her drunkarks, has reached Austin and started the movement. There was, of course, great rejoicing amongst the noble band of heroes who have to pledge themselves and take oaths to keep sober and who are not satisfied with watching their own morals but insist upon forcing them upon their neighbors. Preaching and praying continued day and night, in the churches, in the opera house, in the senate chamber and on the Street corners, and the consequence will be an effort to pray the saloons into silence.

From Austin the Ohio fanatic has started for Houston and Gal veston where preparations have already been made by his worshipers to receive him in grand style.

It is needless to fight the temperance lunacy with reasons. Whatever could be said to prove the unsuccessfulness of legislation as well as praying in favor of temperance, has been said. Like any other sickness, this plague must have its run; it will die out in due course of legal tenders as additional national of time and history will look bank currency should be issued, such reupon it as one of those inexplicable tirement to be in the rate of 70 per. cent. events, that instill doubts into our mind whether we have progressed during the last 300 years or whether relies of middle ages are samption were rejected. still working amongst us and defying modern civilization. What have we public schools, high schools, colleges and universities for, when such anomalies as the temperance crusade, the degradation of all that is womanly, the dragging of what ought to be the idol and adornment of our homes before drum shops, are amongst the possible events! What for do we proclaim ourselves the petition bore the signatures of a large a free people, when private business cannot be carried on without the interference of fanatics driven to do about such matters. He said be had madness by the spiritual lashes of always opposed any interference by Conso-called preachers!

Temperance is the delicious fruit of good education and culture, thought it just sud proper to receive the Grand Pianos and Pianos of Messrs. which we do not only mean the acquiring of useful knowledge, of science and art, but also the training of the mind, the development of character and the teaching of such morals as will brave temptation. Educate your children well, and you will conquer drunkoness.

We shall watch this temperance movement carefully, and we give fair warning to all concerned that we will fight it to the bitter end. action as bank examiner. If any of the fanatics of Chio wants to pay Gan Autonio a visit, let him trunk lines on the subject of carrying understand that there is at least one paper in Texas which will not blow his trumpet, but do its best to expose the netarious scheme to interfere with other men's private affairs.

Taking the kind expression that is in the Emperors face and the gentleness that is this young daughter's, into considera tion, I wondered if it would not tax the Czar's firmness to the utmost to condemn a supplicating wretch with our paper. Having proved to be an experienced swindler, we warn all people to misery in the wastes of Siberia if the trust him and will not recognize any she pleaded for him. Every time their eyes met, I saw more and more what a power that weak, diffident school girl could wield if she chose to do it. Many and many a time she might rule the Autocrat of Russia, whose lightest word is law to seventy millions of human beings. She was only a girl, and she looked like a thousand others I have seen, but never a girl provoked such a novel and peculiar interest in me before. A strange new sensation is a rare thing in this hamdrum life, and I bad it here.

The Tichborne Bonds.

The Western Times mentions the case of a young couple who were ruined by the Tichborne case. They set out in life with every comfort, but the husband, much against the wishes of his wife, invested £14,000 in "Tichborne bonds." After the John Coleridge the young man became disheartened and desponding, and died in a short time, his early death being attributed to vexation consequent upon the feeling that he had lost his money had shown a great want of prudence.

Ask them? An advertisement of a medicine, however candid and conscientious it muy be, does not always carry conviction with it. The public know to their sorrow that the boastful ciaims put forth in behalf of many so-called remedies are literally "a delusion and a snare." Probably the best use, therefore, that can be made of the space devoted to this notice of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is to invite those who read it to inquire of the parties that have tested the curative and preventive properties of the article, what they think of it. We earnetly requet all donbters to ascertain from such of their friends and neighbors as have taken this standard tonic and alterative as a protection against malari-ous diseases, or as a cure for judigestion, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism nervous debility, headache, low spirits, languor, biliousness, &c., what Hostetter's Bitters has done for them. There is no testimony so trustworthy as that which is

The fatality which attends the families of great men has often been noticed. In many cases they have had no descendants at all, while in others the line has become extinct in the second or third generation. Already there are indications that the name of Bulwer Lytton may be of short duration. His only surviving grandson, the son of "Owen Meredith," recently died at Paris before completing his second year.
