PLUCKY BOYS.

TWO TEXAS LADS START FROM AUSTIN WITHOUT A CENT AND MAKE THEIR WAY TO KENTUCKY—THE STORY OF THEIR TRAMP.

Two boys—penniless, in ragged and tattered clothing, trudged on the railroad last Friday, and inquired the way to 43. Baylor Allen's. Their garments were tattered and torn, and everything about them, save their bright, determined faces, showed that they had "puffed" through a long and tedious journey.

After the first joyful recognition came the very natural inquiry how and wherefore came he in this far-off land, and that too in such a plight! The story was soon told. Master Allen supposed himself deceived over by an old brother, and determined to emigrate. But he could not give up his boon companion, Frank Lockhart, "so we determined to make the journey together and here we are. Let's have something to eat, and we'll tell you all about it."

When the sheep came out the boys accompanied them, much to amusement of the railroad hands, who declared "that they never saw such sleek-looking animals before." They came several days of weary waiting and watching for a chance to leap another ride. Finally they got board a train, and were taken one hundred miles by the kind hearted conductor, who could not make his mind to put them off, though he took a new hat of his own head and put it in the place of a dilapidated old "frow" that adorned the head of one of the boys, saying, "They goes two dollars and a half, boy, but take it, and Godspeed you."

Here they landed and set their skiff about to find themselves on the wrong side of the Mississippi, and no money to pay their ferrage. They went aboard, however, and were taken safely across, but being unable to pay passage money—a nickel each—a ferryman, who must have been a very old captain, would not allow them to land, but carried them back again. Here was a dilemma and the boys determined to swim out of it, but while preparing to strap their clothes upon their backs, occurred to Frank; he would swim with a knife. A purchaser was found, with thirty cents in their pockets, the boys crossed the river in triumph, and bought twenty cents worth of cheese and crackers, which Allen declares the best he ever tasted. Here fortune again helped those who displayed such helplessness and ability to help themselves. An Illinois farmer from the west wanted hands to help him, and seeing that the boys had not of the kind who stand in market places all the day idle, he took them home with him, paying their fare and giving them nine dollars when the work was done. With this they paid their fare, and then walked or staid rides, the balance of the way, passed through Louisville, and walked up the railroad to this place, where, as stated above, they arrived last Friday evening, having traveled some two thousand miles in three weeks, making the entire trip without money, and, as they say, without stealing anything except one skiff and more rides than they could count. So efficient did they become in the latter art that they now avow their ability to board most any train when running at an ordinary rate. They express quite a fondness for travel, and candidly tell their relatives that if their stay should not be agreeable they will go to San Francisco, where young Lockhart has an uncle and other friends. From the amount of clothing we saw taken to them the other morning we infer their stay will be agreeable. They are now working in the harvest field, and express themselves entirely contented. Frank Lockhart is the son of one of the wealthiest business men of Houston; is about seventeen years old, bright and intelligent. One thing they say they have learned upon this trip. If you want charity, don't expect to get it from the rich; and one thing they have certainly demonstrated—their ability to take care of themselves. Shelbyville (Ky.) Courier, July 2.

SATURDAY, JULY 23, 1874.

MR. J. A. LOCKWOOD is authorized to receive subscriptions and advertisements for our paper. We recommend him to the public at large.

The Daily Express, published at Dallas, and edited by Geo. A. Outler, is an interesting and promising journal. We receive it in exchange with pleasure.

COKE wants Bill Russell elected to Congress from the sixth district, and Seth Shepperd in the fifth district. Who are the Coke aspirants in the other Districts?

The number of gentlemen now visiting Texas from all parts of the Great West, even from Denver, Colorado, some to prospect and some to settle, is significant of the great future awaiting Texas. Let Western Texas be on the alert to secure proper attention to her advantages.

THE CITIZENS of McMullen county have formed themselves into an armed organization, called the "McMullen House Guards," not to take the law into their own hands, but to sustain the officers of the law, and to protect society against bad men. That is right. Well done for McMullen county. Such action will do more good than a hundred mob law executions of even the worst men.

IF COKE had placed Gen. Jack Baylor, or some other old Indian fighter, in command of the frontier battalion, they would not have been whipped in the first fight. But he is determined on "personal" government, and has no use for any one but those who favor upon and swear by him, and therefore, appoints none but his pets to office. Coke ought to resign. The State would be infinitely better off without him than with him. He is dead with the Democratic party, dead with all the people of the State, dead with the capitalists of the Union and of Europe, and there is no "hope in his death," for he gives no promise of a resurrection. Not a single supporter of Coke can be elected to Congress this fall, heavy as was the vote he received last fall. "One more unfortunate, rashly importunate," and so forth.

The Galveston and San Antonio railroad is now completed to Harwood, twelve miles West of Wheeler, thirty-six miles West of Flatonia, seventy-two miles West of Columbus, and now lacks only twelve miles of reaching Luling, which is within fifty-two miles of San Antonio. It will reach Luling by the 15th of August, or a few days thereafter. A stage line will be immediately put on from Luling to San Antonio, so that passengers can come through from Galveston to San Antonio in twenty-four hours. Luling is only one and a half miles East of San Marcos river, over which a ferry will be established until the bridge is built. From Luling, no doubt is entertained that this road will command nearly the whole Western trade. Major Kelet says that there are now three cargoes of iron on the way from New York for this road, and it is confidently expected that the road will be pushed forward rapidly from Luling to San Antonio, and completed to that point by about January next. So we have great hope that San Antonio will soon be in railroad connection with the rest of the Union.

OUR correspondent from Austin says that frontier protection should devolve entirely upon the Federal Government. We have urged this before. The whole expense of the frontier movement is a dead loss to the taxpayers of the State, without any corresponding benefit. The Federal Government is the rightful authority, and has the only efficient and permanent preparation for such work. By always ridiculing and abusing the Federal troops in the Democratic papers, and by placing rangers on the frontier, the motive to protect the frontier is largely weakened in the Federal officers. The Ninth Cavalry alone, colored, have done more frontier service, and killed more Indians, than all Coke's rangers will. They have fought bravely and died like true soldiers, and yet have been constantly abused.

COKE and the International seem to be joining hands and cross lifting together. They both want money. It is even said that President Grover has been appointed State Agent. This is a strange state of things. Coke has done his best to defeat a settlement with the International railroad, in the Legislature and the Supreme Court, and has succeeded, and now calls on the President of the road to help him out. He has at last found out that he can not do without that help, as the road can shut up the capital of the North against him; and President Grover thinks it better not to fight him, and to wait for a settlement for four years. Thus we go.

AUSTIN LETTER.

More About Finance—The Four Rangers—Congressional Speculation—Solitary and Lonely Habitations.

AGENTS, July 22, 1874.
The Galveston News, in a recent issue made a statement to the effect that Moody, Coke's financial agent, had made a raise of $50,000 by hypothecating State bonds at fifty cents on the dollar, and that this little dab had disappeared like a drop in the bucket of State debt. The telegraphic correspondent of the Houston Telegraph upon Coke's authority denies the statement, that bonds have been hypothecated and they would either be sold or brought back. It is certain that the State credit is perfectly dead, and can only be resuscitated by the aid of the International Railroad and its friends. Gen. Grover has gone on to New York with the object of securing to Coke financial aid. That there is an understanding to this effect is evident. The International cannot afford to fight Coke, and has concluded to lick the hand that has smitten them. Four long years is too long to wait to have this matter settled, and to fight Coke would be likely to prolong settlement until the end of his administration. Coke feels somewhat confident of getting money. If the International concludes to remain passive, no bonds will be sold.

The recent drubbing of Coke's rangers by the Indians causes severe criticism. The selection of Maj. Jones, and overlooking old Indian fighters, and the very material of the rank and file, is such as not to inspire the confidence of the people of the frontier, and the fame of the "Texas Ranger" is on the wane. The truth is, the Federal Government should have the entire responsibility of protecting our frontier. The State having placed forces on the frontier, the responsibility of the general government is partially relieved. But these poor rangers cannot be blamed much for keeping out of range of the "long range guns" of the Comanches, since they are unpaid and so slight a prospect of being paid exists.

The Congressional pot begins to boil in this district, and Coke is going down to Brenham to-morrow to give it a stir. It is understood that Coke favors the young man who usurped Maj. Gaines' place in the Senate, Seth Shepperd. S. has money and is a strong Cokite. Haascock will contest for the Democratic nomination, and is talked of as a candidate in any event. Wash Jones, of Pastora, is rumored as in the field as an anti-Coke Democrat. Jones is a man of brains, and would be a powerful candidate. The coming canvass will be spirited all over the State.

The solitary aspect worn by all the State Departments, the lack of visitors, the loneliness and isolation prevailing even the public enclosure, bears a marked contrast to the life and business aspect that marked the past administration. Government now is fast relapsing into that good-for-nothing affair that amounts to little else than a machine, to pay the public functionaries their salaries.

Crop Reports.
ELKHART, July 21.—The cotton worms have not yet made their appearance in this vicinity. The crop prospects are very flattering.

JEWETT, July 21.—No cotton worm or any signs of any about here. Crops, generally, very good. Planters anticipate an increase of several hundred bales this year. Most of the cotton will be safe here by the middle of next week.

LYNDSEY, July 21.—The prospects for a good cotton crop in this section is generally good. No appearance of worms yet. The corn crop is a little above the average.

NECHES, July 21.—Worms have not appeared in the cotton yet. Crops of corn and cotton both above the average.

RIVERSIDE, July 21.—Crop prospects flattering; much better than for several years past. No cotton worms have made their appearance.

LONGVIEW, July 21.—Planters report no cotton worm, and no danger is apprehended from that source. Prospects for large crops of corn and cotton are the best ever known in this section.

GRAPELAND, July 21.—No appearance of cotton worm. The crop prospects were never better.

DENTON, July 21.—No cotton worms in this section. Planters report that they have better prospects for good crops than they have had for the past ten years.

MINNEOLA, July 21.—No appearance of cotton worm in the counties of Hood, Hopkins, Raina, Titus, or Van Zandt. Prospects good for a large crop. Parts of Wood, Smith, and Van Zandt counties are suffering from drought, but if rains come within one week the crops will be fine.

PHILIPS, July 21.—Farmers anywhere is good prospect for cotton. No signs of worms as yet.

WILSON, July 21.—Cotton worms have appeared on only one plantation in this county. The crop prospect is flattering.

CHOCKETT, July 21.—No worms reported in this county. Cotton is in good condition. Corn crop indifferent.

In Angelina county the cotton and corn crops were never better at this time.

In Nacogdoches county, the cotton crop is said to be promising.

KRIGOR, July 21.—Planters say there are no worms nor the appearance of any. Prospects for a fine cotton crop are never better.

SPRING, July 21.—The cotton worm has made its appearance, but as yet are doing no harm whatever. The corn crop is looking well.

LOVELADY, July 21.—The prospect so far is much better for a good crop than has ever been heretofore. The cotton worm has made its appearance in some localities, and some fears are entertained that they may do some damage, but not material.

TYLER, July 21.—The prospects for a large cotton crop are better than ever before known in this section. All crops are much better than usual. No indications of cotton worms.

PALESTINE, July 21.—The cotton prospect is exceedingly flattering in Henderson county, but not so such in this county. An average yield, however, is anticipated. The cotton worms have not made their appearance here.

It is a Cure.
To exhaust still further a vitality of a already feeble invalid, of sharp evacuations and with strength destroying medications. No cases of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, malaria, or periodic fever was ever cured in that way. What the debilitated weaker needs is a remedy in which the properties of an invigorant, a stimulant, and a potent vegetable dicitis in the most sense of the word a restorative, it restores the strength of the body, establishes functional regularity, enriches the degenerated blood, and bars the deplorable brain.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC.—In the atmosphere experienced here during the summer months, the lethargy produced by the heat is away the frequent perspiration, the loss of bodily energy, particularly those suffer from the effects of debilitating diseases. In order to keep a natural healthfulness of the system, we must resort artificial means. For this purpose Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is very effective. As doses will create an appetite and fresh vigor to the enervated body, or dyspepsia, it is invaluable. Many eminent physicians have discovered that dyspepsia can be permanently cured by the use of Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic for this purpose. The Sea Weed Tonic is a totally different from such. It contains no corrosive mineral acids; in fact it assists the regular operations of nature, and supplies her deficiencies. The tonic in its nature so resembles the gastric juice that it is all identical with that fluid. The gastric juice is the natural solvent of food to be digested; and when this juice is not extracted in sufficient quantities, digestion, with all its distasteful symptoms, follows. The Sea Weed Tonic performs the duty of the gastric juice when that is deficient. Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is sold by all druggists.
