COTTON YIELDS BETTER THAN EXPECTED

Fertilizer Supplies Expected To Be Short

Transportation and credit should be the two biggest factors determining the supply of fertilizer to local farmers, reports Spencer Tanksley, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Texas A&M University System.

Youths Given Special Gifts During Disco

Special drawings were held at the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum last Saturday night during the youth disco. Several record albums were presented, along with food prizes.

Winners of the food prizes included Amy Grimes, who won two country baskets or two duodes from the Dairy Queen; Raul Torres, who won two hamburgers, two orders of fries and two drinks from the Sonic; Felix Norman who won two burritos, two huastecos and drinks from El Huestaco and Mary Lewis who won a dinner for two of any barbeque or chicken from the Capitol Freehold Land and Investment Co. Ltd. Restaurant.

Marring the dance was a skirmish on the backside of the parking lot, which resulted in the overnight hospitalization of 18-year-old Rudy Toscano. He was injured when struck by an automobile driven by a youth from Friona.

Toscano has bruises and abrasions.

However, there are many unpredictable factors that influence the fertilizer production and distribution system which makes it difficult to forecast fertilizer availability at any given location next winter and spring, Tanksley points out.

Local shortages of fertilizer may develop because of the failure of the transportation system to replace dealer inventories rapidly enough during peak demand periods, Tanksley explains. Therefore farmers should consider early fertilization where possible.

Another difficulty this year is the high cost of credit. Financing early fertilization may be hard for farmers, notes Tanksley.

Those who have income from this year's crop that can be invested in fertilizer for the 1980 crop will want to consider potential advantages, Tanksley suggests. Fertilizer dealers may have problems replacing inventories or building up local storage because of the high cost of credit.

Reports from the fertilizer industry indicate an adequate supply of fertilizer for the 1980 crop year. Little, if any, reduction in anhydrous ammonia is expected during the coming winter. Production capacity is adequate for other nutrients also.

It appears the supply of most fertilizer materials will be adequate for 1980. will be adequate for other nutrients also.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Smith, missionaries with World Gospel Mission to Burundi, Africa, will speak at Lazbuddie United Methodist Church at Lazbuddie on Sunday, January 6, at the 11 a.m. worship service.

Ernie Smith was born in New Mexico. He was enlisted for eight years in the Air Force, working as a jet mechanic, and traveled throughout much of the world during that time. Upon receiving an honorable discharge from the U.S.A.F., he and his family moved to University Park, Iowa, where Ernie enrolled at Vennard College. He graduated from there with a major in Bible.

Ernie's Christian service activities before going to Burundi included student pastor, sponsor of Vennard's drama team, evangelist for teen camps and retreats, and youth counselor.

Anna, a native of Arizona, also attended Vennard College. Her Christian service experience has involved being a vocal soloist, puppeteer, and editor Vennard's campus newspaper. She has also had professional experience as a paramedical secretary.

The Smiths went to Burundi as missionaries in 1976. During this first term, they completed language study, learning Kirundi, as well as being involved in evangelism and a church planting ministry. Ernie has found many avenues for using his gifts as preacher and mechanic while serving as head of the mission station expected to increase and transportation may cause problems, says Tanksley.

Fertilizer prices have increased, and this situation requires the producer to re-evaluate 1980 fertilizer practices, says Spencer Tanksley, County Extension Agent. Reports are that fertilizer costs will be from $20 to $30 per ton higher for 1980. Increases in energy costs and transportation costs are responsible for this new price schedule. With this information on hand, the producer must become more keenly aware of crop fertility needs and the residual soil fertility levels.

Soil testing, reports Tanksley, offers two methods to manage fertility inputs for 1980. Having a good understanding of what fertilizers are required allows the producer to apply only what is needed, apply only what is needed. This knowledge prevents unneeded production inputs. Secondly, Homeowners and potential homeowners may be losing money by not taking advantage of new tax laws, says Dr. Jack Friedman of the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University.

Friedman cites the little known tax advantage of home ownership that allows the individual buying water and sewerage services from a township or municipality to deduct a portion of the monthly bill from income tax. The portion of the bill which represents assessment for maintenance, repairs or interest is deductible. Friedman suggests municipal services users contact the billing authority for information.

Another tax savings the homeowner might consider is the reduction of fuel costs through improvements. Energy laws allow tax credits for money spent on insulation, storm windows, caulking and other energy-saving features. This would result in lower utility costs as well as allow partial recovery of costs through tax credits.

Cold Weather Tips Hauling Livestock

Hauling livestock during cold weather can be both dangerous and costly unless certain precautions are taken, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

Tanksley suggests that certain steps be taken in handling and transporting cattle, hogs, sheep and goats during the coming winter season:
1. Make sure animals are recovered from the stress of sorting and driving before loading them.
2. Check your vehicle closely and make sure it is in good repair. Eliminate drafts where possible. On long hauls, cover the side of the vehicle that is exposed to prevailing winds.

3. Provide a non-skid floor on the bed of the truck or trailer, or use wood shavings, sawdust or sand.

4. Make sure the loading chute is safe. A safe, properly constructed loading chute will reduce animal stress.

5. Use partitions for mixed loads and to keep animals from piling in case of sudden stop.

6. Use suitable persuaders for moving animals to reduce excitement and stress.

7. Understand animals and what makes them react the way they do. Allow them time to adjust to a new environment.

8. Don't overcrowd the vehicle. Overcrowding increases bruising, crippling and death during transit.

9. Get on the road once animals are loaded.

10. Always check the load after the first hour on the road.

Following these simple precautions can make livestock hauling safer this winter and can cut losses to your pocketbook, emphasizes the County Agent.

"That's not affection. She just wants to see if I've been drinking."
