Melvin D. Peck has been appointed chief clerk in the Patent Office. The Commissioner of the Land Office will recommend that all timbered lands belonging to the government be appraised and put on the market at its appraised value.

CHARGE OF UNITED STATES JUDGES.

Louisville, Nov. 14.—Hon. H. Emmons, Circuit Judge of the United States Court, to-day delivered a charge to the jury in the cases of the Government against Bill Smoot, Geo. Meffert, Geo. Hall and John Oran, in resisting a process in the hands of Acting Sheriff Willis Russell, of Owen county.

The charge is very long, and embraces a review of all outrages committed in Owen county in the last several years, by the Kuklux. Judge Emmons severely criticises and condemns the doings of desperadoes, and seems to leave no avenue through which a verdict other than guilty can be rendered.

He referred, in severe terms, to the lawlessness that formerly existed in some sections, criticising the conduct of county attorneys and magistrates, and recommending that measures be taken and always ready to suppress lawlessness and conspiracy, which he considers the most disgraceful of all crimes against the government. It concludes, he charges that if the jury shall find that Smoot, Oran, Hall and Meffert had a common purpose in their acts, they were guilty of conspiracy, and should be found guilty. The trial has been in progress for three weeks.

London, Nov. 14.—The Porte has ordered the districts of Arebigne, Biletz and Piva to be detached from Herzegovina and organized as a separate department, which will be placed under an Armenian-Greek government.

London, Nov. 14.—The bark Brunswick, from Liverpool for Baltimore, put into Queenstown with a sail split.

Dr. Thos. W. Evans, the well-known American dentist in Paris, sends the following cable dispatch to the Associated Press:

"Feeling that the coming Centennial Anniversary would be a fitting time to open subscriptions for Americans to erect in Paris a monument to Frenchmen who assisted us to gain our national independence, I offer a subscription of ten thousand dollars to commence the list."
"THOS. J. EVANS, M. D."

WILD MAN OF THE WOODS.—On Sunday evening intelligence having reached Gretna Station that a "wild man" was seen on the Fasnach place about one mile above the Company Canal, a police officer was dispatched to reconnoitre. The officer after some search discovered a man in the woods, in a perfect state of nature, and armed with a stick. The officer summoned a posse of thirty people of the plantation and started to capture him.

At the first intimation of pursuit the man uttered an unearthly howl, and started for the woods. The police and citizens followed in hot chase, and by means of doubling, caught him after an exciting run. At the moment of seizing him he made a desperate resistance, but was finally secured and brought in triumph to Gretna Station. He was a stout, well built fellow, thoroughly black and muscular, aged about thirty, with short side whiskers brushing against his ears. He gave his name at one time as Joseph Smith, again as Joseph Scott, and a third time as George Brown. He said he had escaped from jail four months ago, and had since been living, without clothes, on what the woods could afford. He also said that he had killed a man named Abraham Stacks, but no record of this murder appears, nor of his own confinement within the Metropolitan District. He is supposed to be insane, though he speaks quite sensibly and coherently.—N. O. Picoyane.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. This hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

TUESDAY EVENING, Nov. 16.

The New York Herald insists that the next Pope shall be an American, and nominates Cardinal McCloskey.

"Joe, the laborer," the horse owned by our friend Draper of this city, won the mile race at Austin last Friday.

The Press Association of Texas will endeavor to get up a correspondence with the different Associations of other States, with a view to a grand re-union in Philadelphia on the 4th of July, 1876.

The Indian Summer now witnessed and enjoyed in Western Texas, is beautiful and glorious, charming and enchanting, to a degree surely never surpassed at any time or in any clime upon earth. The whole horizon is a paradisaical vision of beauty, and the whole atmosphere seems filled with the spirit of celestial blessedness. It is a weakness of language to say that these are golden days. The influences and impressions of such charming season, and such a beautiful clime upon the thoughtful mind, and the sensitive soul, will never be lost, but will help to increase the mental and spiritual wealth and refinement throughout the present life, and that which is to come.

A Coalition between the friends of Governor Coke, and Master Lang, of the State Grange, was suggested some months since by the EXPRESS, upon what we deemed good circumstantial testimony. We stated the object of the coalition to be, to elect Coke Governor, and Lang Lieutenant-Governor; then to elect Coke to the United States Senate, and leave Lang Governor. This was hooted at by the press that supports Governor Coke. Now, however, the Houston Telegraph, one of the Governor's organs, is alarmed, and speaks out as follows:

"Is there a coalition between the friends of Coke and Lang, whereby Coke is to be made Governor and Lang Lieutenant-Governor, in case of a new deal? This is a question which is assuming some importance, and our able contemporary, the Marshal Herald, thinks that such an arrangement has an existence."

The San Antonio Herald says the Express will shortly appear again. We are glad to hear it. Although we hate its politics "like pizza," yet we always admired its sprightliness, and will be glad to welcome it back to our table.—Herald Examiner.

In all our notices of public journals or public men, we have never, we believe been guilty of the bad taste of qualifying our complimentary remarks by assuring the public that we had no sympathy with the politics of the gentleman, or the journal mentioned; except the very purpose of the article required it. If we ever did so it was when we were too young and inexperienced to know any better. Ability and character are the things we like in men and journals, without regard to politics. For this we like the Examiner, and care not a jot for its politics. And there is no such thing in a free country as political principles we ought to "hate." No intelligent patriot can "hate" the politics opposed to his own. It is, like his own politics, an out-growth of honest conviction, and both are for the good of the country.

GENERAL B. G. SHIELDS, the Collector of the port of Galveston, is beginning to experience the difficulties and vexations which seem fated to follow all who have been appointed to Federal offices in Texas ever since the war. He has held office but a little time, comparatively, and yet a strong effort is being made to have him removed. He is an old and highly reputable citizen of the State, and has the esteem and confidence of men of all parties; and yet serious charges have been made against him and forwarded to Washington.

Although a large planter and slaveholder, with his sons in the Confederate army, he was a Union man during the war, and has been a conservative, moderate Republican ever since; and yet he is charged by Republicans with being untrue to the Republican party. His private business transactions have been tortured into the walls of offices within his gift, and have been sent on as charges against him. If we are not to believe in the honesty and integrity of General Shields, after he has maintained the reputation of an upright gentleman all his life, will he be so old and white-headed, we shall certainly look upon him as a "nervous" man who may succeed in deceiving the public, but we tell you that all this selfishness is only a "Nod" in the bud.

When this "Nod" in the bud, is only a "Nod" in the bud, it is only a "Nod" in the bud.

A Word of Warning.

Major J. D. Sayers, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, in his address before the Democratic members of the Convention, and others, called together in consultation at the time and place of holding the Democratic State Convention, declared that "the people of the State were very much poisoned in mind" against the new Constitution. The result of the consultation was to call the Democratic State Convention as soon as possible—the first Wednesday in January.

The members of the Convention, whose advice controlled in this early call, seem determined to take "snap judgment" on the people, and force them to a vote on the new Constitution as soon as possible, giving them but little time to examine the merits and demerits of that production. They seem determined, also, to send the new Constitution out to the people with the endorsement of the Democratic State Convention, thus making it a party issue, and reading all men but of the party who do not vote for its ratification. They have also provided that the new Constitution shall be voted on at a general State election, so that every candidate—from the candidates for Governor down, and all their friends, will support it regardless of its excellencies or defects.

With all our friendship for the Convention, and all our desire to see a good Constitution framed by it, and then ratified by the people; we cannot help regarding the above named course as utterly unworthy of a body of men chosen by the people to enact the organic law of the State, and which is to stand, perhaps, for the next fifty years. Indeed we will not put in words, and publish them, our views in regard to this shameful conduct.

Now, it is plain that there is going to be heavy opposition to the ratification of the new Constitution. It is going to be opposed both on its merits, and on account of the tricky, hyster-like use that is going to be made of it to elect the favorites of rings and cliques to office in the next State election. The EXPRESS has not yet decided whether it will support or oppose the new Constitution, because we have not had an opportunity to examine it as a whole. But we shall bitterly oppose the effort being made to force it down the throats of the people without time for examination, making it a party issue to frighten timid souls who fear party communication, and coupling its ratification with the vote for favorite candidates for office, and thus really rendering a vote on its merits impossible.

Let us have some more State Conventions called, and that speedily. Let Western Texas have a Convention, and decide upon her course on this question. Let the Republican State Convention meet, and give us their decision. And finally, let all independent thinking men, and journals, of both parties speak out at once, before they are bound hand and foot.

The Waco Examiner.

Since writing the paragraphs in yesterday's EXPRESS in relation to the efforts of the Examiner to keep Master Lang, of the State Grange, out of "the maddening whirl of partisan politics," and to keep Governor Coke in that dangerous maelstrom, we have received the Galveston News of Saturday last, and find that it takes pretty much the same view that we do of the Examiner's double-barrel article. The News, with great pertinence and force, says that "the partisans press ought to be good authority when it bears witness to the vitiating influence of partisan politics. There is no ordinary edification in the preaching of the Waco Examiner with regard to the proposed nomination of Master Lang as Democratic candidate for Governor. The Examiner has the duplex felicity, or the felicitous duplicity, which ever it likes best, of discoursing, through the same pipe, music not always the most concordant as an organ of Gov. Coke, and as an organ of the Texas Patron of Husbandry."

The News continues further to criticize the attitude and utterances of the Examiner. We extract as follows: "The pity is that equal eloquence from the same source, or from like sources, could not be employed to admonish another chief—the Chief Executive of the State—of the peril and mischief of plunging into 'the maddening whirl of partisan politics,' while bearing the symbols and charged with the sacramental duty of the highest guardian of the peace, of the civil order, and of the common welfare."

"Sorely a citizen does not incur political proscription by becoming a Granger. Grangers have been elected to the Constitutional Convention. Grangers have been elected to Congress. Would it be monstrous—a signal of woe to the State and of the swift undoing of the order—to elect a Granger, and one on whom fellow-Grangers had previously bestowed the highest mark of esteem and confidence, to the office of Governor? In a free country civic duty is inseparable from a lively and active concern with government. It follows that no Granger, of high or low degree, can be a dutiful citizen and yet have nothing to do with politics, for it politics lies the whole momentous question of good or bad government."

THE APPOINTMENT of such men as Col. John L. Haynes, Gen. B. G. Shields, Judge C. B. Sabin, Judge L. D. Evans, and other old citizens of this State, of the highest personal, social, and official standing, to the leading Federal offices in Texas, was one of the most acceptable and popular acts ever performed by the Federal Government in Texas since the close of the war. It was taken by the people to mean that the former course of appointing unknown and irresponsible adventurers to such offices had been abandoned, and that hereafter our citizens, and those of the very best character, would be chosen to fill these positions.

All this good influence, calculated to draw the hearts of the people of Texas into closer sympathy with the United States Government, will be lost at once when it is found that none of our old citizens can hold office against the machinations of the office-seeking Arabs who everlastingly camp around the Departments, and on the pathway of every Senator and member of Congress. No gentleman can afford to such things, nor can he defend himself against the multitudinous and malignant masseners of the swarms of political bummers and adventurers who are interested in getting him out.

The Republicans of Texas have steadily and successfully sought their own destruction by these office seeking quarrels, and Northern Congressmen have shipped their unprofitable friends here to get the offices, and to get them out of the way.

THE CANDIDATES for United States Senator in Kentucky, are Hon. James B. Beck, Gen. (Cerro Gordo) Williams, Gen. Wm. Preston, Ex-Gov. Leslie, Hon. Isaac Caldwell, Hon. Thomas Vernon, and Hon. Wm. C. Preston Breckinridge. The only one of them we know personally is General Preston. He was at Houston at the close of the war, at the time of the "break up." He is a splendid gentleman every way.

THE Austin papers are so full of the Fair that they are not interesting in San Antonio, where we have just had a Fair. But their Fair is evidently a grand success. This is what railroads do for a city. San Antonio will never have a grandly successful Fair until she has a railroad. We must have one by next Fair.

"THE CHIEF."—Of course we attended the opening of the "Chief" Saloon this morning. At 10 o'clock the doors were thrown wide open and the impatient crowd of persons waiting around the vicinity were admitted into the elegant apartments. Behind the bar stood some half dozen tenders to administer drinks to the "dry" assemblage, while a table, heavily laden with everything good to eat, extended the full length of the long room. A band of music was on hand to liven the occasion. The proprietor, Mr. Phelan, is a clever young gentleman, and we predict for him a successful future.

PANCOAST & SON keep all the latest style of hats.

FINE JEWELRY.—We call the attention of all our citizens to the elegant display of jewelry at the Auction House of Frost & Bro., to be sold in a few days. The stock is brought to the city by Mr. F. M. Prince, of Washington, D. C. It will be remembered that Mr. Prince is the gentleman who sent out the elegant lots of jewelry sold in our city in the years 1870 and 1872, which gave such universal satisfaction to the numerous purchasers among us. On these previous occasions, he was represented by two sons, but now comes in person, bringing a more beautiful and costly stock than ever before. His diamonds are most beautiful, ranging from $1500 down to prices within the reach of almost any one. Mr. Prince is an extensive pawnbroker of Washington, working with a large capital, and handling only the very best of articles. He is known all over the land, and those purchasing of him can do so under the assurance that what they buy is just as represented. If our citizens do not wish to purchase, they should nevertheless call and see Mr. Prince and his beautiful and precious articles.

M. when they returned a sealed verdict, which was opened in the Court this morning, and it was found that the jury found the defendants guilty and fixed the fine at $105 each.

New Movements.

We suppose that no city of the population of San Antonio, in the United States, has had intentions of accommodating herself with the conveniences of the day, to a greater extent than she. As far back as the memory of the oldest inhabitant can go, the topics of improvement were discussed the same as to-day. There has been a constant desire to have a railroad, and propositions upon propositions having this object in view have been overwhelmingly accepted by the votes of the people. There has been a periodical resolve on the part of the city fathers, to amend things in the vicinity of the head of the river, that in case of overflows, the surplus water might be drawn off into another channel, and made to pass around west of the city, and thus prevent damage to our property. The government depot question has grown old and hackneyed to many of our people, by its constant consideration, and we are just as much without it as we ever were. Twenty years ago, some one alluded to an enclosure of the City Cemetery; it was thought and held to be a moral duty incumbent upon every person within our corporation. The question was not, by any means, settled, though, but every year brings it up anew before the people. The intention of building and improving side-walks, we thought had been entirely forgotten, until the other day, when one of our citizens, with a little more ambition than some others, very properly alluded to it. We were going to have water works a couple of years ago; we have none yet, and the desire to have them has very properly died away. To day, the hope of a street railway is uppermost in the public mind, and this, because it is "something new." Will we get the street-cars? Time alone will tell.

Now, what are the causes of all this delay in the improvements desired? The citizens of San Antonio have voted hundreds of thousands of dollars to railroad corporations to induce them to bring their roads here. Wasn't that enough for them to do? The answers in affirmative of just such questions have been the ruin of us. Accept the proposition, and you have the road, has been preached every time a proposition was placed before us for approval. We have accepted every proposition submitted, and though decades have flown by, we still have no road. The difficulty is with the people themselves; as it is now, so has it been during the past. Our citizens are well meaning—they want to do right about as hard as any people on earth, but a life-time isolation of their business interests seems to have rendered their experience impracticable to the great, here outside commercial world. It requires constant watchfulness, constant working—it demands the active minds of our people to extricate us from a bed of torpor and elevate us to a position both socially and commercially with the common country. Let us think of one thing at a time—let us work for one thing at a time. When the iron-horse with his cheering snort comes bounding over the hills east of the city, then, but not till then, will there be consistency in encouraging the numerous other enterprises. It would be very impracticable to favor the multitudinous schemes for improvement which come up in the minds of our people, without we had a railroad or some guarantee of our city's future prosperity. One difficulty is, our people imagine too many things. They know very well what our facilities could be made to lead us to, and photograph the future greatness of San Antonio to satisfy them, forgetting that it needs the pliancy of head, hand and heart to make it in reality what they make it in imagination.

Delayed dangers, and all the hopes of the ardent wishes, the longing desires of our people, will soon disappear like a dream of the past, if they do not arise in a body, but as one man, and vigorously enlist both their mental and physical powers to an accomplishment of their purposes.

MURDERED.—Two young men, named J. K. Glenn and Frank R. Brown, left San Antonio last August for the frontier. Upon arriving at Laredo they determined to cross the river and look into business prospects in the bounds of the United States. Their destination was for Sabina. After traveling some distance, they were separated in this way: Glenn left his companions early in the morning to go to a rancho some distance ahead with a view to trading horses; Brown was to catch up, but if he failed to do so, to meet him at the rancho. Glenn evidently got on a wrong road, and Brown following, did likewise. Nothing further was heard or seen of him until his body was found, with five wounds upon it, inflicted by stabbing with a butcher knife. Both of the young men were in good circumstances, and made a number of friends while in our city, who are pained to learn of the sad death of Mr. Glenn. While here, they put up at Mrs. Adam's boarding house, where a trunk belonging to Mr. Glenn still remains.

CIRCULATING PETITION.—Mr. Christian Buttrou, on behalf of the Alamo Rifles, is circulating, for signatures, a petition, to be presented to the City Council, asking a monthly allowance. The Company have been prompted to a renewal of this petition which was denied not long since by the Council, by request of the merchants and business men of the city. The Rifles had heretofore held themselves in readiness to protect the interests of the city, and to be present and guard property on occasions of fires. When the Council refused the small allowance asked, Captain Adams very properly ordered that the Company do not thereafter turn out on these occasions, and our business men, relying upon the efficiency of their services at such times, have induced the Company to renew their petition.

"Though lost to Sight."

A gentleman writes to the St. Louis Globe Democrat: I have frequently seen the above well-known line quoted, and in every such instance it is added that the authorship of the line is unknown. Indeed, there has been a lively literary interest manifested to ascertain its origin. I may, perhaps throw a little light on the subject. An author, named Evelyn Jenkins, wrote the following in the year 1701 and published it in the Greenwich Magazine: Sweetheart, good-by! the fluttering sail I spread to wait me far from thee; And soon before the favoring gale My ship shall bound upon the sea. Perchance all desolate and forlorn, These eyes shall miss thee many a year, But unforgotten every charm, Though lost to sight, to mem'ry dear. Sweetheart, good-by! one last embrace, O, cruel fate, true souls to sever; Yet, in the heart's most sacred place, Thou, thou alone shall dwell forever! And still shall recollection trace In fancy's mirror, ever near, Each smile, each tear, that from that face, Though lost to sight, to mem'ry dear. J. W. B.
