General Ord Hits the Nail.

General Ord, commanding this Department, hits the nail on the head in his report on the recent troubles on the Rio Grande. He says:

"It seems to me that the circumstances of the plunder of the stock ranches on the Rio Grande are almost identical with the piracies committed on our commerce at one time by the Algerians, who fled in safety to their own ports with their prizes. There the offenses were committed on the open sea, and here they are committed with the same ease on the open plains. In both cases the pirates found a ready sale for their captures in the ports where their expeditions were fitted out, namely, Algiers, Tripoli, etc., for the Moors, and Matamoros, Reynosa, Camargo, Mier and Queretaro for the Mexicans, and in both cases the pirates were rewarded by promotion and honor.

Patrolling the country along the Rio Grande with the view of intercepting raiders before they can reach the river with stolen horses in their possession, is as if we had tried to stop deprivations upon our commerce by the barbarians, by scattering our cruisers along the north coast of Africa, with the view of intercepting some Algerian pirate before he could get within three leagues of land with his American prize. The success of Captain McNelly of the State troops in striking the party of Cortina's men in the possession of a stolen herd recently was due to his accidentally capturing two straggling robbers, who, by the use of the only effectual means known in such cases, but not legitimate enough for regulars to apply, were compelled to betray the position and strength of their party.

I have good reason for the belief that the order from the Mexican government for the arrest of Cortina was due to the orders for the movement of a naval force to the Mexican border. Cortina was not the only leader of raiding bands, and the others are still at their old business. Some more effectual means must be adopted than sending troops and sailors to look on while our people are despoiled and murdered, for it is very evident that the sailors and soldiers, however willing, can do nothing if confined to their side of the river, and all orders to make reprisals, with the means to carry out the order, has sometimes resulted in indemnity as well as security.

The lay of Scotland's last minstrel has long been sung; the bards, troubadours and minne-singers have passed away forever with the civilization, or perhaps, most strictly speaking, the barbarism that produced them. Only upon the out skirts, the border-land of Europe, Lingora, and is also passing away, a class very much resembling them. In the Ukraine (frontier, as its name signifies) between Europe and Asia—debatable land between the Cross and the Crescent—remain a few (perhaps now but one) of the kobzars or bards, of the Cossacks. Some account of these and their ballads is given in Lippincott's of December, under the title of "Ballads and Bards of the Ukraine." Like all border-lands between hostile nationalities and systems of religion, the Ukraine is rich in minstrelsy. As Gaelic bards celebrated incursions upon Lowland flocks and herds and fierce battles with English invaders, as Spanish minstrels sang the glories of early Spanish valor displayed against the Moslems so the bards of the Ukraine celebrated the unquenchable hostility between the Cossack and the Turk. The very name Ukraine has a romantic and mysterious sound. To this land fled Mazeppa, Byron's hero, and, if we may believe the story, became headman, or elective chief, of the Cossacks. Here lived Palei, the great Cossack hero, who helped Peter the Great to fight Charles XII. and Mazeppa. Both of these heroes are said to have been minstrels as well as warriors. The kobzars, an instrument somewhat resembling a banjo, with which the Ukrainian bards accompanied themselves, is still seen in the Ukraine. One said to have belonged to Mazeppa was exhibited at the Archaeological Exhibition at Kiev, in 1874. The music of the kobzars, like that of all ballads, is wild, simple and plaintive. It is limited to a few notes, and is over-taken with in a minor key, capable, however, of a vast number of modulations, inflections and returns to the major, which give it great variety. Even when celebrating victories it is plaintive, and when telling of captivity among the Turks, of sorrow and death, it is wonderfully pathetic. The bards who sang these ballads were as peculiar as the ballads themselves. Often blind, they were apprenticed in their youth to older minstrels, with whom they wandered over the country and from whom they learned the store of ballads which, never written or printed could be acquired in no other way. Having served a three year apprenticeship, they started out to wander by themselves and earn a scanty living by means of their voices and bandouras. But one of them is known to remain, and he wanders no more, but lives cozily in his hut, surrounded by children and grandchildren. At Kiev he sang for the first and perhaps the last time to any but Russian ears. It may be that before ballads and bards have both been forgotten, some Russian Sir Walter will rescue them from oblivion by giving to the world the "Minstrelsy of the Russian Border."

Among all the remarkable men that England and the seventeenth century produced, among whom were Cromwell, Pym, Hampden, William Penn and George Fox, one of the most remarkable was Richard Baxter, Cromwell, Pym and Hampden are regarded with admiration and wonder. The peculiarities which set apart William Penn and George Fox from the rest of their generation are little understood, but wherever "The Saints' Everlasting Rest" has brought consolation to the mourner, rest to eyes tired with weeping, its author is given the love and reverence which we accord to a dear friend. In Harper's Monthly, for December, is a sketch of his life. At its head is a picture of the statue of him, which, unveiled last year, stands overlooking the river Stour, at Kidderminster, so long the scene of his labors. Baxter began active life as a minister of the Church of England, but died a Puritan; but the most temperate and tolerant of the Puritan body. During the war between a King and Parliament he was chaplain in the regiment of Col. Whalley, the famous regicide, who, fleeing at the Restoration to the colonies, died peacefully at New Haven. Notwithstanding this, he found favor with Charles the Second and was appointed one of his chaplains. A more unpromising subject for Baxter's labors than the worthless king could hardly have been found. Imprisoned during the reign of James, he lived to see the glorious revolution that brought liberty to stay forever upon English ground, dying in 1691. His opinion of the men of that troublous time, and indeed of the struggle itself, may be learned from that passage in "The Saints' Rest" in which he declares that one of the pleasures which he expects to enjoy in heaven is the society of John Hampden. This passage was suppressed at the Restoration, but he declared stoutly that his own opinions had not changed. So tolerant was he that at the Revolution he would not subscribe to the damnable clauses of the Athanasian Creed, and put upon record his hope that unbelievers, if sincere and virtuous, may partake of the benefits of redemption. Virtuous, tolerant and merciful age; humble, sincere and laborous for the good of others, through his works as consoler to millions, so long as men love liberty and reverence virtue, will they cherish the memory of Richard Baxter.

How was it that Captain Boyton had such a very heavy weight to carry when he crossed the English Channel?—Because as soon as he lay on his back his backers laid on him.

The Cleveland Herald has one of those $10,000 libel suits to ponder over, but there's nothing like getting used to the whims of the public. The Herald can pay it in paper currency if beaten.

Our exchanges have a great deal to say about "editorial ability." What a country editor really needs is the ability to live on four shillings per week and smoke his own cigars.—Logansport Pharos.

We don't know how many daily papers Rev. Dr. Lorrimer takes, but he stated in a recent lecture: "If there is any one thing for which the human race is pre-eminently, it is for profound and solid lying."

Do you think 'twas best to drop Deacon West and Sister Moulton, too? But who would suppose such a trifle as those would cause such a hullabaloo?

SATURDAY EVENING Nov. 27

THE TEXAS members of the Committee on Resolutions in the St. Louis Railroad Convention are Thomas J. Campbell and John G. Walker.

L. D. SINE, the great lottery man, has become hopelessly insane and a guardian has been appointed to take charge of his estate, which is very large.

We see by telegraphic dispatches received from Louisville, Ky., where the National Grange is now in session, that a committee has been appointed to arrange a special marriage ceremony for the Grangers.

THE ORANGE crop of Louisiana is said to be larger than ever before known. The number of trees has been greatly increased, the character of the fruit improved, and the bearing is said to be heavier than of yore.

THERE is considerable excitement in Tyler over a civil rights case now being tried there. At last accounts the opinion of the Judge, Duval, had been delivered. He sustained the authorities cited, and the history of the amendment to the constitution, declaring the bill to be constitutional, and authorized by the recent amendments to the Constitution. The opinion of Judge Duval is said to have been well written, and was governed by a conscientious conviction of duty. Gov. Hubbard made a two and a half hour speech attacking the constitutionality of the CIVIL RIGHTS bill.

State News.

W. O. Bohannon killed R. E. Hill in Richmond, on the 23rd.

Heavy rains throughout the State accompanied by heavy winds, thunder and lightning.

DeWitt County is again made lively by the Taylors, Hardens and Suttons. The patience of the law-abiding citizens of that County is being sorely tried.

The bodies of two men recently murdered by Indians, at Bushy Bay, near Victoria, have been found and identified.

Grasshoppers are injuring the young wheat in many of the Eastern counties whereof the Grangers are much complain.

In Freestone County the people boast of the quantities of beef, hogs and hennery they have on hand and invite immigrants to the feast.

Waco claims only 7,000 population, but her delightful situation and the life of her citizens and public men make her prominent among the larger Texas cities and towns.

POSTPONED.—We regret to learn that the Directors of the San Antonio Street Railway Company have concluded to postpone the construction of their road until the coming Spring. These gentlemen know best what they are about, having fully counted the cost of extra freight charges during the rainy season, as well as considered the prospect of certain injurious delays. But even these reasons for delay would not have stood in the way had the City Council granted the right-of-way through Commerce street, as this route would have paid a good income to the Company at the very beginning, while the Houston street route would not be likely to pay at first.

The City Council was very cautious in stopping Commerce street, but we believe the madness men would all favor the road running through it.

By this unlooked for turn of things, the stock-holders are relieved from the payment of their assessments for the present, only a small sum having been called in to meet the necessary expenses of organization.

We learn that our fellow-townsmen, Sim Cooley, and Maj. VanDegriff had an altercation in Eagle Pass recently in which a number of shots were exchanged without hurt to the parties concerned, but to the serious injury of one of our boys who was off some hundred yards here the shots were fired.

COOLEY'S BROTHERS were perched on a tree in Eagle Pass, on the 23rd, and saw a number of boys collected.

The Adjournment.
 The Constitutional Convention has ceased its labors, and the members thereof have returned to their homes. We doubt, whether before, in the annals of Texas history, any body of her public men assembled for any purpose, were watched with the scrutiny and interest that this Convention was. Although what has been placed before the people was mainly in broken clauses and unfinished sentences, still the journals of Texas, regardless of party, have sternly and soberly considered what has been received.

The work of the Convention during the early days of the session, was much interfered with by difficulties which the outside world knew little of, and it was some time before the press of the State could come to any congruous views upon the character of what was done. The work for the few days previous to adjournment, we know more of than we do of what was done before, and we can truly say that it is very satisfactory.

The provisions in the Homestead Ordinance that homesteaders are not to be mortgaged, is the work of discretion. Let the homestead be what is implied by the name—a home indeed, a secret place of refuge, not to be perilled by the hope of gain, or the wild struggle for wealth or power.

The new Constitution should be judged fairly and on its merits, and great weight should be given to its consideration. It is an instrument which has cost the State heavily, and we trust that if anyone has prematurely resolved to reject it, that such resolution will be withdrawn, until, through a just judgment, such a conclusion is arrived at.

It is not probable that Texas will accept the instrument as a whole without dissent; many of the members of the Convention itself loathe parts of it; but there is no doubt as to its superiority to the former instrument which it is intended to replace.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Associated Press Dispatches.

DOMESTIC.

New York, Nov. 26.—The Paris Liberte received by the last European mail says that Don Carlos, on the 22d of October, was in a house ten miles from Pamplona, when Saballas arrived in a carriage, accompanied by the Mayor of Biarritz, who continues to intervene in the most flagrant manner in the affairs of the neighboring country. The French functionary obtained an audience, when Saballas threw himself at the feet of Don Carlos and asked a secret audience. It lasted twenty-five minutes, when Don Carlos called the chief of his escort, demanded a squad of men and a sergeant. These eight men surrounded Saballas and galloped with him to Estella, with orders to confine him in a cell of the municipal prison, and to prevent his communication with anyone.

New York, Nov. 25.—The American Jockey Club is considering the feasibility of giving a grand Centennial purse of from $15,000 to $30,000 for a grand race to be run at Jerome Park next season. If a large purse were offered it is thought that two or three English racers would be entered for the contest, which would be made open to all comers with weight for age. The size of the purse will depend somewhat on the aid they may derive from hotels and railways. The purse will not, at all events, be made upon the principle governing the California $30,000 purse, where an entrance fee of ten per cent. went into the hands of the managers. As there are nine entries in the pending California race, $7,000 of the purse is paid by the owners of horses entered. The entrance money for the proposed Centennial purse will be added to the stakes, even if the jockey club is obliged to make up the purse entirely.

NATIONAL GRANGE.

Louisville, Nov. 26.—A committee was appointed to memorialize Congress to establish a scientific bureau on grasshoppers and caterpillars.

The resolution condemning the mortgaging of crops was referred.

Mr. Davidson was run over and killed just after saving a man from serious injury by stopping another train.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, Nov. 26.—Elizabeth McLagnin, who was deliberately shot by her husband with a pistol, last night died today.

The Jetty Commissioners report that advice received relate that much work has been done, but that much more will have to be done before any good results are obtained. They regard the South Pass of the Mississippi as more susceptible of improvement than was the South mouth of the Danube, where a twenty-foot channel has been secured by jetties.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE DEAD.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 26.—John Wells, associate justice of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, died at Salem this morning, after a lingering illness, aged fifty years.

A FERRYMAN MURDERED.

Luling, November 24.—The body of a ferryman was found in the San Marcos river, about half a mile South of Luling. There were two holes shot through his head. The murder was committed only to rob, as he was supposed to have had some money.

The Harvest Field of Life.

I seem to stand upon a harvest plain,
 Whose borders stretch to the horizon
 And every ripe wind sweeps the ripe grain,
 In waves of gold, that, rippling, come and go.

On every side I hear the reaper's song;
 And some are binding up the rustling
 sheaves;
 And some are heaving out the grain among
 The shifting shadows of o'erhanging leaves.

All seem rejoicing at the bounteous yield,
 Each one as laden as the homeward fere,
 While I am but a gleaner in the field,
 And ever half my gleanings are but tares.

Often I see what seem the ripe, full ears,
 And spring to gather them with eager
 grasp,
 But, unspoken, small and mean, the prize appears,
 Like wheat too early reaped, within my
 grasp.

The others pass me by, they are so strong,
 And gather up the richest ears so fast,
 That I, who slowly toil behind the throng,
 Must come with lightly laden hands at last.

But now and then I find a golden grain,
 That does not shrivel and wither in my hold,
 That will not turn my brightest hopes to dust,
 And disappear, like mocking fairy gold.

I wonder if, amid the toiling bands
 That press before me on the harvest plain,
 There are not others, who, with eager
 hands,
 Oft gather up the tares instead of grain.

Who find that many a precious grain of wheat,
 Full oft amid the trodden stubble lies,
 And wait as heaves ed most tempting, but
 a cheat,
 That, gathered, turns to chaff before their eyes.

MESSRS. McLEARY and others of our attorneys who were in attendance upon court at Lodi have returned. There were no criminal convictions, and not a great deal of business was done.

THAT popular dressmaker, Mrs. S. A. Musgrave, is doing a most excellent business. Since her arrival in town, fine dresses are worn by dozens of our ladies—why, they didn't know how well a real first-class dress looked until Mrs. Musgrave proved it to them.

HEMAULY and VALLEY are doing an immense retail business. Their expenses cannot fall short of $50 a day, but then they take in at least twice that sum.

A NECESSITY.—Why does not some one establish a stage line between here and Laredo. The want of such a line is constantly felt by our citizens.

HON. H. C. KIRO is in the city, on the way to his home at Boerne. Mr. King was a member of the Constitutional Convention, and we believe that if the members of that body had all been such as he, that there wouldn't have been a murmur against the new Constitution.

DISGRACEFUL.—We have heretofore always believed that the San Antonio Centuries were in about as bad a condition as could well be, but judging from the manner in which the Reporter of the Houston Age writes up an account of the Bayou City burial grounds, Houston is worse off than San Antonio in this respect.

PASSING down Main street last evening after dark, we observed a very proportionate object stowed away just at the foot of the stairs above Bell's Jewelry Store.

It was an object of some surprise to us to know why every other man we met was talking about Ernest's oysters, until we tried them, and now we understand why his oysters are in everybody's mouths.

THE NEW BELL TOWER.—We yesterday stepped around to the Hall of Fire Company No. 2 to take a close look at the large bell tower recently erected by Mr. Anthony Earhart. We find the character of the work upon it to be excellent, and with Mr. M. G. Cotton, who is well competent to judge, do pronounce it a first-class job.

THE Grangers will soon hold a meeting in this city, the object of which will be the more perfect and durable organization of the Order in Western Texas. We trust the meeting will be well attended, and that the purpose of it will be most fully attained.

Department Orders. It being impracticable to carry rations in kind, the Subsistence Department will commute them at the usual rate.

The General Court Martial instituted by paragraph III, Special Orders No. 133, paragraph I, Special Orders No. 152, paragraphs VI and VII, Special Orders No. 192, current series, from these Headquarters, and of which Major A. P. Morrow, 9th Cavalry, is President, will be dissolved upon the completion of the case now before it.

A General Court Martial will convene at Fort Clark, Texas, on Wednesday, the 1st day of December, 1875, at 10 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of such persons as may be properly brought before it.

DETAIL FOR THE COURT. Captain J. A. P. Hampton, 10th Infantry; Captain J. N. Craig, 10th Infantry; Captain F. S. Dodge, 9th Cavalry; Captain Michael Conroy, 9th Cavalry; Assistant Surgeon P. Middleton, Medical Department; First Lieutenant J. T. Kirkman, 10th Infantry; Second Lieutenant M. B. Goodwin, 9th Cavalry.

First Lieutenant M. B. Hughes, 9th Cavalry, is appointed Judge Advocate of the Court.

No other officers than those named can be assembled without manifest injury to the service.

On the recommendation of his regimental commander, Private Rodolphus Boone, Band, 10th Cavalry, charged with desertion, is hereby restored to duty without trial on condition that he reimburse the Government for the expense incurred in his apprehension, that he forfeit all pay and allowances due at date of desertion and make good the time lost to the Government by his unauthorized absence.

Hotel Arrivals. CENTRAL. A Fick, Hays City, Kansas; Mrs. Joe Slaughter, Miss M. J. Harris, W. A. Hall, Texas; Mrs. J. A. Karr, Medina; Mr. Smith, J. V. Treawell, City; Wm. Van Alstine, Nevada; Louis Sien, City; D. W. Croger, Uvalde; S. Rodriguez, Santa Rosa, Mexico; J. W. Taylor, Pleasanton; J. Ryman, Atascosa; J. Banich, City; Mr. Benavides, Pleasanton.

MENAGER. Jas. W. Taylor, W. S. Carothers, Burnett; Robt. Ralston, Providence, R. I.; A. P. Watson, Louisville, Ky.; G. Siegra, New York; R. A. Webber, St. Louis; I. W. Edwards, Long Island; P. W. Casper, E. Davis, Nacogdoches; J. F. Ornton, Texas; Henry C. King, Miss King, Boerne.

SCHMITZ. F. Edel, Simon Pink, G. Truck, Texas; A. J. Griner, Del Rio; W. F. Smith, Leona.

THE Knights of Pythias will meet at their hall this evening at 7 1/2 o'clock. A full attendance is solicited.

A Mr. Moses, of Montgomery, Alabama, writes to the President of the Y. M. C. A., of San Antonio, with a view of coming here and giving dramatic and humorous readings for the benefit of the Association.

It was an object of some surprise to us to know why every other man we met was talking about Ernest's oysters, until we tried them, and now we understand why his oysters are in everybody's mouths.

CAUSE of so many ups-and-downs among San Antonio people, of late-slippy pavements.

THERE is a class of individuals in the world possessed of a peculiar characteristic—something they can do about as well dead, as while living—that is, pay their debts.

ONE of our young acquaintances on going to bed the other night, placed a piece of wedding cake under his pillow to hopefully dream on. But he had "investigated" a couple of free lunch tables not long before he returned, which had a bad effect, and he now swears that he would rather be a beggar in the realms of beggary, than marry the girl he saw in his dream.

NOT SURPRISED. When we consider the little attention which is paid to the laws of health, by the citizens of this country; we cannot be surprised at the indifference manifested by them in relation to the purity of the articles that are used in their daily food.
