3d. Spend your money at home. because there is where you generally get it. It is your duty.

4th. Spend your money at home, because when it is necessary for you to get eredit, of your town merchants you have generally to get it, and they must wait for the money; therefore, when you have the cash in hand, spend it at home.

5th. Spend your money at home. It will make better merchants of your merchants; they will keep bet ter assortments and sell at lower rates than if the only business they can do is credited out, while the money goes to other places.

6th. Spend your money at home. You may have sons growing up who will some day be the best merchants in town. Help lay the foundations of them now. It is a duty. It may be your pride in after years to say: "By my trading at the store I got my son a position as clerk, and now he is a proprietor." Then you will think it hard if your neighbors speud their money out of town. Set the example now.

7th. Spend your meney at home Set the example now. Buy your dry goods, groceries, meat and every thing at home, and you will see a wonderful change in a short time in the business out-look of the place. Therefore, deal with your home merchants.

8th. Spend your money at home. What do you gane by going off? Count the cost; see what you could have done at home by letting your

The Dedication of Halls

My first impulses were to decline the honor, on the case of incompetency for the the order came to incompetency for the the order came to incompetency for the order came to incompete the order came to order came to incompete the order came to order ca

An exchange gives the following ten rea sons why people should spend their money at home. They are so forcible and well put that we cannot refrain from presenting them to our readers, hoping that they will give them the consideration which they deserve:

| Description of the consideration of the consideration of the consideration of the consideration which they deserve:
| Description of the consideration brethren, who by some mysterious perversity regard me a modest and massuming member, as a growler and professional fault finder, I not only had no fault to find but was pleased and charmed with Brother Thompson's work. Thus, Worthy Master, distinctly disayowing any merit as accruing to me for the work, I feel at liberty to express my opinion ou it. It is a most beautiful and unique production. Its lang usge is charmingly chaste. The machinery of the ceremony is easy, dignified, and most expressive of the grand and fundamental principles and teachings of the order. This much Phave feebly expressed in the merits of the dedicatory ceremony. Less I could not say in justice to mylesteemed and talented brother, with whom, in days gone by, I have had many a hard fought contest on the various rituals of the order, but between whom and my self there never has been an unkind word or an unkind thought, these poptests in the interest of our order rather cementing our friendship. With your permission, Worthy Mas ter; I will read the report that accompanies the ritual, and then call on brother Thompson to read the manual, not only because it is in his handwriting, but that he knows its spirit and harmony can give true expression to its recital.

Stonewail Jackson at West Point.

An old friend and comrade, of Stonewall Jackson writes to the Richmond Whig: In June, 1812, A. P. Hill, George E. Pickett, B. D. Fry, and the writer, having passed our first week at the military academy, were standing together on the south side of the south bar racks at West Point, when a cadetsergeant came by as conducting a newly arrived cadet to his quarters. merchants have the cash. He was apparently about twenty years of age, etc., his figure was angular and clumsy; his gait was awkward. He was clad in old fash. ioned Virginian homespun woolen cloth; he bore across his shoulders a pair of weather stained saddle bags and his hat was one of those heavy low-crowned, broad-brimmed wool hats usually word in those days by overseers, county constables, wag oners, etc. He tramped alone by the side of the sergeant with an air 10th. Merchants should do their of resolution, and his solid look ad ded to the inflexible determination get their bill heads, circulars, cards, of his whole aspect, so that one of latter heads, envelopes, and all us remarked: "That fellow has come here to stay." His name was Thomas J. Jackson.

He had a rough time in the academy at first, for want of previous training placed him at a disadvan-tage, and it was all be could do to pass his first examination. We were studying algebra, and maybe analytical geometry, that winter, and Jackson was very low in his class standing. All lights were put out "taps," but just before the signal he would pile up his gate with anthracite coal, and, lying prone be fore it on the floor, would work away at his lessons by the glare of the fire which scorched his very brain, till a late hour in the night. This evident determination to succeed not only aided his own efforts directly, but impressed his instruc-tors in his favor, and he rose stead-

Mr. Wilson's successor.

The death of a Vice President, occur-ing at the critical time between two Congresses, brings up another of those interesting possibilities which are insufficiently provided for in the Constitudent, the President of the Senate succeeds to his functions and duties. The last previous occasion of this kind was the death of Vice President King, chosen on the same ticket with President Pierce, in 1852. Senator Atchison, of Missouri, still living, who was President of the Senate at the time, was then recognized as the Vice President of the United States, with the right of succession to the Presidency in the event of President Pierce's death.

But the death of Vice-President Wilson occurs at a moment when his proper successor is not indicated; there is no president of the Senate holding office. Senator Carpenter of Wisconsin was president proten. of the Senate during the late Congress, but that Congress has expired; and the terms of all its officers, both in the Husea and Senate have both in the House and Senate, have expired with it. Besides, Mr. Carpenter's senatorial term has expired; he is to longer a United States Senator, and therefore cannot be president pro tem. of

At the approaching first session of the new Congress, the Senate will have to choose a president—not a president pro tem—of its body, and he will become invested with the vice-presidential dignity and functions—with the right of succes-sion to the highest office in the event of President Grant's death. But this officer cannot be chosen till the new Congress. meets. Meantime there is neither vice-president nor president of the Senate; and thus both the first and second presumptive successors to the highest office are wanting. The right, therefore, falls to the third person in order—the speaker of the House; but here a similar diffi-culty occurs; there is no speaker of the

Mr. Blaine was Speaker of the House in the late Congress, but that Congress-ne longer exists; it is defunct, and all its officers with it. If, therefore President and WEEKLY EXPARS. He is authorized. Grant should die between now and the meeting of the new Congress in December, there would be neither Vice President, President of the Senate, nor Speakof the House, to succeed him. The honor, therefore, would descend by the provisions of the law to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.—St. Losie Republi-

On Saturday we visited the ranch of Mr. John Joy, ten miles south, of the Liano river, and near his house we camped for a day, intending to start for Kerrville on the morrow. Mr. Joy has had a ranch here at the head of Johnson's Fark for nearly ten years, and is quite a preminent man in the locality. He raises excellent crops, and has also large numbers of catte, sheep and hogs, all doing well. He is also a noted bear hunter, and men-come, from near and far te get Mr. Joy ta guide, them on a bear hunt; we were sadly disappointed therefore when we arrived at his ranche and found him absent from home and blue near the same and blue ranche and found him absent from home and blue are are also are al his ranche and found him absent from home, and his sons and father, a man of nearly seventy years, with their large pack of hounds, off to the head of the Guadaloupe on a hunt. Chagrined at our disappointment, and having had almost enough of turkey houting, we broke camp in the meruing and started across the mountains to Kerrville, distant about forty miles, on our homeward bound trip. The road from Joy's is directly across the mountains for a distance of twenty five miles, when Johnston's creek (also named for General Joe Johnston) is reached, and we find water, there is not a drop of water to be had, consequently no ranches from Joy's to the creek just named, but the

Following the course of the creek, we pass a number of finely improved farms and reach Kerrville about noon where we lay in a supply of necessary estables, and then depart toward Bandera. During the morning drive we suddenly ran across a squad of Kangers who merged from a sharp defile in the mountains much to our surprise, as the approach to their camp seemed so inaccessible that we had no idea of weeting any human being in that locality. G. Schmidt & Co., the reliable Auction vers, will commence their large sale of goods to the trade to-morrow. Read their advertisement on our local page and be there in time to scoure bargains. These gentlemen are deservedly popular, and when they say goods are to be sold with out reserve, the public know they mean what they say.

Ir you are fond of good Sour Mash Bourbon and Rye Whiskles, call and see the jolly face of Mr. S. W. McAllister, South side corner of Alamo and Villita

To pay was a heautiful, soushiny day, but we would advise our people not to get too far away from home without an umbreils, for we have found out, to our sor row and satisfaction, that the Clerk of the Weather is not a reliable person. He is extremely deceiving.

THE Medina river is said to have risen wer thirty feet in less than three hours at the Castroville crossing yesterday morning. It is true, we have had a great deal of rain in San Antonio and vicinity, but we have had nothing like the rain which Tell in Medina and Uvalde counties night before last. It is said to have been the heaviest rain that has visited that country in a long time.

We learn that our farmers have very generally adopted the plan of preparing their grounds during fall and winter for planting in the spring. A number of them had their fields entirely plowed previous to the heavy rains of the past week. This is a good and highly practicable idea. It puts the ground in such a condition that all the farmer has to do in spring is to furrow and drop his corn. It turns inder the dry stubble on the top of the ground, utilizing it in the growth of the next year's crop; and then, too, it saves the animals you plow with to eye them in cold instead of warm weather.

Persons from abroad visiting our city for their health should receive the kindeat attentions at the hands of our citizens. Our section is fast becoming known to the Northern people for its healthful and pleasant climate, and it should be made a hospitable invitation to the people of the country generally by treating those who come here with sources, hindrens and all comform within their control. In this way we will be advertised throughout the Union, and we will become noted as a kind-hearted and hilanthropis people. Our city would be sought out, above all others, as the most desirable to some to It would redound not alone to the benefit of the invalalida, but to us ourselves Most of those coming here for their health, are persons suffering from pulmonary complaints, and as a general thing, they have the money to pay for that they get. We were led to these remarks by stepping into the Menger sitting-room this morning, where there were a number of invalide, and observing that they were not as comfortably situated as they should be for their improvement. It is true, the room was warm and tidy; but it is the common sitting and smoking-room for all who stop at this popular hotel. The invalid should have things to himself. He should have his bed-room, his sitting room, and his table, all to himself. Let our botel keepers consider the interests of these invalids; they are as patients under their charge-and provide for them such conveniences as they themselves should covet, were they in the same unfortunate

A RASCAL .- It will be remembered that a couple of weeks ago C. Ogden lost a valuable gold watch-it was stolen from his person after dark. As he had been in company with two roughish looking men company with two ronglish tooking men named "Big Scotty" alias Bobisson; and one Brown, be had strong enough suspicions to have them arrested on the charge of the theft. They stood their trial, and it was only through the hard work of the counsel for the defense that the inen were available from some to the mentality. saved from going to the pententiary. Circumstantial evidence governed the case, and it was considered very strong. Ogden, we learn, has continued to sus-picion these men. A few days ago, how-ever, Detective Shardsin found the watch ever. Detective Shardein found the watch in the possession of a discharged colored soldier, John Moore. Upon arrest, Moore claimed to have bought the watch, and pointed out another celered gentleman as the person from whom he had purchased it. The latter said he was only appointed an agent to sail the watch, and pointed an agent to sell the watch, and that is had been given him to sell by one Walker Jones, also a colored man. Jones was pointed out to the Detective this morning, and, after considerable of a run, was arrested, and tried before Justice Klocke, He went to jail. Here is an instance where two it nocent men came near being purished.

Department Orders.

We have heard of a very distressing accident occuring in Jackson County, West Virginia. It was a house-raising. As is customary ou such occasions, chickens had been killed by choping off their heads. Two little sons of the owner of the house to be ruised saw the chickens thus gullotined, and during the day concluded to repeat the operation. It was just at the time when the men were lifting a heavy log into its place. The father, who was holding one end of the log, casting his eyes towards the little fellows, his eyes towards the little fellows, one of whom had the ax raised to sever the neck of his brother, let go of the log to save the boy and it fell, killing six men, two Instantly, the others living a few hours. The ax fell before the father could reach the scene, severing she neck of the son. Thus were seven per sons hurled into eternity in a twink ling.—Maddl port News. ling .- Middl port News.
