TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

FROM CASTROVILLE.

(Special to the Express.)

CASTROVILLE, March 9th, 1876.

Dancer, who killed Greely at the Cooch ranch on the Rio, and who made his escape from the Sheriff of Pico, and was recently captured at Eagle Pass and lodged in the Castroville jail, made his escape last night by means of a saw which he manufactured, cutting through the double floor of the cell in which he was imprisoned.

DISSENTING INSURANCE.

Haywards, March 9.—It is reported that the life insurance engagement has disintegrated the insurance company, and that the several of his addresses were killed at Cartagena.

HE WAS STOLEN FOR HIS MONEY.

Flor Jose P. Olegado, a Spanish gentleman who had resided 25 years in Cuba, died $25,000 from a banking house, and was arrested by a man showing star.
Olegado's companion ran to the Spanish
Consul and informed him, but all search for Olegado was in vain. The object of the abduction is supposed to have been for the money, not for his political preferences.

THE REPUBLICANS OF TEXAS.

We are well advised when we say that a majority of the leading Republicans of Texas, and also the leading Republicans at Washington, are dissatisfied with the late Houston Convention, and that they desire that there should be another Convention, or rather Consultation, to re-consider that action, to harmonize conflicting elements, and to prepare for the effective marshaling of all the Republican elements, in full strength and discipline, in the coming Presidential canvass.

The Houston Convention was called prematurely. It elected delegates to a National Republican Convention which had not then been called, and might never have been called. In the other States, both parties modestly waited until their national conventions had been called, before electing delegates to them, except in the case of Texas. The Democrats of Texas were induced to hold their State Convention early because of the State election, and the vote on the new Constitution, so near at hand. But they were already well organized, and were thoroughly prepared, before their call was published. The so-called Republican State Convention was called suddenly, the time fixed was close at hand, there was no concert of action except among the initiated, and the Convention was not representative of the character, talent, and wishes of the party. A few men were in correspondence with each other; they understood each other; they had a majority of men of their own sort; they took the action that suited their personal wishes; they chose delegates to the National Convention, and also candidates for Presidential electors, all to suit themselves.

Now, we are reliably informed that the authority of this Houston Convention will not be recognized, either by the great body of the most intelligent Republicans in the State, or by those who have the control of the party administration at Washington, or by the National Republican Convention. We have been requested by high Republican authority to make this statement, to make it emphatically, in that for the difficulties of the case to be removed. The most regular plan proposed for straightening out this crooked affair is, that the Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee issue a call for all the leading Republicans of the State, without specifying names, to meet in a consultation at Austin. If this is not done, we are requested to state that such a call will be issued without the signature of the Chairman of the Committee. The first plan would be the best for three reasons: 1. It would be regular, and not revolutionary. 2. It would bring about harmony, which cannot be secured otherwise. 3. It would settle the trouble of two sets of delegates to the National Convention.

The leading Republicans at Washington and in Texas now look to the Chairman of the State Executive Committee to take the step necessary to harmony; otherwise, the step will be taken by others.

CAN HE BE IMPEACHED?

The Washington Chronicle thinks Belknap cannot be impeached, now that he has resigned, and is only a private citizen. Belknap says he never had thoughts of that question when he handed in his resignation to the President, but that he sought to relieve the administration of the odium of having his case investigated while yet a Cabinet officer. The President says he thought Belknap was trying to screen some one else, and therefore wanted to resign at once. He therefore accepted his resignation without knowing how deep Belknap himself was involved. The Chronicle believes that Congress acted too hastily regarding this impeachment resolution. By this time they have had time to reconsider, and will doubtless see the impossibilities in the way of impeaching a private citizen of the United States. The private citizen, which is, in its opinion, as soon as the President accepted General Belknap's resignation, to take effect immediately, he ceased to be an officer of the United States—in other words, from that moment he became merely a private citizen. The following clause from "Story on the Constitution," chapter XLII, illustrates fully, and supports this position.

From this clause it appears that the power of impeachment does not extend to any but civil officers of the United States, including the President and Vice President. In England it extends to all persons, whether peers, or commoners, and whether officers or not. There seems to be a peculiar propriety, in a Republican government, in confining the impeaching power to persons holding office. In such a government all the citizens are equal, and ought to have the same security of a trial by jury, for all crimes and offenses laid in their charge, when not holding any official character. They might, otherwise, be subject to gross, political oppression and prosecutions, which might ruin their fortunes or subject them to unjustifiable exile. When a person ceases to hold office he may safely be held to continue to be a citizen of the United States, and there can be no reasonable objection to his being tried by impeachment, since it can go no further than to a removal from office, and a disqualification to hold office.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Everybody in Texas, and in the whole country, who reads the newspapers, now understands that the Southern Pacific Railroad gives Texas and the South the same advantages that the North and West have. The Texas and Pacific Railroad, in addition to the one she has, and takes away from Texas and the South the only great opportunity they ever will have to obtain the Pacific railroad. The Huntington road gives us the road we need, without a dollar of subsidy from the Government, the Texas Pacific plan builds a railroad to run on, and in payment for that run he asks Texas to give him thirty millions of acres of land, and the United States to give what will ultimately cost four hundred millions of dollars. This is the case in a nutshell. Now, with these unquestionable facts before the world, how is it that a number of the journals of this State continue to mislead our people? How is it that papers in this State, and in the country generally, can be guilty of the deep and damning hypocrisy of praising for Tom Scott's road the road to the people of Texas and the South, when we do not want the road at all, and would be deeply injured by it? How is it that Congressmen, from Texas and other Southern States, are working for Tom Scott, and against their own people? These questions are becoming serious, and the indignation of many wise and honorable men is beginning to appear in consequence.

Richard Henry Dana, Our New Minister to England.

The appointment by the President of Honorable Richard Henry Dana of Massachusetts, as the successor of Gen. Schenck as American Minister to the Court of St. James, is universally approved and applauded. The eminent fitness of the appointment is so much recognized in England as in the United States, as will be seen in our dispatches of yesterday morning. The congratulations of the London News on the indication of a return to the excellent rule of appointing eminent men of letters to important public trusts are but an echo of the sentiments of all the better class of Americans. The first gentlemen of the country should be our representatives abroad, and not mere politicians or mere personal favorites of men in power. When such distinguished appointments are made, the trust reposed by the people in the Executive is violated. This applies to all Executive appointments, State and national, but particularly to the appointments of Judges and Cabinet officers, and especially to our Foreign Ministers.

Mr. Dana is a lawyer and author of considerable note, and is in his sixtieth year. After completing a fine professional education at Harvard he was admitted to the bar at Boston in 1840. He has been engaged in many celebrated cases, including the proceedings against Jefferson Davis for treason, where he was counsel for the government. His reputation as a lawyer is much greater than as a public man, though he has held a number of public offices. He was a member of the constitutional convention of Massachusetts in 1853; held the office of U. S. District Attorney for that State from 1861 to 1865, and in 1867 and 1868 he represented Cambridge in the Massachusetts Legislature, and was chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary. In 1868 he was a candidate for Congress in the First District against Benjamin F. Butler, by whom he was beaten by a large majority. In 1866 he published an edition of "Wharton's International Law," covering the period between Wharton's death in 1848 and the time of publication. But the literary production by which Mr. Dana is best known is "Two Years Before the Mast."

POWER OF JOURNALISM.

Journalism, as it is called, has become a mighty and a fearful power in the United States. It represents the greatness and power of the Nation, but it also represents its most dangerous enemies. Like the country, with its grandeur of territorial extent and wealth of resources, it is great in its freedom and power, but like the country again, its freedom and power are the very sources of its danger. It is mighty for good, but it is equally mighty for evil. The problem of American journalism, yet to be solved, is the combination of safety with power, of conservatism with independence, of virtue with genius. Our universal freedom, in the hands and at the mercy of an unlimited free press, remains as one of the figures used by one of the Apostles when speaking of the gnaw of the serpent granted to weak and erring human beings. "We have this treasure in earthen vessels." Steam and journalism are the two gigantic agencies by which the physical and intellectual greatness of the American civilization of the nineteenth century have been accomplished. They are both mighty powers, but they are both dangerous powers. A good head, an honest heart, an intelligent mind and a strong hand are needed for the guidance of both.

REUNION IN TEXAS.

The Galveston News has received information of the same character as those received by the Express immediately on the arrival of the news of Belknap's disgrace. Some citizens and army officers have, we learn, long more than expected the coronation of the War Department in relation to the eastern and post trades on our frontier, and the matter has frequently been a matter of discussion in this city. In this connection, there are some significant facts in relation to the unity of Belknap to our Military Depot, after the grand oration given him here a few years since. The News has reliable information to the effect that what has been currently rumored and generally believed in reference to the selling out of post trade rights on the Texas frontier, is true, and the government, if it pushes the Belknap investigation in this direction, will have no difficulty in collecting the proof. Post traders and others familiar with little incidents and acts behind the scenes have not always been so guarded in what they had to say as they might have been, and hence the startling disclosure at Washington have for a long time been anticipated. The rumors of jobbery in Texas post trade rights—and there are thirteen in the State—commenced shortly after Secretary Belknap went into office and began to exercise the power transferred to his office, of appointing post traders on the frontier.

L. LADNER

General J. B. Robertson, delegate from Texas to the late immigration convention at New Orleans, passed through this city yesterday on his return home.

General Robertson, delegate from Texas to the late immigration convention at New Orleans, passed through this city yesterday on his return home. He stated that the convention was composed of intelligent leading men from different States, but he was disappointed in the ignorance prevailing in regard to Texas. When he gave a recital of the growth, prosperity and great advantages of this State, he was listened to with great attention.

Gen. Robertson said he was never more fully impressed with the fact that the interests of the Western and Southern States were mutual. Nature has made the inhabitants of their territory natural friends. The vital interest of the Southern States requires the filling up of their vacant lands by an immigration which will secure the necessary capital to develop the resources of every kind.

The International Chamber of Commerce, he added, proposes to furnish three-fourths of the capital to open a direct trade with the people of the Mississippi Valley, through the American branch, furnish the other fourth, and to distribute throughout Europe all documents that may be sent them, setting forth the various resources of all the States of the Valley. This company was made an auxiliary or factor of the Immigration Convention. A standing and permanent committee was appointed of one from each State, and that committee organized and recommended that the committee of each State associate with him two prominent experienced men to form the State committee, such State committee to appoint a committee of three or more, to be authorized to collect reliable data of the resources of each county, to be forwarded through the State committee to the American branch of the International Chamber of Commerce for distribution in Europe; to be also distributed through such States of the West and North as may be in want of the information.

TERMS FOR IMMIGRENTS.

The following statements were made in a circular issued by the Texas Board of Immigration. The cost of living in Texas is very much lower than that of other States, as will be seen from the following prices of provisions, stock, etc. Prices vary more or less in different localities. The following, however, is of fair average: Beef 2 to 3 cents per pound, pork 4 to 5 cents per pound, corn 50 to 75 cents per bushel, flour 80 to 90 per barrel, butter 10 to 25 cents per pound, hard 10 to 15 cents per pound, chickens 20 to 25 per dozen, sweet and Irish potatoes, 50 to 45 cents per bushel, sugar 10 to 15 cents per pound, coffee 22 to 25 cents per pound, syrup 40 to 75 cents per gallon, eggs 20 to 25 per dozen, wheat 80 to 85 per bushel, stock, oxen per yoke $30 to $40, stock, saddle $4 to $6, horses $40 to $100, mules $60 to $125, hogs vary, size and class make considerable difference in price, common stock $1 50 to $3; sheep $1 50 to $2 25.

Household and kitchen furniture, clothing, dry goods and general articles of housewifery can be purchased as cheap in Texas as in the Northern cities, freight added. Many articles can be had, for even less than they can be bought in Northern and Eastern cities.

The main difference in the climate of Texas, compared with that of other countries in the same latitude, is an everlasting cool breeze in the summer, and cool northern winds in the winter. Whenever the rising sun begins to make the cobwebs of the night, there springs up a cool breeze from the northeast, which lasts until sundown. In the summer months, the sun is in Texas, except in the northern portion of the State, at a depth of three inches in thickness.

The following exact observations show that the climate of Texas reaches an altitude of 5,000 feet as in other States. Middle temperature at Galveston: In summer 80 degrees; in winter 58 degrees; during the year 67 degrees. Middle temperature at Austin: In summer 78 degrees; in winter 50 degrees; during the year 64 degrees. Higher than in Galveston 90 degrees; in Austin 70 degrees; Greater cold in Galveston 15 degrees; in Austin 10 degrees.

These are the highest degrees of heat and cold in summer years; they may, however, rise one or two degrees. The temperature may be as high as a rule for all lower or coast countries, while that of Austin

WHEAT AND RESOURCES OF TEXAS.

The Union grows more crops as Texas. The form products of the State are: 2,933,588 other cattle, 714,351 sheep, 1,202,445 swine, 66,153 bushels spring wheat, 348,929 bushels of winter wheat, 28,321 bushels of rye, 29,544,338 bushels of corn, 12,451 bushels of barley, 63,844 bushels of rice, 53,708 pounds of cotton, 253,928 pounds of wool, 200,282 bushels of Irish potatoes, 6219 gallons of wine, 8,127,747 pounds of sugar, 24,342 pounds of cheese, 62,771 gallons of milk, 2020 hogheads of sugar and 246,692 gallons of cane molasses, since which time the amount of these products in many instances has doubled, and in some cases has gone greatly in excess of this. In the product of wheat alone for the year 1875 the yield was between eight and ten million bushels.

PEOPLE'S KITCHENS IN GERMANY.

A suggestive account has just been published by a German woman in this country of the work done by certain women in Berlin in reducing the price of living in that city. In 1866, Mrs. Joha. Mergenstern, with two or three other ladies of wealth and influence, finding that the cost of provisions was enormous, established several Volk's Kuechen, or people's kitchens—restaurants where meals could be had at the retail cost of the materials. In 1873, these women determined to bring their club into their own homes by forming a housekeepers' association, whose object should be the reduction of the cost of living, and the promotion of plain and economical habits, and the improvement of the condition of servants. In 1874, there were 250 members. Co-operative groceries, bakeries, intelligible offices, and stores for groceries, meats, and provisions were opened, all under the supervision of the women. As the result of this membership embraced 6,000 families, and issues a weekly paper of a high order, containing its price lists, etc. The central bureau imports its supplies direct from China, France and the United States, etc., and is enabled to supply the co-operative trade throughout Europe. Coal is also purchased wholesale by the association and sold in accurately measured cans, an improvement not our own system which every household in New York or Philadelphia will appreciate. The object of this association is to be a model of a co-operative enterprise managed by women. Their central statistical reports are so suggestive of the co-operative as any woman on woman's duties; work and neglect of opportunities.

THE POLITICAL CONDITION OF TEXAS.

Sixteen years ago the population of the State was barely 600,000; and there were only a few miles of railroad lines. Now, the population has exceeded one million and a half, and there are over two thousand miles of railroad in operation. The prospects are that both the population and the miles of railroad will be doubled during the next ten years. The political condition of the State is satisfactory. Fortunately, Texas, unlike the majority of the Southern States, has a comparatively small black population, and "race prejudice" has not attended with those conflicts of race which have proved so disastrous in the Gulf States. The entire State debt is less than $5,000,000; and the seven per cent. gold bonds of the State are above par in the market. The assessable value of the State is approximately $300,000,000.

The people of Texas are extremely anxious to witness the speedy construction of the Texas and Pacific Railway. The State has contributed 14,000,000 acres of land to that company. It is thought that the building of that road through to the Pacific Ocean will add an additional million of emigrants to the section of the State through which it runs.

Texas owns all of the public land in her limits, amounting to fully 60,000,000 acres. The new constitution of the State has a very liberal and generous offer of the immigrant; and also in its provisions respecting public schools. It is evident that Texas is on the march to the achievement of a great destiny.

The above information is due to the courtesy of Hon. J. C. Chew, United States Centennial Commissioner for Texas, who has an office at 29 Broadway, New York, and who has been recently in this city. He is a member of the Texas State Legislature, and is a very able and energetic man. He has a letter from Hon. H. Hill, who was recently in this city, and who was a member of the Texas State Legislature, and is a very able and energetic man. He has a letter from Hon. H. of every party in every Northern State. He said he opposed secession and a war of subjugation and reconstruction, believing that each were terribly inimical to the preservation of our institutions, constitutional system. He submitted to each as he submitted to the death of a nation. He said he would not choose to see our country more that, in spite of secession and reconstruction, the Union still lives. The following sentence applies with especial force to a distinguished citizen of the State to which he was invited: "Whatever doubt may exist as to who was wise or unwise, patriotic or unpatriotic, in connection with the abuses which produced secession, war, and reconstruction, all must admit that he is neither wise nor patriotic who would keep alive the animosities of the strife after the strife themselves have ended." Speaking as a representative man, for the Southern people, he added: "They admit the freedom of their slaves, and give no compensation for their property. They concede the citizenship and enfranchisement of the colored race, and without stopping to discuss the wisdom of their enfranchisement, they will do, as it is their interest to do, all in their power to make the race worthy of these high privileges. Their representatives cheerfully vote to tax the same Confederate soldier to preserve the same Union soldier. In a word, they accept the constitution as it is, and offer to imbue the constitution with the spirit of the Union as it was. What more can be asked?"

WATER, WIND AND WEATHER.

Under this caption that leading publication, the American Railroad Journal, gives the following facts and figures: The great State of Texas is advancing rapidly in population and wealth. It comprises an area five times as great as that of New York, and its variety of climate, soil and productions renders it attractive to emigrants from all sections. The Central Coast country is especially adapted to the growth of sugar cane and the alluvial lands of the Trinity, Brazos and Colorado rivers, and the fertile prairie lands adjacent thereto, to the culture of cotton; while the Eastern section of the State is clothed with the finest timber; the northern belt, skirting the Red River, is devoted to the raising of grain, such as wheat, barley, oats, etc.; and the extreme western portion furnishes a boundless range for cattle, horses, sheep, etc. Texas is by far the largest stock-raising State in the Union. It ranks, also, first among the cotton producing States. The time is near at hand when it must become one of the largest grain-growing sections of the country. It is only within the past few years that wheat-growing has become one of the State's prominent industries. Last year the State exported 4,000,000 bushels of wheat.

DAILY EXPRESS
FRIDAY MORNING, Mar. 10th, 1876.
CITY NEWS.
CITY AND COUNTRY DOTS.
The Grand Jury is still grinding away.
It was warm enough yesterday to don a summer suit.
Preparations for St. Patrick's day are progressing nicely.
A full supply of Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, at Faust and Sons.
The suit of Messrs. Gilbert and Sol Kirk vs. Dr. Hermann still progresses slowly.
Messrs. Hans & Oppenheimer received a fine lot of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Dress Goods yesterday.
The Presbyterian Church Sociable will be held at Mrs. Erins' residence, on upper Acacia street, this evening.
Attention is directed to the publication of the proceedings at a recent meeting of the Stockholders of the San Antonio Gas Company.
We direct the reader's attention to the new advertisement of that Prince of Groceries, H. Grenet, appearing in this issue.
Henry Bradbury's case was brought up yesterday under writ of Habeas Corpus, and resulted in his being bound over in the sum of $5,000.
It was hoped during the winter months that the warm sun of spring would stir up the blood of the Street Railway Company. What about the matter, anyhow?
A collision occurred yesterday between two buggies on Market street, one coming out of the scrape minus three spokes in a hind wheel.
Mr. L. Dancy, General Passenger Agent of the N. C. & Ft. Worth Railway, left on yesterday's Kingsbury stage, after a short but pleasant visit to our city.
The burglars still in town? Nothing doing in their line of business. If they don't get to work again soon, the police will catch them without any visible means of support, and up they will go for gaol.
Prof. Baldwin, the exposé of Spiritualism, is making quite an excitement in Northern Texas. Mr. Baldwin will be in San Antonio in about two weeks, and show her citizens what he knows about a belief in spirits.
Sergeant Lieutenant W. H. Ames, 24th Infantry, has been detailed as a member of the General Court Martial, instituted by paragraph IV, Special Order No. 26, current series, from Military Headquarters, vice Major D. R. Clendinning, 8th Cavalry, who is relieved.
We are informed that the notorious Mrs. Victoria C. Woodhall will shortly visit our city, and deliver her celebrated lectures on Social Topics. Verily, our city seems to be coming into favorable notice with the lawbreakers of the land. But of this, more anon.
ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATION. An entertainment consisting of Vocal and Instrumental Music, Address and Recitations will be given under the auspices of the Irish American Association for the benefit of the Orphans, at the Alamo Literary Hall, on the evening of March 17th, next.
I have just received a large assortment of Ready Made Boots and Shoes, for ladies and gentlemen, which I will sell very cheap. Call and see them. H. ELLING, No. 69, Commerce Street.
Don't fail to attend the large Auction Sale at Trice's Auction Rooms, on the Main Plaza, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Dry Goods, Notions, Boots and Shoes, &c. will be sold dirt cheap, being a consignment of bankrupt goods just received from Galveston, and must be sold for what they will bring.
"Talking about sole agents," said a humorous friend, yesterday, "there is Mr. Brown, who is a -housing- the people of Western Texas about a cheap shoe, for which he is sole agent; then there is the shoemaker who will make you a sole to the last; when along comes the preacher and prepares the soul at the last for eternity; Verily, the occupations of mankind seem linked in a chain as of a brotherhood."
We received a call yesterday morning from Mr. A. McNair, General Agent for the celebrated McCormick Reapers and Mowers. Messrs. Elmendorf & Co. are the Agents in this city, an advertisement of which will be found in to-day's paper. Mr. McNair travels through the country in his own conveyance, and we are pleased to learn from him that the wheat crop throughout Western and Southwestern Texas promises to be the largest and best ever grown in the State.
Our neighbors, Messrs. Panoos & Son, have just received the finest and best selected stock of spring and summer goods that we ever saw opened in this market. Their neat little store-room is now jam full of real first-class goods, their present new receipt, added to what they already had on hand, making their stock, particularly of fine-gentlemen's goods, as complete and attractive as could be. The Messrs. Panoos having, in connection with their dealings in, read-made clothing as good a tailoring establishment as there is in the State, enables them to fit their customers up in the highest city style, and to their general satisfaction. If you want something good to the line of men's furnishing goods, we advise you, reader, not to forget our neighbors, Panoos & Son.
HOTEL ARRIVALS.
The following are yesterday's arrivals reported at midnight:

Ooms; St. Mary; J. W. Hanson; Kendall; country; C. C. Fountain; J. J. Smith; H. Bennett; Pleasanton; Mr. Walden and lady.

OUR EARLY SPRING.
The present month of March is the first of the spring months in the calendar. Its ungenial mildness having cast a general beauty over the face of nature, covets our sincerest praise and exultation. As far back as our memory can extend, we remember the month of March as the severest of the year—its duration being the advent of biting frosts and icy breezes. But, fortunately, it came in this year like a lamb, as gentle and pleasant as could be, and has continued so, and promises well to remain the fair opponent of a most pleasant spring. When at this time last year, and in all previous years within our memory, the earth was bare and of as rude an appearance as it possibly could be, green grasses now form the carpet, and lovely flowers grow, sweetening the air with their fragrances.
These beauties have come early to make us happy, and there is nothing which so affects us with delightful sensations as the inanimate world in a flourishing condition—the meadows, dowers and trees clothed in their brightest natural colors. But it is not alone because the vegetable parts of the creation are dressed in their most radiant and advantageous costumes, that we should find occasion to rejoice over the early advent of spring. Laying aside the great benefits which will redound to agriculturalists, even, there are other branches of industry affected just as much. Merchants, bankers, all the trades and professions are more or less benefited. The farmer has more time given him to till the soil, and the warm sun of June, July and August fall upon his crops, they will have begun to ripen. Consequently his productions are increased, and he has not worked so hard as in former years. Because of his success in this respect, he can afford to dispose of what he has produced at a lower figure, and still make more money than he does when we have late springs. He goes to the bank and lays away a winter fund, which finally goes into the hands of the merchants. The bank finds its coffers filled with idle gold, and is justified in lending money at reduced rates. The merchant does so extra-business, and finds that he can come down with his prices, and thus occupy being "Jewed" by his customers. The poor working man, says his articles of food at a discount, and that his earnings give him a better support; and thus he is inspired with energy. His position seems dearer to him, and the man over him kinder in his dealings with him. In this way is the good influence of an early spring felt throughout all, even the most minute operations of business, affecting the intimately identified relations of society, and in turn, not only filling the private purse, but the vaults of the nation's treasury. It is wonderful to contemplate what an effect the present early spring, if properly taken advantage of, will have upon the American people in this centennial year of our national existence. The opportunity can be so improved as to make the present the crowning year of America's commercial greatness. Let us all do our share of the good work.

MCCORMICK REAPERS.
The old and reliable Reaper House of C. H. & L. J. McCormick have established an agency at San Antonio, and appointed Messrs. Elmendorf & Co. Agents. This house, as is well known, is the original Reaper House, Mr. C. H. McCormick having made the first Reaper that cut grain successfully by horse-power. They build Reapers now in a factory that has a capacity sufficiently great to turn out a complete Reaper every seven minutes during the whole year—and it gives constant employment to 1000 skilled mechanics.
The reputation of the McCormick in Northern Texas, where they sold 500 machines last year, is that their Reapers, Harvesters, Droppers and Mowers are the best and cheapest in the market—and still with their low prices they give long time with a low rate of interest if the purchaser wants time. Don't buy a Reaper until you see the "McCormick" at Elmendorf's.

MEETING OF THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE S. A. GAS COMPANY.
The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the S. A. Gas Company was held on the 8th inst.
Mr. Pawley, the efficient Superintendent, submitted his annual reports and statements, which were satisfactory and approved.
The election of five Directors to serve for the ensuing year, resulted in the choice of F. GUTENBERG, J. H. KAMPFMAN, JNO. C. FRENCH, J. F. MINER, M. PAWLEY.
The new board then proceeded to ballot for officers, when Jno. C. French was elected President and O. E. Porter Treasurer, and M. Pawley was re-elected Superintendent. JNO. C. FRENCH, Pres. San Antonio, March 8th, 1876. 103

The German farmers living between San Antonio and New Braunfels, have planted an unusually large quantity of wheat this season, and their fields are now perfectly beautiful—solid carpets of rich greenness—and indicate that a large yield will follow. The wheat interest is the most successful feature of Western Texas agriculture, and the sooner our farmers take more generally to the production of this staple commodity, the better it will be for themselves and every one else.
As was before announced in our columns, the Irish American Society will give an entertainment on St. Patrick's Day, at Alamo Literary Hall, for the benefit of the Orphans. We are authorized by Col. Thos. A. Dwyer, who is largely interested in getting up the entertainment, to say that nothing will be left undone to make it both refined and interesting. Addresses will be delivered, the musical part of the entertainment will be conducted by some of our acknowledged best musicians, and that wonderfully attractive little concertist, Mrs. Bessie Dwyer, will receive several new and beautiful pieces, loaned expressly for the occasion. Let every one make up his mind to attend, enjoy the entertainment and help the little orphans.
