THE PROPOSED TUNNELL UNITARE PROPOSED TUNELL UNITARE PROPOSE DER THE ENGLISH CHANNEL.

From the London Times' Paris pondont. ] & J

The question of the Channel Tune nel is steadily advancing. An international company, it is well known, was formed, with a capital of £450,000, to be furnished in equal moleties by French and Eugilish shareholders. The first step succeeded, and the English company is stated and the English company in the english company is stated in the English company. ### THE RACES AT THE FAIR GROUNDS YESTERDAY.

Those in attendance at the Fair ground yesterday afternoon witnessed a very interesting trial of drivers in the "free for all, go as you please" race, and also a dash of a half mile between Collins' gray mare Jennie, and Stoops' chestnut stallion Crowell

The test-of-time race was cuiled first, and there were eight entries, as follows : H. B. Adams, gray mare, Butterfly; P. Freer, black mare, Nellie; C. R. Custard, bay mare, Lady Fleetfoot; Joe Foster, black horse, Rowdy; tJohn Neal, brown was destitute of all worldly, goods, mare, Minnie; Col. Peny, bay mare, Flora; Mai, Wilson, bay horse, Blum, The eighth entry was a large raw-boned clumsy pa oing home, called Grapevine. We tried in vain to learn who this specimen of herseflesh belonged to, no one in parsion menes responsibility. His driver said he had no owner, and we should judge from the appearance of the poor creature that the driver was very nearly correct. Lean, lank and awkward, and clumey of movement withal, poor Grapevine afforded present in his official especity, the Hide Inspector would doubtless have taken some interest in the poor brute-he would certainly lines been justified in so doing as the horse evidently was fast approaching the state of dissolution. In case of another race soon, if Grapevine is entered we expect to be called upon to write his

Maj. Wilson won the premium, his horse having trotted the mile in exactly four minutes. The interest manifested in this race wa much greater than we expected it would be, and it was heartily enjoyed by those witnessing it. Next came the running rece, a slogle dash of a half mile, between the grey mare and the sorrel stallion, in which the for mer proved an easy victor, coming in forty yards shead, in 534 seconds. There will be a number of interesting races at the fair track next Saturday, for which there are already, several entries.
