There is no firm in America that can give as Better ideas of this branch of business than Messrs. Figure 1.22 This 1.2 Co. Chicago. The very rapid progress this House has made is marvelous; it was only a few years aga that they were selling about five millions per annum, but since that time their sales have inpeased to the enormous sum of twenty million defers annually. To give our readers some conception of the magnitude of this House, will say that they have two stness of its floors each, which are devoted entirely to their business. The sholesale one, which is located ontomer Market and Madison Sts., covering over two hundred (housants square feet, is, at the passent time especially, it sight well worth seeing. Fourth to Notions, and the Fifth wear, see in early the whole estratishment is one wast hive of industry, and piles of goods which reach to the ceiling are being rapidly depleted by salesmen filling orders received direct from customers, as they have no travelers or agents. They consider mail orders one of the most important branches of their business, and give them furticular attention.

The Retail is located corner of State and Washington streets, and is one of the finest structures in the city, covering nearly half of a block and being built of marble and iron, makes it at once an object of interest that every one likes to visit. The goods are separated into different departments like the wholesale, and judging from the display made at their Grand Annual Opening, October 7th, should say they have the finest rotal stock in the United States. Employment is given to about twelve hundred persons, and the business requires one hundred horses and fifty wagons to do the earting.

The New York Herala gets mat ters sadly mixed sometimes. Perhaps it thinks that reason and seuse are too valuable to be indulged in every day, when it is just as easy to substitute cheap; absurdity and nonesense. For example the Herald is equally as clear. says: "One reason why we pay six per cent. for our money abroad is that we have fallen into a babit of universal slander. We degrade ourselves, defaine our country, trifle with our credit, call upon the world to see what rascals and knaves we are, and then marvel that the world should take us at our word and should take us at our word and specified the should take us at our word and specified the should take us at our word and specified the should take us at our word and specified the should take us at our word and specified the should take us at our word and specified the spec charge us more for money that na government troops, and in the fight several officers and soldiers were killed. He tions without a half of our resources. tions without a half of our resources. We shall strengthen our credit when we protect our self-respect."

The eart is here palpably before the horse. The evils is not in national self-disparagement which has stirred up just complaint at home and produced distrust abroad. The blunderers and relanderers who have had swing in the administration of our public affeirs, defaming our country and triling with our credit, could wish nothing better than to country and triling with our credit, could wish nothing better than to join the people in a mutual admiration society which should ignore abuses, suppress scandals, confound impurity and purity, black and white, and extol the present condition of things as eminently worthy to be viewed with pride and satisfaction. Foreigners would never be imposed upon by such a performance. It would be too diaphanous. Our credit would be impaired rather than strengthened, as for our bia consent to banish all Cubans from self-respect, it is not to be exalted by become a grander of Spain and member of the Order of Isabella is Catolica after that consent to banish all Cubans from self-respect, it is not to be exalted by the consent to banish all Cubans from the country and its prostitution to Spain. by any trick of hypocrisy. On the other hand, the courage to look unpleasant facts in the face, and the candor to confess that we are ashamed of the present condition of things, are well adapted to strengthen our credit by reassuring the world that, however misgoverned, we are morally sound. The next step is to SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS drive the blunderers and plunderers, great and small, from power and place. That done, our credit will be second to that of no other nation, and our self-respect will be established in the conscionances of having achieved a great and bench cent national reform.

All over our glerious Union we have had plous and zealous womes, pleading, oraying, and singing in behalf of temperince. They have wandered through our principal cities, winning procelytes as hey moved, but their success has been in arrears, when compared to the many efforts, the exposure, the ridicule, that man, recreant man, has seen fit to utilize in his effort to frustrate their design. But San Antonio, dietaut, serene, moral, has gone untouched by nomadic feminisity, who make the rounds, and essay the conversion of those who "put sugar in it." It is a hard life, it is a harder avocation, for women to attempt the conversion and reform of man; for the latter look upon the former as "sweet creatures" and whenever viewed in a masculine role, the effect s destroyed, the logic futile, the mission seless. Such is the history of the "whisky orusade" and that it will be dissimilar in this city we cannot believe.

The crueade has opened in carnest by ladice from abroad. There will be an open air meeting in front of the Menger Hotel, this evening, Wednesday April 12th, commencing at 6 o'clock. All are invited to hear the gospel.

THE BARS ASSAILED.

The Menger bar was a scene of dev tional exercises yesterday morning. The lady sung hymns, and prayed-it was the first publicity of her work, and after inviprietor, and wishing him a speedy return to righteous ways, she retired.

The Karber saloon was also visited but the proprietor was scrubbing and dusting his establishment, hence he could not entertain them. Messrs. Hoerner and Scholz were indisposed for the reception, and the mission up to the present writing is undeveloped.

The ladies engaged in this enterprise, are Mrs. Garrison, and the widow of the Rev. Adolph Cedarholm, a Swedish misclonary. They have been engaged in the cause for a considerable time, making three converts in New York, and one in Galveston. They were conveyed to San order, Pancoast & Son keep the best of Autonio by a gentleman whose charity was excited, as the poor women were afoot on the Salado. There is a dearth of hope for their success around San Auto nio. They should take Greely's advice and "go West." Were they young men we would advise them. Fort Clark would be a good point.

To make thy riches pleasant."

It is surprising how few books have been written on the diseases incident to old age. We know of no work that would be more generally read by the medicolegal world, or in fact by all other classes, than a "Treatise on the medical management of old age," written in a plain style and free from all technicalities, nor do we know of any medicine that is more happily adapted to the alleviating of the pains and schee of the aged than Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. While they act promptly they do net wrench the system or shock the most enfeebled constitution. In cases of gout, rheumalism, kidney diseases, torpid bowels, indigestion, loss of appetite, their healing powers are truly wonderful. Their effect on the nervous system is prompt, quieting restlessness, imparting refreshing sieep and vigor to the whole system. The old and young will be alike benefited by the use of this truly estimable medicine.
