and not to produce it before the Judge or Court without further order from the House. In support of the resolution Mr. Hurd intimated that the testimony of Kilbourne might impliests high officials of the government and require their impeachment, but all the efforts in the direction of the investigation would be thwarted if he was allowed to be taken out of the courtol and power of the House by a court, which was the custom of Congress. He cited various authorities, both in this country and England, in apport of the position taken by the Judiciary Committee.

Garfield suggested that the Court might punish the Sergeaut-Marms for coutempt.

Brief moution has frequently been mad in our columns of the partnership between P J Muse and Houry Wett, as managers of the "Buseau of Information and Ex change." We understand that the business of that Bureau, though less than two months established, had assumed, under the management of Mr Moss, such proportions that it became necessary for him to associate himself with some person who was thoroughly acquainted with the people and the State of Toxas ; and Mr Moss has shown wisdom in the selection of Mr Weir no a partner. Mr Weir is an old, exemplary citizen, has been long, well and favorably known in this State, and especially in San Antonio, where he ranks high mong our best and leading men; his integrity and ability being unqu and of a high character, and in our judgment no better selection could possibly have been made. They fully appreciate the use of the "printers' ink," as will be seen from their advertisements to the Ex-

For years it was the Spaniards and Mexicans battle field, then the Mexicans and Americans. The most desperate encounter of Texan history occurred right in this square; some 180 Texans were attacked by an overwhelming force under Santa Auna, and after days of fighting a little remnant consisting of Col. Davy Crockett, Col. howie and a few others, were driven into the Alamo—and here, after a desperate fight, were overpowered, and not one left to tell the tale. Carriages stand in all the plazas, pleasure parties are always to be seen wandering and driving about, and the whole city has a pleasant, attractive appearance. The clear atmosphere is sweet to the taste, and brings out the stars with a billiancy not dreamed of further north, and a moonlight night along the San Pedro with these atrange curroundings is certainly communicative.

SAN ANTONIO'S CHURCHES. The Presbyterian church is a large one, built in the Spanish style of architecture, unfinished in the interior ernamentation, but has been in use some years. Rev.
