that we live in the centennial year of civilization in the United States. Now to the crops. The crop prospect is very good, especially the corn. If we get another good rain in ten days, the corn will be excellent. The wheat is not so good but I presume enough has been made to supply both demands. Mio.

THE IMPRESSION MADE BY THE NOMINATION OF HAYES.

We intend to publish full accounts of both the Republican and Democratic conventions, their nominations for the Presidency, their respective platforms, and the popular impression in regard to both, so far as can be gathered from the public journals. We intend to make the expression a reliable and impartial medium of information for the whole people, regardless of party, during the interesting and important canvass for the Presidency, which has now commenced. In pursuance of this purpose, we reproduce below two articles from the Galveston News, in relation to the nomination of Hayes, and to the relation of the personal career and character of "Rutherford B. Hayes" himself.

THE NOMINATION OF HAYES.

Were we to speak simply as Democrats, we should be glad to see the nomination of Hayes, as the best and strongest which the Republican party could have made. But we can not speak in the spirit of patriotic and thoughtful citizens, contemplating the possibility of Republican success in the present election, and the solidification of an honest administration and the abatement of the pernicious agitation of sectional politics, without relating in the progress which this nomination affords, as an aspect of the country which spared the continuance of a rule which, under the name of Grantism, has become synonymous with almost every public mischief, corruption, and infamy. Gov. Hayes will be a hard man to beat. He could not utter the contrary without evincing gross obtuseness or a shameful lack of candor. The Democratic leaders can not too soon recognize as a ponderous fact that their adversaries have nominated for President a man whose character and record, while free from personal reproach, is eminently calculated to call forth the full strength of the Republican party, including the reform element represented in the late New York conference. With failure to nominate Blaine, Conkling, Morton, or some one else, it becomes more than ever necessary for the Democrats to project their campaign on the very highest level of national patriotism and statesmanship, and to meet the wishes of the whole country with regard to civil service reform and other urgent questions of public policy. Not many months ago, it should be remembered, disgraced Republican rule was well-nigh universal, owing to the neglect to redress its wrongs respecting civil service reform, its systematic advancement of incompetents and its fostering of disclosures, of official brokerage, venality and larceny in every department of the government. The party seemed to be seeking to run a hopeless prey at its own elements. At the same time, the country was obviously drifting towards the Democracy. But suddenly this movement gave signs of pause, and the vitality of the Republican party began to reassert itself. How shall we account for this new phase in the situation? Beyond question, one of the chief causes of it has been the disappointing course of affairs in the Democratic House of Representatives. The majority in that body have failed to master and solve any great problem of legislation; after failing in the outset to take practical steps towards a sound civil service by relating the importunities of office-seekers such as Doorkeeper Fitzhugh and such as those who paid court to the whole nation, and to an official Sancho Panza. But if the Democratic party has been on trial, so to speak, in the Democratic House of Representatives, is not too late for that body to command the favorable judgment of the country by proposing specific and salutary measures of financial policy designed to remove the painful depression of business, enterprise and industry which the financial policy of the dominant party has inflicted. The St. Louis convention must do the best, and that body will commit a fatal blunder if it fails to adjust its course to the fact that the nomination of Governor Hayes places the principal battlefields of the presidential contest in the West and in the Middle States, and more especially in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

OUR Correspondent "Mio," in a very admirable letter in to-day's issue of the Express represents those who differ with us in our criticisms of Gov. Coke. We publish the arguments made in behalf of the Governor with great pleasure. It is our duty as well as our pleasure. The Express is an independent paper, and its opinions are open to all who write good English in good temper, from the ultra rebel to the ultra radical. It is right, also, that somebody in Western Texas should defend Gov. Coke's administration, and we are happy to find that one writer is brave enough to

Miscellaneous Advertisements. FACTS BY WHICH DECIDE.

In those spacious but insignificant advertisements of C. Pratt & Co., they endeavor to convince the public that our STAR OIL and PEERLESS are identically the same, which they know, even better than we could ever attempt to convince them, is not true. "Peerless" is by no means one of the inferior grades of oil; it is in every respect equal and fully up to the actual standard (not the advertised) of Astral, and is like the latter in degree below the burning point of our STAR OIL. Now we propose to furnish the Peerless, guaranteed equivalent in every respect to Astral, at one Dollar a case less than our STAR OIL, which we sell at the price of Astral, although our STAR OIL is 12 degrees better, hence safer, and consequently has the preference of the consuming public.

Our certificates, formerly published, (originals of which can be seen at our office) from our local, disinterested chemists, Messrs: Geo. H. Kautzer, A. Netter & E. Dreiss, who tested both oils, and declare our Star Oil to be 12 degrees better than Astral. In addition to the certificate alluded to, we herewith annex a certificate from Chemist Theo. Odet.

Certificate.

At your request, I have tested the samples of Star Oil taken from the stores of George Dellinger, and had the burning point at one hundred and thirty-three (133) degrees Fahrenheit, the burning point at one hundred and forty-four (144) degrees Fahrenheit. Astral oil, taken from the store of E. Kotula & Co., the burning point at one hundred and twenty-one (121) degrees, and the burning point at one hundred and thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit. I am of the opinion that the Star Oil is by all means the best and safest oil.

TUESDAY MORNING, June 26th, 1876.

SUN STRUCK.

MR. BLAINE SUDDENLY PROSTRATED WHILE AT DIVINE WORSHIP.

THE RESULT OF MENTAL EXCITEMENT AND THE FIFTEEN CENT TAX.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—Mr. Blaine rose this morning at the usual time took a bath, read the papers, and at about 9:30 o'clock, his wife advised him to go down to the parlor, which was cooler, and, therefore, more comfortable. He said in reply that he wanted his breakfast first, as he was hungry.

MIS BREAKFAST was served to his room, and, although it was a light one, he ate more heartily than usual. He played with his children for a time and was in excellent humor. He said he had not felt so well for some time. He remarked about his pleasant night's sleep, and spoke cheerfully of his prospects at Cincinnati. He conversed with Mr. Sherman, his secretary, and dictated several dispatches to his friends. He also received, read and filed a number of letters and telegrams, and was especially interested in a long dispatch from his colleague, Hale, regarding the contest at Cincinnati.

THE MORNING PASSED in the usual manner, and shortly before 11 o'clock his wife asked him if he was going to church. He joined her presently, and the family (consisting of Miss Dodge and two young daughters of Mr. Blaine) stepped out to the sidewalk. Mr. Blaine reminded her husband that it was very warm and that they had better ride. Mr. Blaine said he had, and that he would do so the next day.

The morning was unusually hot and their walk was directly east. The ladies had sun umbrellas, but Mr. Blaine's head was unprotected. The distance from Mr. Blaine's home, on Fifteenth street, between H and I, to Dr. Rankin's Congregational Church, corner of Tenth and D streets, is probably something over a half mile. Reference during the walk was made to the extreme heat, but Mr. Blaine made no complaint of it. When he reached the steps of the church, however, he put his handkerchief to his eyes in a strange manner, and his wife asked him what was the matter—if he had anything in his eyes.

HE SAID: "No, but I think I am sunstruck; oh, my head!" and sank down insensible in his wife's arms at the threshold of the church. His little daughter Hattie, about five years old, ran into the church and told General Babcock, who was at the door, that her father had fainted on the steps of the church. There was a sad scene. His wife held his head in her lap, and the rest of the family bent over her, none knowing whether death had not already overtaken the prostrate form. Assistance was soon at hand.

A PASSING OMNIBUS was raised up against the walk and the insensible form was carefully lifted within. Arriving at the home Mr. Blaine was borne inside, and by a strong effort said: "Lay me on the floor." He was at once stretched on the parlor floor. His shoes removed, his collar thrown open, and a cushion placed under his head. A bed was at once brought down and Mr. Blaine was placed upon it. Physicians were sent for and soon arrived, and careful hands have smoothed his pillow all day. It would be difficult to describe

THE EXCITEMENT that spread through the city. Crowds gathered at the hotels and shady places, and before half an hour the walk in front of Mr. Blaine's residence was filled with anxious visitors. A panic seemed to move the people, and exaggerated statements floated about from tongue to tongue. Surgeon General Barnes, Dr. Verdi and Dr. Pope, the latter Mr. Blaine's physician, were early to pronounce the attack one of sunstroke. The report first gained circulation that Mr. Blaine had been stricken with paralysis, but it was soon learned that

HIS LIMBS WERE FLEXIBLE and sensitive, and his features natural. Then it was reported that he had had an attack of apoplexy, but a closer examination showed that the symptoms were not at all alike. Surgeon Palmer, of the army, was probably the first to discover the nature of the attack. He unhesitatingly pronounced it sunstroke, and was unusually positive on account of the fact that Gen. Gilmore was taken in the same way yesterday, and he (Palmer) had attended him.

Mr. Blaine was taken at about 11 o'clock in the morning, and save the words he spoke when he reached his own house, he did not speak until a quarter past 4. For the first two hours he seemed insensible. His eyes were wide open and staring, his features without expression; but gradually his eyes wore a more intelligent look and his features improved, and, although he said nothing, he seemed to be conscious of what was occurring. He groaned two or three times during the day, but until late did not move hand or foot. His eyes occasionally turned, and sometimes the lids drooped over them. Gen. Sherman, bent over the bed shortly before 4 o'clock, and said, in

QUITE A LOUD VOICE, "Blaine do you know me?" The lips seemed to move a little, but no response came. Some time afterwards Mrs. Blaine said, "James, do you know me?" He then spoke her name distinctly and subsequently asked, "What is it?" and then again, "Where am I?" He subsequently recognized his children and Miss Dodge, and spoke once to a friend at the foot of the bed. Later in the day and during the evening, he lay perfectly quiet paying no attention to anything, but evidently conscious of everything going on around him.

During the day he was visited by nearly all the noted people in the city. Secretary Bristow was the first to call, but owing, probably, to the excitement of the moment, he was not admitted. Among those who called subsequently and were admitted were Secretaries Fish, Robinson, Chandler, Postmaster General Jewell, General Garfield, Fernando Wood, Senator Allison, several foreign Ministers, and many ladies. An immense crowd was before the house all day, and up to twelve o'clock at night.

MRS. BLAINE showed extraordinary nerve, and never lost hope. While friends and relatives were shedding fears and giving way to their sorrow, she, with strong self-control, was attending to the more necessary task of nursing her stricken husband.

THE FIFTEEN CENT TAX. On the 18th, in the house of Representatives, the following debate occurred on the bill to impose a special tax of fifteen cents.

Mr. Wrist moved to reconsider a vote postponing consideration of the bill imposing a special tax of fifteen cents until the Committee on Taxation and Revenue make their reports and estimates.

Mr. Kopper thought that the assessment and taxation had nothing to do with this bill; the present bill asked that this tax be included and collected under the assessment now going on, and it was urgent to pass it now, that tax collectors, who will soon commence, might collect it with the general tax. If the bill failed now, the interest on our bonds or the salaries of our officers must go unpaid; in either event the fair name, standing and credit of the State were again destroyed, and could not be restored save by extraordinary exertions and great sacrifices. Postponement must be fatal, he insisted. If gentlemen thought the special tax unnecessary, let them show it now and kill the measure, but not destroy the chance of keeping up our present fair name by postponing a measure effective only if promptly adopted. The tax laws and estimates to be reported were to cover the ensuing fiscal year, and did not go into effect until August, 1877. This bill might go into immediate effect, and, if assessors under it were instructed at once, they could collect the special tax under the current assessments. Any default of our obligations now would be heralded over the world, and work great injury to the people and the State by casting suspicion and loosening confidence in the bonds we have just offered for sale.

Mr. Kessler thought the position of the gentleman from Galveston to some extent correct, and he would, if convinced that the State could not get sufficient revenue from other sources, cheerfully support the bill; but he thought that a proper assessment would enable us to raise enough revenue. It was easy to levy a tax, and difficult to get rid of it. About a million dollars of back taxes were now owing, and he wanted those delinquent tax payers brought to account before good tax-payers were made to increase their contributions.

Mr. Warrbach called attention to the fact that the proposed tax was for this year only. It was utterly useless to defer consideration till a general tax law was reported; the law was only for taxes of 1877 and future years, and did not go into the hands of the collectors till August, 1877. Now, if this bill was not passed and put into immediate effect, where would money be gotten to pay January and September interest? If it could be shown that this interest could be otherwise provided for, all would vote against the bill.

Mr. Lang thought the Tax Com. Committee might propose something by which enough could be raised out of the five million dollars owing for taxes on lands, which had not been rendered, and that, until the report is made, the special tax matter had better be postponed. He had much to say for the tax payers' interests. The gentleman from Harris had a bill to provide for collecting back taxes, and it should be considered first. When this bill did come up for action, Mr. Lang said he would be able to show that no necessity existed for such a tax.

Mr. Kopper—If the gentleman is prepared to show the tax unnecessary, why not show it now? If he can show it, let him do so at once and he (Mr. K.) would cheerfully yield. He and the committee must place themselves properly on record. They had found it even necessary to use the sacred school fund; they had found it necessary to ask for an immediate special tax. Now, if the House should postpone and defeat the measure of relief, the responsibility was not with the committee. He was prepared to show that even 15 cents was not enough. Messrs. Price and Campbell favored postponement.

Mr. Cochran, chairman of the Committee on Taxation and Revenue, said that their report could have no bearing upon this bill. The motion to reconsider, however, failed.

CARRYING THE NEWS TO BLAINE. WASHINGTON, June 16.—Mr. Blaine, immediately after reception of the news of Hayes' nomination, sent a telegram to him congratulating him on his nomination and promising him the vote of Maine. Mr. Blaine conversed with his friend, coolly and without excitement on the result of the convention.

Following is the response of Hayes to Blaine's congratulatory telegram: COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 16.—To Hon. J. G. Blaine, Washington: Your kind dispatch has touched me most deeply, and I hardly know how to respond in fitting terms. The assurance of your sympathy and support nerves me for the contest in which we are about to enter. With your returning health and strength, I see an omen of Republican success. I trust that all trace of your recent illness will speedily disappear, and that you may speedily be restored. I send you my first dispatch since nomination. R. B. HAYES.

Blaine was out riding after the nomination was announced and was heartily cheered as he passed crowds.

WHAT IS QUEEN'S DELIGHT?

It is a plant that grows in the South and in the early autumn period over discovered, by which all diseases that enter in the blood can be eradicated at once and forever. It is a plant for life all rheumatism, Syphilis, Catarrhs and Rheumatic affections, and is the only true remedy for this class of diseases. Also, it is a powerful diuretic, but when combined with Sarsaparilla, Yellow Bark and other purgatives, it becomes a blood purifier, and eradicates and expels from the system all the impurities of the blood.

DR. TERRY'S SANSAPARILLA AND QUEEN'S DELIGHT.

Having the most powerful alternative known to Medical Science for the cure of old Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatic Sores, Scalds, Burns, Erysipelas, Eczema, Itch, Prurigo, Scabies, Eruptions, Dropsy, Kidney Complaints, Evil effects of loose dentures, Diamond Studs, Diamond Rings and Chains, and all diseases that enter in the blood. It is now the greatest property of imparting a fair complexion and causing the body to glow in health.

Its value cannot be too strongly impressed upon the attention of those who have been exposed to a course of purgative medicine. The afflicted are assured that this is not one of the worthless nostrums of the day, but is prepared upon scientific principles, by a physician of thirty years' experience. Sold everywhere.

DAILY EXPRESS CITY NEWS

TUESDAY MORNING, June 29th, 1876.

CITY AND COUNTRY DOTS.

Lots of freight yesterday.

The ladies of the Episcopal Church did well with their two lunches last week.

Mr. Barr, of Boone, writes us that crops in the vicinity of that village are looking finely.

The case of John A. Wheeler, colored, who is charged with murder, will be tried in the District Court this morning.

The measles are troubling the Boone citizens, but are not fatal in their effects under the efficient treatment of Dr. West.

Mrs. Norris, our postmistress, has rented the house of Dr. M. Slocum, where she will spend the summer. It is a delightful place.

Mr. J. Arney Knox, of Houston, who has been on a trip to the interior, both for business and health, has returned to the city.

Gen. D. Y. Fortis and ex-Senator Dwyer will leave on Thursday morning next for St. Louis, to attend the National Democratic Convention.

Gen. Jno. R. Taylor is again seen on our streets, and expresses his approval of the Express in relation to the present unhappy condition of affairs in this State.

Dr. Madd, of Sanmar, always remembers the EXPRESS office when he drives his wagon, loaded down with fine vegetables, through the streets of San Antonio.

The ladies and friends of the Methodist Mission Church of Rev. Mr. Woolis are about to form an association, and give some entertainments, for the benefit of that Mission.

Mr. J. E. Labatt, who was an unfortunate as to kill Mr. Alfred in a recent fight, and who has just been bailed, is very ill at his home, and suffering great mental depression.

Our last was a very mild winter, and it seems as though the summer season is going to be mild also. It is remarkable that we have had the most pleasant summer, thus far, ever known.

The colored people of San Antonio and the region round about, are making arrangements for a grand Centennial celebration of the Fourth of July at the San Pedro Springs.

The county jail is said to be in a most filthy state. Attorneys have the recalcitancy brought to the court room to interview them on account of the sickening stench.

A couple of disorderly men made things extremely disagreeable in the vicinity of the Brackett-House Sunday night. Long calls before the police responded.

On His Majesty, Mr. Fritz Schreiner won the distinction of "The Champion of the Alamo," by flooring Rigal, the wrestler, the best two out of three, at the Alamo Hall Sunday evening.

Another heavy rain Sunday night, and all plants appear to have been enlivened and invigorated thereby. This season has been a peculiarly favorable one to agriculturalists. Farmers will find that their crops grow in indications of a heavy yield.

We have reliable news, from those who are most intimately acquainted with the affairs and intentions of Col. Pease, that he intends to push his road forward as already promised, and to be able to ride into San Antonio to a Christmas dinner on the cars.

A few days ago, some parties ordered a cation of this county to leave, giving him a certain time. The unauthorized demand reached District Attorney Anderson's ears, and he had the parties to the sheriff's care, and he has the parties to the sheriff's care, and he has the parties to the sheriff's care.

The telegraphic instructions of this date direct the commanding officer District of the Rio Grande to order Second Lieutenant M. C. Wassel, 21st Infantry, and Acting Assistant Surgeon A. L. Bullington, U. S. Army, to this city, as witnesses before General Court-Martial, have been admitted.

Persons suffering with headaches, pains in the stomach and mental heaviness from Sunday bunnings and liquor drinking, and the cool shades bordering the river surrounding Waltra's Central Garden good places to recuperate in on Monday. We judge by what we see.

Prisoners.—A man by the name of John Wood, charged with forgery in this county, was arrested by the Sheriff of Hays a few days ago, and held. Officer Cardenas went over after his prisoner, and returned with him Sunday evening. He has been identified here as the accused, and now rests in jail.

We notice that a movement is being made toward placing gas lamps on upper Flores Street. One lamp has already been lighted at the corner of the alley just above Mrs. Hewitt's place, which is of great benefit, and we hope the whole street will soon be lighted. This street, beautiful by day, dark and humid by night, has been strangely neglected.

As there seems to have been no arrangement effected by the several societies of the city for the Centennial celebration of the Fourth of July, a movement among the citizens for that purpose is spoken of. We hope it will succeed, and that San Antonio will not allow this day, the like of which we have never seen before, and shall never see again, to pass by without proper observance and honor.

Mr. Geo. M. Gordon of this city is State Agent for the sale of the "Principles and Acts of the Revolution," a centennial offering, and dedicated to the young men of the United States, by the late Horatio Niles. The book is full of the purest reading, is highly instructive, and is most freely recommended to public favor by the great men of America.

A PROPOSED WOOLLEN FACTORY

We met yesterday Mr. W. P. James and W. H. Holbrook, the former of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, the latter from St. Louis. Mainly through the influence of Dr. W. G. Kingsbury, our Immigration Agent, and the Express, these gentlemen have been induced to visit San Antonio with the view of undertaking to organize a joint stock company, to assist them in removing their manufacturing machinery from Lawrenceburg here, to establish a woolen manufactory in San Antonio. Mr. James has a complete and full-fledged woolen factory at Lawrenceburg, where he has been engaged in manufacturing woolen goods for many years.

His attention was directed to San Antonio for two particular reasons, viz: Because of the superior water power of our river, and on account of our cheap wool market. The difference in the price of wool between this market and where Mr. James has been accustomed to purchasing is about 60 per cent.

He has with him numerous specimens of very fine woolen goods, cassimeres, &c., manufactured by himself at Lawrenceburg. These can be seen at Maj. Teel's office.

An inspection of our river, and an examination into the extra facilities our wool market affords to manufacturers, cannot but satisfy these gentlemen that they have struck on the right place in coming to San Antonio to establish a woolen manufactory. Let them receive encouragement.

PERSONAL.—Gen. W. B. Knox, the popular and efficient Sheriff of Bexar county, has returned from a visit to Austin.

Messrs. W. W. Saxton, H. F. Leggett, and L. M. Crandol, officers of the U. S. Army, are in the city, quartered at the Menger.

The mother and an older brother of the late Mr. J. C. Alfred, have arrived. The father and a younger brother are also expected to arrive the present week.

Capt. N. Prims, of the U. S. Army, who was at one time commander at this post, and who has many friends and acquaintances here, returned to the city Sunday night.

J. M. B. Lawton, Esq., of the Pecosan Stock Journal, found his way to our office last evening. He tells the same old story about Pleasanton—that it is constantly improving, and gives a report in regard to crops similar to those which come from all other directions—that they are very fine.

Mr. Louis Girard, who has been out West on a tour of survey, has again arrived in the city. Louis is an energetic and hardworking young man, and is justly rising in public estimation. He will rank among the very best of engineers very soon. We wish him unlimited success.

Shot.—A man by the name of James Reed, who lives near Rockport, arrived in the city last night with a bullet wound through one of his arms, and stopped at the Central Hotel. Mr. Reed states that while on his way to San Antonio from Pleasanton, and about fourteen miles this side of that place, two men came galloping up behind him. He ordered them to halt and asked them what they wanted. The men roared that they did not intend to hurt him, and that they were in search of a man who was bound "for San Antonio," one of the men remarked that they were going that way. Reed had a negro man accompanying him. After riding along some distance, the men asked Reed what his name was. On being told, they drew their revolvers upon him and fired. When Reed saw their game, he threw himself upon the side of his horse just in time to save himself from being shot through the body, as one of the balls struck his saddle and glanced, giving him the wound in his arm, which he bears. He had his pistol also in hand by this time, and the men, seeing that he was not going to surrender, thereupon left him in a hurry. Reed's horse was also slightly wounded. The negro man very considerably put up his horse when the men drew their weapons, and left. The two men who made the attack were not recognized by Reed.

There will be no less than a half-dozen societies and organizations which will celebrate the fourth of July distinctly and independently of each other. The Fire Department will have an oration, reading of the Declaration of Independence, &c.; the Alamo Rifles will parade, have a lunch and ball; the Casino and Turner Associations will give balls on the evening of the fourth, and so on. How much better would it have been had all these organizations united on the Centennial Fourth, and given one grand celebration in which all could participate!

Since the late rains, the fig trees of this city and vicinity are bearing abundantly, and the figs are ripening. But the birds are so numerous in the abundant foliage of the numerous trees that they get all the best ones. It is strange that the fig tree is not more cultivated in San Antonio, and also strange that the fig trees are not watered in dry weather. One or two good waterings will quadruple the number of figs, and if watering is kept up, the trees will bear all the season.

As will be seen by advertisement in today's paper, Messrs. Hensuit & Valley proprietors of the Green Bar Rooms, have closed their theatrical performances for the summer. The saloon is now free to all, and the same Hensuit and Valley will be reopened with a better troupe of first-class performers.

BRACKETT ITEMS.

BRACKETT, June 16, 1876. We have had God-sends in the way of rains. The country is as green and beautiful as a picture.

Brackett will sail for Philadelphia, our harbor left here bound for the Centennial.

Judge Brackett has left for good; he moved down on the 14th. Castroville has made an acquisition in the Judge.

We are having lovely weather—we have splendid bathing places, and in fact everything we want—we are happy.

A Mexican Circus is performing here. It is a humbug, as is invariably the case with them; it is hoped it will soon starve out.

A large party of ladies and gentlemen will leave in a few days for Devil's river on a pleasure excursion, to be gone about ten days.

All the past week our Justice has been very busy dealing out law and justice, and helping the county out of debt.

"It is better to be born lucky than rich," is what an ex-lay-contractor was heard to exclaim on witnessing the glorious effects of the late rains.

The horse-thieves have granted us "King's X" for a spell and we can turn our horses out on the grass with an expectation of seeing them at night.

Messrs. Fitter, Murphy & Holmes have 2500 acres of the finest farming land in the country, twenty miles southwest of here, on the Rio Grande and Piedra Pintas by a ditch which has been dug for the purpose. More than eight hundred acres have been planted this year in corn.

Our County Judge, J. F. Robinson, had quite a mishap a day or two ago which came very near proving a very serious affair; his gun exploded while in the act of shooting, the powder getting into his eyes, blinding him entirely for a time. Although he keeps one of his eyes bandaged, it is not injured, only inflamed a little. Look out next time, Judge.

A certain Deputy U. S. Marshal who came here with the hypothesis that the people in this country were a set of unfortunate fools, got on a bit of "lar," probably to show, for charity's sake, the poor people some sense. He vividly impressed our Justice with the idea that he had "blundered" $250 worth, and costs. But he wanted to show the people one more trick, and so that night between the hours of 12 and 1 he made his departure without paying his fine and other debts he had made while here. But our efficient Sheriff to show that he had taught the people more than he had any idea of, immediately telegraphed to the Sheriff of Uvalde to forward papers. He was arrested, and as he had more wits than money, he had to give up to our Deputy Sheriff his horse and saddle to satisfy his fine and costs. Oh! Mr. Kelly, we poor people are suffering for your presence!

DIXIE.

BORMON, HOLMES & CO. IN THEIR NEW QUARTERS NEAR THE COMMERCE STREET BRIDGE.

The business of the branch house in this city of the well known Piano manufacturers and dealers, Dorman, Holmes & Co., has increased so rapidly that Mr. G. D. Jackson, the manager, was compelled to move into more commodious quarters which he found in the new building one door west of the Commerce street bridge. Samples of the splendid pianos manufactured by this firm, and others that they are agents for, are now on exhibition at their new place, and the public is respectfully invited to call and examine them. By fair and liberal dealing, combined with the excellence of their pianos, Dorman, Holmes & Co. have built up a large and lucrative trade in other parts of the State, and will secure a rapidly increasing business here. Call and get prices, terms, &c.

HELP OR WE PERISH

This is what neglected teeth would say if they could communicate with their owners and mark this, the teeth cannot perish or become black or yellow if the Sodont is used daily.

Johnson's Anodyne Lintment may be used to advantage where any Lintment is desirable. In cases of severe cramps and pains in the stomach, it is undoubtedly the best article that can be used internally. Habitual constipation leads to the following results: Inflammation of the kidneys, sick and nervous headaches, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, loss of appetite and strength; all of which may be avoided by being regular in your habits, and taking, say one of Parson's Purgative Pills nightly for four or six weeks.
