TUESDAY MORNING, August 9th, 1876. "DISGUSTED WITH COKE AND THE LEGISLATURE."

A writer from Galind gives an account in the Galveston News of the proceedings of the "Regulators" in that county, and then proceeds to say that "the people of this western country are disgusted with the present Governor and Legislature. They will hail with joy the day that they get rid of Gov. Coke. The people are almost unanimous in saying that he is the worst Governor the State ever had. He has opposed every measure that has been presented in the interests of the people. He has favored the lawless element.

The people of this country are in accord with the News in the stand it has taken in favor of law and order. All are of the opinion that if the policy that you advocated was adopted this country would not be overrun by lawless men—there would be peace from the Sabine to the Rio Grande. There is general stagnation in all branches of business, on account of the unsettled state of affairs. The people are overworked and they do not know what to do, and unless relief comes soon, many will leave. Unless the government does something for them, much blood will be spent, and good citizens will suffer.

Of the recent action of the "Regulators" he says: This country was visited by the regulators on Saturday last. They arrested Mr. Will. B. Blandine, whose name is in the news, but he got away by some cunning and his name is not in the news. They treated him, and his case is in the hands of the law. He then broke and ran, they after him. They followed him for several miles, and fired on him a number of times without effect. He finally reached the brush and escaped. They followed another young man, by the name of Evans, west of San Antonio thirty miles. He also escaped. About thirty of them came into town at five o'clock, got provisions and then left. There were two young men in town at the time that they were after, but they got out of the way until the regulators left, and at eight o'clock p. m. they got out. It was reported to town to-day that there were between two and three hundred of the regulators. They guarded all the crossings of the San Antonio river Saturday night.

The writer then says that the citizens are considerably exercised on account of the state of affairs. The country has been overrun by lawless men recently and no effort made to put a stop to it. The fair name of Galind has been trampled by such men. The best citizens in the country say that it is the fault of the officers, who have not done their duty. Hence the citizens had to turn out for self protection and drive those men out of the country. They say that they have been driven to do this, as the State will not provide a remedy.

RITUALISM IN ENGLAND. The London Standard of July 14 says: "Lord Penzance had before him yesterday, at Lambeth Palace, as Dean of Arches, the second suit under the public worship regulations act, 'Hudson and others against Rev. Arthur Tooth,' for ritualistic practices at St. James' Hatcham. The counsel retained on behalf of the complainants, three of the parishioners of St. James' Hatcham, of which Mr. Tooth is the vicar, were Dr. Stephens, Q. C., Mr. B. Shaw, and Mr. Blakeley. The defendant had not appeared to the proceedings. The representations under the act which had been filed and served on the defendant set forth that on Sunday, the 19th of December last, and on Sunday, the 19th of January, he had a procession immediately before the communion service with lighted candles and a crucifix. Mr. Tooth, in the procession, wore a surplice, and had a stole, amice and chasuble, and had a wreath on his head; two candles were placed on a table at the side of the chancel, and on the conclusion of the service were lighted in the same manner. Similar processions had taken place. They were eighteen charges in the articles on illegal vestments, using incense, having a mixed choir, adopting the eastward position, having his back to the congregation, kneeling during the prayer of consecration, using water bread, making the sign of the cross, having the hymn 'Agnus Dei' ('O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world'), sung, partaking of the sacrament when less than three persons were present, having a great bell tolled during the communion service, with having lighted candles held by persons in surplices and with wearing a belt, and with having images near the communion table. Further, that since the consecration he has used a large crucifix in the nave, near the pulpit, and has had a second communion table. The representations, in which the charges were stated had been signed by Mr. Hudson, Mr. Gardner, and Mr. Gunton, three of the parishioners. The defendant, at the commencement of the case, was called, but did not respond. After some preliminaries the case was proceeded with. Several witnesses were called by Mr. Shaw in support of the charges contained in the representations. One of the witnesses, who was an inhabitant of St. James' Hatcham, said he had obtained from going to the parish church, on account of the extraordinary proceedings which had been carried on therein by Mr. Tooth. Lord Penzance, on the conclusion of the evidence said he should reserve his judgment.

LAMAR AND GARFIELD. These two champions of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively crossed swords a few days since in true knightly style. Mr. Lamar made a great speech in criticism of the Republican administration, and in vindication of the loyalty of the Southern people. But, nevertheless, it was made in the interest of Mr. Tilden in the Presidential canvass. Mr. Lamar's line was set, but was extended on motion of Mr. Garfield. Then Mr. Garfield replied to him, and the spirit of courtesy and friendship exhibited by these two champions of the opposing parties should be imitated by the Republicans and Democrats throughout the country.

The telegraphic report says that Mr. Garfield made a great speech on politics. He expressed regret that he had not seen Mr. Lamar's speech in the Record, but still it had been so clear and so logically connected, that he could scarcely err on commenting on it. The speech, as an earnest attempt to make progress in the direction to return to good feeling, had his (Garfield's) earnestest commendation. The gentleman has complained of two great evils and obstacles to reform; first, the generally corrupt state of public administration; and, second, the seriously corrupt state of civil service. He had contended that the corrupt state of affairs was buttressed and consolidated by an enormous army of 100,000 office-holders and 100,000 expectants of office.

The deduction of the speech was that the Republican party was incapable of effecting the great reform needed, and that the Democratic party ought to be brought into power the coming election. This had been the main logic of the speech. Mr. Garfield admitted that some of the premises of the speech were correct, but with most of them he could not consent. Admitting that all the premises were correct, he denied that the conclusion was logical. He (Garfield) should attempt to show that the good which he (Lamar) sought was not to be secured by the ascendancy of the Democratic party. He had noticed one striking omission in the logic of the speech, and that was that it made no attempt to prove the fitness of the Democracy to accomplish needed reform, and without that proof the argument must be an absolute failure.

He spoke over two hours. At the close of his effort, prominent among the members who offered him congratulations was Mr. Lamar himself.

A student of the law, who has just returned from St. Louis, has reported that a number of cases of yellow fever, have broken out in the Bayou City. It is said as much as the others of the Houston papers were some time back, and that the epidemic is in the city.

We have been thinking of publishing a directory of the names of the persons who have been elected to the various offices of the city, for the year 1876. It is a list of names, and is published in the Houston Express.

Col. Johnson, representing the interests of the Alabama Gold Life Assurance Company in this city, paid, on the 4th instant, to the administrator of the estate of the late A. J. Both Blossom, on Sunday night between twelve and one o'clock, the shrill scream of a lady in one of the rooms at the Vance House suddenly started people from their slumbers. Mrs. Tobin, whose room adjoined that of the lady spoken of, immediately ran in to see what was the matter, and found that two negro boys employed at the hotel were in the lady's room. One of them crawled under the bed, and the other attempted to escape when Mrs. Tobin entered, but she sprang at him, seizing him by the strap which buckled his pantaloons about him. This negro's name was Harvey, the other one was Charles Robinson, who raised in this city, and for a long while have been in Capt. Tobin's employ. When Mrs. Tobin caught Harvey, he struck at her and used all his power to elude her grasp, but she held him firmly until the strap broke loose and he ran away leaving the strap and buckle in Mrs. Tobin's hands. The other boy had also by this time escaped by a window from the room, and had not been seen or heard of since.

Capt. Tobin, who sleeps upon the roof of the hotel (the weather) was awakened by the noise, and in a moment, was upon the scene. But the negroes were gone, and they had taken $25 in silver, and a necklace worth about $60, besides other jewelry, with them. The Captain, however, thought they would return for their clothes, etc., and he left behind them, and so kept a watch. Since about about 3 o'clock, when Harvey, who boldly and audaciously met Mr. Tobin and spoke to him. The Captain asked Harvey where he had been, and if he had been in the hotel that night since supper, all which questions were satisfactorily answered by the young rascal. Finally, a banner was put through the Captain: "Have you a buckle on your pants, Harvey?"

The negro replied: "Turn around and let me see," said the Captain. Harvey, who, as directed, put on a buckle and there was the Captain. Then he caught the boy young scoundrel, telling him to sit down a moment. He sat down. Mr. Mayes of Kentucky, a guest at the Vance House, was present at the capture. The Captain, thereupon, detained Mr. Mayes as a guard, and after preparing to give the boy a thrashing, before taking him over to the officers of the county, started off from the hotel with him. Mr. Mayes followed, and as the Captain considered himself man enough for the emergency, turned to tell Mr. Mayes that his services were not further needed, when the boy took advantage of the opportunity and fled.

The Captain ran after him, as did Mr. Mayes, whose services were now again suddenly called into requisition, but the boy was light of foot, and was not far from getting far out of sight of his pursuers.

It is said that the boy had been playing truant for several days past, the Captain says, but never did moral reprove him, he did elude vengeance and the law. Despite all efforts to detect the rascal, he has not been seen since he left the hotel.

Capt. Tobin thinks these darkies have been robbing from the hotel for some time, as many things were missing, but he never reported suspicion upon them until he saw the boy take advantage of the opportunity and flee.

The pedlar, Swars, who was supposed to have been killed by the Indians, has been heard from.

C. C. Meyer, formerly a Lutheran Minister of this city, but more recently engaged in school teaching for a livelihood, delivered a sermon yesterday. He will be in the city on the 30th.

We observe that Ernest Street, in the grade, is due to the great satisfaction of Mr. Henry Radz, and other dealers upon that thoroughfare, the middle of the city during rainy weather.

The shoemaker at Billing's shoe shop jumped on a ladder yesterday evening, when he is, fight ensued. The sympathy in the case was against the intruder, who will appear today before one of our justices on the charge of battery.

Military Matters.—The Judge Advocate of the General Court Martial instituted in this city per Special Order No. 114, current series, Headquarters of the Army, Adjutant General's Office, having reported that the services of Second Lieutenant H. C. Wessell, 24th Infantry, and Acting Surgeon A. L. Bufington, U. S. Army, are no longer required by the Court, they will return to Ringgold Barracks, Texas, reporting together to the commanding officer of the post.

Post Chaplain B. L. Baldridge, U. S. Army, having reported at these Headquarters in compliance with instructions from the Adjutant General's office, dated June 20, 1876, will proceed to Fort Richardson, Texas, reporting on his arrival to the post commander for duty as post chaplain.

Visitors this Fall.—The indications are that a larger number of persons will visit this city during the coming fall, than ever before, some prospecting, looking for homes in Western Texas, and others coming merely for the good of their health.

In view of this, it behooves our hotel keepers to make timely preparations to accommodate the persons who may arrive. A few hotels and boarding houses, as at present, can not accommodate over three hundred persons, while double that number will probably be required to meet the needs of visitors threatening to pour in upon us from all directions, commencing in a few weeks.

The Menger Hotel, we learn, is preparing to extend its accommodations. The number of guests at this hotel will fall and winter, so probably, will be increased to 500, or more, if the season is so good.
