AN ENGLISH VIEW OF "ELEC. TIONEERING" IN AM-PARTHERICA, TEOMT WO

The London Saturday Review is inclined to claim superiority for its they conduct their political contests as compared with our people. In the Review of a recent date there is a leading editorial article on "elec-tioneering in America," from which the following paragraph is taken:

In one respect Englishmen may perhaps, without nadue presumption, claim to be in advance of Americans. It is not the custom in this country to vilify the private character of political opponents. The chief Republican paper of New York has, since the nomination of Mr. Tilden as Democratic candidate, York has, since the nomination of reckless men, one in all probability Mr. Tilden as Democratic candidate, fatally wounded, and the sharp ruse devoted its efforts mainly to allega, which in all likelihood foiled their entions that he is not only a political delinquent, but a perjarer, a swindler and a se-called railway wrecker."

It may be conjectured that neither the two who came this way have friends nor enemies believe accusations which are simp parent to the most obtuse of American journalists that the chosen candidate of one-falf of the nation in some degree represents the character and dignity of the Republic. Mr. Tilden is supported by the character and dignity of the Republic. Mr. Tilden is supported by the character and dignity of the Republic. He. Mr. Tilden is supported by millions of partisans, including a certain number of well known and respectable upblic man. respectable public men. The proof would only convince the world that A SPIDER CAPTURES A infamy was no impediment to the highest promotion in the United States. In the not improbable

STOKES IN AUBURN PRISON.

[Auburn Letter to the Syracuse Courier.]

Stokes occupies the same numbered cell (58) that he did at Sing-Sing—"up one flight." The principal articles of furniture preceptable to a reporter, who had just time to peep in, were a tooth brush, an empty troche box, a hospital time cup, half of a wooden shoving cup and his little iron adjustable hed. The cell is clean, and, unlike others, is well perfumed. Stokes is yet an object of interest to all visitors at the prison, yet the only chance one has of getting sight of him is at meal time; then, if you are smart enough to single him out of 1,300, or 400 as they pass by, you are lucky. There are very few persons whom he will see. Warden Durston is very fair to him, but he grants him no favors that he would not grant other prisoners. The Warden Joseph and the prison of the little animal was held quite firmily by several fibres of a spider's web attached to a piece of hose suspended above. This leg was drawn up from the bottom of the cellar, and with other three legs the animal was acratching to free himself. The apider—not a very large one—was busy in multiplying the fastenings and in making everything more secure. This gentleman took precautions to leave the animal and in making everything more secure. This gentleman took precautions to leave the animal and insect undisturbed and watched the progress of this curious exhibition of engineering. The next day the spider had extended its web to the other legs of the mouse, which was alive, but much weakened, possibly from the bite of the insect. Finally the mouse died. The engineering progressed until the spider had extended its web to the other legs of the mouse died. The engineering progressed until the spider had extended its web to the other legs of the mouse died. The engineering progressed until the spider had extended to a piece of hose suspended above. idea being to treat all criminals alike. Stokes still has an eye to keeping himself in order. He wears a suit gotten up for himself of a little better quality than the other prisoners. It is the same atriped material, but the jacket is a little loager than the regulation, and his cap is made big enough to draw down over his eyes in case there is an opportunity of his being singled out on any occasion, his

A singular accident once happened to the late Mr. Brunel, the celebrated engineer. Mr, Brunel, while performing a conjuring trick for the nusement of some children, allowed a half sovereign to slip into his throat (not his windpipe), when it remained immovable. A surgeon was sent for, who at once pronounced it an impossibility to remove the obstacle by any of the ordinary means. He opened a passage in his gallet, through which Mr. Brunel might be fed, and told his patient that a couch must be constructed on which he might be securely tastened face downward and then be lifted up, feet upper most, and brought up suddenly with a jerk on reaching the perpendicular position, Mr. Brunel entered into the plan with his usual energy, and devised and made a sketch of the machine for the upholsterer. While it was being made the patient was kept quiet, and fed through the aperature. Several days elapsed. and then, on being placed on the couch, and treated in the way intended, the shock caused by the sudden stoppage when tilted up with the head downward, relaxed for an instant the muscles which held the coin, and it fell against

[ From the Milwankse Wisconsus-A much beloved lady of this city, who has gone West to live with her son in Eden, Liucoln County, South eastern Dakota, writes to a friend here, giving some, personal knowledge of the whereabouts of the two Northfield bank robbers, supposed to be the James brothers, whose hiding place has not yet been discovered. Evidently the excitement extended all over the wilds of the Western country. IDLI

An interesting account is given of the last appearance of the two raged pursuars at last. The letter is dated September 24: "The four who went north have been taken, but the two who came this way have not yet been captured. It is supposed that one of them was a James nied by their teachers. tions which are simply incredible; but the repetition of the grossest charges seems to produce neither surprise nor indignation.

At the last general election in Ragland Mr. Gladatone and Mr. Disraeli were rival candidates for an office of equal importance with the American Presidency. It never occurred to the opponents of either party lender to charge him with vulgar felony or misdemeanor. It will perhaps hereafter become apsed that one of them was a James of a Norwegian, slept some hours, got their breakfast, gave the man 55 and went off. Their host gave it we his opinion afterwards that the wounded man could not live, but STAR OIL) STAR OIL STAR OIL The STAR OIL is the only double distilled and refined illuminating oil, and contains no dangerous substances which may cause explosion, as other oil sold in this market. The Chemists, Mesers, George H. Kalteyer, A. Nette, Ed. Dreiss, and Theo. Odet, pronounce the STAR OIL 12 degrees better than any other oil in this market. Every case is carefully examined by the Chemist, Mr. Geo. if. Kalteyer, and bears his certificate. All Insurance Agents recommend the STAR OIL as being the safest illuminating oil sold.

We also keep in stock several other brands of Oil, but can give no guaranty as to quality, and offer them at much lower figures, namely:
