SUNDAY MORNING Dec. 3d, 1876.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Globe Democrat: "We are neked to define the difference, as we understand it, between the ineligibility of a Republican Elector in Vermont and that of Gen. Frost in Missouri It is this: The Vermont Elector is ineligible because he holds an office under the Government, but his incligibility can be removed by the resignation of his office. Gen. Frost is rendered ineligible by the Fourteenth Amendment, and his ineligibility can be removed only by a two-thirds vote of each House of Congrees; if he could score this between new and the meeting of the Missouri Electors on Wednesday, he would be eligible. But we are serry to say that he cau't." One by one the disqualified Electors are dropping out, and leaving the field clear for a reduced Electoral College. A partyby the name of Glenn, in North Carolina, aspired to a place on the Electoral ticket, and, though largely voted for, he will not vote for Tilden because he is a Commissioner under the Southern claims, act. Mr. Glenn and Gen. Frost will condole with each other. - Ib.

Omaha Herald: "Suppose that the honest election of Tilden is proved, and an a tempt should be made to count in Hayes by one majority in the Electoral College, we hold it to be probable that more than one Republican elector elect will step forward and vindicate the right of the American people and secure the peace and safety of the country. There are men in this country who have the conscience and the courage to do this very thirg, and we have little doubt that it will be done if the conditions of the case as we have here outlined shall arise and make it necessary.

The St. Louis Times of the 27th has the following paragraph : A special dispatch from Columbus to the Ciccianati Gugitrer last evening reports the withdrawal of Gov. Hayes from the presidential contest as extremely probable, if not already determined on. It is said that this action has been induced by the advice of Senator Sherman, who is satisfied that gross frauds have been attempted by the Louisiana Returning Board, rendering it inappropriate for Hayes to accept the electoral vote of that State, even if he should be counted in by the returns. The report is not confirmeri, but it is stated on what seems to be reliable authority and with a circumstantiality that gives it the likelihoot of Inter-Ocean : "We regret the complications in South Carolina, for the novitable result seems turbulence and strife in the local affirs of the State; and such disturbances, in the face of the grave complications which have arisen in national affairs, but add to the general apprehension already too widely felt. When we get the full particulars of the situation, we may be able to better determine the relative claims of the two partice, and show more decidedly the justice of the course pursued by the board. Meantime we have great confidence that our friends there have done and will do nothing which they cannot successfully defend before the bar of righteons public opin-

Tribune: A new fron-clad cath will have to be framed, to be administered hereafter to the Southern delagations in national Democratic conventions, pledging them not to ignore the national ticket in their State contests. Fresh confirmation of Southern undifference to Mr. Tilden's fate comes from the observations of Chief Justice Carter, given in our Washington d spatches. His statement that Wade Hampton is said by Judge Mackey to have mentioned the presidential ques tion only once in a tour of the whole State, and then in a semi-declaration for Hayes, is interesting in view of the fact that at St. Louis the vote of South Caroling was cast solidly for Tilden.

POVERTY OF THE POPE -The hard times which are no respecters of persons, have atruck the Pope, also, and his chronic ecuniosity of the past few years has taken an acute form. QUAIL ON TOASE,

The Imperial Academy of Sciences at Vicona has taken up a question in which all the world may be said to be interested -namely, the decrease of the quantity of water in springs, streams and rivers. A circular, accompanied by an able and in structive report, has been addressed toscientific societies in order that they may be persuaded to take observations, which, in course of time, may furnish data for practical use. The academy calls attention to the fact that for some years past a diminution of the waters of the Danube and other great rivers has been noticed and especially since the modern practice of cutting down torests without regard to consequences has prevailed. The Austrian Engineers' and Architects' Union have also taken the question in hand, and appointed a "hydrotechinic committee" to collect facts and prepare a report. The Danube, the Elbe and the Rhine were each assigned to two members, while the other two were to examine into the meteerology of the subject, and into The influence which glaciers and Alpine torrents may have on the general result. The commit tee regard the question as urgent; they resommend the immediate adoption of remedial measures, and they are unantumous in declaring that the prime cause of the injurious decrease of water is the devastation of forests. It cannot be too strongly impressed upon all in the United Kingdom that the system of injudicious drainage of agricultural districts has seriously interferred with the natural condition of all our rivers.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT

Probably there is no complaint that affects the human system, which is so little understood at the present time, as some of the varied forms of Kidney Complaints.

There is no disease which causes such acute pain or more alarming in its results than when the kidneys fail to secrets from the blood the uric acid, and other poison-ous substances, which the blood accumulates in its circulation through the system.

If from any cause the kidneys fail to perform the functions devolving upon them. the cumulations are taken up by the abof disease, causing great pain and suffer-ing, and very often indicate death. Hence the importance of keeping the kidneys and blood in a healthy condition, through which all the impurities of the body must

There is no remedy known to bedien science which has proved is if more valuable in cases of Kidney Complaints than the VEGETINE. It acts directly upon the secretions, cleanses and purfice the blood, and restores the whole system to healthy action.

The following extraordinary cure of great sufferers who had been given up by the best physicians as hopeless cases wil speak for themselves, and should challenge the most profound attention of the medical faculty, as well as of these who are suffering from Kidney Complaint.

THE BEST MEDICINE.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug. 22, 1870, MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir-I am seventy one years of age; have suffered many years with Kidney Complaint, weakness in my back and stomach. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and I of the Kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never tound so much relief to the kidneys I ever used. I have tried many remedies for this complaint, and never tound so much relief to the kidneys I ever used. VEGETINE. It strengthens and ates the whole system. Many of quaintances have taken it, and I believe to be good for all the complaints for which it is recommended.

from the use of VEGETINE, and to benefit others, I will state:—

When eight or nine years old I was afflicted with Scrofula, which made its appearance in my eyes, face and head, and I was very near blind for two years.

All kinds of operations were performed on my eyes, and all to no good result. Finally the disease principally settled in my body, limbs, and feet, and at times in an aggravated way.

Last Summer I was from some cause weak in my spine and kidneys, and it was at times very hard fo retain my urine. Seeing your advertisement in the Com-

Seeing your advertisement in the Commercial, I bought a bottle of VEGETINE and commenced using according to direc-tions. In two or three days I obtained great relief. After using four or five bottles I noticed it had a wonderful effect on the rough, scaly blotches on my body and legs. I still used VEGETINE and the humorous sores one after another disap-peared until they were all gone, and I attribute the cure of the two diseases to VEGETINE, and nothing else.

If I am ever affected with any thing of the kind again I shall try VEGETINE as the only reliable remedy.
Once more accept my thanks, and believe me to be, Very respectfully.

LACORDAIRE. [From the Contemporary Review.] We know his life. A young man describing himself in after ten days as one whose eyes had been bandaged; whose bandage, gradually falling away, reveals to him glimpses ot light, till, being removed altogether, he finds himself face to face with the sun, the voice of Lamme. nais calls him from the dream of unbelief and .of freedom to the supposed realities of faith and of liber. ty. With his friend, be hails the revolution of July as the dawn of better days, when religio, freed from the chains of State, shall reign in spiritual supremacy, and cele-brate its triumph in a liberated hierarchy. As a priest, he will raise the dogma to a place of honor by striking off its fetters; as a liberal, he will attempt to recoucile Democracy and Catholicism. In the midst of his high ambitions be hears the voice of censure from Lome. He submits, and while remaining an "impenitent Liberal" becomes a "penitent Catholic." His career as an orator reached its climax in the conlerences of the Notre Dame. The yer?' asked Old Si. domain where the preacher loved to dwell was the borderland of religion and philosophy. In that wide, somewhat vague region between beaven and earth, the preacher breathed freely, never forgetting, when he soared to the clouds, the earth which he had left behind; ever remembering, when he stood on the ain't foun' out dat de dimmy crat ground, the sky which stretched rooster has lick't de 'publican crow out above him. One time he invokel phylosophy, then he appealed to United States ?' history; now he came forward as the preacher of a wide morality, dis cussing those general principles which should be the theme of the dimmycrats runs dem roosters up pulpit, and merely enumerating du. dar on de papah fer a sign dat de ties; then he discussed questions 'publican niggers mus' buckle down which belouged especialy to Christ ianity; now he became the interpred offen de hen ropses; now yer see ter of society, of the individual in what de finger-board means.' bls doubts, struggles, aspirations; then be made heard the voice of the Church, of that Divine authority which will guide men amid the bewilderments of life and lead them be. And while his imagination opens up to men the horizon of the ideal, he throws himself, so to speak, upon his audieuce. His firm hand sweeps across the strings of their heartshearts which, it may be, had not vibrated to any touch since the days when the little child knelt at its mother's knee-and the silent strings, which seemed doomed to break without so much as a sigh, break forth once more into music. For this passionate Dominican, in his picturesque garb, is very human. He knows what it is to wrestle, to weep, to suffer, to pray, to triumph, to rejoice; he knows what it is to fear, to hope, to believe, to love; he understands what it is to be 'troubled on every side, yet not distressed; to be perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed. His wounds are now healed, but the scars remain. Hence, 'who is weak, and he is not weak I who is offended, and he burns not? His experience makes him gentle, full of tenderness and of sympathy; let others preach damnation, he will proclaim salvation; let others command, he is willing to beseech men. And the result is, that, dazzled as men are by the marvels of his imagination and carried away by his poetry. they continue to bear, when the effects of these have passed away, that 'still small voice' which murmurs in broken accents of a 'Paradise lost' to point to a 'Paradise regained.' There seems as limits to his sympathy. In his wide treatment of the great general questions which he invariably discussed, and to which the pulpit should chiefly confine itself, he showed an ardent desire to understand his age and to sympathize with it. Striking the key note that Christianity is the foundation on which the life of societies and of individuals must be bailt, and indeavoring to show in every way, with a zeal worthy of a better cause, that the rock on which is to rest in order to insure its safe ty and progress to be found in the doctrines of Catholicism, he was at the same time the enthusiastic defender of liberty, and the opponent of every form of despotism, either ecclesiastical or political. His eloquence brought the world to the hurch's altar; he kept it there for brief moment; was it possible to
