San Antonio. A BRIEF REVIEW OF THE CITY'S PROGRESS THE PAST YEAR.

Look back a year from to-day, and what were the hopes of San Anisohlo,what her future prospects-what the feelings of her citizens? San Antonio one year ago, was not very different from the San Antonio of ten years past. Her or to 14 Market street. citizens had voted subsidies time and again to induce railroad magnates to interest themselves in bringing us a railroad, as the first step toward breaking our bonds of isolation, reviving business in general, and awakening people from their state of depression and lethargy. Our business men have labored with zeal and effect, and have succeeded in inducing Col. T. W. Peirce to extend the main line of his road to our city. The cars will cross the Cibolo creek, fourteen miles east of San Antonio, this week, and, with 1000 hands accelerating their progress, marches on toward the Alamo City, to invade it by the first of next February.

This glorious consummation of the past year, or rather six months, has had a great effect upon San Antenio. The presence of the railroad almost at our very doors has not only aroused our own people from beds of torpor, but is bringing many good and energetic citizens

All men are busy, mechanica, and laborers of all kinds, have their hands full. The Government Depot, commenced constructing a few months ago, under those energetic contractors, Braden and Angus, is nearing completion. Two new iron wagon-bridges are just being completed across our river. Fine and costly buildings are going up, and others will shortly be commenced In a few weeks, the Railroad Depot will be put up near Milam Square, north of the city. Does it not look as though San Antonio was beginning to progress in earnest?

The course of San Antonio from now on will be an upward one.

As the Express has often stated, we have a for a great city. It behooves every man, every good citizen, to take a pride in promoting the city's interest sin every respect, and it behooves all to work in harmonious earnestness to make San Antonio the great city it can be made. The Express cheerfully enlists its influence to accomplish such Artists who work hand, all the week sometimes open their stadius to visitoin on Sunday afternous, and themselves go and see what other artists are duing. Painters who affect accret subjects, and those who presed high art as a kind of religion, may almost make it a matter of duty to hold these private shows; but their opinions have little influence on the majority of the sighteers, and only serve to make the mixture of company more heterogeneous. Going into the establishment of II. Grenet, a person does not know what to it look at first. He has literally everything anyone can think of, and a great deal more to boot. Folks hunting Christmas mfore to boot. Folks hunting Christmas.

Again we would say: Send us any and gifts and Christmas goods will find here an Emporium, from which his taste can be at once satisfied. From a dried apple of a paper of pins, to a barrel of cement (we do not recommend either as a Christmas gift) his extensive store and warshouses are checked with goods.

There are many old gentlemen who warehouses are chocked with goods— Toys, Children's Carriages and grim cracks of every description are in profu-sion. You might think you were in a toy shop till you turned round and caught sight of the beautiful shawls Just as we were accent to say something class, the thought strikes us that it would be a flue thing for people to call on Doerr & Jacobson these holiday times and have their pictores taken, so that they may be enabled to give their friends a copy of their photographs for a Christmas present. True, it would not be a coatly present to give, but is would never fail to claim appreciation. We have lots of friends whose pictures we should delight to have out album coastain. Mr. Grenet imports six different kinds of the very best brands. Old cognac he has the is at for the Kings of old. has that is fit for the Kings of old. Rhine wines and domestic wines. Lamps enough to light the city and a few more spare for our Mexican neighbors. China ware is one of the largest portions of his stock, he has hogsheads filled with it. Astral oil, which by the way is on the vise, he bought a large supply ere it wentup. We might go on to enumerate but it would take more space than we have to recount anything like the extent of the stock and the display that can be found at this establishment. It is a Christmas gift itself to go there and walk through and view the pretty things and the useful things and the good things as they crowd before you. It will repay purchasers to visit it though they have to take a hack to get there Mr. Grenet is one among our oldest o our merchants, he has built up a large and still increasing business in the city.

FINE JEWELRY.

In no place in the city can more suitable Christmas presents be obtained than at Bell & Bros., on Commerce St. With a special view to the holiday season, no one can pass their store without be-ing struck by the taste and elegance plainly visible. This is an old firm in San Antonio, and its members have the confidence of the community. Their goods are of the best quulity, and just as epresented by them, their aim being to keep the very best articles only in their stock. From one case to another you may wander, and will be struck by the beautiful contents within — Jewelry of all sorts and shades, silverware of tasteful designs, family and pocket cutlery of the best manufacture. It is an easy matter for any one to select something

PLAIN TALK TO YOU

We are constrained to do some plain talking, and commence by saying that, despite all our efforts to induce the intel ligent citizens of San Antonio to call at added that there is a time for people to our office, or send us any ideas or suggested sick. Of course, the first thing to be tions that would aid us in perfecting our dunc after one is taken sick, is to call in a San Antonio Guide and West Texas family physician. The doctor prescribes a remedy for your discass, and that remedy you must obtain from a droggist A. to us incomprehensible! To carry out our Notic's drug store, on Main street, it a good place to have your prescriptions cent from the State, county, city or any compounded at. At this season, when individual. individual, than ourselves.

No firm ever before did so much as we are doing to advance the interests of, not only the community in general, but, of each individual in this city. Yet there is a strange want of appreciation-an almost criminal spathy. It is a shame that the only assistance assed for has not been tendered, and which almost any other community on the face of the earth would have jumped at the opportunity of giving. We are talking to you, reader; not some other business man, or your neighbor. From the inimensity of the task which we have undertaken, in your interest, we feel we have a right to demand that you give the aid of your thoughts and suggestions, or at least one kind word of encour-
