WEDNESDAY MORNING, June 5th, 1857.

No verdict as yet in the great killing riot case at Charleston.

E. H. TAYLOR, of Frankfort, the largest distiller in Kentucky, has failed for half million dollars.

Broadway Congress meets, elections will be held in twelve States, viz.: Oregon in June, North Carolina and Alabama in August, California, Vermont and Maine in September, West Virginia, Iowa and Connecticut in October.

Gov. DUBAL EARLY and Gen. Beauregard are having a lively time with their grand lottery scheme in New Orleans today. Some seals are made happy, whilst hundreds, disappointed, are right now cursing the "humbug" having failed to draw that $100,000.

ENTREPRENEURS capitalists are about creating a line of transportation of grain from New Orleans direct to Liverpool. The project is contemplated upon a grand scale, embracing in its scope merchants of St. Louis and New Orleans, as well as leading railroad officials between the last named cities:

The Union Trust Company, of New York, it seems has instituted legal proceedings against the St. Louis & Iron Mountain R. R., charging the said road as a defaulter upon 5,927 secured mortgage bonds. The proceeding is by bill praying for entry and possession, and the appointment of a receiver and decree for foreclosure.

S. Louis merchants are purchasing Irish potatoes in Texas at seventy-five cents per bushel, and shipping them to Missouri by the car load. When it is remembered the number of bushels an acre will produce here, and the ready price heaped commanded, and at this season of the year, too, it will cause the man who relents cost to be surprised at himself.

INDICATIONS from the Turk-Russian war are decidedly stronger in favor of a bloody and decisive conflict. Circumstances favor Russia so far. The probabilities of peace so eagerly sought after, and cherished, have to a considerable degree vanished, and there is apparently but little left but the stern truth that Russia and Turkey will have to adjust their differences by that terrible arbiter of the sword.

PRESIDENT HAYES and Postmaster General Key are certainly as kind and discreet in their appointments as they are judicious and cautious. Mrs. Matilda R. Nevin, at Waynesboro, Pa.; Mrs. Nancy D. Harper, Shippensburg, Pa., and Mrs. Sarah L. Fryer, Pylestown, Pa., worthy ladies no doubt, and dependent widows, who are let to fight life's battles alone in a cold and selfish world, have been appointed postmistresses as above.

The Grand Jury sitting at Salt Lake City has adjourned until July 16, but not without developing testimony sufficient to convict of participation in frauds and crimes the principal members of the Mormon hierarchy. But the appropriation to pay witness fees and expenses has run out, and thus the course of justice is stopped. District Attorney Howard is on his way to Washington to see if the Attorney General will not help him out. The Mormons meantime, report say, hope no money will be procurable until Congress meets, when they will try their influence in Washington.

Washington, May 25.—The President is recovering from his excitement about the Law and Chisholm cases, but the pressure from the North is as great as ever. The President has learned that it is but the same old cry of "wolf, wolf, when there is no wolf," and whilst he looks with anxiety to the welfare and best interests of all sections of the government his eyes have been opened to the fact that laws are being violated now as they were from time immemorial, but he is also fully advised of the fact that there are a set of evil doers who under the pretense of a pure religion, whilst their every conduct is to undermine and overthrow its rich blessings.

Touthing this matter the State Gauges contains a telegram taken from the N. O. Democrat, in which is the following language:

We see that "at the meeting of the Board of delegates of American Israelites in New York on Monday, notice was given of an International Conference of Israelites in Paris next December, with special reference to the position of their brethren in the European provinces of Turkey. The Jewish race is an important factor in European politics, and in the present Eastern struggle, the Jews are with Turkey. The hand of the Moslem has not been laid upon them as heavily as that of the neighboring Christians. THE HOWL OF THE POLITICAL BLOOD-HOUNDS.

In all ages, countries and climes there will be from the very nature of the case a difference of opinion in politics, religion and, in fact, in all the departments of life. In this government, "the free government, where, under the organic law of the land, protection to life, liberty and property, is especially guaranteed, every citizen has the right to the free and unrestrained exercise of those privileges vouchsafed to him, with, however, the restraining of such acts, as would be an encroachment upon the rights and privileges of other citizens." In this wise the general principle has frequently led to conflicting views and opinions, and as a natural corollary from such truths have led to conflicting action. It was this wide difference of opinion—and consequently antagonistic action a few years since that arrayed two sections of our country, and it will conflict with each other, in that terrible contest where "Greek met Greek"—for the Anglo-Saxon blood flowed like oil in the veins of the "boys in blue," and "the boys who wore the grey," and hence the bloody contest. The struggle though is not that between the inclination of the South and the establishment of the Confab Club will add to the popularity of racing this spring, to kindred sports held each other, and in this case two of them will be in conflict with each other with each other's breeding. Every four-in-hand in the city is certain to be present at the races and will add to the beauty of the scene. The drives through Central Park on racing days will be filled with a procession of carriages of every kind, and the skylane of Jimmy's bright dressers—the ladies and the splendid colors of the swift-coaches will sparkle like fallen rain bows. It will be the fashion this season for the belles of the city to wear the collars of their betters' horses and the parades are buying as many as they can to put on such extensive preparations and with so many important entries and events, Jerome Park for the next two weeks will probably surpass in attendance and merits even its own brilliant record.—New York Herald.

Circumstances develop and illustrate character—who can fail to see blended in the character of Gov. Hampton courage and paternal love, through the entire land. The people of different sections have mingled with each other, they have forgotten the past, and like true men and brothers of one common country and one common destiny are struggling to build up the waste places of the country and to people and populate our vast and unoccupied rich and inviting territory. In one general direction, toward Jerome Park for the next two weeks will probably surpass in attendance and merits even its own brilliant record.—New York Herald.

The racing season in the West and South began brilliantly in Louisville and Baltimore, and with no less gleeless it will be inaugurated in the East at Jerome Park Saturday. The meeting at Jerome Park Saturday evening on April 16, and promises to be of much interest. There will be thirty-four races, with purses aggregating twenty-four thousand dollars, for which two hundred horses are entered among them. In the most popular race there is a $1,000 purse, and the $100,000 purse of the Jerome Park Saturday evening, and the establishment of the Confab Club will add to the popularity of racing this spring, to kindred sports held each other, and in this case two of them will be in conflict with each other with each other's breeding. Gov. Hampton's son Preston was the younger of two brothers. He was not twenty years of age when he fell during a severe engagement that occurred in October, 1863, about 45 miles north of Wadsworth, Kansas. His father, Dr. James Wadsworth, command was covering the right wing of Gen. Robert E. Lee's army. At the time both of Gov. Hampton's sons were acting as his aides and young Preston fell in the skirmish, and was killed. The body was brought to him by his adjutant-general, Major Barker, and Wade Hampton, Jr. Both of the last named were severely wounded while Gov. Hampton was lifting the dead body of his son from the horse he was riding. Wade, of Kansas City, says he witnessed the scene, and Gov. Hampton carrying the dead body of his son on the horse before him.

Hilding Court in the Sage Brush.

(From the Austin Register.)

The Hon. D. C. McKeyen, District Judge of the Fifth Judicial District, commanding the troops of the First Cavalry and Churchill, will shortly take his departure for Stillwater, the county seat of Churchill County, to open the regular term of court in that county. The following are the correspondence incident to a term of court in Churchill County. The judge arrives at the county seat, puts up his team, and sends an Indian runner in search of the Sheriff and County Clerk. The Sheriff and clerk arrive, and the Sheriff, standing in the doorway, proclaims that justice is at hand, hear ye, hear ye, the District Court of the Fifth Judicial District, in and for Churchill County, is now open." Then the judge hitches up his team, gets into his buggy, and sets off, followed by his escort, and adjourned for the term." Thus the Sheriff and clerk and the Indian sit down in the sage-brush and play Indian poker, and the judge bids them a pleasant good-by and drives off.

JOHN D. CONNELL, a member of the grand jury in Mis- sissippi recently where human life was destroyed, and that too under circumstances calculated to produce considerable excitement, has been welcomed by the agitators, though the strong hand of the law has been placed upon the parties implicated and will, asserting its authority, enforce its mandates as is done in Illinois or Ohio or Massachusetts. Governor Stone, of Mississippi, has, in person, given special attention to this matter. The law will take its course. In fact, an early session of the court will doubtless be held to bring to a speedy trial parties accused, yet a set of puritanical, howling, pharisaical blood hounds who have "stolen the liver of heaven to serve the devil in it," hate, with vigor and brazen impudence, pushing upon the President their political-religious views and volunteer ad- vice, all of which was "send troops—send the military" and put southern people "under bayonet rule." But the President has learned that it is but the same old cry of "wolf, wolf, when there is no wolf," and whilst he looks with anxiety to the welfare and best interests of all sections of the government his eyes have been opened to the fact that laws are being violated now as they were from time immemorial, but he is also fully advised of the fact that there are a set of evil doers who under the pretense of a pure religion, whilst their every conduct is to undermine and overthrow its rich blessings.
