Judge collars Hanafi leader after threats

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as he held more than 100 people hostage, Hanafi Moslem leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis was talking of a "fourth phase" of revenge, a federal prosecutor says.

Khaalis was termed a danger to the community and jailed Thursday after U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert told a judge the cryptic reference to a fourth phase "means to me he (Khaalis) will unleash some of his men, just as he unleashed them March 9, 10 and 11."

Silbert said also that Khaalis was overheard Tuesday over a court-ordered wiretap, making "blood-curdling threats" that included the statement, "I'm going to kill somebody ... now they are going to pay ... pay in blood They can't do this to the Moslems."

Chief Judge Harold Greene of the D.C. Superior Court said he doesn't regard the statements as "idle words" and ordered Khaalis to jail. Khaalis thus joins his 11 Hanafi followers arrested after the siege three weeks ago. All are charged with armed kidnaping.

While the other Hanafis are held in lieu of $50,000 or $75,000 bonds, no bond will effect Khaalis' release because his personal recognizance

"We found guns at both premises," said Warren McConnell, a spokesman for the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. "We understand members of the Hanafis live there."

For 38 hours three weeks ago, Khaalis and 11 other Hanafis held 134 people prisoner in three Washington buildings. A radio reporter was killed, three other people were shot, and a dozen were cut with swords or beaten. Negotiating with Khaalis for the release of the hostages, authorities agreed he would remain free until indicted by a grand jury. He was released without posting bond, on his personal recognizance, after the hostages were freed.

Silbert said Khaalis had violated one term of his release — that he would "not engage in any conduct which would result in his arrest." He said the overheard telephone statements constituted threats to do zelily harm and produced an arrest warrant signed by another judge.

Rolice Sgt. Robert Sharkey, the single witness at the hearing, testified he talked with Khaalis by telephone as the Hanafi leader was holding more than 100 hostages in B'nai B'rith international headquarters.

He quoted Khaalis as saying: "I told you I would get my revenge. This is only the third of four phases; the fourth phase you can't believe, you

The two judges have worked out an agreement for handling docket loads in the two courts.

Because jurors have been drawn for jury weeks in April and part of May, Culp said, Judge Pickett will continue to handle jury trials during those weeks.

Meanwhile, Culp said he will handle primarily nonjury cases and work on pretrial matters in criminal cases. About 260 cases are now on file which do not require a jury, he said. By May 23, Culp will begin holding criminal jury trials. Six criminal jury weeks are scheduled in May, June and July, he said.

In dividing the caseload of pending cases at that time, Culp said basically all the cases will be divided equally, with those cases in Pickett's court being designated with an A, and all in Culp's designated with a B.

In practice, however, the cases will be virtually interchangeable, and the judges could handle each other's cases, Culp said.

The only question which the two judges have not decided, Culp said, is whether or not to use a central jury system. By this method, one judge could empanel juries for both courts or also for the domestic relations court.

The judges will not need to be concerned with this matter until all the present jurors have served their jury duty, he added.

Culp said he will be working in the domestic relations courtroom for his nonjury trials. Domestic Relations Judge Joseph Mims will hold his hearings in Mims' office or in the domestic relations courtroom, when it is not in use, until Mims' new office is finished, Culp said.

MCAA audit report reaches Dallas agency ahead of deadline

By JUDY JOHNSTON

An audit of the Midland Community Action Agency was received Thursday in the federal Community Services Administration regional office in Dallas.

Thursday was the deadline set by the CSA office for receipt of the audit in order for MCAA to continue receiving an annual $33,000 grant from CSA.

City bank deposits hit season high

Midland bank deposits reported today were at a seasonal high of $607,062,148, up $70,681,031 from the previous first quarter high of $536,381,117 recorded at the same time in 1976.

The present figure, however, is down $17,994,710 from the all-time high of $625,056,858 reported three months ago at the close of 1976.

Statements of condition of the city's four banks — Commercial Bank & Trust Co., The First National Bank, The Midland National Bank and Western State Bank — were revealed in accord with the policy requiring reports to be issued automatically at the end of each quarter. The figures reflect totals at the close of business Thursday.

Loans and discounts of the banks totaled $381,874,005, up $65,559,894 from the $316,314,111 reported at the same time a year ago and up $792,473 from the $381,081,532 reported three

The audit was the one prepared and completed by Russell Horne, a Dallas certified public accountant, MCAA board chairman Charlie Welch said.

Horne originally was retained by the Texas Department of Community Affairs to restructure the financial records and books of the MCAA so that they could be audited, Horne said when he presented a financial record procedure to the board March 14.

The MCAA board then hired Horne to audit the books at a fee of $500 out of $750 allocated in the MCAA budget for an audit, Welch said.

Welch had been prepared to receive the audit Thursday and have the board review it during the Thursday night meeting, he said. When the audit was not received, Welch said he did not know whether the board would call a special meeting when the audit arrives. The next regular meeting would be the second Monday in April, he said. The agency copy of the audit was in the mail, Welch said.

Much of the two-hour meeting.
Thursday night involved board members deciding what constitutes a quorum at board meetings.

According to the agency's by-laws, a quorum is a majority of board members "in good standing."

Welch maintained that a quorum for Thursday's meeting would be eight persons, since the agency board had only 14 persons in good standing at that time. A board member loses good standing if he resigns or misses three meetings in a row, Welch said.

In his campaign, Hughes has said Midland students are not performing at satisfactorily high levels. He has called for stronger school board leadership.

Dominey has stressed the need for maintaining the excellence of the school system. He has said he wants to follow through on projects already begun, including implementing the desegregation plan and completing the goals setting process.

Other issues that have been raised include whether or not enough emphasis is being put on teaching basic skills. Dominey said he favors emphasis on computing skills, but thinks basics include "more than the traditional three R's." Hughes said the elementary grades do not include enough emphasis on reading.

The 29 American tourists were into their first day of their week-long trip of goodwill and pleasure into this spacious land.

The group's mission would take the travelers to tours of the desert-bound city of Chihuahua, to the Grand Canyons of Chihuahua in the Sierra Madre mountains, and to Los Mochis and Topolobampo, bordering the Sea of Cortez (Gulf of California) on Mexico's western shore.

Basically, the journey's mission was to foster Mexican-American goodwill and to help drum up business along the U.S. 67 route leading to Mexico.

"Midland is basically two towns in one town. One is disadvantaged and the other is advantaged. That disadvantaged section has not achieved its fair share in the educational system," King Hughes, candidate for school board, said.

He made that allegation Thursday night at a candidates's forum sponsored by the Midland League of Women Voters.

At that session two incumbent school board members responded to one of the main tenants of the Hughes campaign, that scholastically Midland schools are loosing ground, at least on the basis of nationally standardized tests.

School board president Joe Dominey, who is challenged by the Hughes candidacy for Place 2, said test scores for the Scholastic Aptitude Test in Midland are 44 points higher than the national average.

Board member James Ramsoure said nationally scores on this test and others like it have been declining for

Mrs. Howbert said residents on the city's north and east side do not feel represented under the present council, but that more dialogue between council and these sections of town can bring them into the fold of city government with the present atlarge system of filling council seats.

Returning to the the school controversy, Hughes said he would like to see children from bilingual families begin learning English under a school-run program at age three.

The present Head Start program. Dominey said, helps bilingual and other children make the transition into the school system.

One reason Midland students' average test scores have declined recently, Dominey said, is that the economy has industrialized and there are now more students with an IQ of 85 or below than previously.

To prepare these students for a meaningful life, the Midland Independent School District has developed a strong vocational skills program for eighth grade students who are performing three years or more below their grade level,

Registration rush absent

Nearly 4,000 more vehicles had been registered in the Midland County tax office Thursday than had been registered on that day in 1976.

About 59,450 vehicles had been registered Thursday, and chief tax deputy Frances Shuffield said she expected at least 61,000 to be registered by the end of today.

Today was the last day for vehicle registration in Texas, she said. Contrary to expectations, there were no lines at the tax office this

Dutchman to reveal conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP) - The NBC radio network says a Dutch newsman will tell the House assassination committee that Lee Harvey Oswald was hired to kill President John F. Kennedy by a conspiracy of Dallas oilmen and anti-Castro Cubans.

NBC quoted the Dutchman, Willem Oltmans, as saying the Cubans were enlisted by "the Dallas conspiracy" because the Cubans "had a blood debt to settle - they thought President Kennedy had betrayed them at the Bay of Pigs."

Oltmans also was quoted as saying that the "Dallas conspiracy" was composed of wealthy oil men and a trucking firm executive "who wanted the President killed."

The NBC report said that Oltmans will tell the committee today that the conspirators hired Oswald, "promising to pay him a large sum of

Lack of query surprises nurse at Parkland

DALLAS (AP) — A nurse whose statements may cast doubt on the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing John F. Kennedy says she was surprised that the commission never interviewed Audrey Bell, the supervieing nurse at the Parkland Hospital emergency room the day Kennedy was shot, said Thursday she recalled four or five bullet fragments were removed from the wounds of former Texas Gov. John Connally.

Miss Bell, a veteran of 31 years of nursing, said the fragments "pretty well covered" the bottom of a medicine glass.

The Warren Commission said one bullet passed through Kennedy and wounded Connally. A bullet with only a small part of it missing was found on the cart that carried Connally into Parkland Hospital.

Investigators for the House Assassinations Committee say that if the fragments found in Connally's body weighed more than the missing part of the discovered bullet, then the singlebullet theory of the Warren Commission would

'I placed the fragments in a foreign body envelope," Miss Bell said, "and turned the envelope over to Mr. Price (the administrator of Parkland Hospital)

She said the envelope was given that night to two men who signed a paper showing they took the envelope. She said she did not know the men or what agency they represented.

"I was rather surprised at the time that I was not interviewed by the Warren Commission, said Miss Bell, who added that she had handled many cases involving gunshot wounds.

The fragments came from Connally's arm wounds and possibly his leg wound, she said. Miss Bell said she had mentioned finding the bullet fragments to several friends over the years. She said she had also told a writer "about a year and a half or two years ago" about the fragments. She said the investigators from the House Assassinations Committe knew about her story concerning the fragments when the men came to

"There was a mention that the weight more than compensated for the fragments of the one bullet found almost intact," she told KDFW-TV earlier Thursday. "This I have no proof of. We did not weigh them. Miss Bell said she was "rather surprised" when the story of her talking to the Assassinations Committee was released. She said the investigators stated they might contact her again.

Miss Bell, who has worked for Children's Medical Center since 1966, said, "I was never in total agreement with the Warren Committee about the one bullet theory. And as far as Oswald was concerned, I think he was involved.'

Taping makes death appear to be suicide

By HUGH AYNESWORTH The Dallas Times Herald

PALM BEACH, Fla. - Life was often unusual for George de Mohrenschildt, the 65-year-old Dallas petroleum, engineer-turned French instructor who had once befriended Lee Harvey Oswald.

But when he ended it with a single blast from a shotgun this week, the finale was truly bizarre.

Unbeknownst to de Mohrenschildt, who had been living for the past two weeks in a mansion owned by a former sister-in-law, a maid had planted a tape recorder in a bedroom to record her favorite soap opera. Thus the final seconds of de Mohrenschildt's last movements are recorded on tape.

Investigators for the Palm Beach County Sheriff's department are studying the tape to determine the exact time of death.

Authorities have said the maid, turned the recorder on but then left

De Mohrenschildt can be heard on the recording coming into the bedroom, opening a dresser drawer where Mrs. Charles E. Tilton III kept a 20-guage shotgun, removing the gun and walking away, presumably into an adjoining bedroom.

A shot can then be heard, followed by the continuing sounds from the characters in the soap opera.

Next, de Mohrenschildt's daughter, Alexandra, 33, can be heard calling her father's name; then, after a few steps, her scream as she found her father dead.

Despite speculation that de Mohrenschildt might have been killed because of his reported statements that he had advance knowledge of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and his "importance" as a potential witness before the House Select Committee on Assassinations, a Palm Beach County coroner were "conducive to a self-inflicted gunshot wound. "If he weren't famous and this wasn't of unusual interest because of who he knew, it would be rated as just Oltmans later told House assassination panel investigators that de Mohrenschildt had indicated to him that he had advance knowledge of Lee Harvey Oswald's plans to assassinate Kennedy. Oltmans further said de Mohrenschildt "suddenly disappeared" in Brussels soon after arriving there and he had no idea as to de Mohrenschildt's whereabouts.

The Times Herald has learned that the two traveled on pre-paid, roundtrip airline tickets - to New York, London, Amsterdam, London to New York. A boarding pass in his effects here shows de Mohrenschildt arrived March 14 at JFK Airport in New York. It is not known whether he flew to Miami or Dallas before he arrived here about 15 days ago.

One of the last people to see de Mohrenschildt alive was Edward J. Epstein, who claims he is writing a book on the Kennedy assassination under the aegis of Reader's Digest. Epstein reportedly had interviewed de Mohrenschildt twice, the second time just hours before his death.

Epstein refused to comment on his interviews. One source said Epstein was bargaining for a large sum of money to reveal de Mohrenschildt's last words on the subject.

De Mohrenschildt's daughter, Alexandra, detailed how she answered the door Tuesday just before noon to find House Assassinations Committee investigator Gaeton Fonzi at the door, asking for her father. When told he was out, she said Fonzi said he would return at 8:30 p.m.

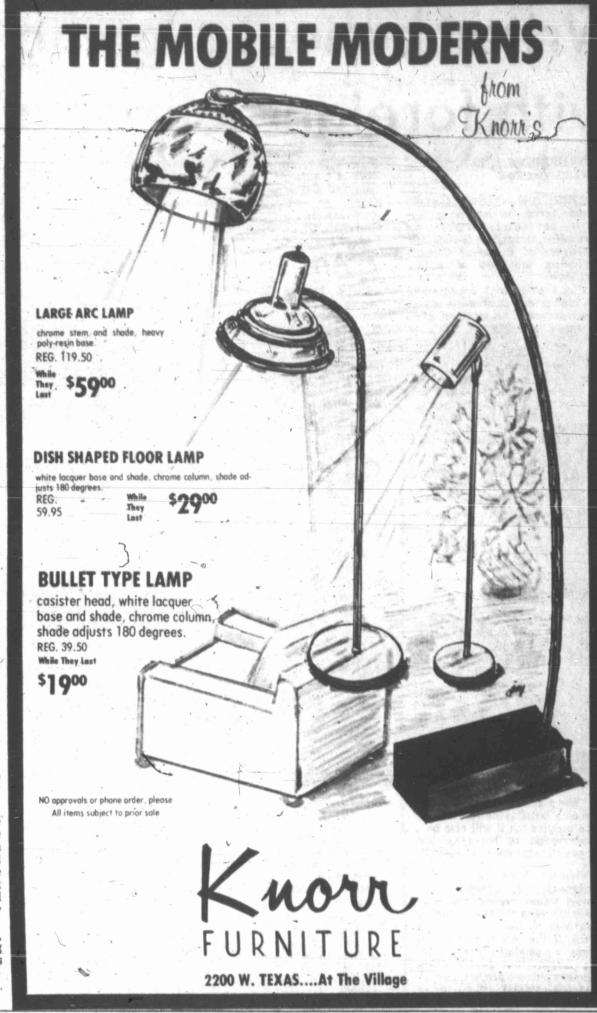

De Mohrenschildt returned shortly thereafter, Alexandra said, as she related to her father that Fonzi had been to see him. "He didn't seem in the least despondent or upset," she said. Alexandra said she then left with a friend for an hour or two, returning to find her father dead at approximately Acquaintances of Mrs. Tilton and de Mohrenschildt told investigators here that the Russian-born Dallas man who once befriended Oswald had become "paranoid" bout the assassination itself and the fact that scores of writers and authors had implicated him in various conspiracy settings.

"At one time, he thought the FBI, CIA and Russian KGB were all tailing him," a source close to the family was quoted as saying.

No suicide note was found, Lt. Sheets said. Dutch journalist who had interviewed

Writer believes 'going public' with foreign policy dangerous

By DON OBERDORFER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The failure of the Moscow talks on strategic armaments, and the sense of near-crisis that resulted dramatically illustrate the dangers of President Carter's unorthodox methods of public dislamatics.

Carter's in recent weeks. What was more of a surprise — and what has dismayed Carter administration officials as well as diplomatic observers—is the worldwide wave of apprehension arising from the Moscow events.

An analysis

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's public denunciation of the U.S. proposal in a highly unusual Moscow press conference Thursday adds another dimension of gloom and a further suggestion of crisis. Gromyko appeared to be reacting to Carter's well-publicized determination on Wednesday to "hang tough" behind U.S. proposals he declared are "fair" and "balanced."

U.S. official spokesmen here sought to defuse public concern. White House press secretary Jody Powell, while giving no hint of a softening of the U.S. position, emphasized that "it is important to be patient, to be methodical," and said Carter intends to do so. Defense Secretary Harold Brown, through a spokesman, said he has no intention of speeding up development of the cruise missile, B1 bomber, MX missile or any other weapon in response to the Moscow events.

Since the beginning of his campaign for the presidency, Carter attacked secret diplomacy as practiced by then-Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and others in recent administrations, declaring that all major mistakes of U.S. foreign policy flowed from a closed-door process of decision. "We must never again keep secret the evolution of our foreign policy from Congress and the American people. They should never again be misled about our options, our commitments, our progress or our failures," he declared in his first foreign policy statement, issued while he was in Tokyo for a Trilateral Commission meeting in May 1975.

But once in office, Carter made impromptu public declarations about foreign policy matters the centerpiece of his diplomatic method. This has been popular at home so long as the statements expressed widespread attitudes and seemed to give hope that the United States will get its way. But in several cases the method has brought serious complications.

Gromyko accuses U.S. of 'shady' moves

The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW — In words recalling the pre-detente era, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Thursday angrilly accused the United States of "shady and cheap moves" in its arms proposals. He also accused President Carter of distorting the Soviet response "without even waiting for Secretary of State (Cyrus R.) Vance to return."

Gromyko challengingly reintroduced old problems into the arms talks that had been thought resolved — British and French nuclear submarines and American bombers and subs based in Europe and the Far East — that could, if pursued, make a new agreement virtually impossible by October when the current SALT treaty expires.

"Call it anything you want," he told a press conference, "call it a change of position, but these questions now arise in view of the U.S. proposals and in view of the interpretation given in Washington (by Carter) to the Soviet position in such extremely great

The impact of Gromyko's strong words was heightened by the format—an upprecedented press conference. Never before has a Soviet foreign minister held a news conference here, according to ministry officials. Veterans recall only one press conference by a Kremlin leader (Premier Alexei N. Kosygin) for the Soviet and foreign press since at least World War II.

If the Soviet Union holds to all Gromyko said Thursday evening, the strategic arms talks that were stalemated when Vance left here Thursday morning after three days of talks had regressed three years, to pre-1974 levels, in less than 12 hours. Gromyko clearly left the door open for renewed negotiations.

"Our patience is far from exhausted," he said

"We want to find a solution."

He described Vance's visit as "useful, even necessary." since each side must get to know the other and its proposals.

"But basic differences exist at the moment in Soviet-American relations. We are not inclined to belittle them. Yet they are not insurmountable," he added. He called for a "more realistic position" from the United States.

It could be mostly posturing. But since the Soviet Union has gone public with its criticism, much as Vance on Wednesday largely laid out U.S. proposals, resolving the differences will be more difficult if the sides are to avoid the appearance of retreat.

The rancorous tone of Gromyko's remarks, moreover, which seemed particularly strong on Carter questioning whether the Soviet Union was bargaining in good faith, could easily hamper negotiations further.

Gromyko, in answering a Soviet journalist's question, seemed to take particular pleasure in contradicting Carter's that the U.S. human rights distribution does not affect the arms talk

"I shall not say that with every aspect of the arms talks we spoke about rights," Gromyko said. "But in fact everything that is being said about human rights in the United States...poisons the atmosphere, worsens the political climate.

Does this help resolve the problem of SALT? No. It does not help. It hurts."

The Soviet Union does not try to teach others how to run their internal affairs, he claimed, and will not permit others to lecture it. He cited the 1933 documents establishing diplomatic relations between Moscow and Washington.

Fear of Cruises may have snagged talks

The Washington Post

BONN, West Germany — Soviet concerns that American-built Cruise missiles might be deployed in Europe, and West Germany's acknowledged interest in these new weapons, are two factors that help explain why Moscow Wednesday sharply rejected both U.S. proposals for a new strategic arms agreement.

The cruise missile is a small, relatively inexpensive, pilotless jet aircraft that can carry an atomic bomb or conventional high explosive over long distances with considerable accuracy.

The United States, at the moment, has a long lead over the Russians in the ability to design and build these weapons. The Cruise missile has been at the heart of the superpower dispute over the future course of arms limitation agreements for almost two years now, but it was not included in either U.S. proposal to restrict the arms race made in Moscow this week.

Though the Soviets are most concerned about long-range Cruise missiles fired from American bombers, ships or submarines, they are also said to fear that missiles even of some 400-miles range could eventually be installed on land, in trucks or on scores of other allied attack planes here and elsewhere in Europe. This would, for example, greatly increase the striking power of these aircraft, giving them the ability to lob missiles at targets deep inside Communist East Europe or the Soviet Union.

At the same time, many West German defense specialists have displayed private fascination with the new technology as a way for their own forces, as well as Allied forces, to help offset the numerical superiority of Warsay Pact land and air power. Though the West Germans do not have nuclear weapons, the expected over a new pact has not upset some defense officials. The Kremlin is demanding that the Cruise missiles be covered in any new arms limitation.

On the other hand, some officials feel the West German interest in Cruise missiles may be short-sighted.

Bell expresses qualms about trying FBI agents

By ROBERT L. JACKSON and RONALD J. OSTROW The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Atty. Gen. Griffin B. Bell has privately expressed reservations about prosecuting FBI breakin cases, giving hope to FBI officials that he will reject written recommendations indictments, it was learned

Bell also has told FBI officials that he hoped the bureau could move away from concentrating on past abuses, associates said.

These sources said Bell has remarked that the public should understand that the breakins were aimed at locating terrorist fugitives

o from the Weather Underground organization. Bell has reached no decision on the two-week-old recommendation for indictments, which he has also asked the criminal division to review. But his remarks have indicated he is sympathetic to the problems faced by law enforcement authorities in gathering intelligence on terrorist groups, some associates said.

Meanwhile, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley, in a statement approved by the Justice Department, branded publication of the recommendations Thursday in The Los Angeles Times and elsewhere as "calculated leaks that damage the American system of

Kelley did not deny the accuracy of the reports, but said in his statement:

"This action by these nameless sources is reprehensible. It is not only injurious to the morale of all FBI employes, but does incalculable damage to the FBI officials and their families whose names were prominently mentioned.

"I am certain that all fair-minded people are shocked by these calculated leaks that damage the American system of justice."

The Times story said that a team of Justice Department lawyers had submitted a written recommendation for a sequence of indictments against six or more past and present FBI officials for breakins, mail-openings and wiretaps to New York.

The prosecution proposal called for moving up the ladder of responsibility, starting with lower-level FBI

The recommendation was also attacked Thursday, in interviews with The Times, by several attorneys for FBI officials who have figured in the lengthy grand jury investigation of 'surreptitious entries."

New York attorney Paul Windels, for example, said FBI breakins to gather intelligence on allegedly subversive organizations were a longestablished practice.

"This talk about winding up by prosecuting FBI officials is utter nonsense," Windels said, adding that "every single attorney general for the past 25 years had to be aware of how this intelligence was obtained.'

Let's Go FORWARD With Our Basic Skills Instruction!

We don't need to go BACK to the basics, because we've been teaching basics all along. We're going FORWARD with basics through fundamental skills development in elementary grades, and through teaching applications of basic skills in secondary schools. Our main objective is to help each child develop skills of self reliance and independent study.

OUR MIDLAND PUBLIC SCHOOLS ARE MORE THAN JUST GOOD...THEY ARE EXCELLENT!

The number of young people who graduate and are accepted at the top universities across the nation is considerable, and most of them receive advanced standing exemptions in such areas as English, mathematics, and foreign language. Our vocational and technical programs have been vastly improved in the past six years, as has nearly every program in the system.

I'm proud of our special programs for children of all ability levels. From the special honors electives for our brightest young people to the intensive programs for the trainable mentally retarded, our district is first rate in individualized programs.

Discipline Is Important In Learning, and Discipline Begins At Home.

Parents and teachers ARE working together to support their children's learning ex-periences. Our classroom programs ARE conducted in an atmosphere of discipline and respect. Sure, there are a few youngsters who are disinterested in learning, or may exhibit immature behavior. Such children need to be taught personal responsibility with the help of parents, teachers, and administrators.

My opponent is a sincere, well respected citizen, but I think he does our school system a disservice by implying it is not meeting the challenge of preparing our young people for life. Also, he asks his fellow citizens if they are bothered by the "ever growing power of the federal government dictating to us what we can do, how we can do it, and when we can do it." I think we are all disgusted at the abusive power of federal agencies, but our public schools are not part of the federal

I have strongly opposed federal intervention in our schools ...

...and as recently as last week voiced my opinion of U.S. Justice Department harassment in our election. But as an elected official I must obey the law or resign my commission. Are we to teach our children that we are a government of laws, or shall we let them learn that some laws are to be obeyed and others not?

It takes time to learn about all the programs and procedures in our schools, and I've invested six years in your school system. In the last three years my fellow board members have appointed me their secretary, vice president, and this past year, their president. My experience is needed now more than ever.

We want the best for our children, and this requires citizens working constructively for better education. I am very proud of our accomplishments over the past six years, and ask you consider allowing me to continue serving you during this time of transition in our public

Legislator questions agencies' use of fees

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Althougt the Texas Constitution says no money may be withdrawn from the State Treasury except by legislative appropriation, many agencies - such as the state bar — have run themselves for decades with income from licens-

The House Appropriations Committee asked Atty. Gen. John Hill's opinion on how that constitutional provision affects those agencies, and Hill replied Thursday that, in effect, the practice is all right.

But Hill also implied the legislature could change that simply by passing a law making those agencies keep their fees in the treasury, leaving it up to the legislature to decide how much they get back and for what purposes. Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, requested Hill's opinion. Presnal told the House Thursday that Hill's opinion meant there would have to be quick hearings on budgets for the 15 agencies that it covered. That could mean a delay in completing the general appropriation bill, which Presnal's committee hoped to In the nine-page opinion, Hill warned of the difficulty of the question, made worse "by decades of inaction and acquiescense. He referred to the state boards ofmorticians, podiatry examiners and plumbing examiners as examples of agencies financed by licensing fees.

Presnal's specific question dealt with agencies financed "outside the legislative appropriation process." That would include the State Bar, which draws no money from the state and is almost entirely financed by bar dues. However, a 1939 law gave the bar the right to run its own affairs.

"A long line of attorney general opinions has obscured the meaning of (the constitutional provision)," Hill said. "These rulings, considered together, do not provide any consistent interpretation of the (provision), and some of them ignore it.

The practice of allowing such agencies to run their own show has "a long history . . . This practice is almost as old as our constitution," he said.

"In summary, there appear to be persuasive arguments on both sides of the question you have raised," Hill told Presnal. "The question is difficult and is aggravated by decades of inaction and acquiescense.

"Since the issue is so close and has been ignored for so long, we cannot say with assurance what resolution the courts would ultimately reach.

"Nevertheless, with this caveat regarding the difficulty of the issue, it is our professional judgment that if the Texas Supreme Court were presented squarely with this issue at the present time, it would rely heavily on the long-standing administrative and legislative interpretation and the decisions of courts of other states to conclude that funds, such as those collected as licensing fees, are not required by the constitution to be maintained in the State Treasury."

HOUSTON (AP) -Some members of City Council have indicated they may insist on a "line item budget" from Mayor Fred Hofheinz following their recent disagreement with the mayor over the city's official women's ad-

The mayor presently has much administrative flexibility because he can transfer operating funds from one account to another without needing permission of council.

With a "line item budget" such transfers could only be made if the council majority agreed to amend the budget. Meanwhile, Geneva

Thomas cites error in story

There was an error in the March 30 story on the candidates' forum sponsored by the Midland League of Women Voters.

The article reported that Midland City Councilman Carroll Thomas, during a discussion about the singlemember district issue, said the Midland County commissioners say one bad aspect of a ward system is the way road improvement monies are allocated.

Thomas was only speaking for himself when he cited the manner in which the monies are allocated as being bad, and did not say that the county commissioners agree that the monies are allocated poorly.

An example why we should pay up before passing bonds, under water and sewer, a bond was passed in 1958 for $550,000. At present (19 Years later) this bond has only been reduced to $460,000. We have paid more than $340,000, interest on this bond, while paying only $90,000, on the principal. At this rate, our grandchildren will be paying for bonds that we or our parents voted.

If this were not so serious, the winner of the big joke contest would be our Mayor, Ernest Angelo, Jr., for the quote "Neither bond proposal is expected to result in a tax increase." Yet, even without the last Bond Election and the one to be held on April 2nd, the City is planning a large tax increase, and with the passage of each Bond Election, our taxes must, and will go up again. Please do not spend more than our children can pay! A child now 10 years old will have to pay (if he or she stays in Midland) 10 or more years on the bonds we pass today, and also on quite a few already passed.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter, and please VOTE "NO" on all new bonds until it becomes good and sound business to do otherwise.

Zaire institutes purge powers

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko ordered officials today to root out a "fifth column seeking to demoralize the masses" in Kinshasa during his government's war against invading rebels from Angola

Municipal and party officials in Zaire's capital were ordered to exercise "permanent and revolutionary supervision of the masses to identify, denounce and render harmless all the agents of subversion and (Communist) ideological imperialism.

It was the first official indication of . dissent among some of Kinshasa's 2 million inhabitants, who to many observers seem largely unconcerned about the fighting in Shaba province some 800 miles to the southeast.

Exiles from the province, called Katanga when Zaire was the Belgian Congo, reportedly have captured about a third of the mineral-rich province since invading March 8.

The ruling Popular Revolutionary Movement, Zaire's only legal political party, summoned the people to Kinshasa's main sports stadium Sunday for a "gigantic demonstration of fidelity to the nation's guide ... and supreme military commander, Gen. Mobutu Sese Seko". Mobutu Sese Seko.

The party said it wanted "the greatest and most revolutionary march ever seen in Kinshesa .demonstrating total commitment to the struggle against the barbarous invasion of mercenaries from Angola."
The stadium is the site of the 1974 world heavyweight championship boxing match between Muhammad Ali and George Foreman.

Bentsen gets board backing

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's proposed amendment to the federal air pollution control act has received the backing of the chairman of the Texas Air Control Board.

John Blair, the TACB chief, said Thursday that he supports Bentsen's amendment to permit growth in urban areas where federal air quality standards are not being met.

The Texas senator's amendment was approved Thursday by a 7-6 vote in the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

Bentsen's proposal would modify the current law pertaining to "non-degradation areas," those which the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) says are heavily polluted industrial areas.

The Bentsen amendment would require a complete inventory of air quality in the metropolitan areas, Blair said.

New industrial construction would not be allowed in these areas until the state air control agency could demonstrate air quality there had improved, Blair said.

Meanwhile, the government announced the replacement of its army commander in Shaba, finally admitted the loss of a former army head quarters there and instituted press censorship. The shakeup followed a three-day meeting between Mobutu and histop commanders about the

The former commander in Shaba, paratroop Col. Eluki Mongo Aundu, told a news conference he had been recalled to his previous post as Mobutu's personal chief of staff. Eluki was replaced by Brig. Gen. Boyenge Singa, the army commander and a member of the Popular Revolutionary Movement politburo.

The rebels are members of the Lunda tribe returning to their homeland. They fled to Angola in 1964 when the late Moise Tshombe's attempt to break Katanga away from the Congo failed:

Disaster bill could be high

LONDON (AP) - The insurance bill for aviation's worst disaster in which 577 persons died could reach $240 million, London insurers say.

But the first two damage suits filed in California on behalf of victims of the crash are demanding more

The $240 million total includes $63 million for the Pan American and KLM jumbo jets that collided on a runwey in the Canary Islands last Sunday, an estimated $137 million in damages to the families of the dead and to injured survivors, and an estimated $40 million on accident insurance policies taken out by individual victims. Insurance sources said both Pan American and KLM are signatories to agreements limiting their liability for each passenger to $58,000 damages and $17,000 to cover legal costs. But they said American passengers are subject to a U.S. law that removes the limit if negligence is shown.

London insurance broker Julian Fraser said if one of the pilots or some other factor directly connected with either or both of the airlines is found to be to blame, compensation could be exceptionally high.

Dutch officials investigating the collision have already conceded that the KLM pilot did not have from the airport control tower for the takeoff he had started.

The sons of two California women killed in the collision filed a class action suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Thursday demanding $6.5 million for each of the 306 Californians killed or injured in the disaster, a total of $1,989,000,000. The defendants are Pan American, KLM and the Boeing Corp.

which built the two 747 jumbo jets.

The day before three daughters of a San Diego women who was killed sued the two airlines and Boeing for $1.25 million.

A spokesman for Lloyd's of London said $23 million has already been paid to Pan American for the loss of its plane. This included $10.35 million from British firms, more than $3.7 from 93 French companies and the rest from North American companies, most of them in the United States.

"Because of the high concentration of risk in such cases, insurance has to be spread worldwide," the

Lloyd's spokesman said. KLM is collecting $40 million for its 747, which was newer than the Pan American plane. The London insurance market is liable for about 40 per cent, and the rest was divided equally among insurance company pools in Scandinavia, Switzerland and the Netherlands, a British broker reported. Experts predict an increase in the London market's insurance rates for aircraft as a result of the disaster. They said good accident records and considerable competition had reduced annual premiums in recent months to as low as one-half of one per cent of the value of the plane.

Rainfall gives farmers hope

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Farm fields in the Midwest soaked up March's abundant rain, giving farmers who suffered through the drought of 1976 hope that the dry spell was over.

Agriculture and weather officials in Wisconsin and nearby states said the moisture would allow planting of small grains to begin, although more rain was needed to replenish water in deeper soil before sum-

Officials are optimistic about this year's farm prospects in Wisconsin, where crop losses of $623 million last year were the highest in state history.

The estimates for wheat production in the eastern two-thirds of Kansas and in Missouri were raised above earlier forecasts after last weekend's rainfall.

Some credited a shift in wind currents 30,000 feet above the earth's surface. Until about five weeks ago, the jet-stream current had been diverted around a high pressure system off the West Coast, causing sain to miss the Corn Belt, said Louis Thompson, ssistant dean of agriculture at Iowa State Universi-

Woman finds attractive man 'magnetic'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to find out a person's name and address if you have his automobile license number? Or will you have to answer a lot of questions first?

You see, I was kind of wandering around a shopping center during my lunch break when a beautiful older man caught my eye. He went into a jewelry store and I followed him. I was drawn to him like a magnet. He was shopping for an anniversary gift for his wife, and I offered to help him select something. We kidded around and he said he had a daughter in college about my age.

Abby, you're going to think I'm crazy, but I have never met a man who attracted me the way this one did. I can't get him out of my mind. I don't even know his name, but I can't get him out of my mind. I don't even know his mane, but I walked him to his car and took down his license number. I've just to to see him again! Water entrepreneurs springing up in California

By WILLIAM ENDICOTT The Los Angeles Times

SAN FRANCISCO - Before the calamitous water shortage gripped Northern California, Joe Smith was a mechanic

"I was in a garage all day, working on cars and breathing carbon monoxide fumes," he said. "It was awful."

But because of the water shortage, Smith, 32, now is out of the garage and into the open air, operating the Green Garden Water Service in Marin County and offering to "put a smile in your garden" with water he trucks in from wells in neighboring Sonoma County. He is typical of a growing number of water entrepreneurs - including water witchers, inventors and an 11year-old boy - who have turned up in recent weeks to cash in on the drought and prove that even in adversity there

The number of people offering drought-related goods and services has grown to a point; in fact, that the San Rafael Independent-Journal in Marin County has created a new category in its classified section "to help you find the folks who can help" with water problems. Carl Lehman, the newspaper's classified ad manager, said 35 to 40 ads are being published every day.

"It was a spur of the moment thing," he said. "What happened was I was looking at our regular miscellaneous for sale column and saw half a dozen ads for barrels and

One of the Independent-Journal's advertisers, for instance, is Gary Kerch, 29, of Mill Valley, a general contractor who had the brainstorm for his new business, which he calls Aqua Meters, Unlimited, while he was driving down the freeway to work.

What he sells are supplementary water meters that tell people in gallons rather than cubic feet how much water they are using.

In Marin County, where strict water rationing has been in effect for several weeks, he discovered a ready

"I found a company in Florida that sells them and ordered a dozen right off the bat," he said. To date, he has sold "seven or eight dozen" at $39.95

"People have to know how much water they are using because of the rationing," he said: "And it's a lot harder to read the regular meter. It's usually in the ground with a heavy cover over it and nine times out of 10 is muddy and dirty. It also registers in cubic feet so you have to calculate the Others evidently set up shop in a hurry with little more than a telephone booth as an office. Telephone calls to several of the ads in the Independent-Journal were picked up by answering services.

Do not, for example, go searching for the offices of Smith's Green Garden Water Service. He operates out of his tanker truck and will call you back when he picks up his messages.

Water witchers also have found a bonanza in the drought, and Ed Nichols is just one of a half dozen or so who, to their delight, believe it has erased some of the skepticism about their vocation.

"People will believe anything now that they think we will get them water." Nichols said. But he claimed a high degree of success with his forked willow branch and said he has had plenty of calls, "including some curiosity seekers," over the last few

Rogers and McGuire, both of San Francisco, visited The Los Angeles Times' bureau here to show off their invention and candidly admit they were "looking for a little publicity."

What they had was a kit that they claim will convert the normal toilet from a single to a dual flushing operating and save a family of four up to 84 gallons of water a day. They call the device Hi-Lo.

"Hi-Lo has one standard flush hanile set at a 45-degree angle,'' said McGuire, a retired manufacutring engineer. "Turn the handle 40 degrees to the left and the tank high-flushes, which is normal. Turn 40 degrees to the right and the tank low flushes. Four out of five times a low flush is all

Baker pushing plan for part-time legislature

WASHINGTON - Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. (R-Tenn.), who believes Congress should stay in session only half of the year and go home and mingle with the people for the rest, is offering an amendment to make the proposed Senate ethics code "selfdestruct" on Jan. 1, 1980.

Not that he's against ethics, Baker hastens to add with a smile. It's just that the new code, which imposes limits on outside professional activity and outside earned income, presupposes the existence of a full-time 12nonth legislature. And that's not the

Baker wants the Senate to take another look at ethics problems in three years and perhaps rethink its own current role in the constitutional

He wants it to consider whether it should meet only six or seven months a year, stop dealing with tiny legislative details, be paid corespondingly less than its $57,500 current salary for each member, and have each member spend the rest of the year at home doing his or her ordinary business, like law, teaching, farming or whatever.

"That would enable members to find out what their constituency the mainstream of the country's life," said Baker in an interview.

Baker's "sunset" amendment for the ethics code may fail, but the concept that lies behind it - a citizenlegislature instead of a full-time legislature that may become cut off from the people - has some substantial support in the Senate. Sen. Malcolm Wallop (R-Wyo.), an articulate freshman, said that spending virtually the whole year in the capital as professonal full-time legislators "tends to insulate us from the very people we profess to represent ... We become insensitive to the effects of what we pass."

Baker, expounding his views, said, "I can ascertain a difference in attitude since 1950 when my father first went to Congress. He came up here with full expectations of returning to Tennessee regularly, keeping his family down there, keeping his interest in a range of things. He stayed in his law firm, he continued to have interests in a number of businesses.'

Now he said, Congress is moving toward a year-round status and curbs on outside earned income for the logical consequence.

Baker said he believes Congress should move back to the older concept, making itself into a policymaking and overseer body only, letting the President carry out the law, not trying to write every little administrative detail and concept into

WASHINGTON - In the defeat of the common site picketing bill in the House last week, House Republicans feel they have found a combination of ingredients to cure what ails them.

What ails them is a sheer deficiency of numbers. With 289 Democrats, 114 Republicans and two vacancies in the House, Republicans have had little hope of thwarting the huge Democratic majority. They faced a frustrating session, where they could criticize but were not much of a factor to be reckoned with.

"You just get so darned frustrated. you sometimes wonder whether it's worth getting up in the morning.' said Republican Whip Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

And aide, Mike Johnson, chimed in: "It's like being a Maytag repair man. All you can do is sit around and wait for the Democrats to break down."

With the top-heavy Democratic margin in Congress and a Democrat in the White House, in most cases whelmed. But in the defeat of the bill that labor was counting on as a showcase

Republicans will still be over-of its strength in this Congress, Republicans not only slowed down the majority steamroller, but found a mix of outside help and inside coalitions that may allow them to win again. Those factors were: —A strong united lobbying effort that involved not only the special interests directly affected by the bill - contractors, home builders and construction suppliers - but large industries, such as Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Dow Chemical, and the three biggest business lobbying organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, and Business Roundtable, comprising the largest corporations in the country.

-A method of lobbying that not only used powerful Washington lobbyists but generated a grass-roots campaign that brought more mail to Capitol Hill "than at any time since the Vietnam war," as House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill said.

One element of the drive was the House Republican Campaign Committee's mailing to 300,000 election contributors. They were asked to write Democratic leaders saying stop the bill, and to contribute to the Republican cause to stop any future legislation like common situs, which would have allowed a building trade union to shut down an entire construction site although its grievance was with only one subcontractor.

But the most important and effective part of the grass-roots campaign came from the Association of General Contractors. Its members were given postcards urging defeat of the bill, to be distributed with union employes' paychecks and then collected and mailed by supervisors. The result: While national union leaders were lobbying for the bill on Capitol Hill, House members were getting mail from rank and file members of construction trade locals in their districts urging them to vote against it.

The heavy lobbying effort enabled the Republican whip organization. temporarily at least, to revive the Southern Democrat-Republican coalition that had existed in Congress during the '50s and until the late '60s. Every Democrat from Alabama Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi and North Carolina voted against the bill. which was defeated, 217 to 205.

Here's What Could Happen! To The Citizens of Midland:

Regarding Election of Councilman by precinct or ward, amendment No. 1

Under the present system, each citizen votes for all five council positions. Thus, all councilmen are answerable to all citizens, no matter where they live.

Under the proposed system, each citizen could only vote for a councilman from the ward in which he lives. The councilman would only be answerable to the voters who elected him.

The proposed system would also provide for one councilman and the mayor to be elected at large. Have you thought about who would be sitting in the driver's seat with power steering and no brakes? It would seem to me that the ward councilmen would be put in the position of always having to curry favor with the at-large councilman and the mayor to insure that the project he wanted in his ward would have a chance of passing and being funded.

This proposed system fosters the trade-off of support for one ward councilman's project for that of another councilman. This would divide our city and pit one ward against

Under the present system the cost of government has been kept to a minimum. (I know how hard I worked as a councilman and as mayor to keep costs down.)

Under the proposed system, it would be hard to deny a fellow councilman the funding for his pet project when you might soon be asking him for his support for one in your own ward.

Under the present system services of government that are entirely tax supported (not supported by any revenue for services rendered such as water or garbage collection) are allocated over the city by the heads of the department that render those services, without any meddling in the running of those departments by the councilmen.

> Take the police department for instance. How do you think it would be if a councilman went to the police chief and said his ward needed more patrolling, and if he didn't get it, he would see that the chief would be looking for a new job? Don't you think the chief would be compelled to ask the council for more money the next year for more patrolmen and more cars? And don't you think that if one councilman saw that happening in another ward, he might want more for his ward, too?

The same can be said for the Fire Department many times over because of the cost of fire stations and equipment.

The cost of government goes up under the proposed system and the professionalism of department heads is destroyed.

Under the present system the councilmen and the mayor are paid only nominal fees - $75 per month for the mayor and $25 for councilmen. Under the proposed system, it could easily develop that this type of community service could prove burdensome to a councilman, and his fellow councilmen - seeing this - could elect to fully remunerate him for his time, but not without paying each other the same fully salary.

Another good home-rule city would have started down the road of government by cronyism, and trade-off, and wardheeling politics.

U.S. Postal Service

Anyone who suggests that the U.S. Postal Service is operating efficiently should immediately brace himself for the slings and arrows that are sure to come in his direction. Nearly every American has his own particular about. Quasi-private horror story about late mail or the package mangler that seems to be standard equipment in all post

Nevertheless, a good case can be made for the productivity of the Postal Service. It processes almost 90 billion pieces of mail each year and only a very small percentage goes astray. In the six years since it has been a quasiprivate agency, the Postal Service has reorganized the management pyramid effectively, trimmed 57,000 persons from its payroll, doubled salaries of present workers to make them competitive and reduced the federal subsidy from 22 to 10 per cent of its budget.

Most Americans don't see the postal system in those terms, and their attitude is reflected in Congress, where Rep. James Hanley, chairman of the House Operations and Services Subcommittee, began hearings recently on legislation that would tuck the Postal Service back under the wings of the White House and give Congress more authority to control its operations.

Considering the pressures on the Postal Service, most sanguine observers believe that it will undergo "transformation" before this Congress adjourns. We understand that the administration shares this view

We hope that a "transformation," if it occurs, does more than move the Postal Service from pillar to post. The performance of the old Post Office before 1971, when it was a stave in the congressional pork barrel, wasn't by any means superior.

What is needed, we think, is a change in the public perception of what the Postal Service is all management during the last six years could not make the Postal Service self-sufficient simply because it could not fully implement businesslike cost accounting methods to mail operations. Postmaster Benjamin Bailar could not close remote and inefficient post offices. He probably is close to the political limit in shutting down service windows or laying off any more help. And he most likely could not give the dispensing of food stamps back to the Agriculture Department if he wanted to. Congress won't let him.

American people probably don't want Congress to mandate more stringent efficiency standards on the battered mail system either. The anomaly is that we, the American people, want the Service to continue it's social, nonmail functions, but we resent the increasing costs of stamps and the $1.5 billion or so annual federal subsidy that the added duties

Is it congruous for Congress to spend billions of dollars for makework programs that touch the lives of a few million people at best, while forcing the Postal Service to eliminate thousands of jobs that offer genuine public assistance to all Americans? We think not.

Letters will arrive on time and the stamp window will be open longer when Americans understand that the Postal Service is as legitimate a public function as an interstate highway or a farm

SOVIET VIEWS STATED:

Kremlin is all for U.S. ties with Cuba

Copley News Service
The Soviet Union is all in favor of the United States reestablishing relations with Communist Cuba.

All that the United States has to do, Moscow says, is "to put an end to the economic blockade and to the terrorist activity of the Cuban

The Soviet's views on normalization of ties between the Washington and Havana governments were made known in a brief article in New Times, a Soviet world affairs weekly, published in Moscow and circulated throughout the world in eight languages.

New Times reported that interest in the question of U.S. recognition of Cuba has been "whipped up" by a number of statements and contacts by American congressmen, journalists and businessmen.

"One of the latter was the visit paid to Havana by Congressman Jonathan B. Bingham who told Cuban newsman that he was for the lifting of the economic blockade, stressing that it was not in the interest of either the United States or Cuba," New Times reported.

The Soviet weekly laid considerable emphasis on U.S. trade possibilities in Already, it said, about a third of Cuba's foreign trade is with the capitalist world.

WILLIAM GIANDONI

New Times sought to allay any hopes that relations between the United States and Cuba might entice the Caribbean island republic back into the democratic camp.

"It has been clear for a long time. now that the social and political system chosen by the people themselves has firmly asserted itself in "A major guarantee of the solidity of Cuba's position in the world is her close friendship and cooperation with other Socialist countries which give her all-around-political and economic support," New Times said. But then, the Soviet weekly seemed to contradict itself by suggesting that the support Cuba gets from the Marxist bloc is something new. The magazine reported that the world price of sugar, which is Cuba's principal export, has been falling in recent months but said that "Cuba is feeling quite confident.'

"That confidence was further enhanced by the recent decision of the Executive Committee of the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance (the Soviet common market organization) to recommend in their relations with Cuba (that) the CMEA member countries take into account her economic difficulties caused by the inflation and other negative phenomena in the world capitalist

In any case, the Soviet publication affirmed that "expansion of Cuba's ties with other countries in the Western Hemisphere is a healthy and logical process. It is part of the still wider process of international detente, of the general positive changes in interstate relations that accord with the vital interests of all nations.

(The United States broke relations with Communist Cuba on Jan. 3, 1961. just two years after Fidel Castro took control of the country. By that time uba already had become a satellite, the Castro dictatorship had sent thousands and thousands of Cuban anti-Communists before firing squads, jails and concentration camps were filled with tens of thousands of political prisoners, and an estimated $1.8 billion in U.S.owned property had been confiscated.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON - The Hanafi Muslim siege that traumatized Washington last month might have been averted. Shortly before the harrowing event, Treasury agents were stopped from randing Hanafi headquarters.

WHITTEN

They wanted to search the hangout for illegal firearms. They would have found the arsenal, of course, that the Muslim fanatico later used to terrorize 134 hostages.

Ironically, the raid was blocked by the U.S. Attorney's office over the incident that later drove the Hanafi Muslims to desperation. Four years ago, a squad of rival Black Muslims burst into the Hanafi headquarters and brutally slaughtered seven members of the sect, including five of leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis'

The Justice Dept. sent five Black Muslims to prison for the crime. But Khaalis wasn't satisfied; he wanted eye-for-eye retribution.

Agents of the Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, meanwhile, learned that Khaalis' sonin-law, Abdul Aziz, illegally possessed a shotgun, rifle and revolver inside the heavily guarded Hanafi compound. The agents decided to seize the illegal weapons and to arrest Aziz on felony weapons charges. But the U.S. Attorney's office quietly requested the Treasury agents to back off. There were still some loose ends in the case against the murderers of Khaalis' children. The government attorneys wanted a woman in the Hanafi household to testify in court. Knowing of Khaalis' bitter attitude and erratic temper; they feared he would never let the woman testify after his headquarters was raided. So they persuaded the reluctant Treasury agents to call off the raid.

Siege could have been averted

Not long afterward, the brooding Khaalis decided the government had not done enough to avenge the murder of his five children. He led his Hanafi commandos in their spectacular assault. They shot and bludgeoned their way into three Washington buildings and held 134 hostages for two tense days.

Belatedly, Washington police confiscated the weapons that the Treasury agents presumably would have found. At this writing, no lawmen have yet raided the Hanafi hangout to find out what other weapons may be stashed there.

But the T-men have been asked to trace the seized weapons, which have provided them with leads to five potential criminal cases.

Footnote: A spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's office acknowledged to our associate Jack Mitchell that the Treasury agents had been asked to hold off arresting Aziz and seizing the illegal weapons. The spokesman explained that the arrest might have hurt the prosecution of the controversial Hanafi murder case.

A LA JAMES BOND Czechoslovakia's No. 4 man in Washington, Anatol Demucky, started off for Florida the other day in his 1971 Comet. He detected a strange whizzing sound and pulled into a service station to find out what was wrong.

The mechanics placed the car on a lift and inspected the underbelly. They spotted a black object attached to the gas tank. The device somewhat resembled a transistor radio with an antenna hanging from it.

Alarmed, the mechanic summoned the Washington, D.C., police, who called in the bomb squad. The device turned out to be a battery-operated homing device, suitable for tracking suspicious vehicles.

The Czechoslovakian embassy expressed its "deep concern" to the State Dept. about the incident. Whoever planted the device on Demucky's car, meanwhile, is keeping quiet. One clue: It's the sort of homing gadget that the FBI has used in the past to monitor the movements of suspected spies although an FBI spokesman denied "any knowledge" of the affair.

WHO'S NEWS — Budget boss Bert Lance, an amiable, Andy Griffith type, has made himself easily accessible to the press. He has even been known to answer his own telephone. But behind the scenes, his subordinates must go through a strange rigmarole to see him. First they must submit a written memo explaining what they want to discuss with him. The request must also contain a complete list of all others who will be present. And two telephone numbers must be listed for each person wishing to be ushered into Lance's presence.

- Turner B. Shelton, probably the worst ambassador of the Nixon era. has also been the most persistent. The State Dept. brought him back from Nicaragua after a disgraceful performance there. But he called on powerful congresssional friends, who helped him get reappointed as am-bassador to the Bahamas. Both the Senate and the Bahamas turned him down. He continued to seek appointments to Bermuda, then to Casablanca. In the end, he had to settle for a position as "diplomat-inresidence" at the Navy War College in Newport, R.I. Now the Carter administration has quietly kicked him

INSIDE REPORT:

Columnists tell why $50 tax rebate scheme may lose

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Despite his searing popularity, Jimmy Carter today would be rebuffed in a vote by the Democratic Senate on his top priority $50 tax rebate scheme, with powerful Democratic Senators standing aside, hands in their pockets and blandness on their faces. Such a defeat might instruct the White House that a President's popularity in the country is not always manifest on Capitol Hill. Influential Democratic Senators feel the administration has bungled the economic stimulation bill coctaining the tax rebate. Angry over President Carter's crusade against water projects, these Senators are not enthusiastic about saving the mishandled rebate for him.

This points to the diametrically opposed view of the world from opposite ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. The Carter inner circle believes Congress cannot obstruct a President with such phenomenal popularity. But grizzled Senate Democratic grandees believe Mr. Carter is hardly more popular at this honeymoon stage than were John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, all of whom quickly returned to earth. Viewing Jimmy Carter as just another President tips the balance of Senate arithmetic on the $50-for-everybody tax rebate. All 38 Republican Senators plus in-dependent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia are expected to vote against the rebate. To muster enough partyline support to win, Mr. Carter needs muscle from two key Democrats: Russell B. Long of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Senate majority leader.

Their muscle will not be employed unless the White House changes their present attitudes. As of now, majority leader Byrd plans no major effort for the rebate; finance chairman Long plans no arm twisting. "And I think Russell would be twisting arms if he were happier about the way things are going," a Senate insider told us.

That is shorthand for Long's displeasure that five water projects suspended in Mr. Carter's budget-cutting campaign are in Long's own state of Louisiana. While Bob Byrd has gotten mad about the President's shutting off the Senate's pet water projects, Russell Long has kept quiet but means to get even. Even without the added burden of senatorial resentment over the suspended water projects, the tax rebate would be in trouble. The administration erred strategically when it did not fight the House action deleting incentives for business investment from the economic stimulation bill. Without the sweeteners, the bill has a sour taste for business.

Furthermore, in its egalitarian fervor, the House barred the $50 rebate for taxpayers making more than $30,000 a year — a change that has not helped the measure in the Senate. "You have to remember," a senior Democratic senator told us, "that most senators don't see or talk to anybody eligible for the rebate. Finally, as business indicators have improved and inflation is replacing unemployment as the chief economic headache, overall congressional interest in economic stimulation has declined. The lack of intensity is reflected in the super-deliberate speed of the Senate which may delay passage of a bill until after the Easter

Engrossed in its spectacularly successful campaign to keep up the President's popularity, the White House was unaware of the rebate's gradual fizzle until the eleventh hour. On the day before his committee voted, Long telephoned the White House to inform the President he had better get to lobbying Democratic senators. Mr. Carter responded with personal calls to all Finance Committee Democrats. The rebate passed 10 to 8; it would not have otherwise.

But why would Long save the President on the March 17 committee vote and then a week later decide to twist no arms? During 28 years in the Senate, Long has become an intriguing, skillful but inscrutable figure. Although nobody is sure exactly what he is up to, the guess in the Senate is that Long expected thanks from the White House for his favor - and did not receive it.

The thanks would have been a reprieve for some of those Louisiana water projects. But the men around Mr. Carter make clear he will not play that brand of politics under any circumstances.

Both Jimmy Carter and Russell Long are canny Southern politicians unbound by rigid ideology and seldom frozen into rigid positions. Yet, at opposite ends of the avenue, they are a world apart - one depending for power on his carefully nourished popular support, the other wanting the political power game played as it has always been played.

By J. P. SMITH The Washington Post

SHREVEPORT, La. — President Carter's "hit list" of Corps of Engineers water projects he wants cut from the federal budget is coming face to face with the old politics.

Just a few hundred yards from the Red River, which snakes through this north Louisiana city, the state's congressional delegation, led by Sen. Russell B. Long, has fired the first volley of what promises to be an allout drive to save the $954 million Red River Waterway.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, arose at a packed public hearing to speak of "honor" and the federal commitment to build the Red River project. Fellow Democratic Sen. J. Bennett Johnston followed, calling development of a navigable waterway along the Red 'our birthright."

Supported by an enthusiastic audience of 600 business and civic leaders, farmers and state and local politicians, Long shook his finger at Col. Early J. Rush, the New Orleans district engineer who chaired the hearing, as he assailed Carter's new criteria for evaluating water projects.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee was the first to speak, citing the virtue of "honor" and the federal commitment to build the Red River project as he began his remarks before a wildly enthusiastic audience of almost 600 business leaders, industrialists, farmers and boosters - to say nothing of a cadre of state and local politicians who jamed the Corps of Engineers' public hear-

Long pounced on Carter's new water project evaluation criteria, especially using a 6.38 per cent interest rate instead of the Congressionally authorized 3.25 per cent rate in computing cost benefit justification for Corps projects.

"The President might withhis argument over interest rates before a bunch of environmentalists, but let him try it before a bunch of businessmen," Long said, to a tumult of applause.

While Long-didn't personally attack the President, it was clear to everyone attending the hearing, which early in the afternoon seemed more like a reviva meeting than a rally, that if necessary Long will fight Carter's attempt to kill the project in the Senate.

During an interview afterwards, Long predicted that the President's list will be "futher reduced"

Adding that "I don't fault the President on this," Long was quick to say, "I think Red River will be funded, even if I'm not right about the economics — and I think I am."

The Red River Waterway project was authorized by Congress in 1968, and first funded in 1972. The project, which until Carter put it on the "hit list" was estimated for completion by 1985, consists of a network of five locks and dams, and would provide a navigable link between Shreveport and the Mississippi River.

Johnston indirectly called Carter's southern populist heritage into question cataloguing unemployment rates, data on substandard housing, and other indicators that the parishes along Louisiana's Red River Valley are economically depressed.

"Its our birthright," Johnston said, alluding to efforts by Louisiana politicians over the last decades to develop a navigable waterway along the Red River Valley.

Johnston, who chaired Carter's Louisiana State Campaign, said afterwards, "If the people in Louisiana thought Carter would cut out the Red River and some of these other projects, the state wouldn't have gone for

Rep. Joe D. Waggonner, Jr., (D-La.) was cheered as he assailed Carter's willingness to sharply increase funding to the World Bank much of which Waggonner said goes to water projects in developing countries - while cutting back on the Red River project.

The only person — of the more than 60 who registered with the Corps to speak at he hearing - opposed to the project was Steve Forsythe, of the Fish and Wildlife Service's Vicksburg office. Forsythe detailed numerous adverse environmental effects, including reduced habitat for endangered species.

Jogging craze has spawned national clubs

By JOHN VAN GIESON

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The jogging craze has spawned a national network of clubs offering runners information, competition, and just plain

"The growth has been pretty phenomenal," says Jeff Darman of Washington, D.C., president of the Road Runners Club of America. "In the last year we've doubled in size in terms of people. In terms of clubs, we've gone from 60 to 94." He says the national organization has 16,500 members in 35 states, the District of Columbia and

A typical club, the Gulf Winds Track Club of Talkatassee, has grown in two years from 35 members to 170. President James Penrod, a doctor. says most members are joggers who wanted more out of running than plodding around their neighborhoods.

"It's basically to promote running and fitness as a regular part of your life," Penrod says. "We've got some people who are national caliber, and mediocre people like me who will never be anything but

Gulf Winds membership covers a broad spectrum, but is heavy on professionals and university professors. There are doctors, lawyers, bankers, housewives, students, reporters, lobbyists, a bartender and an airline stewardess.

Members range in age from 9-year-old Jimmy Ibach to Owen "Casey" Cason, 65. A burly bear of a man, Cason is Gov. Reubin Askew's chauffeur. "Our club presidents range from one who's a card-carrying Communist, and quite proud of it, to e." Darman save He says Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J., also is a member. Running clubs sponsor frequent races with over-all and age group prizes. Darman says the competition sparks interest in running as a physical fitness activity.

"Once they get into it, they get hooked on it, and they get into the low-key competition," he says. "They get into this concept of everybody winning by competing against themselves, and I think that's what's attractive about the sport."

About 180 runners entered a recent 5,000-meter (3.1-mile) Gulf Winds race promoting the Heart Fund. All finishers were awarded "Ya Gotta Have Heart" T-shirts contributed by the Heart gaseocation and a beer d stributor, Over-all and age group leaders won trophies and medallions. Runners pay a nominal entry fee, but it's not enough to cover expenses, Penrod says. But Gulf

Winds is supported by beer distributors and a banker who contribute prizes. Athletic shoe stores donate energy drinks to revive exhausted racers. Gulf Winds dues are $5 a year for individuals and $10 for families. Dues help to support the club's newsletter, which advises members of races throughout the South and offers them training tips.

While the club stages frequent races in Tallahassee, it does not sponsor runners on the na-tional track circuit. Gulf Winds members compete at/ their own expense.

AMARILLO - The Midland College golf team shot a 305 here Thursday afternoon, and finished second to New Mexico Junior College in a make-up Western Junior College Conference round at the Amarillo Country Club. It had previously been scheduled for Midland Country Club last fall, but inclement weather conditions forced its cancellation, and it was changed to

New Mexico JC shot a 304 to edge the Chaps by a single stroke, and also take that slight edge into the second round of the Great Plains Golf Tournament today, at the Tascosa Country Club. Friday's 18 holes of play will count as Amarillo College's conference round, just as Thursday's competition was Midland's, but the two rounds together make up the Great Plains event.

Wally Brodzik led the Chaps to their runnerup finish yesterday, shooting a 74 and taking top medalist honors in the nine-team event. He had tied with Monty Watson, the former Midland Lee golfer who is now playing for New Mexico Junior College, but beat him on the second hole of a sudden death

Miss Burfeindt, who finished three strokes behind Mrs. Rankin in the Winners Circle last year, was not thinking about being nervous, so she did not appreciate the wind. After moving into the early lead with a three-under-par 33 on the front nine, she struggled to a 39 on the back side.

Bucs cut Robertson

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) - Injury-plagued Bob Robertson, the only baseball player ever to hit a home run into the leftfield upper deck at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh, has been cut by the Pirates.

The red-haired, Maryland native, 30, was placed on irrevocable waivers Wednesday after an eight-year Pirate career. If no team claims him in six days, Robertson will be a free agent.

He signed with the Pirates as a free agent in the summer of 1964 and led the Class AA Southern League two years later with 32 home runs and 99 runs batted in.

His health problems began in 1968 when he missed the entire season following kidney surgery.

However, he made the Pirates in 1970, clouting 27 homers. During the 1971 season, he hit 26 homers.

A's deal with confusion

OAKLAND (AP) — The new Oakland A's—or, Vida Blue, Billy North and a bunch of virtual unknowns-are eight days and perhaps as many roster changes away from opening the 1977 baseball

"There's been a lot of confusion here," said Jack McKeon, owner Charlie Finley's latest manager, from the A's Arizona spring training camp Thursday. "But you've got to put up with the confusion if you feel it's strengthening the ballclub. And I definitely feel we've strengthened our club.

As spring training winds down toward the April 9 American League home opener against the Minnesota Twins, the A's have only four players on the roster who were with the club the entire 1976 season-pitchers Blue, Mike Torrez and Stan Bahnsen and centerfielder North.

Torrez is none too secure, however, because of his contract situation, a one-year agreement that would allow him to leave at season's end, and Finley is open to offers- for $2 million and up-for Blue, the $200,000per-year left-hander he tried to sell for $1.5 million last year.

Blue and North are the only players remaining from the A's last world championship club, the 1974 team which wiped out the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series.

The other 1974 regulars are playing elsewhere now, mostly under lucrative contracts they gained after becoming free agents.

Phil Garner, the A's second baseman the past two seasons, made the observation before being traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates that, "Charlie needs bodies.

And Finley went after more bodies-mostly young ones not in the position to demand big money-in rebuilding. The pitching staff is an experienced one, however.

Six possible members of the opening day lineup-infielders Rodney Scott, Rob Picciolo, Jerry Tabb and Wayne Gross and outfielders Mitchell Page and Tony Armas-have a combined total of 58 big league atbats. Veterans such as Dick Allen, Manny Sanguillen and North will complete the new A's

By BOB DILLON

Junior righthander Craig Van Horn was tough when he had to be and shortstop Mike Richard slammed a two-run homer Thursday to propel the Robert E. Lee Rebels to a 3-1 baseball victory over the San Angelo Central Bobcats.

Van Horn struck out nine Bobcats in registering the big victory and three of those came in the seventh inning when Central was threatening.

Richard, also a junior, ripped a 360foot home run over the fence in left field with teammate Todd Clements on base in the bottom of the first inning off Bobcat ace, Steve Winger and the Rebs added an insurance run in the fifth inning for their first District 5-4A win in three starts.

The game was a makeup affair which was rained out last Saturday at the Lee diamond.

San Angelo was turned away in the top of the first inning after getting three base runners on. Mike McLaughlin led things off with a single, but was forced on an attempted sacrifice by Mark Freeman, with the play going from Van Horn to Richard at short; forcing out McLaughlin. Joe Paul Bramhall then rammed a single into center where David Pitts bobbled the ball, Bramhall was then thrown out on a perfect throw by Rebel catcher Jeff Mathews for the second out on an attempted steal and Jodi Martinez grounded out to short to turn the Concho Cats away empty-handed.

MATHEWS LED off the Lee first by striking out, but Clements legged out an infield hit and scored on Richard's homer to left for a 2-0 lead.

Lee threatened in the second. Pat Moore hit a liner up the middle, but was thrown out by McLaughlin trying to steal. Craig Young followed with a base hit, but was picked off first by McLaughlin. Richard Benson then reached first on a throwing error by, Bramhall at short, but died at second when Pitts skied out to center.

THE BOBCATS scored their only run of the afternoon in the third inning. Winger was safe on an infield hit and pinch-runner Mark Ryan was sacrificed to second by Tony Gipe and scored on a single by Bramhall. McLaughlin had walked after the sacrifice, but on Bramhall's single, was thrown out at the plate on a relay throw from Clements to Robby Roberson at third, who in turn, fired to Mathews at the plate where the tag was applied.

A double play after Richard was in-tentionally walked in the third inning, halted a Lee threat.

Lee added another run in the fifth inning, thanks to an error by Martinez at first. After two were down. Mathews was safe on Martinez' miscue and Clements delivered a base hit. Richard was walked again, intentionally and Van Horn hit a shot at second where Greg Johnigan made a diving stop of the hot liner, scoring

ON THAT very same play, Johnigan's hat flew off and after his great stop, the ball wound up in his hat and for a moment, the Bobcat second baseman didn't know where the ball was. He recovered in time to keep Clements from scoring, however. In the top of the seventh, Central got a runner on base when Gipe was safe on a throwing error by Young at second with Gipe winding up at second on the overthrow. Van Horn then struck out McLaughlin looking and Freeman swinging. Bramhall worked Van Horn for a walk, but the junior responded by fanning Martinez, the cleanup hitter.

With the victory, Lee stands 11-7 on the year and 1-2 in 5-4A play while Central is 8-7 and 1-2. Lee plays coleader Big Spring in Big Spring Satur-day while San Angelo takes on the Midland Bulldogs in the Tall City in its next outing.

Stoll upsets Mary Hamm

King in a women's tennis several shots past tournament last week, Hamm. was defeated by Caroline Stoll in secondround action at a $20,000 tournament here Thursday

Stoll, who is from Livingston, N.J., used her tricky top spin forehand to defeat Hamm 6-3, 6-3. Hamm tried to attack

Stoll's heavy top spin by taking her shots on the rise. But, Hamm said, "When you always have to hit it above your shoulders it's hard to do anything with the ball.'

Stoll says her highbouncing forehand shots "drive just about every back court player crazy. She played me smart but I was never really nervous about the whole thing."

Chris Chambliss inks 5-year pact

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - First baseman Chris Chambliss, whose dramatic playoff nomer enabled the New York Yankees to win the American League pennant last season, signed a fiveyear contract Thursday night for an estimated $1.2

The signing was announced during the Yankees' exhibition game against the Atlanta Braves after a day-long meeting between Chambliss' agent, Ed Keating, and Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees. The 28-year-old Chambliss refused to discuss the amount of his contract but said he was "very happy, completely content. I won't have any regrets even if I become the home run champion, the RBI champion and the most valuable player.'

Chambliss, who came to the Yankees in 1974 in a Thuch-criticized seven-player trade with the Cleveland Indians, batted .304 in 1975 and .293 last season with 17 homers and 96 runs batted in.

"Everybody always asks me where I'm going to be playing next year," says the New York Knicks' guard, 'but we still have this year to finish."

If Frazier keeps playing the way he did Thursday night, it is likely the Knicks will not let him get away, no matter what the press says. He scored 41 points, handed out 11 assists and made six steals as New York beat the Indiana Pacers 135-131.

"I'm glad I played a good game," said Frazier, obviously thumbing his nose at sports writers after the National Basketball Association game. "I'm not talking to the press anymore—everything I say seems to get misquoted and blown out of proDavid Thompson scored 33 points, including 11 in the fourth period, as

Denver raced past the Braves. The Braves had moved within five

But Thompson and Mack Calvin combined to lead Denver's fast-break offense as the Nuggets pulled away in the final minutes.

Warriors 125, Spurs 116
Rick Barry broke loose for 12 points in the final quarter and finished with 25, leading Golden State past San Antonio. Barry also handed out 10 assists as the Warriors moved closer to clinching a playoff berth.

John Drew hit three baskets in the last three minutes, leading Atlanta past the New York Nets. Drew was the game's high scorer with 38 points.

Ken Charles and Steve Hawes each had 15 points for Atlanta, which scored six of the game's last seven field goals.

WORLD, HOCKEY, ASSOCIATION So Cleveland-on-Erie is not exactly the French Riviera or the beach at Waikiki, but when you have bounced around the minor leagues for six long years it can be the Garden of Eden.

Norris, a 28-year-old rookie who was notified 24 hours earlier that he had made Cleveland's 25-man regular-season roster and probably would be the opening day right fielder at Boston next week, delivered a triple and three singles in five at-bats Thursday as the Indians trounced the Oakland A's 8-1 in an exhibition game.

"It's great to have a day like this, but I'm not playing any harder than I have all spring," said Norris, who is batting .403 on 25 hits in 62 at-bats. "I thought I was playing well enough to win a job, but I still was in a state of shock when Frank (Manager Frank Robinson) told me. "I mean, after you've played in the

The Cincinnati Reds continued to look like anything but world champions. They dropped their fourth game in a row when the Chicago White Sox, held hitless for six innings by Fred Norman, scored twice off relief ace Rawly Eastwick in the 11th for a 4-2 victory. The setback dropped the Reds' spring record to 8-13, their worst exhibition showing in 11 years. Wayne Simpson allowed one run in seven innings and lowered his spring earned run average to 1.80 as the California Angels downed the San Diego Padres 4-1. The performance not only was Simpson's fourth exhibition triumph but earned him a spot in the starting rotation, according to Manager Norm Sherry.

Del Unser's second home run of the game, a three-run blast in the 10th inning, offset a two-run shot by Minnesota's Bob Gorinski in the bottom of the 10th and enabled the Montreal Expos to nip the Twins 4-3.

The New York Yankees signed pennant home run hero Chris Chambliss to a five-year contract, then beat the Atlanta Braves 4-3 as Fred Stanley drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a squeeze bunt.

Greg Luzinski's RBI single in the bottom of the ninth gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the Texas Rangers. Eric Rasmussen hurled six shutout innings as the St. Louis Cardinals edged the New York Mets 2-1 and Ken Mc-Mullen's pinch homer capped a fiverun seventh inning that carried the Milwaukee Brewers past the San Francisco Giants 9-8. Lee Stanton smashed a tworun

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fia. (AP) - Owner George Steinbrenner says the New York Yankees will attempt to assist disgruntled Graig Nettles with his tax problems, but rules out any extension of the third baseman's

Meanwhile, Nettles rejoined the Yankees Thursday after a two-day absence and Steinbrenner said he would not be fined $500 per day as threatened Nettles left the club Tuesday because the Yankees would not extend or reword the three-year $380,000 contract he signed last July. Nettles said he was not looking for more money but wanted to change the wording in the contract affecting deferred payments for tax purposes.

"An extension is out of the question," Steinbrenner said. "In the third year of his contract Nettles will" be 34. In the option year (1979) he will be 35. It is not good business to think about extending the contract of a man that age."

However, Steinbrenner had said he would be willing to look into rewording the contract once Nettles returned to camp and admitted he made a mistake by jumping the club. Nettles issued a brief statement saying: "The problen I have is a personal one. I now realize it should be settled at the conference table and not on the field. I want to apologize if I have caused any embarrassment or inconvenience to the Yankees. All I want to do now is get ready for the upcoming season."

Nettles led the American League with 32 home runs last season and drove in 93 runs.

"Graig Nettles has an enforceable contract," Steinbrenner said. "There is no question as to the legality. I told his agent we would fight to the end to enforce the contract. I think Nettles acted hastily. What he did cannot be allowed to happen. Contracts must be

Reds sum up NL West picture

By The Associated Press

First, there are the Cincinnati Reds and ... say, that just about sums up the pennant race in the National League West, doesn't it?

The two-time world champions virtually stood pat after the 1976 season. Other teams made wholesale

The result: If luck is against them, the Reds may win the divisional title by only nine games this year. If it is with them, they will win it by even more than last year's 10 games.

THE LOS Angeles Dodgers again will be the primary challengers, San Diego could threaten-unless Randy Jones falters. If that is the case, the San Francisco Giants will nose out the Padres for third place. Atlanta and Houston figure to stagger around near the bottom of the division.

Cincinnati refused to enter the high-priced free-agent bidding even though it lost one of its pitching stars, Don Gullett. Nevertheless, the Reds managed to improve their pitching

They dealt Tony Perez, their aging first baseman, and relief pitcher Will McEnaney to the Montreal Expos in exchangee for Dale Murray, who could become their star reliever, and ol' Woodie Fryman, a starter.

THEY JOIN an already solid crew with starters including Gary Nolan (15-9), Fred Norman (12-7), NL corookie Pat Zachry (14-7) and Santo Alcala (11-4) and relievers Rawly Eastwick and Pedro Borbon.

Catching all those pitchers- and hitting the rest of the league's pit-chers—is Johnny Bench. He had a dismal season (.234 average, 16 home runs 74 runs batted in), but showed he has plenty left by winning the World Series Most Valuable Player Award (.533 average, two homers, six RBI,

Dan Driessen, the Reds' premier pinch hitter last year and the NL's first designated hitter in the World Series, gets a job of his own, Perez' first base spot. He joins one of the major leagues' best infields, with second baseman Joe Morgan (National League MVP, 320 average, 27 homers, 111 RBI, 60 stolen bases, 113 runs scored), shortstop Dave Concepcion (.281 average, 69 RBI) and third baseman Pete Rose (.323 average, 63 RBI, league-high 130 runs scored).

AND IN the outfield there are George Foster (.306, 29 homers, 121 RBI), Ken Griffey (.336 average, 74 RBI, 111 runs scored) and Cesar Geronimo (.307).

Even the reserves (Bob Bailey, .298; Ed Armbrister, .295; Doug Flynn, .283) are enough to shake up the opposition.

Some of the Dodgers taking the field this season were not even born when Walter Alston began his incredible string of 23 seasons as the team's manager. Now they have a new boss, Tom Lasorda, a coach for Los Angeles since 1973. What he has to work with is one of the best, most balanced squads in the league. If the Dodgers were in the East Division. they likely would be flag favorites. But with Cincinnati around, they're only second best.

OUTFIELDER Rick Monday, acquired from Chicago, gained national recognition last April 25 (in Los Angeles, as a matter of fact) by rescuing a flag from two young men who tried to set it afire. Now the Dodgers hope his bat (32 homers, 77 RBI in 1976) can set them afire. Also available for the outfield are veterans Reggie Smith, Dusty Baker, Lee Lacy and Manny Mota, and youngsters John Hale and Glenn Burke. It is not exactly a powerhouse,

Steve Garvey (.317, 13 homers, 80 RBI), Ron Cey (.277, 23, 80), Dave Lopes (league-leading 63 stolen bases) and Bill Russell (.274, 65 RBI) make up the infield. Newcomer Johnny Oates, from Philadelphia, is battling Steve Yeager for the catching

PITCHING HAS long been the Dodgers' trademark. That is beginning to fade a bit, but it still is a strong suit with Don Sutton (21-10), Rick Rhoden (12-3), Doug Rau (16-12) and reliever Charlie Hough (12-8, 2.20 earned run average). If Al Downing, Burt Hooton and Tommy John have more respectable seasons (they were a combined 22-27 last year) or if Dennis Lewallyn, Rex Hudson or Dewey Forry make it big, Los Angeles' challenge for the flag would be a much stronger one. The Padres' hopes have to rest to a great degree on Jones' left arm, the one that junkballed him to the 1976 NL Cy Young Award with a 22-14 record and a 2.74 ERA. Jones burned up the league for the first half of the season (16-3), then faded. A late-season auto accident and post-season surgery have left his capabilities in doubt.

IF HE folds, he will have more bullpen help to look forward to this year. Butch Metzger (11-4, 16 saves, 2.93 ERA, NL coRookie of the Year) is joined by long-time Oakland relief ace Rollie Fingers.

But Jones is only one starter in a rotation. Dave Freisleben (10-13). Brent Strom (12-16) and the rest of the starters failed to do their share.

San Diego's hitting should be helped by the arrival of Gene Tenace from the A's and George Hendrick from Cleveland. They bring power to go along with the solid averages of Mike Ivie (.291) and Dave Winfield (.283).

The Giants now have in their lineup the NL's best batter the past two seasons—third baseman Bill Madlock (.339, 15 homers, 84 RBI in 1976), acquired in the deal that sent outfielder Bobby Murcer to the Chicago Cubs. That has to help raise new Manager Joe Altobelli's spirits—and raise San Francisco from low batting mark last

THE ARRIVAL of Lynn McGlothen (13-15) and John Curtis (6-11) will not do much to improve a pitching staff dominated by John Montefusco (16-14) and Jim Barr (15-12). A turnaround by Ed Halicki (12-14) would Owner Ted Turner went all out to drag his Braves up to respectability by signing two big names.

He got free agent Gary Matthews (.279 average, 20 homers, 84 RBI). And because he allegedly tampered with the onetime star outfielder for San Francisco, he got slapped by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn with a $10,000 fine and a suspension.

Turner then traded a wave of players (outfielders Ken Henderson and Dave May and pitchers Roger Moret, Carl Morton and Adrian Devine) to Texas in exchange for Jeff Burroughs, an outfielder coming off his second straight mediocre year (.237, 18 homers, 86 RBI) but with the potential—especially in the launching pad known as Atlanta Stadium—to lead the NL in homers this year.

WITH THE exception of the late-spring acquisition of Willie Crawford (to replace injured Cesar Cedeno), Houston did little in the off-season to keep up with other improving clubs in the division and likely will slide back from last year's surprise third-place

There is a fair pitching staff (J.R. Richard, 20-15, was the only big win-

Kingman holds out

ST.PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) - The New York Mets have one week to sign slugger Dave Kingman. After that, says Kingman, forget it. In an unusual news conference he conducted while sitting on a bench outside the Mets' clubhouse following a Thursday workout, Kingman said he wanted to be traded and would play out his option if he was not signed when the baseball season begins next Thursday.

"If I am not signed by opening day I will not sign in 1977," Kingman said. "Then, at the end of the season, I will be a free agent and the Mets will become one of the 26 clubs in the major

"I am insisting I have a contract when the season opens. If they don't have me signed by then I would welcome a trade as soon as possible. That's the only result that will make all parties happy."
Kingman, 28, a moody first baseman-outfielder who alternates between booming home runs and wild-swinging strikeouts, batted .238 last season but finished second in the National League to Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt with 37 home runs. He also drove in 86 runs.

He suffered a torn ligament in his left thumb July 19 and missed 33

School board candidates discuss campaign issues

Two candidates are vying for one spot on the Midland school board, while a third candidate is running unopposed for the other vacancy.

Trustee Joe Dominey is seeking reelection to Position 2. He is challenged by Kingdon R. Hughes. Trustee James Ramsoure is unopposed in his bid for re-election to The Reporter-Telegram asked each candidate to answer questions on discipline, education methods, desegregation implementation, election methods and school expansion. The candidates' complete answers to the questions follow:

Dominey backs more on basics

Name: Joe H. Dominey Address: 705 Sandelwood, Midland Personal data: I have been a Midland resident for 14 years, am married, and have three children all of whom have attended Midland public schools from the first grade level. Presently my daughter attends LHS, and my two sons are at Austin Freshman School and Alamo Junior High.

I am a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, and am presently Vice president for marketing and business development at The Midland National Bank.

Civic activities include six years as a member of the Board of Education, chairman of the Midland Bicentennial Commission, past president of the Midland Optimist Club, member of the Midland Area Sales Team, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce breakfast committee, and board member of the Salvation Army in Midland.

De you believe there is a discipline problem in Midland schools? If so what can be done to improve the

Some youngsters in any school system are disinterested in learning. or may exhibit immature behavior. Such children need to be taught personal responsibility with the help of administrators and parents. Most children are able to perform well in an atmosphere of discipline and respect in our classrooms. Teachers need the support of principals and administrators in dealing with severe discipline problems.

Self-discipline is the most important attitude a person can acquire, with the objective of being able to continue independent learning for the rest of one's life our main goal.

Should standardized tests be used to determine if students should be pro-

Standardized tests can be just one tool in evaluating whether a child is ready to progress to the next grade.

Just as important is the teacher's evaluation of the child and how he is performing in relation to his mental ability. Tests are tools to help the teacher help the child.

If a child lacks the mental ability to progress up the grade ladder, he should not be kept with children who are three or four years younger. because this creates social problems for all concerned. Such children need move into special remedial programs, while remaining with others of approximately the same

Do you favor more emphasis on basics?

Yes. Particularly do I favor emphasis on computing skills, since this area has suffered with the greater emphasis placed on analyzing problems. Certainly reading is crucial to a person's educational success. However, the basics should encompass more than the traditional "three R's." I would include listening. speaking, analyzing, developing a healthy body and mind, and developing skills for independent

What is your opinion of the values clarification program being tested in some Midland schools?

Any new program shoulds be examined cautiously through proper research and pilot programs before being implemented on a district-wide scale. This is what is being done now with the state-required values clarification program.

As I understand the program, it is designed to make young people aware of their own values in order to develop independent decision-making skills. The objective is to equip a young person with the ability to resist pressure from others to experiment with drugs or to violate the law.

The Texas Legislature has required school districts to deal with drug abuse and crime prevention through programs such as values clarification. However, I am glad the program is limited to a few schools until we can evaluate its effectiveness. I would not support any program which invades personal privacy and supplants the responsibilities of home and church.

What steps can be taken by the school board to smooth implementation of the desegregation plan?

The most important step is to insure that the community is well informed as to how the desegregation plan operates. They should know that adult monitors will ride with the children on the buses, that two-way radios will be on each bus, and that every step will be taken to provide for the safety of

More importantly, parents should know that we are committed to maintaining quality instruction in these grades through use of individualized instruction and grouping by ability levels

The recent formation of a communtiy steering committee to provide good accurate information and support is one positive step that the school board has already taken. We are grateful to the Human Relations Council, Chamber of Commerce, and Action Line-Fish for helping organize this citizens' effort.

Do you feel a change is necessary in the method of election school board members?

No. The present at-large, place system allows every voter to decide on each candidate, and each candidate must secure a majority to be elected. This, in my opinion, is more fair than the former at-large plurality system. Also, I would oppose electing school board members from wards or precincts. In a city as compact and closely knit as Midland, a ward system would not serve the best interests of our children.

Do you feel Midland High should be expanded? If so, do you forsee a bond issue for this purpose?

Yes. Our programs at Midland High have outgrown the facilities, and we are woefully lacking in space for the library, girl's gymnasium, and athletic practice areas. Parts of the building were constructed in 1928, and need improving. A bond election would be necessary for improvements at MHS as well as at Lee, where the present girls' gym is inadequate.

Kingdon R. Hughes

Hughes urges parental input

Name: Kingdon R. Hughes Address: 1601 N. H St.

Personal data: I have lived in Midland since 1955. My wife Mary taught in the Midland Public Schools for ten years. We have two sons; Brad, 14, attends San Jacinto Jr. High School and Whitney, 11, is a-student at Bowie Elementary School. 1

I am a member of Trinity Episcopal Church where I serve on the general advisory committee and as cochairman of ushers. I am also a member of the Troop Leadership Committee, Boy Scout Troop 152, First United Methodist Church, and a member of the Central YMCA where I served on the board of managers three years and as past chairman of the annual membership drive. I was also a former Little League baseball

I hold a BA degree from Claremont Men's College. For 10 years I worked in the land department of a major oil company. For the past 17 years I have been self-employed as owner of the Subsurface Library and as an independent oil operator.

Do you believe there is a discipline problem in Midland's schools? If so, what can be done to improve the situation? Discipline very definitely is a problem. During the past three weeks I have talked to countless educators and parents who are very concerned about this problem.

There are numerous things we can do to improve discipline in our schools. For example, if an irate parent berates a teacher or principle for discipling his child, the principal must make it abundantly clear to the parent that the principal is only complying with the code of discipline authorized by the school board and if the parent is unhappy with the discipline policy he should take it up with the board, not with the teacher or the principal.

We must consider establishing "Re-assignment Rooms" in our junior and senior high schools. These are separate rooms in each school where a student is sent until he agrees to abide by the school's discipline code. But, during the time he is in the "Re-assignment Room" he is required to study and he can not be released from the room until he writes a "contract" between himself and the school in which he agrees not to cause additional discipline problems. The discipline code must clearly spell out exactly what the punishment will be for each specific offense, such as the possession of nar-

Should standardized tests be used to determine if students should be promoted?

We must consider developing a policy that will require all candidates for graduation to pass a proficiency exam prior to being permitted to graduate and receive a diploma from MISD. We must consider devising a proficiency examination at the 6th, 8th and 12th grade levels in reading and math. We must begin to examine immediately what other school districts have done in this regard, particularly Dallas, and bring fruits of their labors to Midland.

Do you favor more emphasis on

Very definitely yes, particularly in the elementary grades, but before we overburden our students and teachers with any more "innovative" programs, let's be sure our school system is doing an excellent job of teaching the basics. Among other things we must greatly expand reading programs for our disadvantaged students, which means that we should consider starting their education at an earlier age than is presently provided for. We must spend more time on reading in the kindergarten through third grades. Also the reading programs we already have must be improved.

What is your opinion of the values clarification program being tested in

I think it is imperative for the school board to seek input from the parents, teachers and administrators before initiating any program as sensitive as values clarification.

The school board should have been better informed about the values clarification program before it was adopted. If there is to be such a program it is essential that it is correctly tailored to the maturity of the student. There is a place in the school system for teaching the children the dangers arising from a life of crime and the use of drugs, but sensitivity training does not belong in the public schools.

What steps can be taken by the school board to smooth implementation of the desegregation plan?

The smoothest implementation will. come about by keeping an open line of communication between the parents, the school board and the school administration to assure that any problems that develop can be dealt with immediately.

However, the teachers and principals are going to be under a great deal of pressure the first few weeks of school trying their best to implement the plan. The community should "stay off their backs" until they have been able to work the kinks out of the

Do you feel a change is necessary in the method of electing school board

I don't care what method we use in electing school board members. My concern is to have the most highly qualified, fair, intelligent and dedicated people that we can find run for the school board in Midland. I could care less what the color of their skin is or what part of town they live in. The main criteria for a school board member is simply the quality and statesmanship of the particular candidate-nothing else.

Do you feel Midland High should be expanded? If so, do you foresee a bond issue for this purpose?

Probably, but I need to gather more information on the matter before can make a definite statement. If eventually I conclude that an expansion of Midland High is necessary I know of no other way to finance it other than with a bond election.

Civic: Kiwanis Club, board of directors of Midland Memorial Hospital, Human Relations Council. Son, James A. Ramsoure is a junior at Lamar State University at Beaumont

Do you believe there is a discipline problem in Midland's schools?

I think the issue of discipline is misleading. Our "discipline" problems are not any greater than other school's. The area of discipline needs to be defined - are we talking about drill sergeant techniques, regimentation or a facet of affective learning? Discipline originates in the home and family. The breakdown in family structure renders school discipline almost futile. If discipline is practiced at home - it can be extended to the school and the teacher will feel secure in administering discipline. I feel that discipline should be an educative tool. FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) - Four elderly men stood proudly at the altar flanked by a Catholic bishop and two priests, and recited the Lord's Prayer with their hands.

Deaf since childhood, the four had just been commissioned the first deaf lay ministers of the Boston Archdiocese, empowered to distribute Communion to their fellow parishioners at the Catholic Deaf Community Center here.

While there are deaf lay ministers elsewhere in the nation, eastern Massachusetts had none. The Archdiocese approved their commissioning to "bring the Eucharist closer to deaf people, who otherwise would not so easily receive it," said the Most Rev. Daniel Hart an auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese.

SEATTLE (AP) - John Holliway is bowled over by a hobby with which he's having a ball. In fact, he's pinned his hopes on other people becoming in terested, too.

Holliway, a 74-year-old retired businessman, makes plant stands from bowling balls and bowling pins as a hobby. One of his plant stands, for instance, has bowling pins for legs and a hallowed-out bowling ball to hold the plant.

Other people should try it, he says. Used pins usually cost only a quarter or so at bowling alleys or the Salvation Army thrift shops.

April

Four amendments to the city charter face the voter in Saturday's general election

The first amemdment would add one seat to the city council and create four single-member districts. The proposed amendment would designate place numbers one, two, three and six as having district representation while candidates for place four and five and the mayor's office will be chosen at large.

The amendment stipulates that in 1979 no person shall be eligible as a candidate for a member of council unless he is a "bona fide resident of the corresponding district" not less than six months prior to the date of the election. The amendment requires an elected official from these singlemember districts to continuously reside in that district during his term

Candidates for mayor and those in place numbers four and five may be a resident of any portion of the city and must continuously reside in the city during the term of office.

The amendment requires the City Council to designate the boundaries of the districts within one year after its Amendment number two limits the mayor and council to no more than three consecutive terms in office. The amendment stipulates that the limitation applys only to councilmen and mayors elected on and after April

Amendment number two defines term of office as a two-year period beginning May 1 of the year which he is elected

Amendment number three requires vacancies on the council to be filled by special election when the unexpired term is nine months or longer or when two or more vacancies occur at the same time.

Amendment number four would delete the authority of the city council to hear appeals from the board of equalization in cases involving tax valuations.

continue to seek better teaching methods in these areas plus application to problem solving and wise decision making.

What is your opinion of values clarification programs being tested in some Midland schools?

The title scares people, we have been teaching children base lines in developing patterns of morality, acceptable behavior patterns and decision making since time inmemorium. Most of the confusion and parental dissent came about because a few teachers' over enthusiasm in using some materials that were not part of approved program materials. Controversial issues in education are often overblown by a few persons who have not taken the opportunity to explore the issue, but accept the fears of others. Sensitivity training, marathons, reality therapy, behaviorism, etc., are thrown around as part of the program. Visitation to schools will dispel such notions.

What steps can be taken by the school baord to smooth implementation of the desegregation possible conflict suitations. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Publicizing all plans if very vital.

Do you feel a change is necessary in the method of electing school board members?

I am rather ambivalent on the issue. Being a minority poses problems. Realistically, the odds are 8-2 population-wise. Single member districts need to be explored. School board members need to be representative of the community. How do we achieve it? I would hate to see the politics of school board becomes black-white or brown-white or black-brown issue.

Do you feel Midland High should be expanded? If so, do you foresee a bond issue for this purpose?

No question, the present building needs extensive repairs and expansion. We need additional area to provide for physical education activities (outdoor). Practice fields for football, baseball and track need to be adjacent to eliminate daily travel on part of students and coaches to the stadium. The only source of revenue for such features is through a bond issue, hopefully in a five-year period.

Another goal is to continue to work for appropriate housing facilities for Midland senior citizens, including low-rent apartments, rehabilitated senior citizen-owned homes and other suitable alternatives to institutional living.

Also on the list of goals is continuing efforts to increase community awareness of the needs of senior citizens and to strive for more effective utilization of the talents and skills of older persons in community

Other goals include assisting in implementation and maintenance of the Title III congregate meals programs, considering possible application of Title V funds for upgrading facilities and services and considering utilization of Title IX funds for providing employment opportunities for senior citizens.

Dam project advances may never NEW YORK (AP) - The be finished

SHAWNEE, Pa. (AP) - Joan Matheson didn't want to leave the Upper Delaware Valley where her ancestors had settled 227 years ago. "That valley was our religion," she says. "We cherished it. It was a living history book."

But a flood control project was on the way, so Joan Matheson had to sell her house near Dingman's Ferry and leave with 23,000 others.

Now, after spending nearly $100 million to buy the land and uproot the people and after bulldozing oak and stone homes — some older than the nation — the U.S. government has given up on the Tocks Island Dam and Delaware Water Gap National Recreation

Mounting opposition, second thoughts in Congress and rising costs brought the project to a halt, and there's doubt that anything will come of it. Today, the government is landlord for 120 remaining tenants and 48,951 acres of mostly idle land.

In theory, the Congressional authorization is still on the books. But groups ranging from the Four-County Task Force, encompassing areas of Pennsylvania and New Jersey affected by the dam, to the President's Council on Environmental Quality, have asked Congress to deliver the coup de grace. Even the U.S. Corps of Engineers wants it killed.

League president repeats charges

League of Women Voters of Midland president Betty Sheeler in a press conference this morning repeated charges that false advertising and misinformation had been used in the campaign against Charter Amendment 1.

The amendment would provide for a combination of some at-large city council members and some elected from single-member districts or wards.

Mrs. Sheeler said the Committee for Continued
Unity's advertisement saying Amarillo had used a single-member district system and abandoned it is

After the press conference, Bob Paxton, co-chairman of the Committee for Continued Unity, said the statement concerning Amarillo was the outgrowth of what a former Amarillo resident, who had been misinformed, had said. He said statement was made "in good faith."

Mrs. Sheeler also criticized an editorial in Thursday's Reporter-Telegram which said other West Texas cities tried the single-member district plan and most had switched back to the at-large plan.

She said the league had studied a number of West Texas cities and, of these, only Waco had changed from a single-member district to an at-large system. Waco now has a combination system.

Mrs. Sheeler said the proposed system "would not guarantee that a black or Mexican-American would be elected," but rather the system would guarantee that someone from each area of town would be on the

She said having a mayor and two council members elected at large "would continue to provide the kind of representatives who through their business acumen, vision and concern for the city have served Midland so well.'

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Could be dysentery

Dear Dr. Solomon: Every spring, there seems to be at least one time when we all get "the bug"—with everybody whooping and having the trots. It has been going around all this month. Is there anyone who knows what it really is and if there is anything you can do about it?-Chris J. Dear Chris: The trouble you describe is probably viral dysentery, also known as viral gastroenteritis, intestinal flu, stomach flu or "the bug." It is caused by a virus, and there is no drug to cure it. But even though most attacks make you feel awful for about two or three days, they are not serious and they do clear up by themselves if you get bed rest and—as soon as you are able to keep them down—enough fluids to prevent dehydration. Of course, nausea and diarrhea can be the signal of more serious trouble, such as appendicitis, disease of the gall bladder and pancreas, infectious hepatitis and other disorders of the digestive system. If your symptoms are at all severe or persistent, it is always wisest to give your doctor a ring. Remember, too, that in the case of infants, young children, elderly people or invalids, any vomiting or diarrhea can be quite serious.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I saw your letter in answer to a person who had difficulty with typing in fluorescent ighting. I would quite agree with you that on occasion people's eyes can be irritated with typing due to irritants that are present on the ribbons, carbons and special typing forms.

I, though, find a much more common cause of complaints with typing as a direct consequence of the fluorescent lighting, which is extremely ir-ritating to some people's eyes, particularly when there is a very high level of illumination, as exists in some offices. Individuals with complaints of difficulty with typing under fluorescent lighting often have a complete resolution of their symptomatology if they can do this sort of work in a place in the office where there is natural or incandescent lighting. In this case, irritation from chemicals associated with typing can be ruled out. As well, some people have found that when some of the fluorescent lighting in their of-fice burns out and the bulbs are not replaced, they are asymptomatic. Once the illumination level is returned to its previous degree, their symptoms again return. . I thought I would drop you a note to let you know my feelings regarding this proble. — T.A. Strutting ritual draws some viewers 300 miles

By CHARLES HILLENGER The Los Angeles Times

LONG VALLEY, Calif. - It was daybreak and the temperature hovered at a chilling 10 above zero.

Parked along the lonely country road in the 7,000-foot-high meadow were 78 men, women and children in 30 cars and pickups staring out their windows through highpowered binoculars and telescopes.

Many had driven all night more than 300 miles to spend 45 minutes watching wild birds the size of turkeys strut back and forth in a spectacular mating ritual.

The birds were sage grouse. About 7,000 of them live in the meadows of the High Sierra.

Tail feathers of the grouse arched like spears in full spread. White breast feathers inflated like balloons. Wings dropped stiffly.

The male birds gulped air fran-tically, shook their heads, made 45degree turns, gulped more air
Air sacs swell through the birds' breast feathers protruding like two hugh beach balls.

Once fully inflated each grouse strutted proudly, goose-step fashion, like marching soldiers on parade. Grouse marched ahead a dozen steps then came to a sudden stop and expelled the inhaled air. As the air was released loud plopping sounds like tennis balls bouncing off a court echoed raucously through the

With the expelling of the air, crest feathers on the sage grouse snapped forward arking like curlicues.

The ritual began at 5:45 a.m., with the first light of the new day and continued without stop until the sun came over the mountains 45 minutes As strutting cocks inflated and deflated 10 to 15 times each minute the plopping noises rent the still air.

This was the seventh year Morris P. (Andy) Anderson, 55, wildlife biologist for the state department of Fish and Game led an annual caravan of vehicles to one of scores of historic strutting grounds of the sage grouse. The birds returned to the same grounds each March and April for mating rituals.

"It's such an amazing courtship display I thought the public should have an opportunity to see it," said Anderson, explaining how he came to launch an annual visit to the strutting grounds.

Male grouse strut daily at daybreak and often throughout entire bright moonlit nights for a month before females begin to fly in to mate.

"To prevent any possible interference with the mating of the birds, I run this visit to the strutting grounds a couple of weeks before the females begin flying in.

The primary diet for sage grouse are the leaves of sage brush. Females nest under the sage and lay seven to eight eggs which hatch out in 25 days.

There was no snow on this strutting ground, 35 miles north of Bishop, alif, this dry year. In other years grouse have strutted here on snow as deep as six and seven feet.

Half the viewers came from as far away as Riverside, Banning, Pasadena, Los Angeles, Fullerton and Anaheim more than 300 miles to the south.

Dorothy Howard, 77, drove up from Pasadena. For Mrs. Howard it was 'one of the most amazing displays I have seen in a lifetime of observing birds. Another oldtimer viewing the strutting sage grouse was Howard Stillwell, 81, who drove 50 miles from his home in Big Pines. High School science teacher Ray Sadowski, 29, and his wife, Pat, drove up form Riverside. Sadowski was so impressed he said he's going to bring his science class up for a field trip next year.

Bankers Tony Del Giorgio, 32, and Cindi Franklin, 30, drove six hours from Orange County to see the birds.

A couple of firemen, Jim Meadowcroft, 30, and George Lozito, 24, came 90 miles from Lone Pine. Everyone expressed awe of the strutting birds and insisted the freezing temperatures, early hour and great distances to get here were well worth nature's exotic and exciting show.

"Wait until I tell the kids at school, they'll never believe it," declared Ronnie Knott, 9, of Murrieta in Riverside County who came up with his parents, Judy and Gene Knott.

Ronnie's sentiments were echoed by all equally fascinated at the amazing mating habits of the sage grouse in the remote mountain meadows of the High Sierra.

Foolish finesse may be only chance

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We're engaged this week on a scholarly study of finesses, but it wouldn't be complete without the type of finesse that makes the opponenets look foolish. What day could be better for our purpose?

NOT LURED,

West quickly played low, assuming that South was trying to lure him into covering if he had the king. West expected declarer to go up with dummy's ace of hearts and play for the diamonds to break favorably; and West knew that the diamonds weren't going to break.

West's foolish play was exactly what Mrs. Wagar had been hoping for. She let the queen of hearts ride for a "finesse." When it held, she cashed the top diamonds, ruffed a diamond and returned to dummy with the ace of hearts to cash the last diamond.

Don't expect this kind of play to work on April second. DAILY QUESTION

Briscoe says drilling needed in East areas

By ROB WOOD

HOUSTON (AP)-Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe has suggested that if the federal government launces an investigation "on a hold-back of oil and gas production it should start with those states who have failed to cotribute energy."

Briscoe, in a speech to a civic club in this energy-oriented city, said btexas had managed to maintain a balance between ecology and energy production "while doing its share in providing oil and gas. Now itis up to other states to do their part.

The governor told a news conference later that he expected Eastern Seaboard states to begin drilling for oil and gas because "they now realize they are going to have to

"I think those states should be drilling right now. But, there has been some change in attitude in the past few years and there now is a better realization of the necessity for drilling

Geothermal well slated

HOUSTON (AP) - A University of Texas professor says the first well to test the possibility of obtaining a huge amount of natural gas from geothermal waters could be sunk in Brazoria County this fall.

Dr. Myron H. Dorfman told the Houston Post the amount of methane, the major constituent of natural gas, contained in these boiling waters beneath the Gulf Coast could be greater than the presently proved reserve of natural gas from conventional sources.

Dorfman said if Congress and the administration approve, two test wells will be drilled on land owned by an oil company which he could not now identify because negotiations have not been completed between the company and the university's Center for Energy Research.

Dorfman is director of geothermal studies at the center and also is a professor of petroleum engineering. He said the drilling will be in a 60square-mile area where the company

The House Committee on Science and Technology has approved $10 million in funds for geothermal work. The appropriation must be approved by Congress and then signed by the President

Besides the natural gas believed to be in abundance in the super-heated waters, scientists believe the geothermal energy in the form of hot water and steam can be used to generate electrical power.

Dorfman said that while the center awaits funding and is completing negotiations to drill in Brazoria County, possible environmenal problems are being investigated.

He said the areas that warrant the most study are subsidence and the effect of the hot waters themselves.

He believes the problem of the hot waters, which possibly could affect fish life, could be resolved by injecting the water back into the ground.

He does not see subsidence as an obstacle, saying the geologic for-mations in the Brazoria County area are different from those in the Galveston-Harris Counties region.

for reserves off the coasts of these states," he said.

Briscoe told newsmen he was "optimistic that President Carter's energy program will have no adverse affects on Texas or other oil and gas producing states. The Texas position is well known in Washington and I am optimistic we will get the Texas viewpoint adopted.'

He also called price controls on the oil and gas industry "a disaster. Let the market place determine the price; let the federal government trust the people and then we could have a sound energy policy." Briscoe told newsmen he would support a highway financing plan presented recently to the legislature by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

The Hobby proposal would set a base highway fund of $700 million for 1978 and $750 million for 1979 with a cost index board to adjust the base amount so it could match inflation. The state comptroller would use the highway fund's present constitutional funds, then transfer any difference needed from the onmibus tax clearance fund, which gets most of its revenue from the state sales tax. The Hobby plan differs somewhat from Briscoe's original proposal, but the governor said, "I think the Hobby plan is a move in the right direction. I can accept it." Briscoe reiterated that he would have a formal announcement "later this year "on his political future; and renewed his opposition to the decriminalization of marijuana, saying, "I continue to oppose it and it will not be done in Texas.

Oil reserve sites picked

HOUSTON (AP) - Three sites, one in Texas and two in Louisiana, have been selected by the Federal Energy Administration for its stragetic petroleum reserve program.

Thomas E. Noel, assistant FEA administrator, identified the selections for the early portion of the program as a 58 million barrel capacity site at Bryan Mound near Freeport, Tex., a 60 million barrel siteat West Hackberry in Cameron Parish, La., and a 94 million barrel site at Bayou Choctaw in Ibervillle Parish, La.

He said at a news conference Thursday four other sites will be selected later. He also announced the awarding of a $10 million contract as construction management contractors for the early storage portion of the program to Ralph M. Parsons Co., Pasadena, Calif., and Gilbane Building Co. Providence, R.I.

Gulf Interstate of Houston earlier had been selected as the executive architect engineer of the program. The petroleum reserve program was prompted by the Arab embargo of 1973-74. It was established by the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975. Its objective is to place readily available imported crude oil in underground storage, primarily salt dome caverns, for possible

The goal of the project is to define nd tie together the thousands of rock units present beneath North America and its continental margins, which, although beneath 'the sea, are becoming increasingly important as a source of petroleum and minerals.

Vast amounts of geologic data recovered as the result of drilling for oil and gas will be incorporated for the first time in continent-wide correlation charts.
