Tornado rips Monahans, downtown devastated

At least one tornado touched down in Monahans at approximately 12:15 p.m. today and, according to the Midland Department of Public Safety dispatcher, the twister caused 'extensive damage.'

The DPS said a two-block wide area was "heavily damaged." The area was reported to be just north of Interstate 20. Ward Memorial Hospital, a nursing home, a church, homes, a school, and power lines were hit. The Department of Public Safety said a natural gas plant five miles north of town was extensively damaged.

Ambulances were being dispatched from Kermit to Monahans.

Ward County Sheriff's department are out dispatcher Nellie Jo Collins said radio communication to the courthouse was broken at 12:36 p.m. Some injured persons were being taken to Medical Center Hospital in Odessa. Cross said the number The Red of injured persons has not been determined yet. A Red Cross unit from Fort Worth has been sent to Monahans

She said one tornado was first sighted just south of town. There were conflicting reports of as many as four tornadoes striking the town. Collins said the damage to the hospital apparently was primarily to the roof. The nursing home roof also was damaged.

Windows were blown out in a school and one church was hit, Collins said. Also hit were produce houses and warehouses, the Midland Red Cross

The twister or twisters missed city hall, the high school and two apartment houses near the hospital, although a pharmacy across from the hospital was demolished, the Red Cross said.

Midland ham operator George Parker said ham operators from Midland are going to Monahans to assist in communications.

Parker said another tornado was observed about four or five miles south of Penwell about 1:45 p.m. Penwell is 15 miles west of Odessa. No reports of damage from that tornado were available this afternoon.

The entire Permian Basin area and parts of southeastern New Mexico were under a tornado watch until 6

Men who operate their oil and gas industry business from the Tall City say they could find nothing to be overjoyed about in President Carter's nationally televised energy message Monday night.

Midland independent, said, "I am extremely concerned. He didn't mention anything on the producer's side for increased supplies.

Dean said after listening to the speech he has grown a new concern for the image of the oil industry. "The President made several inuendos about profiteering by the oil industry. A president should not say those things in my opinion.

"I also got from his speech that we are in for more government regulations, particularly where intrastate gas is concerned.

"I certainly agree with Carter when he talks about conservation - but that is not going to be the answer. And, I do not believe that Congress will go through with the taxing plans proposed by the President. I know the public won't go along," Dean said.

B. L. "Bernie" House, national president of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen, said, "We have been asking for two things - certainty and incentive. The President is proposing certainty, but where is the incentive?

House, who heads one of the largest oil industry associations as head of the AAPL, said "the most disappointing thing to me was no mention by the President of finding new reserves. Only a need to conserve the reserves we have were mentioned.'

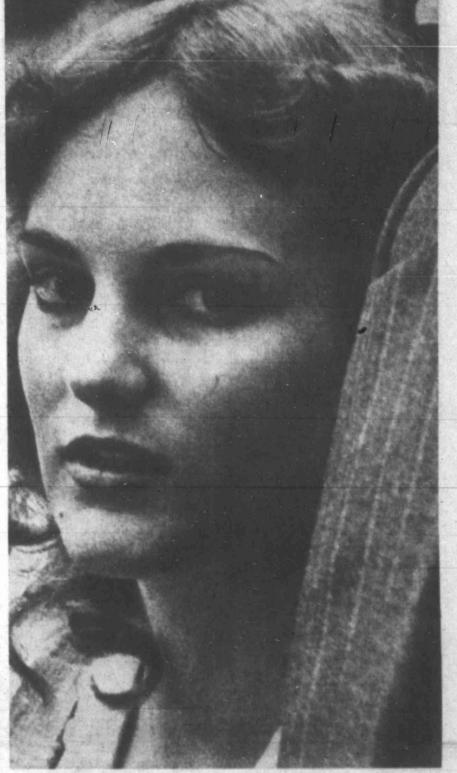

"I agree to the need for conservation, but what I think is most important is that we need to make a concentrated effort to replace some of the reserves we have used. And, I believe that since we live in America that we should have the right to an unrestricted profit on money spent for the exploration of oil and gas," House

M. W. "Buddy" Branum, an independent drilling contractor, apparently didn't find too much in the

"Instead of making an attempt to get rid of controls and giving the oil industry an opportunity to go about its work of finding oil, the speech led me to believe that all they want is more controls to keep us from doing

Energy program to have standby gasoline tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's energy program will definitely include a proposed standby gasoline tax increase, assistant Maority Leader Alan Cranston said

Cranston, D-Calif., made the com-ments to reporters after a White House briefing by White House energy chief James Schlesinger on Carter's forthcoming energy

He told reporter that the tax would only take effect if "there is a failure to meet conservation goals."

Cranston said the tax would increase by five-cent-per-gallon increments, up to a total of possibly 30 cents. Earlier reports had put the total potential increase at 50 cents.

At a congressional leadership breakfast immediately before the Schlesinger briefing, President Carter warned that "the basic fabric of our society would be destroyed if our country doesn't act on this issue," according to Asst. House Majority Leader John Brademas, D-Ind.

'He seemed very much aware of the political realities," Brademas said. "He said, 'I recognize it's going to be very hard to go home and take the political displeasure and the Brademas said Carter told the Democratic congressional leaders that when speaking to constituents, 'if you want to call it the 'President's Carter is set to formally unveil his energy package in an address to a joint House-Senate session Wednesday.

Brademas said Carter claimed that if consumers and automakers would voluntarily act to save fuel, then mandatory measures would not be necessary.

Carter's warnings of an impending energy doomsday have been drawing praise from congressional leaders but many doubt he can win approval of stringent conservation measures.

District tells court election method OK

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Midland school trustees have told a federal court they should not have to change the method by which school trustees are elected.

A response to a suit by the U.S. Justice Department against the trustees was mailed Monday to the U.S. clerk's office in Midland, attorney Charles Tighe said.

The suit seeks to force the school district to abandon its place system of electing trustees with majority requirement because of an objection the Justice Department filed under the Voting Rights Act.

The response said the school district is not subject to the act because the Midland Independent School District is not a 'political subdivision' as defined in the Voting Rights Act."

Tighe said that contention is based on several court decisions, including one by a three-judge federal panel in Alabama, which contend that only political subdivisions which have jurisdiction over voter registration are covered by the law.

There is "a lot of legal turmoil" about what the law does cover, Tighe said. He said several school districts which are involved in similar suits are seeking to have the cases combined so an answer to the question can be reached, "rather than have them (the cases) decided all over the state in piecemeal fashion."

The response also said the school district cannot change from its place system because of a provision of state law which prohibits a change from that system once it has been adopted.

Even if the court does rule that school districts are covered by the act, the response said, the trustees should not be forced to comply with the Justice Department objection because of "arbitrary and capricious" actions by the Justice Department, through the attorney

The Justice Department received information from the school district over an eight-month period, with several requests for additional information being made which could have been included in the original request, the response said.

"It became abundantly clear that the only purpose being served by trying to cooperate with the attorney general was to needlessly expend the time of the defendants, the taxpayers' money and to leave the defendants in a state of confusion, annoyance and frustration," the response said.

The trustees request that the court not force the change "because of the arbitrary and capricious conduct of the attorney general in this instance, and because of the fact that the voting procedure in question is clearly, and as a matter of law, not discriminatory."

If the Justice Department wins its suit, the school district would have to revert to an at-large system of electing trustees, without majority requirement.

Billie Sol asks board for freedom

FORT WORH, Tex. (AP) -One-time Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes appeared before federal hearing examiners today to ask that he be released from direct parole supervision.

Estes, who was convicted for his part in a massive fraud scheme in 1965 and placed in parole in 1971 after serving less than half of his prison term, arrived in federal court at midmorning accompanied by his attorney, Jack Bryant.

Estes declined to answer questions by newsmen. He was greeted warmly at the door of the courthouse by Raymond Phillips who identified himself as an inventor from Terrell.

Estes, now a 52-year-old resident of Abilene, is listed by the parole board as an employe of Permian Petroleum Co. in

City planners approve requests for mobile home zoning change

By LARRY SUTHERLAND

The question of permitting mobile homes to be located on large tracts of land in south and southeast Midland drew both strong support and strong opposition Monday at a meeting of the Midland Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission decided after much discussion to grant all three requests brought before it for zone changes to 1F-3, which permits mobile homes, although it severely cut back on the area in one of the requests

All of the requests were to change tracts from moderately restrictive single-family district to 1F-3. Barbara Prestridge requested the change for lots in the 300 to 500 blocks of New Jersey and Dakota avenues. Sharon Ledbetter requested the change for lots bordered by an alley north of Elm Avenue, Lamesa Road, Golf Course Road and Edwards Street. Earl R. Zachery requested the change for lots roughly bordered by the north alley of East Cuthbert Avenue and Orchard Lane and between Carver Street and Tilden Street and the east alley of Loma Vista Planning director Richard Hennessy said his staff was recommending a change for much of this area to provide a better likelihood of developing and improving these lots, many of which are undeveloped. Hennessy said he doubted there would be any massive influx of mobile homes to these areas, but said conventional housing stands even less of a chance of being established in these areas. Commissioner George Veloz sup ported Prestridge's request and said, 'I think the best use of this property would be one big 1F-3 zone. There's a shortage of housing and I think this fills that void. Commissioner Mrs. James Purvis expressed reservations about the zone change because many of the streets in the area for rezoning lack paving, and she preferred to see the street problem solved first.

The proponents for the zone change said allowing mobile homes would ease the availability of housing for persons who cannot afford conventional housing required for a 1F-2 zone, which is the current zoning

"I've lived there (southeast Midland) for 13 years now and there's no progress in building," Zachery said of the 1F-2 zone.

Mrs. J. W. Graham, 410 E. tonwood Ave., was one of more than half-a-dozen residents of the southeastern and southern part of town to oppose a change. She specifically objected to Mrs. Ledbetter's request.

"I prefer having them (lots) vacant to mobile homes. I object very strongly to mobile homes," she said She added that indications that the area is "deteriorating" are not true for her neighborhood, and there would be no benefit by allowing mobile

Mrs. Cullen Harris, 1404 E. Nobles Ave., objected to Zachery's request because of the kind of people mobile homes might bring. "What character of people are we bringing in there? You're opening it up for all kinds of driftwood to come in," she protested.

She did, however, urge the city to do more to clean up vacant lots in that Zachery responded that Mrs. Harris' objections were based more on a personal objection to him and that the woman was taking a "racialistic attitude" against whites by not wanting them to move into the area he wants rezoned.

Mrs. Harris denied this and said, "You've got black, and you've got brown and you've got white drift-

The commission approved Zachery's and Prestridge's requests as presented, but cut back Ledbetter's to include her lot and an area bordered by Edwards Street, Barber Street, an alley north of Elm Avenue and an alley south of Cottonwood Avenue.

Ledbetter's approved rezoning is only about one-fourth of what she and the department staff had suggested, and was opposed by Veloz, who said, "That's nothing but spot zoning on a larger scale."

In other business, the commission approved commissioner C. D. Martin to be temporary chairman of the group, beginning May 2. He replaces Mrs. Doris Howbert, who along with commissioner Gordon Marcum II, will be sworn into office as city councilmen May 4. Marcum was the only commissioner who did not attend Monday's session.

In other action, the commission: Approved preliminary plats of Schlumberger Addition, on U.S. 80 West, and Howard-McCarroll Sub-

- Approved Jeff Carter's request for a zone change from single-family district to planned district for three lots in the 1000 block of Scharbauer

- Approved Floyd Pace's request for a zone change from office district to planned district for six lots on south side of Wall Street between B and C streets.

- Approved ALCO Development Co.'s request for a zone change from the most restrictive single-family district to a less restrictive singlefamily district for six-acre tract in the 3900 block of Illinois Avenue and also a preliminary plat for that tract.

- Approved William Hickey's request for a zone change from singlefamily district to planned district for two lots at Mogford Street and Wadley Avenue. The approval is subject to a detailed site plan meeting commission staff approval.

Hickey originally requested a change to an office district, but it was decided that a planned district would be more acceptable. Commissioner Walt Temple

chastised the commission for not giving adequate review to the site plan for the planned district request.

energy situation," Branum said. "For one thing, they never do get a man that knows what he is doing to run anything in Washington. They make truck drivers out of bakers and bakers out of truck drivers. "Washington needs to pull a man out of the oil industry, one who knows what he is doing, to advise them on this energy problem," Branum added.

"The politicians have never listened to the people who know what they are talking about on controls and shortages.

"It is obvious what controls are doing. Actually they started in 1954 and have failed. Since then, rigs have been cannibalized and just plain put out of commission. If it weren't for controls, which they want more of, we would have 3,000 rigs in operation today," Branum said.

When will they ever realize in Washington that if the government would allow oil to seek a fair market price that we could quit sending our dollars overseas to buy that oil?

"If we could get $15 a barrel for domestic oil, like we pay for foreign oil, we would see to it that there would be an all-out search for petroleum in this country - putting thousands of people to work in almost any industry that you can think of." Branum said.

Charles Canfield, district manager in Midland for Dallas-based Texas Oil and Gas Co., said it was hard for him to react to Carter's speech.

"He didn't say anything that I didn't expect him to say. Everything he mentioned had already been leaked to the newspapers.

tighten our belts and make that good old college try to solve our problems," Canfield admitted

"But, what I am waiting for is for that other shoe to fall Wednesday night. We must really be concerned what comes out of his message to Congress at that time," Canfield said.

Rep. George Mahon of the 19th District of Texas was called to a meeting this morning at the White House to discuss defense funding and the President's recommendations for a national energy policy.

Mahon joined other senior congressional leaders at a breakfast meeting with the President and the Secretary of Defense Harold Brown to discuss national defense policy priorities, including the defense budget recently submitted to Congress.

Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, met with the President and James Schlesinger, special assistant to the President for energy, following the defense discussion. "We reviewed the President's energy policy, which is to be revealed at a joint session of Congress Wednesday," Mahon said in a telephone interview with The Reporter-Telegram.

Mahon said one of his principal concerns was the threat that the federal government would undertake to assume control over intrastate gas.

Rep. Mahon has urged the President and his adviser to include as part of the energy message improved tax treatment of independent producers of oil and gas, pointing out that the present tax law regarding intangible drilling costs is having the direct effect of reducing "He did say we would have to investments in exploration drilling.

had assembled a bit earlier in the afternoon.

They had "dressed" a three-foot statue of a nude in Reid's plush backyard. They lent modesty to the stark bronze-and-iron statue Reid had created with a welding torch.

"They had that thing dressed," Reid said of his "mod" art form. 'They covered her up past the breasts. You couldn't see the legs. It was as if she had a skirt on."

For some reason, the queen bee evidently grew tired of the nude and led her obliging followers to the walnut tree.

Reid was watching the bees light on the walnut tree. "They'll eventually all get in one wad there," he said. He was right; they did. The bees formed a buzzing cone.

"I'm getting tired of them coming said Reid, who has already been visited by four bee throngs this year. "They'll have to go somewhere else." He was out of beehives to makers a home.

a hollow in a tree or a man-made

"The scouts will start going out, hunting a place for them to go to,' Reid said Casually, Reid strolled up to the cone-shaped throng. "When bees are swarming, they will hardly sting at all," he said. They're more interested in finding a home than in playing the role of the aggressor. Besides, Reid said, they filled up on honey before they left their old hive, and now were reasonably contented. Reid, dressed like a man on the street, gently caressed some of the bees in the "gob."

He wasn't worried about being stung - not in the least.

"If you're not allergic to their poison," he said, "it won't hurt you. It'll be good for you if you've got arthritis," Reid said. It's been proven, he said, that the bees' protein-filled venom can afford relief from arthritic pain. Some medical doctors have attested to that, "I guess it's the truth."

Reid gazed at his seemingly contented visitors. He touched them.

"They're friendly little things," he said. On cloudy days, the bees sometimes are hostile; they can't get out to work and evidently become frustrated. But on sunshiny days, they're usually in a good humor. On this day, the sun was out.

"They're not in a stinging mood," Reid said. But if they don't find a suitable home in the next few days, they just might change their attitude and get a mite ill-tempered.

Reid said he wouldn't be shocked or upset were he to get stung.

"I have been stung many times," he said. "In fact, I like to be stung. And that's not wishful thinking.

Reid, again and again, may just get his druthers . . . and the bees. The Midland Reporter-Telegram

LOS ANGELES - In a surprise courtroom appearance here Monday, newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst entered a no contest plea to two charges from her former political terrorist days that could carry sentences of up to life imprisonment.

Hearst, 23, flanked by two of her defense attorneys, appeared Monday morning before Superior Court Judge E. Talbot Callister and barely whispered "nolo contendere" to charges of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon. The judge immediately accepted the plea and declared her guilty on both charges.

Callister set May 9 as the date for sentencing of Hearst who is already free on $1.25 million bail pending an appeal of her seven-year sentences after a federal bank robbery conviction last year in San Francisco. Monday's charges each carry a prison term ranging from 10 year to Hearst chief defense attorney Albert Johnson consistently had declared before Monday's plea that his client could not get a fair trial anywhere in the U.S. because of the widespread publicity attached to her trial and conviction in San Francisco.

In return for her no contest plea, Los Angeles Deputy District Attorney Samuel Mayerson declared that nine other state felony charges against Hearst — including two for kidnaping — would be dropped.

The charges stem from a 1974 shootout in front of a sporting goods in suburban Inglewood, Calif., in which Hearst and two of her former Symbionese Liberation Army companions took part. Both Harrises were found quilty last Sept. of kidnaping, auto theft and robbery and were sentenced to 11 years to life.

Albert Johnson, one of Hearst's attorneys, refused to comment on why the plea was made, but said no plea bargaining had taken place on Hearst's behalf. Mayerson said that there was no plea bargaining "in the sense in which the term is commonly

However, Hearst has supplied information about the SLA to law enforcement officials in several federal and state jurisdictions since her capture in 1975

She was kidnaped by the SLA Feb. 1974, from an apartment in Berkeley, Calif., setting off one of the most widely publicized political terrorist stories in American history.

Mayerson was scheduled to lead the prosecution Hearst May 18 when she was to have been tried on the 11 state charges related to the shootout.

"There was no arrangement made for anything," Mayerson said after Monday's proceedings. "People are always allowed to plead guilty to the most serious charges against them and his follows our office's set procedures.

Nevertheless, the deputy district attorney said he was somewhat surprised at Hearst's no contest plea. "I came into court this morning prepared to argue motions I thought her defense attorneys were going to make," he said. "I was even going over a list of what kind of jurors we would want at the trial."

Hearst was accompanied by several of the armed guards hired by her family to protect her since her release on bail on the federal charges

Catherine, sat quitely in the first row of the courtroom watching with little show of emotion as they have through most of their daughter's numerous court appearances. Authorities here said that Hearst's actual sentence on the two charges could take months to be determined. A full probation study must still be prepared on Hearst and a change in California's sentencing law could further delay the actual sentence, officials said.

Under the present law, a judge may sentence a felon to an indeterminate sentence term with the actual time served dependent on a number of factors such as prison behavior and cooperation in pending cases.

Consumer bill review starts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is taking up legislation to create a consumer protection agency, and sponsors who have struggled for more than seven years to give consumers their own voice in government are confident of victory.

The committee chairmen, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, have expressed hope that the bill to establish an Agency for Consumer Advocacy will be passed by July 1.

"With Congress and the administration working together, this should finally be the year for enactment." Brooks said.

> San Antonio Fiesta begins

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A nighttime parade of illuminated barge floats down the historic San Antonio River has kicked off the heaviest portion of this year's annual Fiesta celebration.

The parade, which climaxed with the coronation of Tim D. Word as King Antonio LV, followed Monday afternoon's annual pilgrimage to the Alamo, the historic shrine of Texas liberty.

President Carter promised on the campaign trail last year that he would support a separate agency to safeguard consumers' interests, and he formally asked Congress on April 6 to create it.

The proposed agency would represent consumer interests in proceedings before other government agencies.

The sponsors say corporations have the resources to hire lawyers and lobbyists to protect corporate interests, but consumers affected by the federal decisions are seldom represented.

The bill has been opposed strongly in previous sessions by business groups, who say taxpayers should not have to foot the bill for the agency. One White House aide has estimated the new agency would have an annual budget of $11 million to $12 million.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has announced that it will again work against the legislation this year. Lobbyists for consumer groups have made it their top legislative priority this year.

Bills to establish the consumer agency have passed the House three times and the Senate twice. Both houses voted for it during the last Congress, but the effort was dropped because of a veto threatened by former President Gerald R. Ford.

In addition to representing consumers before other agencies, the proposed agency would serve as a clearinghouse for consumer complaints about the government.

Consumers would be encouraged to bring their complaints to the new agency, which would go over the problem with the other agency.

Carter's special assistant for consumer affairs, Esther Peterson, says the new agency would represent consumers in court in cases against the federal government.

Zoo is no more

Announcement of the closing last Wednesday of Midland's Cole Park Zoo was anything but good news to a number of Midlanders who long had supported the zoo and worked for its improvement and possible relocation.

vertising orders are accepted on this basis only

But a large majority of Midlanders in a special bond issue election on April 2 sounded the zoo's death knell. They expressed themselves in no uncertain terms that they didn't want to issue bonds in the amount of $3.25 million to build a new zoo to replace Cole Park.

Members of the City Council took the voters at their word and issued orders to phase out the zoo immediately. The councilmen didn't have a whole lot of choice in the matter. The zoo never has been financed sufficiently to keep it in first-class shape, and the voters had indicated that they didn't want to spend more money

Anyway, the gates have been locked and the animals quartered there have been advertised for sale.

It's a shame, too, in a way, since Midland had such an excellent start in establishing and maintaining here a zoo which could and would have been a tremendous drawing card for the community, as well as providing an educational facility of great benefit to residents of Midland and vicinity.

But this apparently is not to be.

At first thought it seemed like and an opportunity for community betterment goes by the boards.

The Reporter-Telegram especially hated to see the zoo closed, since it was a telephone call to the editor from a McCamey businessman more than 20 years ago, stating that an Upton County rancher had a pet deer which he would like to give to the City of Midland for the possible start of a zoo. The offer was accepted - and that's how it all began, with buffalo and other animals following as gifts, trades or outright purchases.

It is said now that the zoo animals will be gone by the end of

The Midland Zoological Society was formed not too long after the zoo was started, and it has carried on a continuing program and campaign to upgrade the zoo, preferably at a new location. The organization now has 650 members, most of whom perhaps would have gone along with a plan to upgrade the zoo at its present location rather than closing it. But it appears now to be a bit late for anything to be done about that.

Columnist Ed Todd, however, reports that there is an "underground" movement afoot to reopen and upgrade Cole Park Zoo. The result of such an effort, possibly through the filing of a petition, remains to be seen. The sponsors certainly can't be

Mr. Park is parked in London

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - Tongsun Park, the Korean-about-town who passed out financial favors to Washington bigwigs, has no intention of returning to face bribery charges in the United States. The Justice Dept. considered his testimony crucial to making a case against congressmen on the which would sell information back Another major witness in the Korean bribery scandal, Korean If the private arrangement is Embassy defector Kim Sang Keun, more efficient and cheaper we has been unable to give direct testimony about payoffs to congressmen. These two developments, according to sources familiar with the investigation, probably will doom the dept.'s efforts to convict a single congressman of bribery.

We called attention to Park's operations as far back as April 1, 1974. By July 17, 1975, we were able to report for the first time that the Justice Dept. was investigating charges that the Koreans had tried to buy off congressmen.

and respected by Orientals. Complete from Proverbs 23:22, "Hearken unto Now we have had access to some of thy father that begat thee, and Park's papers, which were saved from the shredder. He has told 2. What was Job's remedy for associates categorically that he won't come back to the United States. The 3. What woman is remembered papers strongly indicate he has almost 2,000 years for her charity and transplanted his base to London.

Payroll information, financial details and policy questions have been forwarded from his Washington headquarters to "Mr. T.S. Park, 44 Green Street, London, WIY3FJ, United Kingdom." The papers also contain references to a staff member in London.

The Korean entrepreneur, with the enigmatic smile and the $100 bills, feted powerful congressmen from House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill on down. As many as two dozen bigwigs have come under the Justice Dept.'s hot-eyed scrutiny.

Among them have been such key House members, present and past, as Democratic Whip John J. McFall, D.-Calif., John Bradenas, D.-Ind. Richard Hanna, D.-Calif. Otto Passman, D.-La., and Louisiana's Gov. Edwin Edwards, a former congressman.

Some of them have even admitted accepting payments or favors from Park. But they have denied that the envelopes packed with $100 bills, the business deals, the free trips and other favors constituted bribes. It must be proved that the congressmen gave important favors in exchange for these benefits. Now there appear to be no witnesses who can produce the necessary testimony.

This doesn't mean the American public will be deprived of a three-ring Korean circus. The House plans hearings, which are expected to show flagrant breaches of ethics. But the odds are against the conviction of any sitting congressmen or officials.

Footnote: The suave, smiling Tongsun Park swore he was cooperating fully with the Justice Dept. before he quietly left for England. We have been unable to reach him for his comment. His attorney, William Hundley, declined comment. Justice Dept. officials insisted gamely that the investigation is still active.

SUGGESTION BOX - A year ago,

we established the National Suggestion Box so the individual American could be heard again in Washington. The suggestions poured in by the thousands.

President Carter's subsequent call for suggestions brought an increased response. The National Suggestion Box is now working with the White House to get the best ideas adopted.

Meanwhile, we'll continue to publicize suggestions. which have attracted attention in Washington. Paul Albion of Hayward, Calif., for example, warned that the life insurance companies store confidential health information on 11 million Americans in a computerized master

This Medical Information Bureau, as it's called, contains inaccurate and misleading information which can cause insurance problems for people who don't realize their medical records are on file, Albion charged.

We have confirmed that more than 700 insurance companies have access to these Orwellian files. The federal government's Privacy Protection Study Commission, meanwhile, is investigating whether the Medical Information Bureau violates the Privacy Act.

STARCHED COLLARS - The collars of some members of the congressional Blue Collar Caucus seem to pale under close examination.

The newly formed caucus, organized by Rep. Edward Beard, D. R.I., a former painter, boasts that its 11 members were erstwhile pipefitters, glass workers, bartenders, longshoremen and boxers.

Actually, only three members came to Congress direct from their bluecollar jobs. Rep. Paul Simon, D.-Ill. claims credentials as a printer. Yet at age 19, he purchased his own newspaper and became publisher of a large chain of Illinois weeklies.

Rep. Dale Kildee, D.-Mich., lists his credentials as an electrician. All he did, it turns out, was help install lights in a Michigan foundry for about a nonth in 1967.

Rep. John Dent, D.-Pa., was a rubber worker in his early years. But he has spent the last 40 years as a legislator and executive in various coal, building and transportation companies. And Rep. Gus Yatron, D. Pa., a former heavyweight boxer. spent years as a successful businessman before coming to Washington.

U.S. businessmen in Asia disheartened

Copley News Service

ASIA MEMO:

TAIPEI - American businessmen based in this and other cities of Asia are bristling over what they believe to be is a raw deal at the hands of their own government.

While Tokyo, Bonn and Paris governments encourage and even subsidize their own businessmen in Asian markets, it sometimes appears that Washington is doing all it can to discourage the success of American businessmen in Asia.

The latest in a series of slaps in the face at American expatriates was the Tax Reform Act of 1976 which is hampering the Americans' ability to compete.

A. Lewis Burridge, chairman of the Asia-Pacific Council of American Chambers of Commerce (APCAC) sums up the feelings of many American executives in Asia:

"Today, APCAC sees American economic interests abroad under dire threat of emasculation by U.S. government action. This action, the 1976 amendment of Section 911 of the U.S. Tax Act, removing provisions which had partially equalized costs of supporting American managers, professionals, technicians and service personnel on overseas assignments, threatens an exodus of such key U.S. decision-makers from the foreign American businessmen abroad particularly in Asia, have helped provide the balance of payments surpluses which are crucial to U.S. economic progress. The tax measures are felt hardest in Asia because this is where the new growth and development are taking place.

While other nations reward their expatriate executives for taking risks and operating in "faraway places with strange-sounding airlines," the United States is penalizing its expatriate businessmen.

Part of this may be a backlash from the bribery scandals. That is too supercharged a moral issue to cover in one paragraph.

But The New York Times had a hopeful editorial thought recently when it allowed that perhaps making some appropriate monetary gifts here and there might be better than selling weapons and ammunition to dic-If Americans are going to do business in Asia - and they have been among the most imaginative and hardworking businessmen ever since the first Yankee traders arrived in Macao and Calcutta and Yokohama they must at times use local business practices. To think otherwise is the sheerest form of hypocrisy and ignorance!

Several members of the House of Representatives have moved to get the Tax Reform Act back on track to protect American businessmen in

But it may be too late. A combination of Washington indifference and soaring inflation in places like Tokyo, for example, is driving Americans home in droves.

Whereas Tokyo was once a 'dream'' assignment for a young American breaking in with a large firm, it is now almost prohibitive to live there.

More and more American firms are cutting back on their expatriate personnel and using local nationals. That is appropriate and, in some cases, long overdue

But there are other cases when needed managerial-level personnel from the United States are not able to go abroad because of high costs.

Just concluding a tour of Tokyo, Hong Kong and Taipei, I can report that the energy and competitiveness of international businessmen in this region is more keen than ever. Unfortunately, to base an American in these woods is becoming an increasingly expensive proposition both to the executive himself and to the home office.

It should be a matter of U.S. policy to encourage American business large and small — to get out here and compete in the world's fastestgrowing market.

TWO STANDARDS APPARENT:

Carter's human rights stand flawed by inconsistency

By V.H. KRULAK Copley News Service

The President is on safe ground with the American people when he declares himself four square in favor of human rights. As a philosophy it is in the same league with motherhood. Nevertheless, Mr. Carter is getting a lot of heat on his human rights declarations from other countries, and the reason is plain. It is because his condemnations reflect a lack of consistency.

There is no doubt that there are violations of human rights - as we see them - in many Latin American countries - Brazil, Uruguay, Chile, El Salvador, Argentina and

Ignoring the reality that these countries have suffered for a decade or more from Marxist terrorism where the rights of the majority of their citizens were continually at risk, it is only fair to say that repressions

The real issue from their viewpoint is that we fail to view their problems realistically. They see us invading their internal affairs to criticize their human rights policies and applying economic sanctions against them at the same time that we cozy up to nations where human rights are unknown to the people and deplored by the leadership.

There is something almost obscene to our donning a set of diplomatic blinders as we romance Red China the largest slave state in the world where the only human right is the right to do exactly as you are told and North Korea where personal freedom is literally unknown.

We are openly seeking to make friends with Cuba's Castro, who tolerates little human freedom at home and whose regime is responsible for much of the Marxist terrorism elsewhere in Latin America. Within the last 12 months he has declared undying enmity to the United States in a speech and has announced to the world that, with the avowed help of the Soviet Union, he aims to have a nuclear capability by 1980. No matter how you sugar coat him, Castro still comes out a brigand who oppresses his people - and hates

We are even now negotiating with Omar Torrijos, head of the Panamanian police state, for relinguishment of our title to U.S. property in the Panama Canal Zone.

We are waving a sheaf of olive branches toward North Vietnam, whose inhumanity has been of Olympic quality.

In one of his public statements Mr. Carter recently told the world that the North Vietnamese response in their discussions with the Woodcock Commission "was very favorable." The survivors of the 2,500 Americans who are still missing have to question that - particularly in light of our knowledge that some of our men were beaten, tortured and starved and that their deaths were caused not by the hazards of combat but by flagrant violations of the laws of war and of human rights.

In the face of this unclosed book on massive violations of simple humanity, despite the knowledge that the aftermath of the Vietnam War saw thousands of innocent Vietnamese executed for their opposition to the Communists, it is hard to digest one of the President's news conference disclosures that, where Vietnam is concerned, he is "willing to face the future without reference to the past." It is equally hard to swallow the assertion that, while he does not favor reparations, he would be agreeable to "normal aid processes" once we normalize relations with the Vietnamese Communists.

And to top it all off there is our inconsistent behavior where the Soviet Union is concerned. Rhetorical condemnation of Russian internal conduct, unaccompanied by any form of sanction, is not going to impress the Brazilians or Uruguayans whom we chose to punish with substantive actions.

When we get around to telling the Russians that until they give decent account to human rights they can expect no more bargain basement U.S. wheat and no more of our precious computer technology to help run their war machine, when we do those things our Latin neighbors will still say we are meddlesome, but at

But, as of now, we seem to be telling the world, friend and foe alike, that in the human rights issue we have two standards - very demanding of our friends, very tolerant of our enemies.

In a country as great and powerful as ours, evenhanded consistent conduct is more than a virtue; it is an essential. Articulation of inconsistent and half-crystallized policies is bad in every respect. It erodes our stature in the world and, even worse, it erodes our confidence at home.

Lewdness trial jury hears 20 witnesses

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The defense called more than 20 character witnesses today in the public lewdness trial of Palestine Dist. Atty. Billy Ray Green.

The witnesses all testified that Green's reputation as a peaceful and law-abiding citizen and also as a truth-teller was good.

They included a Harris County assistant district attorney, a University of Texas fraternity house mother, a former Dallas state representative, the sheriff of Palestine, a justice of the peace from Palestine, a former Henderson County sheriff, the Athens municipal judge, a University of Houston Law School professor and a 76-year-old black woman active in civic affairs in Palestine.

Monday, Green testified he identified himself to police only as an attorney after his arrest Jan. 18

Travis County Atty. Jim McMurty asked Green if he showed police a driver's license or any identification that would show he was a district attorney after they took him to jail. "I just gave my name and address," Green said.

The defendant said police officers who testified they saw him performing an oral sex act "were either lying or they were confused." "We have two eye witnesses that are lying?" McMurtry asked. "Yes, sir," Green replied. McMurtry pressed Green on why he failed to yell, "Help me! Help me!" when he ran into a downtown hotel after fleeing the plainclothes officers he said he thought were thugs. "Mr. McMurtry, I was out of breath. I simply went to the elevator." Green said. The defendant added, "The whole scene was pretty scary. It was pretty startling. A man burst in there saying, 'You're under arrest,' when you know you've done nothing wrong.' McMurtry finished his cross-examination of Green after keeping him on the stand for a total of six hours

Friday and Monday. Public lewdness is a misdemeanor punishable by one year in jail and a fine of $2,000. Officers testified they witnessed the act in a curtained peep-show booth at the rear of an adult book store.

Green testified he observed "oral sex going on in there" in "one or two" of the booths he visited on what he called his investigation of pornography standards in Austin.

On re-direct examination by his lawyer, Green testified he expected the same privacy when he entered the peep-show booth as when he uses dressing booths in clothing stores or voting booths at polling places.

McMurtry then asked Green if he intended to remove his clothes in the peep-show booth, as he would in a clothing store booth.

Green said no. The prosecutor asked if Green had to show a voter's registration card to get into a voting booth. Green said ves.

4 known dead in

hotel fire GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) -

Central Hotel, an old five-story brick building in this Gulf Coast island city, burned to the ground early this morning and firemen said 10 to 12 persons were feared dead and at least 28 were unaccounted for.

Fourteen other persons were taken to the John Sealy Hospital. Three of them were reported in critical condition. Two firemen also suffered injuries.

Authorities said they were investigating the possibility of arson. At least one person was questioned early in the morning and police issued an all-points bulletin for another man who was placed by witnesses near the scene of the fire shortly before it

"There is some suspicion of arson since the fire broke out in three different locations simultaneously," a spokesman for the Galveston Police Department said.

Two bodies were pulled out of the rubble early in the morning. After the fire was brought under control, firemen said two more bodies had been located, but could not brought immediately out of the smoldering debris.

The hotel is located about two blocks from the docks in a rundown section of downtown.

Malpractice bill moves

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Senators approved a medical malpractice insurance bill, 27-4, today although Sen. A.R. Schwartz claimed they had no right to vote on it because it did not have a Senate sponsor.

The bill goes back to the House. where it originated, for action on Senate amendments. It is expected to end up in a House-Senate conference committee.

House members debated $708 million worth of public school finance bills for the fifth day.

Schwartz, D-Galveston, withdrew as the Senate sponsor of the malpractice bill Monday, but the Senate followed Sen. Ray Farabee's motion in tentatively approving it, 28-

The final vote was taken today after the Senate beat back, 26-5, a motion by Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, to postpone it for two days.

Schwartz said he had never known the Senate to pass a bill without the sponsor requesting passage. He said the Senate should wait for the House sponsor of the House-approved bill, Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, to pick a new Senate sponsor.

"It is a selfish bill and ought to have a selfish sponsor," Schwartz said. "I ain't going to have my name on that monster.

Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said: "It is not Sen. Schwartz's bill. It is not Sen. Farabee's bill. It is not Rep. Uher's bill. It is a bill of the state of Texas."

Monday, in the Senate's longest and most emotional debate of the session, Schwartz said the bill was a result of the "greed and avarice" of doctors. "We're going to create a new diety known as doctors," he railed in seven hours of debate. "The Lord will have to start wearing a stethoscope. Farabee offered numerous amendments proposed by the Texas Medical Association and accused Schwartz, in effect, of saying, "If I don't get my way, I won't play ball.' Schwartz failed, 7-23, to get the bill sent back to his jurisprudence committee, and he announced that he would not serve on any Senate-House conference committee to work out differences in the separate versions. The bill the Senate debated already had been approved by the House, but Schwartz described it as a "delicate .

.fair and legitimate" compromise that would be destroyed by amend-

Reelected woman mayor eyes cooperation by new council

freshly reelected to a second two-year term as mayor of the nation's largest city headed by a woman, says San Antonio's new ethnically-balanced council can work together as a team.

"There are seven new faces on the council," the 55-year-old housewife said after studying the results of Saturday's runoff municipal elections, "and we must get them oriented to city problems, goals and Indeed, voters here returned only four members of

The department said the annexations would dilute Mexican-American voting strength in citywide, atlarge elections. Mexican Americans elected to the council from

Mrs. Cockrell said she will immediately push for be taking a cautious approach until the President outlines details of his plans in an address to Congress Wednesday night. Auto stocks, which led the market's retreat Monday, came under pressure again today in the wake of a leading analysts' negative assessment of the group's prospects.

General Motors fell 1¼ to 66%: Ford Motor was down 114 to 55%, and Chrysler was off % at 16%, all in

You have one heart and are sure of Same gun two spades. You need six tricks in clubs and diamonds combined.

If the diamond finesse works, you can win five diamonds and one club. If the club finesse works, you can win four clubs and two diamonds. But which finesse is going to work? Since you're down one if you choose an unsuccessful finesse, you must try the right finesse.

TRY BOTH SUITS You can't quite try both finesses, but you can try both suits.

Lead out the ace and king of diamonds to see if the queen drops. If it does, you have no further problem. As the cards lie, you run the diamonds and take your nine tricks without a finesse.) If the queen of diamonds fails to

NEW YORK (AP) -The embattled food store of some of the harshest

customer criticism, have improved their margins Whether that improvement has real significance is another matter, because the food stores, like their suffered from dwindling buyer power. Still, the chains managed to increase their margin on sales in 1976 to a full point, double the return on sales in 1975, and that's an impressive rate of improvement, inflation notwithstanding. A study by Citibank shows that general improvement, though not to the same degree, was experienced throughout industry, no matter how measured. But all these favorable comparisons, the bank noted, were primarily the result of recovery from recession, plus continued inflation, and so the question remains: How much real momentum is left for the expansion ahead? After-tax profits rose 29 per cent last year over 1975, based on a survey of 4,289 corporations. But a 'profits deflator' measurement of the Commerce Department shows corporate buying power down by about the same amount since 1973. Thus, the bank concludes, "The average purchasing power of 1976 earnings was about the same as it was three years earlier, despite the appreciable growth in the meantime in real cor-porate sales." This experience undobutedly has some bearing on the current worries among businessmen that inindustry spinning its wheels without traction.

It helps explain what might otherwise be thought of as a morbid preoccupation with the worst in the midst of some of the best economic news in the past couple of years, a fixation on the negative that could itself cause problems.

Sales are destined to go higher, which of course pleases business, but if inflation shadows the sales then to what does it all add up?

Thus business needs convincing that the Carter administration probably cannot provide. no matter how sound its anti-inflation program might be. If there is a pinhole in it, then businessmen will see a

HOUSTON (AP) -Police say ballistic tests have proven the same .38 caliber pistol was used to kill three persons and wound a fourth in Houston and Leon County early last month. However, authorities said Monday weeks of intensive searching in the Dallas and Houston areas has failed to turn up the right suspect.

Thomas William Braithwaite, 44, a Houston man hitchhicking in Leon County, was shot to death the night of March 5 in a roadside park south of Centerville, some 150 miles north of Houston and south of Dallas.

Some six hours later, Leonard Naquin, 51, and his son, Mark, 11, were hour later, Mohammad people.' Sadat Nasseri, 18, was wounded at another southeast Houston service station.

Police said, ballistic tests of the .38 caliber bullets recovered show similar markings.

NEW YORK (AP) - Walters Mears of The Associated Press, one of "the boys on the bus" in every presidential campaign since 1960, has won the 1977 Pulitzer Prize for national reporting.

Mears' rapid-fire writing under pressure of newspaper deadlines through 32 presidential primaries and the national campaign was praised by the Pulitzer jury, which said more people throughout the world probably read his words than those of any other political reporter.

"In The Associated Press, nobody works solo," said the 42-year-old AP Special Correspondent after he learned of the honor. "Our coverage of the 1976 presidential campaign was the work of many people, all of whom own a share of this award.'

Mears was one of several political reporters highlighted in Timothy Crouse's book, "The Boys On The Bus." The book chronicled the press coverage of the 1972 presidential campaign between President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. George McGovern, D-Alex Haley was in Gambia and Michael Cristofer was sitting under a tree in Ohio when they were named Pulitzer winners Monday, Haley in a special category for his best-seller "Roots," and Cristofer in drama for his play, "Shadow Box," which just opened on Broadway. Haley was visiting his ancestral home of Juffure this week, a village that has become a mecca for black Americans since publication of his partly fictionalized account of the descendants of the slave Kunte Kinte. A television movie of his book was rated the most watched show in history.

Cristofer's play, which scans the lives of eight persons who deal with the impending death of three of them, opened here March 31, the last day to qualify for this year's Pulitzers.

The candidates were James Markham and Henry Tanner of the New York Times for their reports on the Lebanese civil war; William Woo, editorial page editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, for a series of articles after a trip to China, and Larry Heinzerling. Associated Press bureau chief in Johannesburg, for coverage of the Soweto rioting in South Africa.

The New York Times reported Tuesday that the jury had unanimously recommended Markham and Tanner for the prize.

Neal Ulevich of The Associated Press shared the prize for spot news photography with Stanley Forman of the Boston Herald-American.

Ulevich won for his photos of a student uprising in Bangkok, including one showing a rightist about to slam a chair into the lifeless body of a hanged student following demonstrations. Forman's prizewinner, taken during the antibusing furor in Boston, showed a white man attacking a black lawyer with a flagstaff bearing the American flag.

Other prizewinners in journalism included: -Margo Huston of the Milwaukee Journal, general local reporting, for investigation of local nursing home conditions.

-Acel Moore and Wendell Rawls Jr. of the Philadelphia Inquirer, special local reporting, for exposing conditions at Pennsylvania's Farview State Hospital for the Criminally Insane -Warren Lerude, Foster Church and Norman

South African Foreign Minsiter R. F. Botha was quoted Sunday as saying he doesn't see how his nation can deal with Young in the future, because Young called his government illegitimate.

'He couldn't deal with me before that statement," Young remarked to reporters after testifying to a Senate subcommittee Monday. He noted that Botha is running for re-election and said, "I really don't mind helping

'My whole approach to South Africa has been extremely moderate - too moderate," Young said. He said that he was picketed a week ago at the United Nations by Americans demanding more militant opposition to the white African governments.

The former Georgia congressman said he thinks there can be nonviolent change to black rule in South Africa and contrasted this view with what he called the cynicism of some American corporations that are making no effort to head off a violent racial explo-

Young repeated, in response to the question he gets over and over from reporters these says, that neither the State Department nor President Carter has discouraged him from speaking out on foreign policy issues.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III, fielding a long string of questions about Young, said Monday, "There is no conflict, low-key or otherwise" between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Young.

Carter also said that the President's designation of Vice President Mondale as the leader of the adminstration's study of African policy "in no way diminishes the role of Ambassador Young or any other U.S. official."

When Young was asked whether Mondale's new role would take some responsibility from him, he joked, "I hope so." After reeling off a list of crises in Africa, including those in Ethiopia, Zaire, Rhodesia and Namibia, he said, "There's enough work there for anyone who wants to

DEAR ABBY

Fornication gets lower ranking

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You recently ran a letter from a woman who said she lost her 74-year-old boyfriend whom she had gone with for eight years because she refused to "commit adultery" by having sex with him.

She said, "I'm about his age, but to me, adultery is adultery whether you're 16 or 70.

Abby, if this woman had agreed to have sex with her boyfriend, she would NOT be committing adultery! Adultery can be committed only by a married person who has sex with someone other than his (or her)

Since neither she nor her boyfriend is married, there is no adultery involved here. However, if they did have sex, they would be guilty of fornication, the definition of "fornication" being having sex without

So please tell that lady immediately that she would not be committing adultery if she had sex with her friend. Knowing this, she might change her mind.—HELPFUL

DEAR HELPFUL: A woman who refuses to commit adultery would probably also refuse to commit fornication, although on a scale of 1 to 10 (10 being the worst), I'd give adultery a 10 and fornication a 9.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the Pennsylvania mother who wrote: "I just found out that my 18-year-old daughter is on the Pill, and I am nearly crazy with heartbreak, disappointment and shame.

I am an Ohio mother who is also nearly crazy with heartbreak, disappointment and shame because my 18-year-old daughter was NOT on the Pill. Now, I wish with all my heart that she had been because she is now seven months pregnant. Soon she will give birth to her first baby (my first grandchild)-and it will be put up for

Because of circumstances I can't go into here, my daughter has decided that adoption is the best solution for all concerned, and there is nothing I can do to change her mind. At least the girl who's on the Pill will never have to live with the guilt of having given up her own flesh and blood. She won't have to miss those Friday night dances, football games, movies and dates with all her friends. She won't have to worry about going back to school to face her classmates who know why she missed six months

Please, Pennsylvania mother, don't be upset with your daughter for being on the Pill. Just be grateful that she had sense enough to use birth contro instead of risking an unwanted pregnancy. I wish my daughter had.—HEARTBROKEN MOM IN

Congress bucks Carter on cuts

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of Congress are taking a "show me why" attitude toward President Carter's effort to scrap or cut back 20 water projects.

In addition to cuts, Carter is recommending "major policy reforms" in the federal approach to dam safety, water conservation, cost overruns, sharing costs with beneficiaries and using water projects to create jobs.

Carter dropped the other shoe Monday on his so-called hit list or review of 32 water projects.

He recommended scrapping 15 projects and reducing appropriations for five others. He also urged Congress to delete funding for three projects, but said he might recom-mend full or partial funding for them after further analysis.

The President recommended full funding for the remaining nine projects.

Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., said the burden remains on Carter to prove the losing projects have no merit.

No work, no food in China

PEKING - The official press here came out with a strong reminder Tuesday that "anyone who doesnot work will not be fed.

A front-page editorial in The People's Daily, on the current economic reconstruction program, said: "Let us be firm in applying the principle of Socialist sharing: anyone who doesn't work will not be fed and to each person according to his capacity and his labor."

The editorial laid down the ways and means of increasing the production of China's economy in order to obtain "several million tons more of coal and steel" this year.

The article emphasized the order of priority in the development programe: First agriculture, then light industry, and finally heavy in-dustry with emphasis on fuel

Police investigating plot against Groucho

SANTA MONICA, Calif. - A Beverly Hills police detective Monday testified that a criminal investigation had been launched by her department in connection with a possible death plot against 86-year-old comedian Groucho

Marx. The testimony was given by Detective Judith Trunk before Santa Monica Superior Court Judge Edward Rafeedi at what had started out to be a routine conservatorship hearing for the invalided Marx

But attorneys for Marx' son, Arthur, who has been seeking to be named conservator in competition with Erin Flemming, the comedy star's companion for the past seven years, charged that the life of the elder Marx was in

They based their concern on discovery of hidden syringes and drugs found Easter Sunday in a storm drain in front of the entertainer's home.

Private detective Norman L. Perle, who had been hired by Miss Flemming to check the home for electronic eavesdropping equipment, testified he found the drugs and syringes in the drain while ecting a search for the devices.

Odessa • 333-4472

A second private detective Fred Wolfson, brought into the case by Perle as a consultant, testified Monday that he and Perle had decided to go to the police after Miss Flemming suggested that the drugs and syringes "be buried in the yard."

Wolfson said that when Miss Flemming decided to "stonewall" the find, he and Perle first talked to a lawyer, Alan M. May, and then took their story to the Beverly Hills police. Wolfson testified that they took with them the drugs and the market shopping bag in which they had been found. He said the police used a narcotics test kit to reach a preliminary conclusion that at least one of the pills found contained a barbiturate. Det. Trunk said her office began investigation on its own as to possible criminal activity after talking with the private detectives and looking at the evidence. Wolfson said Perle took 26 of the syringes included in the find to Dr. George W. Stevenson, a physician and toxicologist who runs a Santa Monica laboratory, for analysis.

Stevenson testified Monday that he found traces of shortacting barbiturates on the syringes.

Although all the women said they had unpleasant experiences with men on the job, 71 per cent still said they would rather work with and for men than women. The main reason cited was that women tend to be less sympathetic with other women.

Committee drops $50 rebate from tax bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Finance Committee voted today to strike from its tax bill the $50 rebates and payments, which President Carter has dropped from his plan to stimulate the economy.

The committee acted by voice vote with little debate after chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said that there was general agreement and that the payment provisions for 200 million Americans would have been dropped earlier had it not been for the Carter administration's support of them.

The committee went on to discuss remaining portions of the bill, aiming at sending a revised version to the Senate by the end of this week.

The committee has at least two problems in salvaging Carter's stimulus package: how to handle a Republican drive for permanent tax cuts to substitute for the $50 rebates and payments and how much tax relief for business should remain in the reduced bill.

Carter has said he will veto any bill containing further permanent tax reductions

Long predicted no such provisions will become law, however hard Republicans try.

"I don't think they've got the votes in the committee," he told reporters.

"I don't think they've got them in the Senate. If it should get through the Senate, it wouldn't get through conference with the House. And if it did, the President would veto it." Republicans were not predicting success. Minority Leader Howard W. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said, "I personally still favor permanent reductions, but I don't know whether they should be in this bill or a later Virtually everyone agreed that Carter's change of heart had killed any chance that the Senate would approve the $50 payments, but there was some doubt about his accompanying recommendation to delete $2.5 billion in tax breaks for business.

Carter originally proposed an increase in the investment credit that allows businesses to recoup some of their spending for equipment. The House substituted a credit based on increased hiring. The Senate committee wrote in an option between versions of the two plans, an approach more to the administration's taste.

Mexico returns plane

ADDISON, Tex. (AP) - Davis Moffat had to wait 19 months for a new policy to be set by the Mexican government, but he finally has his airplane

The plane, stolen from Addison airport by drug dealers in October 1975, was one of 20 returned by the Mexican government in the past three weeks, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

Moffat's plane crashed in Mexico and was confiscated by authorities The return of the plane apparently is a manifestation of a new Mexican policy to return the more than 200 planes believed confiscated by federal officials in connection with drug smuggling arrests. State agencies are believed to be holding another large number of U.S. private planes.

The embass: spokesman said U.S. officials are also working on a program to obtain the return of thousands of automobiles stolen in the United States and believed to be in Mexico.

Moffat said the return of his plane did not mean an end to his battles with red tape:

"I had a letter from the Director General of the Foreign Affairs Office saying I could bring the reported incidents to plane across," Moffat superiors but such said. message to Congress on Wednesday. Briscoe reiterated his dissatisfaction with portions of the plan reportedly advanced by Carter's energy czar, James Schlesinger, particularly ceilings on intrastate natural gas prices and allocation of gas among the states.

Briscoe said he doubted Congress would impose federal controls on intrastate gas prices and said he doubted they would be constitutional. "We would fight it all the way," the governor asserted.

Allocation of Texas gas to other states "would mean shortages in Texas, close Texas industries and put people out of work," he said.

A ceiling on intrastate prices could reduce revenue to the state treasury. So could a provision raising gasoline taxes in an effort to reduce consumption. This, in turn, would cut the amount of revenue to the state highway fund from the Texas motor fuel

Briscoe was asked if such provisions would make it impossible for him to keep his "no new taxes" promise in 1979 if he is re-elected next

"It would not," he replied. Briscoe, a personal friend of Carter. said he believed Carter was rethinking some of the energy positions that have leaked from the White House. One reported position would be to continue gas price regulation. The President has stated his position on deregulation (favoring it) and I feel confident that position will remain the same," Briscoe said. Briscoe is an ardent advocate of deregulation, which would let market forces set oil and gas prices - that is, all the traffic will bear. On other matters, Briscoe said:

-He thinks there should be a pay raise for teachers, either given by the state or by local districts if the state frees enough local tax money. He said he wanted to keep his options open but indicated he would not veto a modest teacher pay bill. For the moment, he said, he will not send the House an emergency message enabling it to consider a $263 million teacher pay raise bill before the general appropriation bill is passed and certified by the comptroller.

-He has made no final decision on whether to reappoint Durwood Manford, whose term on the State Insurance Board expired in January. -He is "very encouraged" at his HOUSTON (AP) - U.S.Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., says he is personally convinced there is a serious energy shortage but adds he believes the American public is rightfully confused because it has had no decisive leadership in this area.

He said Monday he is optimistic the Republican members of Congress will be able to put together a "meaningful, constructive energy program."

He said at a news conference he is strongly opposed to an increase in the tax on gasoline. My objection is that it is the worst of both worlds," he said. "They scheduled propose a tax increase on the basis of discouraging consumption. Well, the embargo showed what a rise in prises The Permian Basin Well Logging caused. The bureau said the windmills would save it the equivalent of 799,000 barrels of oil per year.

Each windmill would produce two megawatts of power, enough energy to satisfy the annual power needs of 1.400 homes.

Reservoir water impounded by the bureau's series of dams in central Wyoming, one of the mainsprings of the bureau's Colorado River Storage Project, would be stored while the wind is at work.

When the wind abates, the tran-smission system would draw its power from release of the reservoir

All-Star ballot is loaded with Yanks

The All-Star ballot announced Monday is George Steinbrenner's dream come true. There is a New York Yankee listed at every position. It just goes to show you what an ambitious owner with a willing wallet can accomplish these days.

Billy Martin, Steinbrenner's favorite manager, will be piloting the American League stars in the July 19 game against the National League. The game will be played in Yankee Stadium, Steinbrenner's favorite ballyard. Now if only the fans cooperate and elect all of Steinbrenner's all-stars, the Yankees' manifest destiny will be complete.

Perhaps a little nudging might be in order. Fans have been known to stuff all-star ballot boxes before, you know. See Cincinnati Reds, circa 1957. But it can't happen here. Just ask Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

'We have tried to devise the distribution of ballots in such a way as to prevent any stuffing," the com-"And we think the missioner said.

It was Kuhn who orchestrated the return of the All-Star balloting to the after being named commissioner. And the success of the fan vote is one of his proudest accomplishments.

"We were concerned about how many ballots we could handle with this type of voting," Kuhn recalled. "We thought we'd get a couple of million.

That's what they got the first year, but then the balloting started growing like Topsy and last year there were more than 8 million votes cast. "We never dreamed of that kind of total," Kuhn said.

Critics of the system have wondered just how knowledgeable the fans are and have suggested that the teams might be better selected by the players, coaches and managers, the professionals of baseball. Kuhn has resisted that idea.

"I'm not so certain that's an accurate criticism," the commissioner said. "The results have been pretty good and I saw one poll where the players were in agreement with about 75 to 80 per cent of the teams elected by the fans.

That means the fans will keep the ballot as long as Kuhn remains commissioner. "As long as it works he said.

It is difficult, though, for the fans to avoid making the All-Star ballot a popularity contest. There are players who receive votes because of their names, almost from force of habit.

A year ago, the best catcher in the National League over the first half of the season was Bob Boone of Philadelphia. But when you think National League catcher, you think Johnny Bench. So the fans dutifully punched their holes next to Bench's name on the computer card ballot and Boone had to be satisfied with being added to the squad as a reserve.

There are other examples of similar miscarraiges of All-Star justice, but there isn't much that can be done about it if, as Kuhn insists, the fans must be allowed to vote for the teams.

There is a backstop for the fans, of course. The public elects only the eight starters for each team. The reserves and pitchers are left up to the two managers, and that's where wrongs can be righted.

There are, however, managerial prejudices to deal with. Some pilots believe, for example, that a relief pitcher's place is in the bullpen, not on an All-Star team. Martin does not

"I think I'll rely on relievers a lot more than they have in the past," he

That will be good news for guys like his own Sparky Lyle, who works strictly in relief. Lyle, though, has done little to enhance his All-Star chances so far this season. But then, neither have many of his teammates.

When the expansion Toronto Blue Jays showed up at the stadium Monday, only one of the teams on the field had a .500 record before the game began. And it wasn't Steinbrenner's Yankees.

They have an All-Star at every position, but unless they start winning, those All-Stars may be working elsewhere. Steinbrenner isn't one to stand for long-term failure and last year's pennant is quickly fading into memory. The Yankees haven't done much for their boss lately.

idle so long, Manager Jim Saul may have to reintroduce them to the sport before tonight's game with the defending Texas League champion Amarillo Gold Sox at Cubs Stadium

Amarillo opens a five-game series at 7:30 p.m. and while the Dodgers felt they had solid hitting and questionable pitching, the Gold Sox appear to be just the opposite.

PITCHING IS the least of Manager Dave Campbell's concerns. Seven of Amarillo's 10 pitchers helped the Sox to their pennant last year.

Juan Eichelberger, a smoke thrower, was 2-6 for Amarillo last year, but found himself later at Reno where he was 6-1 with 118 strikeouts in 155 innings. Joining Eichelberger from last year are Don Alfano, Galen McSpadden, Mike Lentz and Roger Coe as starters and all lefthanded. Rusty Gerhardt returns and was 9-2 for the Sox last year.

Alfano started the season as an outfielder, but finished with a 3-1 record as a reliefer. Cole was 7-3 with a 3.73 ERA, McSpadden 10-7, 3.24 and Lentz 5-3, 5.47.

THE RECRUITS from Walla Walla bring impressive credentials to the Texas League First baseman Broderick Perkins, who joined the club long enough for the playoffs, hit .355 with 10 homers and 63 rbi in the A circuit. Third baseman Paul O'Neill hit .294 with 11 homers and 55 rbi while second baseman Steve Smith hit .290 and shortstop Bill Hallstrom .267. Catcher Tony Castillo hit .245 at Reno, but has seven homers and 41 rbi. The other starter is centerfielder H.P. Drake, .279 at Reno with nine homers and 66 rbi.

Tonight's game marks the first of a five-game series that runs through Saturday.

Alberts, a 6-2, 195-pound righthander, coming out of college last spring turned in an impressive debut season after being signed to a contract by Los Angeles scout Rudy Rufer. The 23-year-old from Oceanside, N.Y., was 8-3 with Bellingham, and a 2.82 earned-run-average. In 102 innings, he walked only 22 and fanned 92. JACK LEDBETTER probably will get the starting call for Wednesday's game, completing the Cubs' five-man starting rotation. The Cubs won two of three against San Antonio, twice striking from behind to pull out victories. Amarillo had the same kind of rainout luck as the Cubs, two, and even worse luck against El Paso, losing all three games played and all in front of the home fans.

Although Amarillo last year won the pennant while Midland was finishing last in the West Division, the teams split the season's series, 16-16.

Drayton captures BASEBALL STANDINGS Boston Marathon

By The Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) - Canadian marathon ace Jerome Drayton felt he was caught in "a free-for-all" at the start of the 81st Boston Marathon. He admittedly was scared. So he did what any intelligent good runner would do. He ran away from the pack.

Drayton, run into the pavement by Bill Rodgers' record-shattering run for glory just two years ago, gained sweet revenge Monday as he buried the Boston school teacher and went on to win the 26-mile, 385-yard Patriots' Day classic in 2 hours, 14 minutes, 46 seconds.

"It was a real hassle, like a free-forall at the start," Drayton said after the race which attracted a record field of 2,933 official starters. "I got jostled, booted, kicked around. There was no notice when the gun was going

"It went off suddenly. One guy grabbed my shirt and nearly pulled me down. I got kicked in the ankle at the start and I thought I was a goner. However, I was able to recover and the ankle didn't bother me the rest of the way, although it's a little stiff right now.

Rodgers, whose 2:09.55 clocking was the fastest marathon ever run by an American when he was a surprise winner in 1975, and Drayton, who had to give up the fight and quit two miles from the finish in that race, hooked up in a duel as expected. However, it didn't last as long as most experts had Rodgers, who beat 1972 Olympic champion Frank Shorter in New York last fall and won the Kyoto Marathon in Japan a few weeks ago, held a stride lead over Drayton at the third checkpoint, 13.4 miles from the start.

Then Drayton, a 32-year-old German-born government employe in Toronto, began to apply the pressure.

Shreveport nabs 3-0 TL victory

Shreveport kept up its winning ways in the Texas League East Division Monday night, taking a 3-0 victory over Jackson behind the one-hit, 14 strikeout pitching of Don Robinson.

All the action in the loop was in the East, with Tulsa rapping Arkansas, 7-1, in the other game. Robinson had a no-hitter going into the eighth inning, when Keith Bodie rapped a single with one

Mike Scott twirled a four-hitter in taking the loss. Doubles by Jim Busby and Juan DeLeiza accounted/ for two of the three Shreveport runs. Dan Darwin struck but 12 in eight innings to make

Year makes big difference

What a difference a year can make. Just ask Amarillo pitcher Don Alfano. Last year at this time, Alfano was just another outfielder, hoping he could stick with the Texas League

This year, Manager Dave Campbell enthuses, "He has one of the three best arms on the ball club..has great otential to play in the major leagues, if he can throw strikes consistently."

It was during an early series at Cubs Stadium that Alfano confided to Midland Cubs first baseman Scott Thompson that he was in such a bad slump that he was considering taking up pitching.

"I'm not even hitting my weight," said Don.

Scott, who was to finish strong and earn a promotion to Wichita this season, knew how Don felt.

"I'm not doing so good either. I'd be hitting my weight, if I hadn't gained a few pounds," Scott sympathized...

SOME FACES Midlanders had become accustomed to in the Gold Sox lineup are no longer with the team as the Texas League champs make their first Cubs Stadium appearance.

Home-run hitting Don Reynolds, infielders Tucker Ashford, Chuck Baker and Lin Hamilton along with catcher Rick Sweet and pitchers Jim Wilhelm, Steve Mura, Bob Owchinko dnd Jay Franklin moved up to the AAA club in Hawaii. Gene Delyon, whose bat was bad news to the Cubs was released, Mike Allen was swapped to Houston and Rocky Craig

ONE GUY who won't be back is Bob Shirley, the pitcher from the University of Oklahoma. Shirley was so impressive, he won a promotion to Hawaii at mid-season after compiling a 9-5 record in the Texas League.

This year, Bob is with San Diego and the other day fanned 11 Cincinnati Reds. Sounds like good riddance,

But, just to show what a funny game baseball is, Shirley wasn't any tougher than John Montefusco, when the Count was in the league. The Cubs beat John four times and Shirley's luck against Midland wasn't any better. Bob suffered four of his five losses at the hands of the Cubs, but he was the kind of pitcher that made you sigh in relief every time you got away

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas exploded for 12 runs in the second game of a doubleheader to gain a Southwest Conference split with Houston after the Cougars' Billy Blum shut out the Longhorns in the opener, 4-0.

The Longhorns' 12-3 victory in the nightcap got a power assist from Wendell Hibbet, who slammed a three-run homer in the first inning and added a solo shot in the eighth.

Houston got its four runs in the first inning of the first contest on singles by Bobby Hollas, Donny Lopez, Steve Kevar and Randy Abendrodh.

Hobbs' Stars won the second game, 10-2, as Andy Madrid took the loss.

Mad Hungarian preserves win

By The Associated Press

The Mad Hungarian is back. "I'm not the nice guy everybody makes me out to be," says Al Hrabosky, referring to his cleanshaven new image. "If my mother was up at the plate, I'd hit her if I had

It was vintage Hrabosky Monday night after the relief ace of the St. Louis Cardinals surrendered a home run to Dave Kingman of the New York Mets leading off the ninth inning. That cut the Cards' lead to 3-2 and woke up the Mad Hungarian.

'That made me mad, because he laughed at me while he was running around the bases," said Hrabosky. "That got the adrenalin flowing. I think that's 75, 80, 90 per cent of the Home plate umpire Ed Sudol came out and warned Hrabosky not to delay the game. "He just told me to keep from making the game a circus," said Hrabosky, "I couldn't blame him."

So Hrabosky settled down to the task at hand. He struck out Kranepool. He struck out John Stearns. He struck out Roy Staiger. And he strutted off the mound with his first save of the season

In other National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-3, the Atlanta Braves pounded the San Diego Padres 12-6, the Montreal Expos edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5 in 14 innings and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-1.

Hrabosky has kept the Mad Hungarian act under wraps since Vern Rapp took over as manager of the Cards this year.

Panatta nabs win in WCT

HOUSTON (AP) Italian Adriano Panatta and New Yorker Vitas Gerulaitis looked more like they'd just finished a marathon race instead of the finals of the $100,000 World Championship Tennis (WCT) tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Panatta, his face flushed and his shirt dripping with sweat, survived two grueling tie-breakers Monday and finally won the $30,000 first prize 7-6, 6-7, 6-1 when Gerulaitis developed leg cramps and hobbled through the final set.

"I was tired in the first said Panatta, who had to have two ice packs to help him combat the muggy 80-degree temperatures. "When he won the second set I was worried because I was stiff and tired."

But Gerulaitis, who collected $15,000 second prize, had more severe physical problems. Tournament trainer Clifford Brown said Gerulaitis started suffering the cramps in the eighth game of the second set.

By the start of the final set, Gerulaitis was staying on the baseline, allowing Panatta drop shots to go unchallenged.

Panatta, who won the Italian and French Open tournament back to back last year, moved into eighth place in points standings for the WCT finals at Dallas next month.

Toronto whips Yankees, 5-1

By The Associated Press Picked as pre-season favorites to easily sweep to the American League title, the New York Yankees are buried in last place in the East Division.

But Toronto's Otto Velez, who helped drive the Yankees deeper into the cellar Monday, agrees with the prognosticators. "The Yankees are a good team," Velez said after slamming a home run and driving in two runs. "When those guys get it together they'll start winning some games. They've got everything. But that's what happens when everybody's in a slump. Velez was a member of the Yankees until being selected by Toronto in the expansion draft last year. He struck out his first two times to the plate in his first trip back to Yankee Stadium. But he was instrumental in handing the Yanks their seventh loss in nine games as the Blue Jays defeated New

In other AL games Monday, Boston downed Detroit 5-3, Baltimore nipped Cleveland 4-3, Minnesota stopped Kansas City 8-6 and Seattle outlasted

Dave Lemanczyk, who came into the game with a 5.28 earned run average, stifled the Yankees on four singles while New York aided the Blue Jays by committing four errors- three of them in the fifth inning when Toronto tied the score with an unearned run.

Doug Ault drew a one-out walk in the sixth, stole second and scored when catcher Thurman Munson threw the ball into center field. Velez followed with his homer and singled home the Blue Jays' final run in the eighth after consecutive doubles by Bob Bailor and Ron Fairly. Red Sox 5, Tigers 3

A two-run homer by Butch Hobson in the sixth inning lifted Boston past Detroit. Hobson's shot over the "The Green Monster"—Boston's high left field wall-scored Dwight Evans and erased a 3-2 Detroit lead. Hobson also knocked in an insurance run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly.

Ben Oglivie smacked a tworun homer, his third of the year, for Orioles 4, Indians 3 by Doug DeCinces and Eddie Murray lifted Baltimore to its victory over Cleveland. DeCinces' homer followed a leadoff walk to Ken Singleton and put the Orioles ahead 3-2. Murray's blast, his third hit of the game, knocked out loser Pat Dobson, 0-1. Al Bumbry also homered for Baltimore. Rick Manning scored Cleveland's first two runs. In the ninth, pinch hitter Jim Norris singled home Rico Carty for the game's final run. Twins 8, Royals 6 Rod Carew had four hits, including a triple, and Lyman Bostock drove in three runs with a homer and single, powering Minnesota past Kanas City. Carew's seventh-inning opposite-field triple scored Glen Borgmann, who had walked, for the Twins' go-ahead run. Minnesota added a run in the eighth on consecutive singles by Larry Hisle, who stole second, and Dan Ford.

Al Cowens had two doubles and Pete LaCock a triple for the Royals.

Mariners 8, Rangers 6 Juan Bernhardt doubled and homered, driving in four runs, pacing Seattle over Texas. The Mariners roughed up Texas starter Doyle Alexander and reliever Mike Wallace for seven runs on 10 hits in the first five innings as Lee Stanton knocked in two runs with a single and a homer, Dan Meyer slammed his second home run of the season and Ruppert Jones contributed two singles for Seattle.

NBA play resumes tonight By The Associated Press

The Houston Rockets. having taken their first step towards equilibrium by winning the National Basketball Association's Central Division title, now set their sights on bigger and better things: the NBA title.

With newcomers Moses Malone and John Lucas joining Rudy Tomanovich, Kevin Kunnert, Calvin Murphy and Mike Newlin, Houston produced a blend of rebounding, playmaking and shooting that gave them the fourth-best record in the NBA. Tonight, they take on the playoff-experienced Washington Bullets in the opener of their best-ofseven quarter-final series. In the other matchups, which open Wednesday, the Portland Trail Blazers host the Denver Nuggets and the Los Angeles Lakers visit the Golden State Warriors.

The Boston Celtics try to improve their 1-0 lead over the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night in the quarter-final series which began Sunday. Tomjanovich credits

the Rockets' turnaround. "It was a combination of things like the new players, but the real thing is we finally had a direction," said Tom-janovich, the Rockets' leading scorer. ### King fights for reputation NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Boxing Championships are staggering under a variety of charges, with Don King fighting not only to save the tournament but his reputation as a top-if not the topboxing promoter. With the nationally televised tournament under investigation by a federal grand jury and under suspension by ABC-TV, its bankroller, King, suspended his boxing consultants Paddy Flood, Al Braverman and Gordon Peterson Monday. Flood and Braverman, fight managers who are connected with several fighters in the tournament, have been charged with favoritism and accepting kickbacks. A grand jury in Baltimore is investigating the King said he talked with Flood, Braverman and Peterson Monday morning, and it was agreed the consultants should suspend their

Northern B

"There will be no attempts at any coverup," said King, adding he considers himself a good promoter but not "a supreme boxing authority.'

"For input and knowledge I have been dependent on my consultants and my staff," King said, "If I and the boxing public have been victimized let the punishment be unyieldingly

"Let the chips fall where they may," said King, denying any wrongdoing and adding: "The buck does indeed stop with Don King, the employer, and I am the first to urge for vigorous and truthful fact fin-

In announcing the suspension about three hours before the scheduled telecast of some tournament semifinals from Miami Beach Saturday, ABC Sports said it agreed with its attorneys that counsel should "appoint a totally independent special investigator with impeccable law enforcement credentials to head up the investigation.'

There was no announcement Monday of the investagator who, King said, will replace the tournament committee, headed by James A. Farley Jr., chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, in conducting an inquiry. ABC also said it felt the competition had been compromised by the fact that "records of numerous fighters in the tournament as listed in the 1977 Ring Record Book are, in fact, inaccurate and contain many fights which apparently never took place."

Nat Loubet, publisher of The Ring Magazine, whose U.S. rankings were a basis for the tournament, said there had been inaccuracies in the records of 11 tournament fighters. Loubet identified four of those fighters, the only ones remaining in the tournament, as featherweight Richard Rozelle of Detroit, lightweight Greg Coverson of Seattle, light heavyweight Vonzelle Johnson of Indianapolis and welterweight Floyd Mayweather of Cleveland. They all fight out of Kalamazoo, Mich., under the management of Henry/Grooms.

Loubet said Grooms had sent a letter to Farley, with copies to ABC and The Ring, stating that he had provided The Ring with inaccurate records and that he apologized.

Administration Classified considering hospital controls

WASHINGTON - The Carter administration is considering asking Congress for authority to impose tight controls on hospital construction and expansion as part of a plan to limit rising hospital expenditures. according to informed sources.

The proposal, which is expected to be sent to Congress late this month, also would include a limit - tentatively set at about 8 or 9 per cent - on increases in hospital revenues over those earned in a base year, probably 1976.

The administration's hospital cost containment program is widely viewed as the first step toward national health insurance.

Under the administration's tentative plan, controls would begin with a national quota for new hospital construction and expansion. A formula still to be devised then would allocate funds among the state for distribution to hospitals in a manner not yet determined, sources said.

Outlays for construction and expansion - about $5 billion last year - are generally viewed as crucial to limiting hospital operating costs, which have been going up about 15 per cent a year. Health economists estimate that every capital-outlay dollar adds betwoen weents and a dollar to annual operating costs. Hospital bills accounted for roughly 40 per cent of the $139.3 billion Americans spent on medical care in

The administration's contemplated lid of 8 to 9 per cent on hospital revenue increases would be administered by the new Health Care Financing Administration in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The lid would include the inflation factor in the general economy, currently about 6 per

The legislation calls for enforcement by a "class of purchaser" approach, using major payers of hospital bills such as Medicare, Blue Cross and other insurance companies. Roughly 90 per cent of today's hospital bills are paid by either public or private health insurance

Medicare and Medicaid payments might be withdrawn from hospitals that don't live within their limits. Revocation of a hospital's federal tax-exempt status also is under consideration.

Four states that already have programs to contain increases in hospital costs — Massachusetts, Washington, Connecticut and Maryland — could be exempt from the federal controls if they met federal

Among the issues still not resolved is whether nonsupervisory workers' wages will be exempt from controls. The AFL-CIO already has told HEW officials that control of the wages of workers under its jurisdiction would not be acceptable.

In announcing the administration's intention to curb hospital costs on Feb. 22, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano said "the voracious appetite of health care costs " had to be restrained "before it consumes whatever dividends there are from social economic policy.

The average daily cost of staying in a hospital which generally takes into account room, board, basic services and use of the operating room - has increased from about $15 in 1950 to $175 in 1976.

According to a report by the Council on Wage and Price Stability, 75 per cent of this increase results from hospitals doing more - hiring more workers, providing more services and buying more materials - and the rest from raising prices.

"With insurance now paying approximately 90 percent of all hospital costs, there is a strong incentive for patients and their physicians to seek the 'best possible care' almost without concern about its mauromosiles cost," the report said.

Steps being taken against Arizona crime

BY ALSENIA . Special to Newsday

PHOENIX - Federal and state officials are mapping a broad counteroffensive aimed at curbing the growth of organized crime in Arizona, the nation's Tastest growing state...

Highly placed law enforcement officials say one aspect of the plan will be the empaneling of a federal grand jury to study the crime problem. Selection is expected to begin in about three weeks.

Other actions likely to be taken in an effort to reduce the rising tide of organized crime include creation of additional federal judgeships, an increase in the staff of the U.S. attorney and approval of legislation to strengthen regulatory agencies

The activity is, in part, a reaction to the publication of articles, prepared by the Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., which illustrated how Arizona's political climate helped nurture illegal activities. The reporters came to Phoenix after the car bombing murder of investigative reporter Don

U.S. Attorney Michael Hawkins, State Attorney General Bruce Babbitt and a spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation praised the IRE series and said their agencies are pursuing criminal investigations based on data contained in the ar-

Babbitt said that some of the information reported in the IRE series "is pretty colorful." He said his office is studying the circumstances surrounding the destruction of taped conversations allegedly linking a prominent Phoenix attorney with the establishment of an area prostitution ring. "The IRE article suggests that the (previous) attorney general and the Department of Public Safety (state police) were Aram: 1000 Upland making law enforcement decisions for political reasons. This is what we're looking into," Babbitt said.

He also said that an investigation into possible disappearance of funds from three Teamster union pension plans "was prompted in large measure by material furnished us by the IRE." No prosecutions have resulted from either probe.

Meanwhile, the state legislature is considering bills to strengthen existing anti-racketeering statutes and crack down on the lucrative market for stolen goods. Much of the legislation is part of a revision of the state's antiquated criminal code.

Approval of funds for a state legislative task force on organized crime has been delayed while legislators debate the merits of granting immunity to those who serve on and testify before the panel. Once approved, the task force plans to hold public hearings on the organized crime problem.

It is also likely that the legislature will approve additional funds for the state police and that the Phoenix City Council will bolster its police department's intelligence unit.

Commission urges cut, slowdown in mail service

By WILLIAM H. JONES The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A special federal commission recommended Monday that Saturday mail deliveries be eliminated and service the rest of the week be slowed down, but that the annual federal subsidy to the Postal Service be increased.

The commission said postal system's soaring deficits. It urged that the system's present organizational structure - as a quasi-independent agency - be

The advisory group, established last year by Congress, also called on the Postal Service to give more serious attention to the development of electronic systems to move part of the mail and chided current postal management for ignoring new communications technologies.

Even with the cutbacks and higher federal aid, the commission said, first-class rates still will climb to 22 cents an ounce by 1985 from 13 cents today. If current services are maintained and there is no boost in subsidies, the first-class rate in 1985 would be 28 cents, the commission

Commission chairman Gaylord Freeman, retired chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago, told reporters Monday the long-range outlook for the nation's postal system is "disastrous" unless some steps are taken to attract users who will switch from first-class mail delivery to some form of electronic communication in class volume consists of financial transactions - bills, checks in payment, receipts - that eventually will be reduced as more and more payments are transferred electronically from one bank to Another commission member, Paul J. Krebs, warned that first-class

"We are talking about preserving a government service," he said, seeking to rebut claims by some persons in postal management that the Postal Service should not get involved in new technology in competition with technology private industry.

SALISBURY Rhodesia's Prime Minister Ian Smith routed rebellious right wingers at his political party's emergency convention Monday, gaining overwhelming approval to carry on peace negotiations leading to black majority rule.

He also got tacit approval to continue easing the country's racial discrimination laws which make more than 6 million blacks subservient to just over a quarter million whites. By doing so, Smith hopes to improve the prospect that black leaders will come to the conference table and end the insurgent war which is shattering Rhodesia.

The concave of Smith's Rhodesian Front Party, which holds all 50 elected white seats in the nation's parliament, was in session for eight hours here. After its 471 delegates and several hundred nonvoting party observers their dramatic meeting with a playing of the National Anthem, Smith emerged to tell reporters "we've had a good day.' Two resolutions were overwhelmingly passed. They represented victories for Smith and his supporters, even though they were moderated amendments from original motions introduced. was an acknowledgment by the Rhodesian Front Party, which occupies a center position in the nation's white political structure, that transition to black rule is inevitable. But the resolution "urges" Smith to seek guarantees for equitable power sharing by whites.

The second resolution authorized the government headed by Smith to negotiate a settlement 'in the best interests of Rhodesia" while "striving to abide by the principles and policies of the Smith's party has pledged itself to black rule, but at evolutionary speed - when blacks are better educated and can financially contribute their share of taxes.

Evolutionary political equality no longer satisfies black insurgent leaders. They are demainding immediate black rule - at riflepoint if necessary.

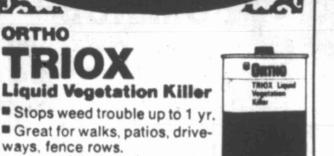

Over the weekend Smith was host to the new British foreign secretary, David Owen, who is pressing on all parties in-volved in the Rhodesian civil war the need for a cease-fire while a meeting of rival factions write a new constitution bringing about black rule. Owen, who unlike previous neogiators including former U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, apparently gets along well with Smith. Owen wants black majority rule to be in effect by the end of next year.

Smith, a doughty Rhodesian-born son of Scot immigrants, didn't give a clear yes to Owen's proposal. But neither did he reject the idea of a constitution-writing session with black leaders as proposed jointly as a British-American solution to the black-white negotiating stalemate. Kissinger's formula floundered at a Geneva conference last fall.

That's not all; high point junior and senior will be awarded. GREAT SPEAKER—will be Harry Crowe. The banquet is next Tuesday at the Midland Woman's Club at Hogan Park. Go by and sign up a the library if you Hogan Park. Go by and sign up a the library if you plan to go. (You can also buy tickets at the library). Friday is the deadline. The time is 7:30 a.m. The girls in the Honor Squad need to go by the Library and vote for the Baseball Sweetheart, NO SQUAD MEETINGS! But still wrap your lockers for your sports.

Senior Dinner: Tonight is the BIG night for the 1977 Senior Class of Robert E. Lee High School. The Senior Dinner will be held at the First Baptist Church in the Fellowship Hall at 7 p.m. If you bought a ticket you are in for a TREAT! Also if you haven't heard, there is going to be a famous person speaking at the dinner. It is Elsa Rosborough! She is a leading model and lecturer and has taught 29 years at the University of Houston. Also Elsa has received numerous awards and honors. See ya there!

Senior Girls: Our Senior girls party is in less than two weeks. HELP is needed in different committees. The decorations committee needs each girls help because it involves her and her date. ## Border Patrol, Mexicans clash

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) - An attack by a crowd of Mexicans on several U.S. Border Patrol agents Monday is evidence that "something very serious is going to happen," the head of the patrol in El Paso

About 150 Mexican nationals splashed across the Rio Grande Monday and hurled stones at law enforcement officers after an illegal alien fell into a canal and drowned, Dale Swancutt, chief patrol agent of the El Paso patrol sector, said.

Swancutt said the illegal alien situation along the border has reached the point where it is "extremely explosive.

One Border Patrol agent was injured in the leg by a rock thrown from a crowd that crossed the shallow river to protest the death of a man who had sprinted with a companion toward the Mexican border after the two were spotted by two patrol agents.

The two agents, who were driving a van loaded with other illegal aliens to be processed, followed the pair to the canal where the agents said they heard two splashes.

Swancutt said an agent pulled one man out of the canal while the other was being swept downstream. The agent said he tried unsuccessfully to rescue the second man with a tree branch.

The agent finally used a hose to pull the second man from the canal, located about 50 yards from the border. The agent called for an ambulance and began artificial respiration. The alien was dead by the time the ambulance arrived, Swancutt said.

"By this time, about 150 or 200 persons had crossed over from Mexico," Swancutt said. "One man yelled, 'You murdered him. Now you are going to have to

"About five ring leaders began to agitate the crowd and then the rock throwing began," he said. Most of the windows from four vehicles were knocked out by rocks, shovels and picks the members of the crowd had grabbed from a nearby construction crew. Swancutt said a television cameraman was also pelted with rocks. "One of our units arrived with a female alien in the car," he said. "She had her baby in her arms and the crowd broke the windows in that car also." Swancutt said the woman and her baby were released to the

One man was arrested as El Paso police units and Border Patrol agents dispersed the mob.

Sunny days forecast for Florida

EDITOR'S NOTE — An economic black cloud hung over the Sunshine State in the mid 1970s, but Florida, like the rest of the nation, seems to have weathered the storm. There already are indications that brighter days — and a bigger population — are ahead.

By MARTIN MERZER

MIAMI (AP) — Sub-tropical winds howling through empty condominiums lining Florida's coasts; hordes of unemployed northerners demanding handouts from state officials; rustcolor citrus rotting on trees black with disease.

These problems contributed to sleepless nights in the mid-1970s for officials of the nation's fastest growing state.

Florida's boom, based on an economy still largely dependent on tourism and construction, ended during those years. Part of it was because of the effects of the oil embargo and runaway inflation. Part of it because high gasoline prices discouraged potential tourists, and soaring mortgage rates discouraged shoppers for homes.

Unemployment in Florida went from 4:3 per cent in 1973 to 10.6 per cent in 1975.

Most economists believe that the boom is a thing of the past, but Florida's economy is recovering slowly—at a pace about six months behind the national average.

"We may not approach the level of growth we had earlier in this decade, but I see growth coming back into the system," says Tom Walker, a prominent local economist. "The rate of population gain is well in advance of the rest of the nation, and population is one of the engines of economic growth."

Among the promising trends: The unemployment rate is down—to 7.9 per cent in January, the same as the national average. And with 500 northerners settling in Florida each day, there are fewer unsold apartments, construction loans are up—up 54 per cent in January over the same period last year—and already there is a shortage of office space in Miami.

In addition, Gov. Reubin Askew's 1977 budget proposal includes tax reform for consumers and businessmen temper a requested one cent hike in the state sales tax to five per cent.

Taxation, one of the lowest in the nation, is among the features of Florida living which most appeal to northeners. The other is the state's fun-in-the-sun reputation.

The problem is that as people move into the state, beaches become jammed, bucolic farmlands turn into townhouse developments and shopping centers.

Florida is home for some 9.5 million persons. The population projection for 1980 is 10 million, so officials are working to broaden the state's economic base and to provide jobs.

Businessmer take pride in Florida's diverse economy. Commercial forest land provided more than $1 billion in wholesale manufactured value in 1975; production from phosphate mines exceeded $1 billion, and the 1975 commercial fishing harvest was worth $75 million.

Tourism fell off this year during a hotel employes' strike and the January freeze, which saw Miami dusted with snow flurries for the first time in recorded history. Afterwards, state and industry officials pooled resources for an advertising blitz in the North.

Now, industry officials say 1977 tourism will exceed 1976, when 27 million visitors left behind $10

The freeze caused about $200 million in agricultural losses, including the entire winter tomato crop in South Florida. Federal aid is helping farmers get going again.

A tree-killing disease called citrus blackfly, originally feared as a possible catastrophe, was headed off by airborne attacks of insecticide before it reached the Central Florida citrus belt. And although the cold created one of the lowest yields of juice in history, citrus industry officials say higher prices for what was produced should put revenue near original predictions.

On the whole, most economists agree that Florida's outlook is healthy. A report just released by the Conference Board, a business research group, says Florida is expected to double its share of U.S. personal income from the current 3.2 per cent to 6.4 per cent by 1990.

Geologist to give talk on volcanoes

Dr. Fred Bullard, a geologist who has delved deeply into the worldwide study of volcanoes, will speak on "Volcanoes and the Environment" at the annual meeting of the Friends of the Library Sunday.

The talk, which is open to the public, will be at 2 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, 206 S. Colorado St.

Bullard's talk will be accented with color slides. He will focus on the theory, cycles, utilization, environmental effects, air pollution and soils of volcanoes.

Bullard, professor emeritus of geology at the University of Texas, will discuss the possibilities of predicting volcanic eruptions and will describe some of the more notable "new" volcanoes.

He will also outline the harnessing of geothermal energy and will site examples of such in Italy, New Zealand and California.

Bullard first sighted an active volcano when he was on a U.S. Geological Survey expedition to Alaska.

Later, he was teaching a course on volcanology at the National University of Mexico when, in 1943, the Paricutin volcano in Mexico was born. The Paricutin became a laboratory for his students.

Outside Alaska and Mexico, he has studied volcanoes in Hawaii, Iceland, Japan, Africa, the Canary Island, Madeira, the Azores, the Philippines, New Guinea, New Britain, South America and elsewhere.

Bullard has been a Distinguished Lecturer for the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

His lecture to the Friends of the Library is open,
