Hussein expresses new optimism to President

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jordan's King Hussein, entering his second day of talks with President Carter, says his habitual caution in assessing Middle East peace prospects is giving way to new optimism.

During their opening talks, Carter and Hussein discussed possible ways of admitting the Palestinians to Arab-Israeli negotiations.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the United States opposes any immediate role for the PLO so long as it does not recognize Israel's "right to exist in peace."

However, Powell said possible approaches to Palestinian representation could include some form of confederation or other link with Jordan, placing Palestinians in a Jordanian delegation, or having a single, comprehensive Arab delegation at peace talks.

A White House press notice said the two leaders also talked about territorial boundaries and the nature of the peace they would like to achieve. The notice said Carter believes Jordan "has a positive role to play" in any Middle East settlement.

Texas 'killer' team delays well capping

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) - The team of American "blowout killers" seeking to cap a runaway oil well in the North Sea today decided to postpone the operation one more day in order to lift more equipment onto

Plans to cap the well were postponed Monday by gale force winds. Meanwhile, the Norwegian government appointed a blue ribbon panel to investigate the first blowout in Norway's offshore Ekofisk oil field.

The blowout is developing into a major issue for the fall general election and oil companies were worried that the minority Labor government would cancel plans for test drilling off northern Norway, which is to begin next year.

Since the well blew last Friday, the Phillips Petroleum Co.'s Bravo rig has been spewing between 840,000 and 1.05 million gallons a day into the sea, forming a slick six miles wide and 15 to 20 miles long.

At current oil cartel prices, the well was throwing away about $300,000 worth of crude a day. About 40 to 60 per cent of crude oil can be refined into gasoline, experts said, meaning the oil lost so far could run about 2,800 cars for a year. The two American experts, Boots Hansen and Richard Hattenerg of the renowned team of Texas oil well fire fighter Red Adair, made the decision to postpone capping operations after boarding the rig for the third time since they arrived on the scene last

County Judge Barbara Culver will ask for an appointment with the Texas Highway Commission for a hearing on the proposed North Loop road in Midland.

we still feel confident the leakage can be closed fast as soon as all equipment is available and the work can begin, maybe within the next 24 hours," said Dag Mayer Hansen, spokesman for the Norwegian oil done pretty fast, in one or two days.

Dutch oil experts who surveyed the slick said they felt sure the spilled oil would break down before reaching coastlines if the blowout killers can close the leakage this week.

Six Norwegian vessels began laying two protective lines of floating booms six nautical miles north of the Ekofisk field. The vessels are equipped with skimmers to lift the oil from the State gas men deny price fix

By The Associated Press

Texas nat ral gas industry spokesmen have denied any participation in an alleged price-fixing scholar ine although they have ack pwledge a federal probe into the subject.

The probe was announced by the Justice Department, saying it was being conducted under the provision of the Sherman Act that covers anti-trust violations.

A spokesman for the Justice Department said letters had been sent to producers and pipeline companies requesting records and information. "If a violation is found, we will bring a civil suit seeking an injunction against the violator," he said.

The spokesman added that the civil probe was not tied to the recent energy program announced by President Carter. "The probe was under way before that," he said.

In Dallas, a spokesman for Lone Star Gas Co. said the firm had received the letter from the Department of Justice.

"In fact, we received letter No. 1794 which may give some indication of how many letters are being sent," the spokesman said. "We are going to study it and give 100 per cent cooperation. We are not involved and have not been involved in price fixing.'

In Houston, a spokesman said Coastal States Gas Corp. Also had received subpoenas for documents for the Justice department anti-trust division investigation:

We will cooperate fully," the spokesman said.

Coastal States is the parent firm of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., operator of an intrastate gas system that faces customer suits approximating $1.6 billion. Negotiations are under way for possible settlement of the suits that allege default of contracts for the supply of gas either as to volumes delivered or as to prices charged. In Amarillo, officials of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. said Monday the company had received a letter from the Justice Department and "will comply with the request for information because we don't think we are involved in any wrongdoing."

Spokesman Bob Mills said the probe "is just one more step the federal government to bring intrastate gas under federal jurisdiction. Intrastate gas in Texas is not regulated, but gas flowing out of the state is regulated by the Federal Power Commission which sets price ceilings. Jim Walker, president of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Association, criticized the probe and said: "It concerns me that the federal government on several fronts is proposing extension of control into the intrastate market. The intrastate market has functioned well as a free market and has brought an ample supply of gas for the state of Texas. The federal systems of controls has accomplished just the opposite. It appears those at the federal level would like to share the supply brought on by the free market system Texas has had."

House votes increase in civil defense budget have failed amid heavy opposition from hospitals and medical

WASHINGTON (AP) - Action by the House of Representatives would channel an extra $44.8 million into civil defense in response to Soviet emphasis on civil defense.

In approving a $35.9 billion weapons bill for fiscal 1978, the House boosted the civil defense budget by 50 per cent to $134.8 million. The Pentagon had requested only $90 million.

Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., attacked any spending for civil defense as "a waste, ludicrous, insane. It makes me feel I'm sitting on the floor of the House in a dream. It's the height of war, Whitehurst added. However, the $44.8 million is not for a massive new shelter program but rather primarily to correct what the House Armed Services Committee called deficiencies in the emergency operations centers program.

The committee said in a report that it is concerned with a "lack of clarity" in the U.S. civil defense program and said it hopes the budget increase will spur planning for precise goals for the program.

The bill that passed Monday night on a 347 to 43 vote authorizes $35.9 billion for civil defense, missiles, bombers and ships for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1977. Other money to finance the Defense Department is contained in separate legislation that is expected to bring the total fiscal 1978 defense budget up to a record $120 billion.

Although the procurement bill is $60.8 million more than Carter requested, it represents House approval of almost the full $2.6 billion cut he recommended after reviewing President Ford's defense budget for fiscal

Solon fails in altering UTPB funds

AUSTIN - State Sen. Kent Hance failed Monday in Senate to transfer funds from grounds maintenance to faculty salaries

Hance told the Senate Finance Committee more than enough money had been budgeted for grounds at UTPB because of appropriations formulas but not enough for faculty salaries because of declining enrollments.

The university will receive $1.5 million for faculty salaries each of the next two years, compared with the present $1.7 million.

The committee members agreed that tampering with established appropriations formulas would cause problems. Committee staff members told them UTPB is the only university in the state with excess funds for grounds.

Hance said he favors transferring $50,000 of the university's grounds budget into the state treasury even if $100,000 of what he said was $150,000 of excess funds cannot be transferred into the faculty salary item.

with professional musicians, including some from the Benny Goodman Orchestra.

And in the years to come, he would be sounding the trumpet in jam sessions with top-flight musicians from such bands as those of Tommy Dorsey, Jimmy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman and Charlie Spivack.

"You get to play with those caliber of guys, (and) it's quite an honor,' says Smith.

After the war, Smith cranked up his own 10-piece band, the Sunny Smith Orchestra, and tagged an all-girl trio to it. That was in 1947 and 1948 at Monahans.

In the meantime, Smith was making his livelihood as a roustabout. Later, he worked as an engineer and did some survey work. Today, he's a senior accountant and analyst for an oil and gas investment company in Midland. He and his family live in Stanton.

In the 1950s, Smith put together a six-piece band with the Big Band sound and called the group The Kingsmen.

The Kingsmen played mostly for weekend dances and became popular among West Texas swingers.

"It got to where when we walked in (for a performance), the people would stand up and all applaud," Smith said.

The band patterned its music after that of Glenn Miller. Smith and Irl Glass, the Kingsmen's piano player, wrote most of the arrangements -

Kenneth Purser, also of Monahans, was on the drums.

Bill Langley, who hailed from Midland, played the trombone. And the late Leo Beam of Crane played the saxophone. They made up the original Kingsmen and almost "went professional," recalls Smith. The Kingsmen were booked up the East Coast to New York, at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, and on a Swedish ocean-going liner.

But Smith and his musicians declined the offer. They had jobs and families hereabouts. The Kingsmen, which was just about the only Big Band-sound band in the Permian Basin, played about 15 or so years.

This band, which had fared well though the height of the rock 'n' roll era, disbanded in the late 1960s. For Smith and his bandsmen, their stint on the Big Band stage was a sentimental journey. Still is. "It's the music," says Smith. "It's the arrangement. It's the feeling the guy had went he wrote the arrangement. "And it's all feeling " the county commissioners at the next highway commission meeting June The commissioners have supported

a proposed 300-foot right-of-way joining Interstate 20 on the east and west sides of Midland around the north side of the city. Judge Culver said this morning that Pearson said no funding was available for highways and that the project might take 20 years, with the work being done in stages. Pearson suggested that it might "sweeten the pot" if the county would conduct 100 per cent of the right-of-way acquisition, without reimbursement by the state. Generally, the state reimburses 50 per cent of the right-of-way acquisition by local governments,

Culver said. About $1.5 million in certain urban systems funds, which are separate from the state highway plans, might be available, Pearson said, if the county conducted the 100 per cent right-of-way acquisition. Judge Culver said the county offered to start acquisition of right-ofway in the area several years ago when land in the area was considerably cheaper, but that the state had declined the offer.

The recommendation for a North Loop in Midland has passed the necessary federal office in Austin and has been forwarded to Washington, Culver said. Pearson suggested that a delegation from Midland attend a hearing in Austin after the recommendation is approved in Washington.

Judge Culver said she probably would arrange for an appointment with the highway commission June 30. If the recommendation is not approved in Washington by that time, the meeting probably would be postponed until July 31, she said.

Singers hit blue note

Barbershop singing has been very popular in Midland and vicinity for a good many years now - from both participant and listener standpoints.

The barbershop singers always have seemed to enjoy their involvement in and association with other participants in just singing out in regular sessions and for special events. The singers always have been delighted to perform for other groups always performing in excellent style, much to the delight of their audiences.

Most persons, however, have taken the singers for granted, without giving a great deal of thought as to what keeps the organization going.

And this is why the article in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram to the effect that the Midland-based. Permian Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America (S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.) is on the verge of folding came as such a shock to many persons.

The problem appears to be a lack of interest. It is said that the chapter now has less than two dozen members and that unless new blood is recruited promptly, the chapter is in danger of being liquidated.

This shouldn't be permitted to happen in a city such as Midland, with all its talent and the general interest of residents in all things musical.

The chapter was chartered in 1962. It has had as many as 43 members at various times. The main objective is fun through singing. It is explained that no formal musical training is necessary - only a love of music and a willingness to sing. Auditions are not required. This makes membership in the chapter a right simple process.

And in case you are interested, the chapter has scheduled a guest night for 8 p.m. Thursday in the offices of Dr. Alan Fisher at 1111 W. Wall St. All interested persons from Midland and neighboring cities are invited and urged to attend. Attendance at the upcoming meeting will have a very definite part in determining the chapter's future. This appears to be an excellent opportunity to become involved in a great fun and entertainment program.

The Permian chapter, incidentally, is affiliated with the International S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., which is a non-profit, fraternal and educational singing society which had its start at Tulsa, Okla., in 1938. There are now approximately 700 chapters around the world.

The society, since 1964, has actively supported the Institute of Logopedics at Wichita, Kan., an institute which helps persons with speech defects. "We sing that they shall speak" is a great and meaningful motto.

We certainly would hate to see the Permian chapter close its doors. There are bound to be scores of men of all ages in the vicinity who like to sing and who would get a real lift out of singing barbershop style. Remember, guest night will be held Thursday. Why not give it a trial if you have a little spare time on your hands.

The President acted correctly in ordering the seizure of the two

Gross violations of the new regulations cannot be permitted in fairness to American fishermen who depend upon the resources of the fishing banks for their livlihood.

The ships had excess catches aboard which the Russian fishermen should have known were more than authorized by their fishing permits.

It would be unfortunate if the seizures chill U.S. relations with Russia but if they do, it can't be helped. Fishermen of all nations must respect this nation's regulations within the 200 mile limit. To permit violations without appropriate action would be to abandon the attempt at WASHINGTON - The argument that President Carter gives for energy conservation is that if we keep using up the petroleum reserves we have now there won't be any left for our children.

It's probably strong logic with many people, but Clemstone, my gasguzzling friend, isn't buying it.

"Let the kids find their own oil," he said after the President's address on television. "How can you say that?"

"We found it, didn't we? We dug in the ground and we brought the stuff up with our own hands. Why should we give the kids our oil on a silver platter?"

We have to think of future generations who may suffer because of our waste and abuse. "Why?" Clemstone asked me.

"Because," I said weakly. "Look, do you think they'll appreciate the oil and gas if we just leave it to them? I know kids. The only things that have any meaning for them are those they worked for themselves. What we should say to them is, 'We're using up whatever petroleum we've found in the ground. You want some for yourselves, go out and find it.' That's the kind of challenge that will grab them."

"But you can't use up all our reserves in ONE generation.

"Sure we can. It's OUR oil and gas. We should be able to do anything we want with it. Why should we freeze so some rotten kids can have gas to fool

WASHINGTON — Good fortune rides with Jimmy Carter these days. He mingled with the people, knowing that when he had to drop something heavy like an energy program, he could draw on his reserves of popularity. Instead of losing good will, it seems Carter's firm energy speech, like plutonium, just bred Carter's energy message is a success if only because it got people to really think and talk about this problem with any intensity for the very first time. President Nixon gave one and the reaction was ho hum. President Ford gave one, and it was a yawn. Carter gives a pair, and Congress responds like it's Pearl Harbor.

Now it's not just magic and luck. To begin with, Congress is overwhelmingly Democratic and has been since your grandfather was a young man. These Democratic Congresses were more interested in lynching than in listening, when it came to Richard Nixon. And scenting the death of the GOP in the White House, it stonewalled its nice guy occupant, Gerald Ford.

But now it's a Democratic White House and a Democratic Congress, and that means Democratic responsibility for the energy problem which really has been with us five years. Speaker of the House Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill (D-Mass.) is talking serious. So is Senate leader Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.). This means that the herd instinct of the press will be activated, and there will be all manner of reports in the media about the great energy crisis and hoped-for

Nick Thimmesch

The merits of Mr. Carter's program, at this point, aren't so important as the fact that he has impressed the idea on the Congress, the press and the people. He has at least led the horses (donkeys) to the water. The discussing, debating and noise which will follow should be productive of

The first temptation is for Congress to grab for all the "goodies" offered to people who do the right things, like insulate their homes and buy cars which have horsepower ratings equivalent to one person's weight and not to the weight of the entire family.

The next impulse is to resist those features which call for punishment for the American public if it does not conserve gasoline, said punishment being progressively higher gasoline taxes. Everybody will howl, naturally, about this one, and the Republicans make sense when they say it would be better to ration gasoline than to load it down with taxes. For better or worse, the citizenry needs its automobiles. The auto industry will complain about any federal laws penalizing horsepower with taxation. But the auto industry will lose on this one. Best it get out front of the federal monster, and design handsome cars with low horsepower ratings.

Anoter Carter proposal, the imposi-tion of taxes on domestic crude oil to bring it up to the price of imported, seems to be a punk way of encouraging new exploration for oil in our country. Somehow, in these deals, the bureaucracy winds up with too big a

Similarly, there seems to be small incentive to get up earlier in the morning. Sure, Mr. Carter might push for a little increase in the severely regulated price of natural gas, but not enough to stimulate this lagging

As for those tax breaks for folks who insulate or install one of those new gimcracks, solar energy units, it all sounds great in a speech (fireside or stand-up), but the fact is production and cost are real bottlenecks. The insulation industry can't handle all the business it has now, and the cost of installing solar units can run up to $15,000 apiece. It will take many years before those 53 million homes Carter wants insulated and-or equipped with solar energy can be accommodated.

Finally, there is the general philosophical criticism that the Carter plan lays a huge tax structure on the American people who are already exasperated with taxes by the federal monster. Wasn't it candidate Jimmy Carter who promised to cut down this kind of stuff? We might wind up with our energy system totally regulated and producing and conserving less than one which would be totally unregulated.

WASHINGTON - It is technically and economically possible to store radioactive nuclear wastes safely and securely for centuries, a study released by the American Physical Society concluded Monday.

"Safe and reliable management of nuclear waste and control of radioactive effluents can be accomplished with technologies that exist or (that) involve straightforward extension of existing capabilities," according to a summary of the study, made public at the opening session of the society's annual spring meeting.

The study recommended, however, that the federal government consider carefully the possibility of permanently storing nuclear wastes deep in granite formations rather than in the salt beds that have been the focus of government interest for the past 20

Last December, acting on orders from former President Gerald R. Ford, the Energy Research and Development Administration (ER-DA) announced that it was expanding its nuclear waste program to include a search for potential storage sites in 36 states and a variety of geologic to shale and clay to granite.

ERDA's main effort, however, is a trial waste storage site it plans to construct 1000 feet deep in a salt bed 30 miles southeast of Carlsbad, N. Mex. The government abandoned a similar site near Lyons, Kans., in the early 1970s after discovering that mining companies had injected large amounts of water in salt beds nearby. But the government has continued to maintain that these formations offer the best assurance that nuclear waste can be stored for generations without fear of contaminating ground water that could percolate far from the nuclear graveyard.

The APS study, prepared by a panel of 12 scientists the society convened last summer, agreed that salt beds "can be satisfactory" but it noted that burial in certain other types of rock such as shale or granite - "could offer even greater long-term ad-

> One member of the APS panel, Dr. Fred A. Donath of the University of Illinois, said careful selection of a deep disposal site - avoiding concentrations of resources that might attract miners and drillers hundreds of years in the future - would permit the wastes to be abandoned and forgotten. Sufficient depth, he said, would ensure against breaching by meterorite impact or nuclear blasts on the surface.

> "It's not necessary to have continuous political control" of a disposal site, he said. "What we're advocating is independent of future social organizations."

Donath acknowledged that records of such nuclear graveyards may eventually be lost and that future miners and drillers might someday blunder into them.

The possibility does exist, but it is unlikely." Donath said. "We think the consequences would not be all that

Bell reaffirms intent to prosecute FBI man

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite FBI claims of shattered morale, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell says he'll continue the prosecution of an FBI man for allegedly illegal mail-opening and wiretapping because it's a matter of principle.

"What is at stake is the rule of law," Bell said Monday after listening for 90 minutes as FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley and 10 agents complained that bureau morale has suffered because of the charges and the continuing Justice Department investigation.

Bell said he has given no thought to dismissing the indictment against former FBI supervisor John J. Kearney, charged with directing an illegal mail-opening and wiretapping operation in the New York field office from August 1970 through June 1972. The tactics were used to spy on New Yorkers thought to be in contact with Weather Underground fugitives charged with terrorist acts.

He said he was not suggesting that Kearney was guilty, only that the evidence warranted the indictment. Kearney has pleaded innocent.

Kelley on April 14 publicly complained about sagging morale in the bureau and called on the attorney general to reconsider his action.

'At Kelley's request, the attorney general met with the 10 agents from as many cities who had been chosen in secret ballots to represent their colleagues. The rules of the election required that five have more than 10 years of service and five have less.

"They're very upset over the indictment of John Kearney. They expressed their dismay," Bell reported. "It has had what they consider to be a very bad effect on the "If you break the law, ordinarily and in other parts of the country.

Court refuses to hear Charles Manson's claims

By PHILIP HAGER The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court Monday let stand the conviction of cult leader Charles Manson, found guilty of seven counts of murder in one of the most bizarre crimes in California history

In a brief order, the justices refused to hear Manson's claims that he was a victim of a "lynching" by the pro-secution and mass media in the Tate-La Bianca killings of August, 1969.

Manson was sentenced to death but then resentenced to life in prison after the California Supreme Court struck down capital punishment in 1972.

Now 42, Manson is being held in maximum security at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville. Authorities there said he expressed "no unusual reaction" to the justices' order denying review.

He will become eligible for consideration of parole in December, 1978. But a state corrections official said Monday: "In a case like this, there's a very good chance he'll never get out."

Seven persons died in two separate nighttime attacks by Manson followers. Actress Sharon Tate, Abigail Folger, Voityck Frykowski, Thomas John (Jay) Sebring and Steven Earl Parent were slain the night of Aug 8. Rosemary and Leno La Bianca were murdered the next

Manson was convicted of ordering his followers - members of the so-called Manson "family" - to commit the killings in a twisted plot to incite racial violence.

His conviction was upheld last August by the California Court of Appeal, along with those of Manson followers Patricia Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins. The court ordered a new trial for Leslie Van Houten. another "family" member convicted in the La Bianca murders. Her trial is currently under way in Los Angeles.

Manson petitioned the California Supreme Court for review but that court declined to hear the case last December. The Krenwinkel and Atkins women did not seek review.

Dep. State Atty. Gen. Howard J. Schwab expressed satisfaction with the U.S. Supreme Court's action. "This is important because it ends, after all these years, state proceedings in this case," he said. "It's finally over. I was 27 when I was first assigned this case. Now I'm 34." In a petition to the U.S. Supreme Court, Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek of Los Angeles, contended that "overwhelming, massive and adverse publicity" had denied the cult leader a fair trial. Kanarek said the trial should have been moved from Los Angeles. In opposing Manson's petition for review before the Supreme Court, State Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger argued that transferring the case to another county would not have in-hibited public attention in the case. And in a smaller community, Younger said, it was likely there would be even more attention, increasing the risk of prejudice among

The state Court of Appeal noted in its opinion that to avert potential prejudice, the trial court had conducted "a controlled and searching" questioning of prospective jurors and then sequestered the jury, isolating it from news reports for the length of the trial.

In another action Monday, the Supreme Court left intact a federal appellate ruling that a student newspaper could not be forced to publish an advertisement for an offcampus homosexual organization. Mississippi Gay Alliance vs. Goudelock, 76-956).

The editor of "The Reflector," the newspaper at Mississippi State University, had refused an advertisement from the Mississippi Gay Alliance offering "counseling, legal aid and a library of homosexual literature" at its "gay center."

The homosexual group filed suit against the paper and state officials, seeking an order requiring publication of the ad.

A letter written by one of the organization's leaders, introduced in court proceedings, noted that the "gay center" is "over my apartment" and contains "...a few gay books, a plaque over the fireplace that states 'to say and believe that gay is good' and a telephone."

A federal appeals court ruled against the homosexual group, saying the paper's editor had the right to exercise his judgment on what to Local retail advertising will be up 10 per cent, national advertising 13 per cent and classified 9 per cent, Kauffman said.

Discrimination said threat in beach bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A bill to prevent autos from running down each lovers might be used to discriminate against minorities and the poor, a coastal senator claims.

The bill — sponsored by Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston — was pending today in the Senate.

The Senate has adjourned twice rather than risk a filibuster by Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, and Schwartz picked up a vocal ally Monday in Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Schwartz predicted the real estate lobby would use the bill to ban vehicular traffic "on every beach in front of their developments.

The lobby will say, "We don't like you because you don't meet our standards," Schwartz said.

Those standards, he said, could be we don't like your color. We don't like the kind of car you drive, your pickup truck. We don't like your watermelon, your fried chicken or your eating caviar with your fingers."

Schwartz said he thought Ogg had good intentions, but Schwartz described the proposal as a "rich folks" bill that would "destroy our precious right of free and open

Supreme Court refuses to hear White's appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to hear the appeal of convicted Texas murderer Robert Excel White, who changed his mind after asking to be executed last year.

The justices let stand a Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruling that White received a fair trial.

J.E. Abernathy of McKinney, Tex., White's court-appointed lawyer, said Monday that the next legal step would come after the case is returned for resentencing to the state district court where White was originally handed the death decree.

"Our plans are to go the habeas corpus route after sentencing," said Abernathy, who added that White participated in the appeal to have his sentence overturned

The judge set execution for Dec. 10 but the Supreme Court postponed that date on Dec. 6. After waiting in a Texas Death Row cell for two years, White wrote a letter to the Supreme Court telling the justices he was "mentally prepared" to die in the electric chair. White protested Abernathy's attempt to postpone the scheduled Dec. 10 execution, a request granted by the court pending a formal appeal.

Included with the papers submitted to the court in the current appeal is a hand-written letter from White asking that he be excused from paying fees for filing an appeal, a privilege the court routinely grants prisoners and other persons who prove they can't afford the fees.

In his Nov. 23 letter, White had said, 'I am mentally prepared to accept the judgment of sentence imposed upon me. Any delay now will only inflict needless mental hardship on White's appeal claims that potential jurors for his trial were excused from duty illegally after voicing general reservations about imposition of the death sentence.

Liberian missionaries outline their work at UMW conference

Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Hulett, educational missionaries to Monrovia, Liberia in Africa were featured speakers when 320 persons gathered here for the fourth meeting of the United Methodist Women of the Northwest Texas Conference. Sessions were held in the First United Methodist Church.

The Big Spring district hosted the event with 24 UMW units making arranger

The Huletts are in the United States awaiting reassignment after spending seven-and-a-half years in Monrovia. Hulett was education director for the 12 United Methodist mission schools scattered throughout Liberia. He and his wife, Cynthia, showed a slide program to illustrate their work.

Since the missionaries could not go into every classroom in Liberia, they brought the Liberian teachers to the Methodist mession schools, where they were trained and sent back to their villages, the

The couple was sent to Liberia to teach reading after the United Methodist Church conducted a study on areas needing attention in Liberia. The church felt they could not grow unless the people were able to read the Scriptures and other Bible materials.

Hulett explained the missions are involved in a multi-faceted program, which includes evangelism, church growth, building, education with an emphasis on literacy and medical help, especially in the area

Hulett lectured to the Liberians on the basic techniques of teaching and phonics. Mrs. Hulett instructed on the visual aids approach to teaching and helped them make their own teaching materials.

She eventually saw the need for developing reading materials based on the Liberian culture as the Liberians could not relate to American books. As a result, she wrote and illustrated textbooks and Sunday School curriculum materials.

work toward church development and evangelism. By teaching the children to read, the Huletts said they feel they are training the leaders of tomorrow. The hope for that country is with the enthusiasm seen in the young people.

A love offering taken during the meeting will go to the Camphor United Methodist Mission in the bush country of Liberia. It will be applied toward the cost of roofing two hostels and a school.

Addressing the opening session was Bishop Alsie H. Carleton of Albuquerque, N.M., who heads the United Methodist denomination in northwest Texas and New Mexico.

Truck driver's wife leaves safety to God

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I certainly identified with MIKE'S WIFE, the lady whose husband drives 200 miles a night to deliver newspapers and has had two serious accidents in five years. She said Mike has been driving for 20 years, and whenever he left, she was a nervous wreck until he returned home safely. She also said she'd begged him to change jobs, but he

Maybe I can give her a different point of view: My husband, David, is also a truck driver. He drives an 18wheeler and is gone for a week to 10 days at a time. We've married for six years, and the first year I was a nervous wreck if David wasn't home when I expected him. I'd find myself crying and shaking and planning his "funeral." It finally dawned on me that if the good Lord decided to take David, He would take him, and no amount of worrying on my part would change

Kids force mother into organized sports

By ERMA BOMBECK

My kids said the other day "Mom, good news! We just signed you up for he intramural tennis team at the recreational center."

"I don't like to play tennis," I

"Of course you do. Every redblooded American mother likes to play tennis. Besides, it's good for you. You sit around and watch too much television and you don't get enough

'How often do I have to practice?" My goodness, that's no attitude," said my son. "Tennis is fun. You're going to love it. And you're going to win. And we're going to sit in the stands and root for you and who knows, you might even get your name in the paper. Would you like that?"

I shrugged and flipped channels. Practices were a drag. I went every afternoon to the center and played my heart out . . . running to strengthen my legs . . . hitting 50 gillion balls and dropping into bed each night exhausted

One night as I was dozing off, my son came in and put a rubber ball in my hand and said, "Keep squeezing, it's good for the old serving arm.

The first match was last week. My kids took me aside for last-minute instructions. "Okay now, Mom, just relax. This woman serves like she's swatting flies. Just watch her at the

net. Don't let her draw you in. Hang back and keep it steady. Play your Evert game. Just keep slammin 'em in. Got that? Now, we don't want you to get uptight or anything but if you win, there's that water massage shower you've had your eye on. Go get

The stands were full of vicious kids, all with their eyes on their own mothers, shouting instructions, calling the line judges names, and screaming, "That turkey foot-faulted. Didn't anyone see her?'

On the way home they tried to comfort me. "Hey, it's just a championship game where you either bring honor to your team or humiliate them. Don't sweat it. You almost gave your best. Of course in that second set, you stood there like you were waiting for a city bus . .

"And you could have gotten that corner shot if you'd had your racket back in time, but what the heck . . . Hey, your opponent had 30 pounds on you. We're just going to have to get you into better shape. We'll get it all together before next week's match. Besides, you had a wonderful time,

I woke up in a cold sweat. What a lousy dream. It was a dream, wasn't it? What am I saying? Of course it was. I mean, how many people push their mothers into organized sports?

Good imagination, not money, proves key to successful entertaining, says designer

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Good news for economyminded hostesses: imagination, not money, is the key to successful entertaining. That encouragement comes from one of the besi-known interior designers and party planners in the world, Valerian Rybar of New York

In addition to designing men's clothes, and accessories for the home, he has decorated some of the most important homes in the United States and Europe. Interiors have luxuries such as a bowling alley and an Olympic swimming pool. He has just designed a ski chalet for Christina Onassis in Swit-

He planned the famous Bal Oriental for Baron Alexis de Rede of Paris and the Fete Champetre of the Marquis de Cuevas in Biarritz. For one stupendous debutante party in the '60s, Rybar designed special tablecloths and wallpaper in the party theme - Vermeer Dutch Renaissance. "Even in Europe the trend is to smaller parties and everywhere more imagination is being put into planning. I enjoy giving little parties because it is a big challenge," he says.

No matter what the budget, the average personcan entertain well. Choices are no longer between expensive things or junky things. Great table accessories may be found in every price bracket. The secret is to do something different within your physical and financial means.

Choose food and drink that guests do not eat every day, Chinese, Indian or whatever. Simple buffets that require only a fork make it easier to handle a plate. Forget the two-hour cocktail party and soggy hors d'oeuvre. It is passe. People would rather have one or two cocktails or wine, food and "get on with the games," he advises. One warm hors d'oeuvre

Supreme Court says 'refund' ads acceptable

By MORTON MINTZ The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court Monday let stand a ruling that the government says ultimately could "seriously handicap" its ability to protect the public from false or misleading advertising.

The case involved the Beneficial Corp., which in at the approximately 1,500 local loan offices it Beneficial promoted the service with nowdiscontinued broadcast and print advertisements offering what it termed "an instant tax refund." Actually, the FTC said, the "refund" was an every day personal consumer loan aimed at customers who were owed tax refunds — and who would pay regular finance charges and costs to Beneficial while they waited for them.

1969 established an income-tax preparation service

The commission ordered the company to stop using "instant tax refund" or other words of similar meaning.

The company appealed and won a substantial victory. The Third U.S. Circuit, while agreeing with the FTC that the phrase was deceptive, ruled 2 to 1 that in banning it the agency had "exceeded its remedial authority

The heart of the issue is the degree of protection to be accorded commercial speech. "It is now established beyond dispute that there is no commercial speech exception to the first amendment," the appeals court majority said. The majority cited a milestone decision in a

Virginia case last May in which the Supreme Court gave commercial speech some first amendment protection by striking down a state law prohibiting licensed pharmacists from advertising the prices of prescription drugs.

Applying that decision in the Beneficial case, the appellate court held "that the remedy for the perceived violation can go no further in imposing a prior restraint on protected commercial speech than is reasonably necessary to accomplish the remedial objective of preventing the violation.

With that, the court sent the case back to the FTC for new proceedings designed to consider whether it would be feasible to require "merely that advertis-ing copy be rewritten in lieu of total excision of the offending phrase."

Trying its hand at writing ads, the court suggested acceptable texts, such as: "Beneficial's everyday loan service can provide to regularly qualified borrowers an Instant Tax Refund Anticipation Loan, whether or not the borrower uses our tax service.'

NFL court case continues

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Testimony continued today as attorneys for 14 players attempted to block final court approval of the $15.8 million settlement between the National Football League Players Association and NFL

The proposal given preliminary approval earlier by U.S. District Judge Earl Larson would provide some 3,000 past and present NFL players amounts from $150 to more than $20,000 each from the league.

But attorneys for the dissenting players contended that the labor agreement reached last February hurts free agents by requiring excessive compensation to teams that lose players who play out their op-

Larson was not expected to rule on the settlement until the hearings are completed later this week.

MEANWHILE, ATTORNEYS for both sides said they do not think the court proceedings will cause a delay in the NFL draft, scheduled for May

"There is nothing written into the collective bargaining agreement that might get in the way of the draft pending a settlement," said John French. a Minneapolis attorney representing

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA said, "Things are going along fine" with regard to the draft.

A chief target of the players in the suit launched three years ago was the so-called Rozelle Rule which restricted player movement, and which Larson has held to be in violation of antitrust laws. The settlement also calls for dismissal of a class action suit filed last year by the players. Under the proposed collective bargaining agreement, the Rozelle Rule was modified so that NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle no longer decides what compensation is awarded to a team when a free agent who has played out his option signs with another club. Attorney Frank DeMarco of Los Angeles filed an objection to the settlement last week on behalf of 10 players. The objection claims that the newly proposed pact is "more onerous and violative of the antitrust act than the predecessor Rozelle

DEMARCO SAID, he new system would require a new club to give up a first-round choice for a top paid free agent because of high salary demands. He said the new compensation rule has the effect of denying freedom of movement between clubs to players in the higher pay ranges. The original Rozelle rule had been attacked by players who contended it prevented them from selling their services to the highest bidder.

At the outset, Larson said the hearing was to decide "on the fairness, reasonableness and adequacy" of his earlier order, which he referred to as a $13,675,000 package. Some $2.2 million goes to the original 15 players, including former Baltimore tight end

John Mackey, who brought suit. Larson said the hearing was not to review the Mackey suit nor the collective bargaining agreement itself.

When interjections by other lawyers threatened to open up a new round of hearings, Larson reminded them that the case could not go on indefinitely.

"If I were to continue a trial with 2,500 class action plaintiffs and give each player their day in court, I'd be here the next 12 years," he said.

Sitting with Larson was U.S. District Judge William Becker of Kansas City. Becker noted that the decision should be as sound as possible to stand an expected appeal to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

HE ASKED whether the collective bargaining agreement could be separated from the damage award. But lawyers representing the owners said they would not go along with a settlement that did not include the whole package.

Attorneys for the NFLPA said the bargaining agreement was linked to the draft, and an early settlement was desirable. However, both parties said the draft was not imperiled by the pending litigation.

Prosecutor issues warrant for Randle

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - A warrant charging suspended Texas Rangers second baseman Lenny Randle with aggravated battery in the spring training beating of Manager Frank Lucchesi has been issued by local Randle is charged with beating Lucchesi in Orlando as the two were discussing Randle's status with the team. Lucchesi spent seven days in a hospital.

Lucchesi had no comment on the filing of the criminal charges and also declined to comment on whether he would file civil charges.

"Once again, I'm saying no com-ment," said Lucchesi. "I have two years under the statute of limitations to decide on something like that and I'm not worried about it at this time. My only worry is about the Rangers playing winning baseball."

Randle reportedly was angry over losing his job to rookie Bump Wills, son of former Los Angeles Dodgers star Maury Wills.

The Rangers' 30-day suspension of Randle ends Wednesday. The club has been trying to trade Randle, who they fined $10,000.

State Atty. Robert Eagan of Orlando, the local prosecutor, said his office investigated the incident and that he made the decision to file the warrant without any prompting from result of Monday's strike settlement. The NBA's 24 striking officials laid down their picket signs and picked up their whistles after reaching an agreement with the NBA to work the remaining playoff games until a contract can be secured. With the exception of veterans Earl Strom and Richie Powers, two referees who are not union members, the officials walked off the job on April 10, the final day of the regular NBA season. The NBA pressed minor league officials into service.

AMONG COMPLAINTS of the inexperienced officials was Shue's protest of Philadelphia's 124-119 quarter-final loss to Boston on Sunday. Shue pro-tested referee Joe Crawford's ruling that awarded Boston 10 seconds to advance the ball to midcourt after the 76ers knocked the ball out of bounds in the backourt. The 76ers eventually

76ers drop protest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia 76ers have dropped their protest of Sunday's 124-119 National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff loss to the Boston Celtics, a team spokesman said.

76ers' Coach Gene Shue protested referee Joe Crawford's ruling that awarded Boston 10 seconds to advance the ball to midcourt after the 76ers knocked the ball out of bounds in the backcourt.

The spokesman said the protest was dropped because it would cost the team $1,000 above the league's $500 filing fee if the team lost the ruling.

dropped the protest, citing financial considerations.

Boston's victory provided the Celtics with a 2-2 tie in their best-ofseven-game series. The fifth game is scheduled for Wednesday night in Philadelphia.

Three other quarter-final games will be held tonight-Los Angeles at Golden State, Denver at Portland and Houston at Washington. Los Angeles, Portland and Washington all hold 2-1 leads in their series.

Golden State, NBA champions two years ago with virtually the same team, will have the homecourt advantage for the second straight game. The Warriors beat Los Angeles 109-105 Sunday behind Rick Barry's 40 points to stay alive in their Western Conference series.

However, Lakers Coach Jerry West said, "I would not like to be in their position. We still have two games at home and it's always better to be up 2-1 than down. I prefer our position.

DENVER GOES into tonight's Western Conference playoff game at Portland with high scoring center Dan Issel nursing an infected foot. Issel, bothered by the foot in Sunday's 110-106 loss to the Blazers, spent part of the day Monday at a hospital hav-ing the foot drained. If Issel can't start, second-year man Marvin Webster will have to carry the load.

Mitch Kupchak, a rookie from North Carolina, has been instrumental in Washington's series with Houston. In the opener at Houston, Kupchak came off the bench to score 32 points and lead the Bullets to a 111-101 victory. After the Rockets tied the Eastern Conference series with a 124-118 decision in Game No. 2, Kupchak assumed the leading role with 23 points as the Bullets beat the Rockets 93-90 on Sunday.

Cubbies saddled with sixth loss

EL PASO - The El Paso Diablos pushed across a run in the bottom of the seventh inning before a record-breaking crowd of 8,371 fans Monday night, to down the Midland Cubs, 5-4, in a Texas League baseball game in Dudley Field.

It was a tough one for the Cubs to lose and the way they lost it was even tougher. El Paso started the rally when Doug Slater doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored when Andy Muhlstock uncorked another wild pitch to enable Slater to score the winning run.

Midland outhit El Paso, 13-10, but the Diablo hits were more timely as the Cubs left 12 runners stranded on the basepaths.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Aaron Randall walked, went to second on a groundout and scored on Steve Davis'

El Paso came back to score twice in the fourth inning on RBI singles by Jay Peters and Caney Lunsford.

THE CUBS tied the game, 2-2; in the fifth inning when Duane Gustavson singled, went to second on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch.

El Paso went on front in the fifth, 3-2 on a sacrifice fly by Wes Landreaux Davis singled, but was forced at second by Keith Drumright. Drumright stole second and came home on a single by Bill Huisman.

The Diablos went on front, 4-3 in the sixth and the Cubs tied it, 4-4 in the seventh inning.

Gustavson doubled, went to third on a groundout and scored on Karl Gordon's double.

The second game of the five-game series is tonight with the Diablos sporting an 8-0 record.

Agency in Libya denies wounding

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - Libya's Arab Revolution News Agency on Monday denied reports that Libyan President Moammar Khadafy was wounded in the hand last week by a would-be assassin.

The report was circulated by Egypt's official Middle East News Agency on Sunday. The agency quoted travelers coming from Libya as saying the gunman, a Libyan, shot himself to death after failing to kill Khadafy. "The report is so ridiculous," ARNA said, "that we did not even care to comment on it."

65 years of age who will take part in a

Washington, D.C. intern program.

The program, sponsored by Sen.

John Tower, R-Tex, will take the two senior citizens selected to Washington for two weeks in May. They will intern in Tower's office, attend committee hearings and sessions of Congress, and take part in a series of special meetings with government representatives.

Those selecting the two interns are Ruth Wenck, Midland, state director of the Retired Teachers Association; Estella Lane Treviono, Edinburg, a member of the President's National Committee for the Elderly; Roy Car-son, Houston, chairman of the ad-visory committee for the National Institute of Lifetime Learning; W.L. ## Buyers agency pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) -Backers of a proposed new federal agency for consumers are pushing legislation to spend $60 million over the next three years to balance the influence of business lobbyists. Businessmen oppose creation of an Office for Consumer Advocacy, claiming it would ensnare them in government red tape and wind up costing consumers more money.

The debate, which began in Congress seven years ago, may be headed for a resolution this year as committees in both the House and Senate consider proposed

A main stumbling block in the past, opposition in the White House, is gone. President Carter favors the bill and backers say his support is likely to shift the balance in their favor for the first time.

As an example of inout of balance. proponents of the bill note that the Federal Energy Office issued regulations in 1974 that cost consumers an estimated $40 million in higher fuel

During hearings on the proposed regulations, representatives of several energy-related industries presented their views. But there was comparatively little participation by consumer representatives.

"Business has the resources to make its views known, but consumers are typically underfinanced and inadequately organized," said Esther Peterson. consumer adviser to President Carter. "This inequality has often resulted in inadequate recognition by govern-ment agencies of the problems of consumers." Ralph Nader described the proposed agency as a "strike agency" that would "revolutionize" the government.

Consumer activists made the new agency their No. 1 lobbying priority in Congress this While some business groups now support the legislation, the opposition still is led by major business organizations such as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

These groups argue the proposed agency would increase the size of the government unnecessarily, creating red tape for businessmen and ultimately pushing prices

"The creation of yet another agency, however laudatory in theory, will only add another layer of bureaucracy, thereby removing the American public one step further from their government,"
James D. McKevitt of the National Federation of Independent Business said at a recent Senate hearing. Another objection was voiced by J.W. Riehm, vice president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, who called the agency "at best an idea whose time has come and gone.

President Carter running into opposition for new department

WASHINGTON - Even before he formally submits his massive energy policy package to Congress, President Carter is running into trouble on his earlier, supposedly noncontroversial proposal to reorganize existing agencies into a new Department of Energy Several influential Senate Democrats and Republicans are moving to block what some of them see as a power grab by the executive branch to set natural gas prices. In addition, they are preparing to tinker with other, minor aspects of the package in ways that some Administration officials say could upset a delicate compromise they worked out earlier with key interest groups.

Cut may slow change

By GREG THOMPSON

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas Power and Light Co. officials say the Public Utility Commission's decision to trim their rate increase request by more than half could hamper their conversion from natural gas to alternate

The PUC voted Monday to grant TP&L rate increases totaling $58.2 million. The company had sought $134.8 million. TP&L officials termed the decision "extremely disappointing.

The PUC refused to allow the company to include $103.9 million in its rate base for new lignite and nuclear power plants being built to replace those fired by oil or natural

The three-man utility regulatory body included $188.9 million for projects that will be completed by Commissioner George Cowden, who refused to sign the final order, said the PUC should have allowed more construction work in the rate base. "It seems to me that we should have allowed more construction work in progress in the rate base in an effort to try to follow President Carter's energy proposal," said Cowden. Cowden said he also disagreed with PUC Chairman Garrett Morris and Commissioner Al Erwin on several other technical points that would have lifted the rate increases closer to the

$62.9 million recommended by the

TP&L President J.F. Skelton said it will be necessary to study the decision before determining the firm's next step. The company could appeal the decision or attempt to operate under the order by trimming construction

Officials said the rate request was intended to meet the company's financial requirements through mid-1979, but the PUC order would force TP&L to file for another rate increase much sooner.

"There is no question but that TP&L's conversion to coal and nuclear fuels will result in lower rates to customers than will be possible if generating plants continue to burn highcost natural gas and oil," Skelton said in a statement

"The use of lignite and nuclear fuel necessitates high base rates initially to support the higher plant costs, but much lower fuel costs in the future will more than offset that," he added. "Our major concern right now is whether or not we will be able to attract the hundreds of millions of investment dollars that will be

Enserch test flows gas today

Enserch Exploration, Inc., Midland, No. 1-14 J. Tool was open 14 hour on the test taken from 8,622-8,696 feet. Gas surfaced in eight minutes, flowing at the daily volume of 344,000 cubic feet. Recovery was 900 feet of distillate and a trace of water. The sample chamber contained 1,500 cubic feet of gas and 1,200 cubic centimeters of distillate. Flowing pressure was 393 pounds; one-hour initial and two-hour final shut-in pressures were 4,233 and 4,247 pounds, respectively.

Future oil use?

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - By the year 2000 petroleum should be used mainly in producing man-made fibers rather than as a fuel, an oil company executive said Monday.

Edward B. Walker III, president of Gulf Energy & Minerals Co., a division of Gulf Oil Co., said gasoline may cost $2.50 a gallon by the turn of the century, despite the development of alternative energy sources. Walker said Gulf is generally pleased with President Carter's energy program and does not intend "to try and tear it apart."

GM works out engine accord; Scott critical

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors Corp. swamped by consumer complaints and mounting legal actions over the use of Chevrolet engines in other GM cars, has worked out a settlement to appease disgruntled owners.

But the attorney general for Illinois, the state where the whole engine flap started, says GM's offer does not go far enough.

Under the GM plan, an owner of a new 1977 Buick, Oldsmobile or Pontiac with a Chevy engine may trade that car for a new 1977 model, but must pay eight cents for each mile he drove the original car. Or, the owner may keep the car and get a 36,000 mile.

36-month engine warranty.
Elliott M. Estes, president of the No. 1 automaker, said Monday that GM was making the offer to 'assure customer satisfaction.

But Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott, while saying the plan was a step in the right direction, said it allows dealers to make thousands of dollars and still shortchange consumers. Scott is one of 10 state attorneys general to file suit against GM over the engine switch. The GM offer is patterned after an agreement announced earlier Monday by New York Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz. Other suits are pending in Rhode Island, Kentucky, Florida, Alabama, Connecticut, Texas, North Carolina and Louisiana. Scott released correspondence from J.F. Mattox, GM general sales manager, to Oldsmobile dealers. It said that for each car a dealer replaces under the plan, the dealer would be given "an allowance of $300." Scott said that instead of giving the money to a dealer who "kept his mouth shut" about Chevy engines, GM should rebate the money to the victimized buyers. Scott said he would continue to seek fines from the car manufacturer and its dealers and intended to ask a U.S. District judge to require GM to make adjustments without cost to the purchasers. The problem began two months ago when a Chicago man found his Olds Delta 88 came with a 350-cubic-inch V8 Chevy engine instead of the widely advertised Olds "Rocket." GM said the offer of either a new vehicle or specia warranty is good on compact, intermediate and full-size Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs delivered to customers on or before April 1. The offer expires June 1. GM said. GM said it is still putting Chevy engines into cars made by its other divisions, and has no plans to discontinue the practice. However, to alleviate any customer confusion, the firm said, large showroom posters have been sent to

CDC receiving calls on test

dealers to show which engine the cars contain.

ATLANTA (AP) - The national Center for Disease Control, which is searching for Army troops exposed to a nuclear bomb test in Nevada in 1957, has received hundreds of calls about the search but none from persons involved in the test.

The CDC is looking for the roster of the 504th Airborne Infantry Regiment of the 82nd Airborne Division as part of a research project on whether low-dose radiation might be causing delayed leukemia.

About 1,100 persons - including about 250 members of the 504th - were at the Yucca Flats test site for the excercise in nuclear war training, said Dr. Glyn G. Caldwell, deputy chief of the cancer branch of the CDC

"We're getting about 20 calls a day and so far we have six persons who were with the 504th, but they were at the test site at different times - not in 1957, Caldwell said Monday.

He said none of the six had developed leukemia. Two former soldiers who were at the Yucca Flats test site in 1957 had been located earlier, both suffering acute leukemia.

One of these, Paul R. Cooper, 43, of Salt Lake City, was a member of the 504th. The other, Donald Coe, 44, of Tompkinsville, Ky.

STAIR CONDITIONING & HEATING was identified as a member of the 12th Infantry, 53 BUILDING MATERIALS which also had troops at the bomb testing site. ## Metric highway signs coming

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is going to raise the speed limits on the nation's roads and highways next year to 88 or 90. But the speed limits won't change, only the way we measure them. The government is moving full speed ahead on a change-over to metric highway signs that may cost $100 million and take five years to com-

The most dramatic change, converting speed limit signs from miles to kilometers, is slated to take place during just 90 days in the summer of 1978

Forty miles per hour, for instance, will become 64 kilometers per hour. The national 55 m.p.h. speed limit works out to 88.5 k.p.h., and Federal Highway Administration officials are considering rounding that off to 90 k.p.h., or about 56 m.p.h.

A highway administration official said there is no plan to print both metric and mileage figures on the highway signs to ease familiarization.

The official said the action is in line with the national switch to the metric system outlined in the Metric Conversion Act of 1975.

The changeover will apply to every highway, road and city street in the country. Under the Metric Conversion Act, the highway administration can order the conversion, even on roadways that receive no federal aid. During the 90 days ending Sept. 30, 1978, vertical clearance signs for overpasses also will be changed to metric figures. Truck drivers accustomed to looking out for 10-foot warnings will have to learn to hit the brakes when they see a three-meter sign. Some American cars already contain markings for kilometers as well as miles, and auto makers aiready are planning to install metric speedometers and odometers in all cars. Motorists with old cars will not be required to buy new speedometers. They will be able to go metric simply by pasting a label over their speedometer.
