The Lindbergh Child Also Serve Warning About Work is Other Woman

Lindbergh child has been found in the Sourland hills of New York not far from the Lindbergh. It had been brutally murdered and been dead for about two weeks. No more dreadfully shocking could be imagined, nothing could produce so great a horror depths of criminality to which attention has been reduced.

The dreadful end of a horrid tragedy will be for the unhappy almost a relief from the uncertainty, the constant wondering and the agony that has lasted, week after week for so long.

Means, above all, that the little Lindbergh forever beyond the reach of the atrocious brutality. His spirit is not, nothing can ever harm him. His parents must find what comfort can in that thought and in the sympathy and affection of the entire nation.

One called "Doc" died recently. I never heard of him, race tracks saw him, he lived and died in a hospital, supplying serum to prevent diphtheria, enough to protect 41 children. Perhaps he will have his heaven for horses as good a name as that reserved for Alexander the Great, Bucephalus, Mohammed, Alborak, or the white Rosinante.

Cox Brady, Jr., twenty-three years old, who is working as a draftsman, is working a day for the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, a good deal of that company, a director in 50 other companies. He wants to know what it is to work for a living. His new job tells him. He works 46 hours a week and gets 50 cents an hour, $23 a week.

Italians and others that do not wonder how he landed that job think him lucky. They would be more if they knew that the man is worth $50,000,000.

Volter, an anecdote by the late Irvin Cobb: "You look depressed, Volter—what seems to be the aggrivayshun?"

Volter—when did you see the other woman?"

Alexis Mallon, a Jesuit archeologist of the Pontifical Biblical Institute, Rome, has discovered "actual" of the Biblical story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Observing on the north shore of the Red Sea in Palestine, Father Mallon finds that Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed by fire, never rebuilt. The aggrivayshun was very violent. Observed on the plain below the interesting rock formation five feet high that might have been the wife of Lot turned into salt. Clerical, investigating, have reported the discovery of Lot's wife, supplying extremely interesting information concerning it.

Chicago has begun buying wheat in the United States, and the new cusht is welcome.

Wellington, in New Zealand, a plot of work threw stones at the parliament, 150 windows broken, some stores were robbed. Amazing news here is that in places food prices have gone to the levels of 1832.

Rosamond McCollum in Graduate College Recital

Rosamond McCollum, a senior in the Speech Department of Abilene Christian College will be presented in a graduating recital in the Sewell Auditorium Friday evening May 13 at eight o'clock, under the direction of Mary Hale.

Miss McCollum is a junior in the college and for the past three years has been a member of the Melpomenean Players. She has played leading roles in numerous productions. Among them "Pollyanna" presented by the club in the fall term. She has also appeared in "Within the Law" and various one act plays.

Miss McCollum has appeared often before civic clubs of Abilene and various college audiences. This year she has also appeared before the Rotary Club of Eastland as a reader.

She was presented in a junior recital last year and will be remembered for her excellent arrangement and interpretation of Alice Duer Miller's "Manslaughter".

For her senior program Miss McCollum has chosen "Seventh Heaven," a war drama in three acts by Austin Strong, a selection requiring exceptional ability.

As well as being a member of the Melpomenean Players among the student group, she is a member of the "W" Club, honor club for women and also the Ko Jo Kai's and the Kitten Klub.

She has chosen for ushers Lucile Watson, Lura Bass, John Allen Neece and James Lawrence.—Abilene Reporter.

Miss McCollum is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McCollum of Sterling City. They attended the graduating exercises last Friday night, and the program as given by the Abilene Reporter was excused as above stated. To crown this worthy girl's efforts, she was given a position as teacher in the Abilene Christian College. The News-Record is, as well as all Sterling, justly proud of Rosamond. Like many other fine Sterling girls, she has given us cause to rejoice in her success. She has made good.

John Shuttleworth Is Dead

John Shuttleworth, brother of Mrs. J. F. Thompson of Sterling City, died last Friday at his home in Shreveport, La.

Deceased was 90 years old at his death. In times past, he had frequently visited his kinsmen here where he made many friends and acquaintances.

At the age of 18, John Shuttleworth enlisted in the Confederate Army and gave valiant service for the "Lost Cause" until the war ended. When the war ended, he met the grievous problems of reconstruction and did much to bring order out of chaos among his people. He died among the friends he loved and who loved and esteemed him for his great qualities of heart and soul.

Last Meet of P. T. A.

The P. T. A. met at the school house, Thursday, May 12 for the last meeting of this year. This was an interesting meeting. The forty two party held last week at the City Cafe netted the association $5.20 and we want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Findt for the use of the Cafe.

We phoned to send flowers to Mr. Rufus Foster who is now in the hospital at Temple. Mrs. Reed read a paper on P. T. A. work showing Supr. S. M. N. Marrs' interest in this work.

Mesdames D. D. Garrett, W. B. Atkinson and Ralph Collins also read interesting papers. Programs will be made out this summer for next years work. The treasury reported $32.30 in the bank.

The fourth grade won the picture again by having the most mothers present at the meeting.

Mrs. G. T. Neal will present her classes in piano and expression in recital tonight, and the High School Orchestra and Glee Club tomorrow night. The public is invited to attend these recitals. The program will be varied, and we can assure all who attend a most pleasant hour.

Mrs. Nelson McClelland, of the Spade ranch visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Ainsworth this week.

Cowboy Band Well Received

As announced, the Cowboy Band of San Angelo played to a big audience at the school auditorium last Tuesday night.

Those boys are artists in their line. The old time range riders who composed a goodly part of the audience were carried back to the old time chuck wagon campfire by the songs rendered by the boys. The cheering and the frequent encores by the crowd demonstrated that the Cowboy Band had landed a big score with their audience of range people. They understood.

Miss Minnie Lee Taylor who is so popular with radio fans scored a big hit with her songs and melodies. Her yodeling was perfect. The cheering and repeated encores indicated that her hearers were intensely delighted.

But the crowd was completely knocked off its feet when little Miss Billie Sue Everitt, the three-year old lot of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Everitt climbed up on the stage and did one of her solo dances. Billie Sue was not on the program, and only a few were in on the surprise. When she finished her first number, the audience could not be quieted until she came back with another number. Everybody was wild about it except Billie Sue. That kiddie seemed to think it only a part of the day's work. She was soon cuddled in her mother's lap with eyes that seemed to say: "It is about time for me to do to bed." Billie Sue is a great girl.

Mesdames House and Cole Entertain

On Thursday afternoon Mesdames W. W. House and J. J. Cole extended a gracious hospitality at the the Cole home to a large host of friends. Nine tables of bridge players assembled. Garden flowers lent their fragrance in the guest rooms. After a series of games Miss Mozelle Williams was awarded the high score prize, a unique door stop, the handiwork of Mrs. House.

A tempting salad course with ice tea was served the guests. Out of town guests were Mesdames Willie Wilson of Coleman, Harley Williams of Golden, Colorado, and B. B. Huckell of Riverside, California.

Thomason Fights to Save Texas Fort

WASHINGTON, May. The War Department's attitude in proposing to abandon a million dollar military establishment in order to create a similar one elsewhere was sharply criticized in the House of Representatives by Congressman R. E. Thomason of the 16th Texas district in a recent speech. Congressman Thomason offered an amendment to the War Department appropriation bill which would have prevented the removal of Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa before the end of another fiscal year but the amendment was ruled not germane to the bill.

"This amendment seeks to prevent the abandonment of this post at a cost of more than a million dollars during this fiscal year," Congressman Thomason said. "It is a matter of both economy and protection. All through this bill are items for the transportation of soldiers, and I hold in my hand a letter from General Moseley, the deputy chief of staff, written last week to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, in which he said that on the first day of next January they are going to move the soldiers from Fort Russell to Camp Knox, Ky.

"It strikes me that Congress ought to have something to say about that when the taxpayers are the ones paying for it. For the time being I will lay aside the question of protection of my people along that far-flung Mexican border, but I will say that the War Department is not dealing in good faith with those people. Fort Russell is a permanent post, and the record so shows. They spent more than a million dollars there, and now, without consulting Congress, and without good reason, the Department, through General Moseley, writes to the Speaker of this House and says, 'On the first day of January we are going to abandon Fort Russell and ship those soldiers to Camp Knox, Ky.' which is nothing more than an old cantonment with a lot of temporary buildings.

"That is where your money goes. When that is done you will be asked to appropriate a million dollars to improve Camp Knox.

"This amendment looks to the saving of untold thousands of dollars in the transportation of 600 soldiers, their horses and equipment as well as the abandonment of more than a million dollars worth of property along the Mexican Border; and if soldiers are needed anywhere it is there.

"The War Department arbitrarily orders the abandonment although the legislature of Texas, the entire, Texas delegation in Congress, and many civic organizations throughout the state have petitioned the department not to do so for two reasons—first, because it is needed protection to the people along the border, and second, because the abandonment means the expenditure of thousands of dollars. I am for economy, and I am for national defense, but I say this is neither."

A number of congressmen, including members from Alabama, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, expressed themselves on the floor of the House as being in accord with Congressman Thomason's views.

He has announced his intention of continuing his fight to save Fort Russell which he started more than a year ago when the abandonment plan was first announced. The date of abandonment has twice been delayed.

They tell us that we should believe only half we hear. The trouble is that too many of us believe the wrong half.

We are told that the early bird gets the worm. This is all right for the bird, but it is hard on the poor worm who also is an early riser.

We read that when taxed about cutting down the cherry tree, George Washington said to his father: "Father, I cannot tell a lie, I did it with my little hatchet." There are but few boys of the present generation who do not possess the ability to lie. Not having the ability to lie, George told the truth. He couldn't lie, so there was nothing else to be done but to tell the truth.

That young lady who has taken up board at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Norton caused a mighty roar among the Lions last Wednesday at their weekly luncheon, Papa Lion Ted Norton who is secretary of the Lions Club was missing at the meeting, and when it was explained that a young Lioness was in the Norton den and demanded his constant presence, they roared a resolution of congratulations to Lion Ted and his worthy mate on the happy occasion, and wished them all the joy that comes to wedded mates whose home is blessed with a baby.

Woodrow Munn, a member of the senior high school class which was entertained last Wednesday with a banquet at the Lion's club, made a short speech that was remarkable for one so young in years. He pointed out that the success which had been attained by the graduates of the Sterling High was made possible by our splendid school system and the loyal support of the citizenship. In the name of his class, he expressed thanks to all who were instrumental in offering these opportunities, for they made it possible for them to succeed. If Woodrow keeps on, they are going to read about him in the years to come.

Second Assistant Postmaster General, W. Irving Glover is about to lose his job because he talked too much at the Postmaster's Convention of Missouri. He told the postmasters to fill their jobs by supporting Hoover for president. Postmasters are forbidden by law to engage in partisan politics. This break of Mr. Glover's caused a roar among the representatives and senators in Congress, and it may cost him his official scalp as well as others who participated in the demonstration. The Law does not presume that a postmaster shall forego his rights and duties as an American citizen by exercising his franchise, but when he gets out and whoops up his favorite candidate, he does so at the risk of losing his job. He is also forbidden to contribute money or anything of value for the expense of any political campaign. Mr. Glover set a vicious example at that convention.

"Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live"—Exodus 22-18. Nothing was said about killing off the wizards. They have always been harder on the women folks than the men.

Unless the republicans can hire a lot of political prostitutes to stir up a fight among the Democrat, on the liquor question, their chief organ has played his last tune. Hurrah for "Cactus Jack" of Uvalde!

Some of our most scientific men are either ignorant or misinformed of facts that are well known to the common herd. Recently, we received a bulletin issued by the A. & M. College of Texas on trees of West Texas. We read the bulletin with much interest and found that the author had gone deeply into his subject, and was in most cases extremely accurate. However, in his treatise on the Pecan tree, he stated that pecan timber, owing to its brittleness, was only valuable as fuel. The author was evidently mistaken, because pecan timber is almost as tough and resilient as whalebone. It is only equaled by second growth white hickory in toughness. Every old timer who made his own oxbows, ramrods for his muzzle loading guns, ax and hammer handles and other things which required the toughest timber, knows that young pecan was the standard timber for such.

Of course, like hickory timber in the east, when a pecan tree gets old, it is inclined to be brittle, but even then, it is as tough as most of oak.

INDORSE HOOVER

In their convention at San Angelo last week, the postmaster heartily indorsed President Hoover and had much to say in praise of his administration.

This is as it should be. It shows that they are grateful, and that they are not unmindful of the tree on which their acorns grow. It is thru the grace of President Hoover that they hold their jobs, and they would be ingrates not to say a good word for him.

But only those who hold Federal jobs have cause for so much enthusiasm for Mr. Hoover. If Mr. Hoover and others had not promised the people of this country great prosperity in case he was elected, they would not have expected so much. This promise even induced a lot of stockmen to vote for him in the belief that his administration would bring better prices for their products, but now they know they were deceived, consequently, they have lost their voices to holler so loudly for him.

Except for those who are holding down good fat jobs thru the grace of Mr. Hoover, it must take a great stretch of imagination to holler very loudly for him. Texas postmasters ought to holler for John Garner some too.

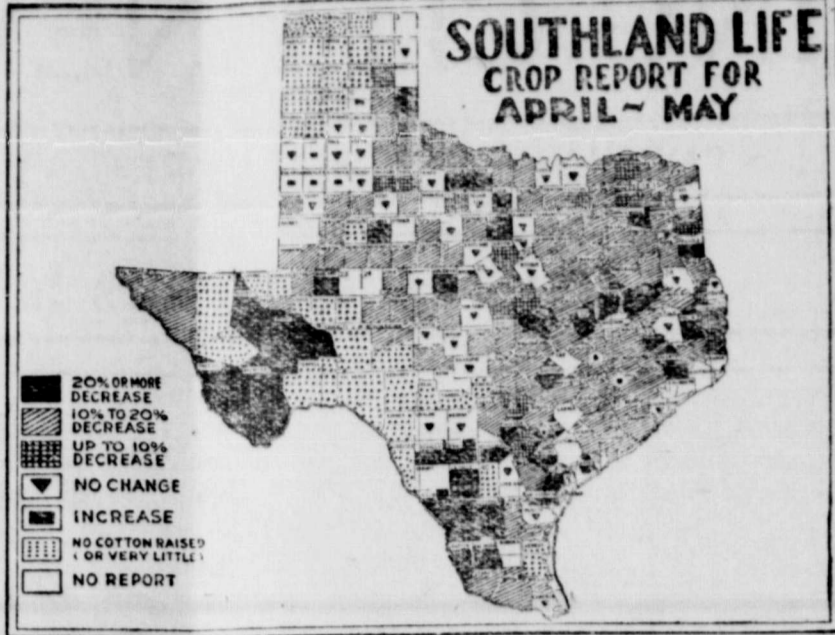

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation builds communities and cities. It takes co-operation to make progress.

But not so much the question right now of building cities as it is keep in line with the other cities.

Business is slow, and takes all the running a business man can do to stay in business. He must get every dollar's worth of trade there is in the community. He must grant every concession possible to maintain his position.

So it behooves every man and woman in a community to loyally stand by the home business people. Make your purchases from them. Support them in every way. It is your patriotic duty to do this at all times, but in times like we are experiencing now it is an imperative

Kraut Cocktails

THE fashionable dinner table, which once upon a time would have had no place to harbor a dish of sauerkraut, starts off, almost as a matter of course now, with a kraut cocktail—iced, garnished and all fussed up—but to you and me it's just good old sauerkraut juice, gone a bit high hat, perhaps.

But this excellent food hasn't gone high in price, along with its social fling—and that's a very important factor. Even though scientists have analyzed its beneficial lactic acid and its content of vitamins A, B, C and D, and physicians recommend it, you can still buy the same big can for around seventeen cents, and at the special sales, so numerous now, you can buy this health food at even lower prices.

devotee, you'll probably prefer the juice as it comes from the can, well chilled of course. If you are a kraut-nouveau, you'll like Tomato and Sauerkraut Cocktail: Mix together one part juice from canned sauerkraut and one part juice from canned tomatoes. Add salt and paprika to taste, and cracked ice. Shake until cold and foamy. Serve at once.

Or, Continental Kraut Cocktail: Make a sauce by mixing two tablespoons tomato catsup, one-half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, one-half tablespoon kraut juice and one-half tablespoon sugar. Place a small ball of sauerkraut in each of six sherbet glasses. Add a spray of parsley for garnish, pour over the sauce and serve with celery and salted soda crackers.

QUACK TREE DOCTORS

AUSTIN TEX. MAY—Pecan growers are warned by J. H. Burket, chief of the pecan division of the Department of Agriculture, to exercise caution in dealing with "tree doctors" and advised to consult county agents or well-known established nurserymen before permitting self-styled experts unknown to them to work on their trees.

"Since the pecan has become popular as a commercial nut, it is infrequent that the pecan grower is imposed upon by irresponsible salesmen and so-called 'expert propagators' and 'tree doctors,'" Burket said.

"These fakers usually say they have the endorsement of some well-known horticulture authority and that they have spent years acquiring expert knowledge of budding and grafting pecans. They always 'fully guarantee' their work. In some instances it is represented that they have a secret formulae that will cure sick trees. The charge usually $1 per tree. After the money is collected, the 'tree doctor' parts leaving the tree in a mutilated condition, in some instances," Burket said in explaining the practice.

"On one occasion an 'expert nurseryman' and propagator contracted to bud 40 or 50 small year-old seedlings with a commercial variety. Inspection revealed that the budding operation was performed merely by cutting off and replacing the same native bud. In this particular instance, the farmer was the victim to the extent of $380," the pecan division chief said.

Cooperative Use Pays Well

Here is a lesson in the value of co-operation.

Time was when every community had its own small, isolated electric power plant—if it had any electric service at all.

That was before it was technically possible to link up groups of towns and provide them with power through widespread systems of electric transmission lines.

Today many communities share each power plant. Thus they utilize the faci-ties more efficiently and receive a higher grade of service at a much smaller cost.
The small town's new industrial importance is a direct outgrowth of this improvement in power supply.

The West Texas Utilities Company is rendering this dependable, inexpensive and elastic type of power supply to 125 progressive West Texas cities and towns.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

FAVORABLE TIME TO RAISE COLTS

Farmer Developing Own Power Has Low Cost.

If a farmer ever intends to raise a colt, now is a good time to do so, according to A. O. Rhoad of the New York State College of Agriculture. If the farmer raises colts now he will save money in a few years when he puts them to work in place of the horses he now has on his farm.

The farmer who grows his own power, says Mr. Rhoad, buys his own power at the lowest cost and pays for it on the installment plan without interest. With the possible exception of a fee for stallion service the farmer does not have to take much money out of his pocket at present to produce his farm power. The farmer who breeds his mare to foal next spring and feeds the colt well will have a work horse that will cost him far less than one purchased on the market.

According to a recent survey made by C. E. Ladd of the college, 57 per cent of horses in New York state are more than twelve years old. The price of horses is increasing. Doctor Ladd also states that from two-thirds to three-fourths of the horses in New York state will be replaced during the next ten years, and that it is probable that they will be replaced at a time when it will cost New York farmers several millions more than it would today. This survey, "The Farm Horse Situation in New York," will be sent free to anyone who writes to the office of publication, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y., for I. 109.

Sweet Clover Disease Should Be Prevented

It is now definitely established and acknowledged that some specimens of moldy or spoiled sweet clover hay and silage produce a specific disease in cattle, the so-called "sweet clover poisoning," say L. M. Roderick, assistant veterinarian and A. F. Schalk, veterinarian, North Dakota Agricultural college.

Several experimental feeding trials with moldy sweet clover hay and silage in North Dakota have shown quite conclusively that the so-called poisoning is primarily a disease of cattle, particularly young animals a few months of age to two or three years old.

The trouble can be avoided in practically all cases, if small quantities of the moldy hay or silage are fed with two or three times as much other feed; or the spoiled clover can be fed safely if fed once every week or two.

Immunize Pigs

Baby pigs one month of age may be successfully immunized against cholera, according to the work of Graham Thorpe and Hectorne at the University of Illinois. Such practice is not generally recommended by veterinarians working under general farm conditions. The studies quoted indicate that other diseases constitute a complicating factor of growing importance in outbreaks of hog cholera. There is a saving of time and serum worth considering when pigs are vaccinated young.

Selecting a Sire

Thorough investigation should be made to measure the true worth of a bull in selecting a proved sire. The fact that a sire has a number of tested daughters is not adequate and may be no reliable measure of his worth. A proved sire is considered to be one with five or six unselected daughters with records, preferably for one year. Tests show that a sire mated with a given type of cow will continue to produce similar daughters if six of the daughters are good, the sire should be saved.

Live Stock Notes

All lambs should be docked and the ram lambs castrated.

The sheep man should gauge the feed given by the condition of the ewes, but it is always advisable to feed some grain for at least six weeks before lambing.

Bloating is to some extent an individual matter with the animals, some animals showing a much more frequent tendency to bloat than others, possibly because they are more greedy.

HOMESPUN SENSE ETHICS OF BANKING

By MELVIN A. TRAYLOR
President
First National Bank, Chicago

Melvin A. Traylor

We must not take unfair advantage of our competitors. It is entirely proper for us by legitimate means to obtain all the business that we can, but in doing so we ought to do nothing that will injure our competitors and that will destroy the confidence which the banks must repose in each other and which the community at large must repose in the banks as a whole if we are going to thrive, and remember always we cannot thrive separately. We shall either all thrive together or all suffer disaster.

Sentiment in Banking

No sentiment in banking? Will you recall just one day's activity at your desk—what were the problems you considered? Did they apply solely to the cold-blooded conduct of the affairs of your bank, weighing, measuring, analyzing, valuing securities, extending credit, driving the best bargains possible, having in mind only the material return from your day's labor? Certainly such is not the case. I recall many days—happy days, too—in my experience in a very small country bank, in which I am sure not one-tenth of my time was given to the real consideration of the financial returns to my institution.

Open Markets

I believe in an open market for the actual purchase and sale both of commodities and securities. But so long as the actual rate for credit in this country swings up and down according to the demand for funds for speculative purposes, little influenced by central or other banking policy, then something is wrong somewhere. Moreover, if business is influenced—as is almost universally charged—by the state of public mind; and if the state of public mind is influenced, as in recent years it most certainly has been, to run the scale from extreme optimism to extreme pessimism according to the characters on a ticker tape, then something is wrong with the public mind, or the conduct of the forces back of the tape. Those responsible must provide the answer.

THIS WEEK

In Texas you may buy eggs for 7 cents a dozen. Ten and two-tenths cents is the average egg price over the country. You buy butter for 19 cents in Tennessee, chickens for 97 cents a pound in North Dakota; the country's average is 12.6 cents. Lamb costs 4.2 cents a pound in Texas and Montana. In Montana mules cost $34, horses $31.

All Japanese troops are recalled from Shanghai, that particular corner of China is at rest, and the League of Nations hails the end of a threat to world peace that has lasted for four months.

That is too much optimism. Japan, retiring from Shanghai, while sending nearly 30,000 fresh troops into Manchuria, is like an active terrier letting go of a cow's hind foot to seize a front leg. The wise Japanese, perhaps, think they have all they can do in Manchuria, with Russia growing restless and sending troops to the border. (©, 1932, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.) (WNU Service)

On Texas Farms

A Wood County farmer who has been in the habit of borrowing $300 to $100 at the bank every spring applied for $15 this year. Asked the reason he said he had lots of feed and the "canning woman" had taught his wife how to can and saved him lots of money.

Mrs. J. B. Morrison, a Kent county garden demonstrator, has solved the problem of rats in her vegetable bed. She dissolves a few strychnine crystals in fruit jar lids placed at each end of the bed. The rats die before leaving.

Small strawberry patches pay, according to Mrs. C. C. Burrows, Wichita County home demonstration club woman, who sold 60 gallons of berries in April at 60 cents per gallon from a plot 18 by 35 feet started with 275 plants three years ago.

Eighteen Guadalupe county families have been helped to can 1071 containers of meat by Mrs. Alvia Schulz of the Cibola Home Demonstration Club. This is in line with state plans which encourage those benefited by extension work to extend the benefits to others.

Interest in pecan improvement has increased more rapidly in Gillespie county since budded trees now bearing have produced nuts that sell for 20 cents per pound compared to 3 or 4 cents per pound for natives. Says the county agent, County Judge Usener who has prepared budding cloth for demonstrators every year for six years has exhausted his year's supply of 30,000 cloths.
