Money? Plenty of It
Bloe Against U. S. A.
Shock for Best Minds
When Germany Is Ready

Washington wanted to sell $650,000,000 long-term treasury notes, some paying 2½, some 3½ per cent. One issue was subscribed for twelve times. The government could have had $5,000,000,000 instead of $650,000,000, almost ten times what it needed.

This shows that there is money in the country. Our banks, more heavily loaded with cash than ever before, don't know where to use their surplus money.

Karl H. von Wiegand cables from Berlin to Universal Service about the "anti-American bloc," just perfected in Europe. Germany has joined and includes France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Poland, Jugoslavia and Rumania.

Mr. Von Wiegand says "British Foreign Secretary Simon and Premier Briott of France have planned to isolate the United States if Washington refuses to cancel war debts."

Boycotting is easy, sometimes unprofitable. Eight merchants might unite to boycott their best customer and not be happy when the customer stops buying.

Here is news to make our "best minds" ponder, muse and fret. Ponca City, Okla., according to the Associated Press, takes no taxes from its citizens, because it makes enough from publicly owned water and light plants to pay all city expenses, and this in spite of the fact that rates charged for water and light have been reduced twice in the last two years.

Stillwater, another Oklahoma city, is tax free, thanks to public ownership. In the state of Kansas, Chanute, Colby, Augusta and Beloit are, as you have been told, four tax-free cities.

Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, spokesman for the German war ministry, says, "Under the agreement at Geneva, Germany has a right to restore her fighting power and will do it unless other nations disarm."

Other nations will not disarm, therefore Germany undoubtedly will re-enter the list of fighting nations. You can imagine how some of the allies would feel should they suddenly find Germany and Italy united under energetic dictators.

What would this country answer if European countries thus menaced should come to us again saying, "Kindly oblige with ten billion more dollars and three million more men?"

The government has discovered a "Communist" plot to injure bank credits by a whispering campaign. It should be, but is not generally, known that saying, doing or insinuating anything to injure a bank's credit is a criminal offense.

However, the government and bankers should make sure that the "reds" are really the "whisperers." Reds, as a rule, like something that explodes with a bang. They are not whisperers by nature. Some unscrupulous person short of stocks might be interested in promoting lack of confidence in banks.

Uncle Sam should send kind regards to Sir Atul Chatterjee, who leads India's delegation in the Ottawa conference. Sir Atul says he and the rest of India won't "buy everything inside the British empire" and buy nothing from the United States. India buys and sells in the outside world now $1,500,000,000 worth of products, 70 per cent outside the British empire, and doesn't intend to jeopardize her trade with the United States.

When men decide to die, usually a decision more or less cowardly, they do it in strange ways. One jumps into a volcano, taking a girl with him. Another goes over Niagara, some jump in front of locomotives, some hang, shoot or drown themselves. Roscoe Griffith went about it deliberately. To ambulance doctors, called by his wife, to find him eating a hasty dinner, he said: "My wife is mistaken, gentlemen; I have taken no poison." And he smiled.

They took him to the hospital. He walked from the ambulance to the door, and fell dead.

So many pleasant things can happen, so many interesting things are sure to happen, "gigantic troubles"

THE SECOND CHAPTER OF JIM

And it came to pass that during the reign of Miriam, the handmaid of Jim, there arose a young man whose hair was red and whose name was Dan. Now this Dan was a mighty warrior in the land and gave trouble to the Jimites, yea muchly.

The servants of Miriam had gathered many shekels unto themselves, even six hundred thousand bucks, (which in the Jimite tongue means smackers) all in one pot.

Now this same Dan saw that all this money was tribute money paid in as tithes by the people to make the paths in the land straight, as foretold by the prophets.

When Dan saw all this, he was wroth, and he said unto the servants of Miriam, "how come?" Is it not written in the Book, thus saith the Lord: "Thou shalt not steal?" Putterback! which means in the Danite tongue, restore the money.

And the servants of Miriam were sore and wrathful, and they said unto Dan, gothell!

Hearing this, the spirit of righteousness wrought mightily on Dan, and he arose and laid strong hands upon the servants of Miriam and strove with them and threw them down with a mighty throw, and took that which they stole and put it with the other shekels of the sanctuary.

After gathering many shekels from tithes of the people and dealing with them with great waste of their substance and with much deceit, they began to murmur against Miriam and at Jim who was the high priest and chief bottlewash of the Jimites.

Thus it came to pass that there was war between the Jimites and the Danites and they strove with each other mightily, and the Danites overcame the Jimites in a great slaughter at a ford on the river Salt. At this ford, a sheaf of cockleburs was hung on a hackberry limb, and when a Jimite sought to pass by and cross over the river Salt, a Danite guard would confront him and say: say thou unto me "Gimite", and owing to a slight defect in his tongue, he would say, "Jimite" and the Danite would smite him, and that day fell an hundred thousand Jimites, and the House of Miriam fell and Dan became the ruler over all the land of Tehas.

And Dan had his palace in the city of Aus, by the river Colorow. And after many days Dan took unto himself a wife, a princess, even Mildred of the House of Paxton, of the tribe of Abilene. She was comely and fair to look upon, and all the people rejoiced with a great joy. And it came to pass that Mildred bore a son unto Dan and they called his name Dan.

Dan reigned four years and walked before the law as it is written in the book, but Jim Ferguson was an hungared for more shekels, and the Jimites began to murmur. And when Ross of the house of Sterling sought to be the ruler of the land of Tehas in the city of Aus, the Jimites rose up against the Rossites and they strove with a mighty strive, and the Rossites smote the Jimites until they were sore, so that for two years they stood upon their hind legs to eat.

After many days it came to pass that Jim Ferguson took down his ukelele (which means groceries in the

Negro Fugitive Is Captured

The fact will be remembered that over two years ago, two negro men stole Joe Emery's car and got nearly to San Angelo with it before Sheriff Davis with the assistance of San Angelo officers overhauled them and brought them and the car back to Sterling City where they were placed in jail.

Shortly after they had been put in jail, in company with a Mexican, they broke out of jail, but after an hour's liberty, they were captured and put back.

Later on, the trio broke out again. This time, they stole several quarts of tiquila which the sheriff had taken from a bootlegger and put in the storeroom of the jail. They made a get-away, but later on, the Mexican and one of the negroes were captured and brought to trial, convicted and have served their time out in the penitentiary, but the other of the trio, Alex Ellis, has been on the dodge until last week when Mr. Davis located him in Big Spring and brought him to Sterling City where he is in jail awaiting trial in the district court which meets next fall.

This nigger had been successfully dodging the sheriff so long that perhaps, he concluded that Vern had given up chase, and had ventured back to his old haunts around Big Spring where he fell into the trap that had been set for him over two years ago. So far as we can learn this brings the capture of renegades of major crimes up to 100 per cent. It is said that Sheriff Davis is like the proverbial "Canadian Mounties," he always gets his man.

Bank Anniversary

Last Monday, August 1, was the 22nd. anniversary of the First National Bank of Sterling City. J. S. Cole as cashier began business that day, August 1, 1910, in a back room of a wooden store building. He has been at it most every day since. It was on that August day, if we rightly recall, that all Sterling boarded the first east bound Santa Fe passenger that ever went out of Sterling City, and we all paid a visit to the coming City of San Angelo. It was a free ride and everybody enjoyed it.

Shotgun "Kick" Injures D. P. Glass

D. P. Glass suffered a painful injury last Sunday afternoon when the recoil of a shotgun caused the hammer of the gun to strike him in the face, badly lacerating the right nostril and cheek.

Mr. Glass went for a ride Sunday afternoon, and anticipating rabbits along the way, he took his old two-barrel. He had not gone far when a big jackrabbit presented himself as an inviting target. For some reason both barrels, instead of one, fired at the same time, causing the old gun to deliver a "kick" with a wallop equal to that of a mule. The butt slipped from his shoulder and permitted the hammer to plough into his nose and face.

Dr. Swann dressed Mr. Glass's wound, and while he has been confined to his room this week, he is improving and will soon be out again.

But D. P. says the meanest thing about the affair is the fact that he did not kill the rabbit.

Mertzon Gets Artesian Well

On the J. Kisner place two miles north of Sherwood, a huge artesian water well was brought in a few days ago at a depth of 202 feet.

It fills a 12½ inch pipe and the flow is so strong that a 200 pound man was raised from the mouth of the pipe when he tried to sit upon it.

It is situated where it can be used for irrigation purposes, and is considered more valuable as time goes by, than an oil gusher. It was discovered by parties drilling for shallow oil. In its flow into Spring Creek, it added greatly to the volume of water flowing in that stream. It will be capped to conserve the water until wanted. Many people have visited the new find.

From San Angelo to Sterling the altitude increases more than ten feet per mile.

County Democratic Convention

Last Saturday the Sterling County Democratic convention was convened in the afternoon at the courthouse.

E. L. Bailey was chosen as chairman and Rogers Hefley, secretary.

The returns of the primary election held on the previous Saturday were canvassed, certified, and ordered filed with the proper authorities.

The delegates to the various conventions were as follows:

E. L. Bailey and Malcom Black to State convention at Lubbock.

T. F. Foster to 16th district congressional convention.

T. Jeff Davis, Legislative district at San Angelo.

Rogers Hefley 51st Judicial district at San Angelo.

Pat Kellis 3rd Supreme Judicial district.

The following compose the new County Democratic Executive Committee:

M. Black County Chairman. Voting Precinct 2, T. F. Foster; 3, Tom Brannan; 4, L. A. Knight; 5, E. F. McEntire; 6, J. O. Longshore; 7, Henry Bade; 8, V. E. Brownfield; 9, Philip Thompson.

The total vote for submission, 197. Against submission 95. Total vote cast in the county, 519. Total poll taxes paid, 471.

Frank M. Smith came down from Colorado Thursday on business. Mr. Smith expressed optimism for the livestock industry of West Texas. Mr. Smith who deals in livestock, thinks demands and prices are slowly improving.

San Angelo citizens have petitioned the San Angelo Telephone Company to reduce its rates, but have, so far, been refused any concession.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Howard's handsome new home on the corner of Elm Street and 3rd Avenue is about ready for occupancy.

Dee Davis was on the sick list the first part of the week, but was able to return to his ranch Wednesday.

THE SECOND CHAPTER

Danite tongue) wild china limb where it had hung for many moons and began to sing and play while the Jimites danced.

As he struck a chord on his ukelele, he sang: "In my reign, the shekels in the sanctuary, they tempt me, even as the serpent in the garden of Eden tempted Adam, and I reached mine hand and gathered them. I bought chicken salad and this ukelele at the grocery store and behold they charged them against the state as groceries. I strove against the select draft law with great profit and much applause from the Germans. I borrowed one hundred and fifty-six thousand from Younohoo and wouldn't tell them where I got it.

And it came to pass that the Chiefrods and elders rose up and were wroth with me, and they did throw me down and kick me and I lost my job for many days, and they spat upon me and called me skunk (which means polecat). They dealt me great misery and tribulation.

And the Jimites shouted, Shame, shame!

Then the Chiefrods and elders re-pentened them of their acts, and they forgave me of mine evil, even with a damnasty act which they called a law. Then they encompassed me and threw me down and took mine damnasty away from me and here I am without a job.

And the Jimites gnashed their teeth and cried aloud: "Thisishell!
Thisishell!"

Then he hung his ukelele on the limb of an oak tree, yea, even a sap-oak tree, and stood upon his hind legs, hitched up his britches and winked his left eye and spake unto the Jimites with a loud voice, saying:

"Inasmuch as they hath taken away mine damnasty and blotted me out of the book, I am no longer by the law of the land of Tehas permitted to rule over you, but behold, now, my handmaid Miriam. She can be your ruler and I can rule over her, for is she not my wife, and is it not written in the Book that the husband shall rule over his wife?
Behold, I will give you two rulers at the price of one.

To this, the multitude of Jimites cried: "Hurawfermaw! Hurawfermaw!" (which in the Danite tongue means, "Am I not thine ass, thy faithful jackass on whose back thou ridest on thy journeys?")

And he continued: Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden: all ye bootleggers, hijackers, thieves, robbers, murderers and everyone that breaketh the law and stardeth in danger of its judgements, and follow me, and I will build for you a city of refuge where all may enter there in and be free to follow his calling.

Each Jimite raised his voice and shouted: "Golly! Hurawfermaw!"

Bring unto me the talents, the shekels, the pennies and even the mites which a widow fain would give, and I will send you the book I have written, even the ferguson forum which is filled with del toro that ye may feast and fill your belly's full of it that fitteth you to fight against the Rossites.

And the Jimites cried each man through his whiskers, even through his hat: "Bullyfermaw! Bullyfermaw!"

When he had made an end of speaking, this same jim whispered in his sleeve, "Behold these are my faithful jackasses in whom I am well pleased, for upon their backs will I and mine handmaid Miriam ride forth to give the Rossi es battle." Selah!

HARDTIMES CLUB

The country dog came in early last Monday morning for social and business matters. While looking after these things, he kept his weather eye on Jack Bengie. From the way the country dog acted, he wouldn't put it past Jack to attach a tomato can to his caudal appendage in order to test his speed in high gear. Of course Jack wouldn't can a dog, but he had his suspicions about Jack, and as soon as he found a nice bone, he proceeded on his return to the country.

President McCroaker called the meeting to order and proceeded with the business of the day. The meeting was not as harmonious as it had been. Unfortunately, Billy McToot was a Sterling man and Peter Mefermaw was a strong Ferguson man, while Tingleddod Stinkly was a strad-dler.

"I read outen my paper this morning", said Peter Mefermaw, "that if Ferguson was elected, the government was going to hold back that twenty million dollars that it had been giving to Texas with which to build roads."

"Well, what of it," said Billy Mc-Toot. "Didn't it do it before when your man Ferguson was running things in Texas? Didn't them fellers what was running the roads steal six hundred thousand dollars and Dan Moody throwed 'em down and took it away from 'em and the gov'ment got 'spicious of 'em and wouldn't let Texas have any more money to build roads as long as Ferguson was running things? Huh?"

"Well, I know that is so," said Peter, "but it shows just what old Wall Street and the money power is doing to the po' wukin man in Texas. If they take that money away from Texas, it will leave many a po' wukin man out of a job. Hit sho will be tough."

"Will they take that money away if Sterling is elected?" asked Tingle-dod.

"Of course they will not," said Peter.
"You see ole Sterling stands in with them big corpolations, ole Wall Street and the money power, and they wouldn't take it from him at all just 'cause he stands in with 'em, but cause Ferguson is a farmer and the po' wukin man's friend, they won't let him have it."

"Well, if that be the case," said Mr. Stinkly, "I am going to vote for Sterling. It looks like we got to let that money keep on coming down here, or we will be in a worse hole than ever."

"Don't you do her," replied Peter, hotly. "Ole Sterling belongs to the corpolations, cause I read hit outen my paper. Hit said that ole Sterling stole a mule, got drunk, climbed a windmill, stood on his head, fanced himself with a fly swatter and waved his shirt tail at Ma Ferguson.
Any man what would do that—"

"Yup, youp!" said Billy McToot,
"Stop right thar, Peter, and don't you say that agin. I am prepared to say that what you read outen your paper about Ross Sterling is a dam lie. Everybody knows that "Cut that out, boys" ordered President McCroaker as he rapped on the pavement with his milo stalk for order. "I have told you before that if you let politics get into the club, it will bust it up. Now see what's done. From this on, you boys lay

WE DISCOVER HIGH
TAXES AND THEN FIND
THAT IT IS OLD STUFF

The yo-yo was bad enough.
Miniature golf was worse.
But we must have something to go crazy about, to lose our heads over, to rant and rave about, and we've got it—BURDENSOME TAX-ATION.

We have had it a long, long time, but we just found it out. Like not knowing you have the itch until you have been scratching for a week and you keep on scratching through habit for weeks after you have got rid of it.

I am getting sick and tired of folks talking about high taxes and cutting expenses and balancing the budget.

I have had about all I can stand of that sort of talk.
Every time I stop to visit, some fool begins ranting about the cost of government and how the politicians are ruining everything—"The world has gone to hell and it's all because of high taxes."

People really don't care a continental about taxation. They don't even know what taxation is. Those who are howling the loudest never paid any taxes to amount to anything and they never will—they are too busy howling to make anything to pay taxes on.

Folks just think they don't want high taxes. What they really want is 20-cent cotton and dollar wheat and $40 calves and to hell with the tax rate. This tax talk is all camoflage.

They talk about cutting the salaries of all public employees and laying off a lot of them. They never stop to think that those people must be fed and we'll have to do it whether through high taxes or the Community Chest. The law won't let us take them out and shoot them, even though it would be economy.

But don't blame the poor devils.
They are not responsible. We are.
If we had used our heads a lot of them wouldn't be working for the government or the state or the city.
They wouldn't be running for re-election. They would be chopping cotton or heading wheat or punching cows or herding sheep.

Old Man Prosperity sure ruined a lot of good cotton-choppers, wheatharvesters, cowpunchers and sheep-herders when he slipped up on our blind side and fixed it so they could get government jobs of some kind.

day.

Doggone it, we tried to tell everybody to lay off of Hoover in 1928, but it did no good, and now they are paying dearly for the break as well as enjoying their portion of the Hoover prosperity. Now we are trying to fight a lot of people off of this jimferguson racket. It is a recorded fact that jim is a proven crook, and has Baron Munchausen skinned a city block as a prevarica-tor. He has lied on Dan Moody.
He has lied on Governor Sterling and he missed the truth by a hundred million dollars in the lie he circulated about the Highway Commission shortage. His bunch stole $600,000 from the highway fund when he was running things at Austin, and when Dan Moody caught the thieves and took it away from them, jimferguson has been sore ever since. jim didn't steal that money, but tried to help them get off with it.

Lots of people are very much like cows. Every old cowpuncher knows that you can scare a cow into fits by shaking a slicker at her. But after she gets used to it, she will eat the slicker if it is left where she can get at it. Several years ago, jimferguson scared the people into hysterie fits with the Ku Klux. He had a lot of fellows afraid to pass a patch of hiweeds because jimferguson made them believe that the weeds were full of Ku Klux and would eat them. Old jim played that racket until the folks found out that it was nothing but noise. He has quit his Ku Klux scare and is now using another scarecrow.

These Smarty Boneheads who race up and down 4th Avenue at the rate of a mile a minute and with contempt ignore the "slow down" signs, will one of these days be seen in company with a road cop marching to the court house to tell Justice Black that they were driving at the rate of four miles an hour. But the cop will tell the Judge how come and poor Smarty will have to pay for being smart. If you will keep your eyes open, you will see this very thing happen. These Smarties can't be told, they must be shown.

After an intense hot day last Wednesday, a nice, cooling shower fell here about 8:30 p. m. The dust was settled and a cooling gale prevailed for a few hours to the great relief of those suffering from the heat.

At night, thunder clouds with lightening and thunder appeared with indications of a shower, but none came. At Watervalley and Carlsbad showers are reported to have fallen,

MILK NECESSARY

When the family budget must be curtailed, the amount of care exercised in buying foods must be increased.

Certain foods are essential to the health of both adults and children. Among these are cereals, citrus fruits, leafy vegetables, eggs and—most important of all—first-quality milk.

Milk in its various forms contributes more than half the total calcium consumed in the ordinary American diet. It is the greatest of the bone builders. According to health authorities, better health is often enjoyed by thin children who have been fed with milk and fruits, than by children of normal weight who over-indulge in filling and fattening foods.

Milk belongs on every table. The housewife should take every precaution to make sure that it comes from a responsible source of supply, and is of unquestioned purity.

A Card of Thanks

I am invoking this method to express my deep gratitude and extend my sincere thanks to my many friends who so loyally supported me in the primaries of July 21, in the contest for Commissioner of precinct No. 1, Sterling county. In the future, I shall devote my entire energies in giving my precinct and the entire county the best service that is in me, I shall do my level best.

I thank you. Oscar Ratliff.

A Card of Thanks

I would indeed be ungrateful if I did not in some way express my deep felt gratitude and let my many friends know how sincerely I thank them for the splendid vote they gave me in the primary of July 23. I sincerely hope that I shall merit their kind consideration in the final contest on August 27. I thank you.

TOMATO NUTRITION

EVERYONE is familiar with the story of the lawyer who told the court that there were nine reasons why he couldn't produce his client, the first of them being that his client was dead—and the judge's famous reply "Well, you needn't bother about the other eight reasons."

It's something like that with tomatoes. There are all of nine reasons why tomatoes should appear upon the menu of every household three or four times a week—the first of them being that they are so good. Three of the best possible arguments for serving tomatoes are represented by the recipes at the end of this little article. Just bake the first, stew the second, and freeze the third, and you won't need to have any discussions with your family about the nutritive value of this fruit—for the tomato, by the way, is a fruit.

The Reason Why

Like most true fruits, it is low in fats and proteins and therefore very easily digested. Its carbohydrate content is the greatest of all the fundamental food components, and consists principally of the sugars glucose, fructose and sucrose. The pleasantly sour taste of the tomato is due to a curious blending of these sugars with the organic acids present in the fruit.

Tomatoes tend to increase body alkalinity and offset in part the acidifying effect of meat, fish, fowl, eggs and cheese, and should therefore be served with them. It is, however, as a vitamin carrier that tomatoes are most valuable. When the content of vitamins A, B and C is taken into account, there is no other common fruit or vegetable which is superior in this respect to canned tomatoes.

We say canned tomatoes because it has been shown by most careful tests that the vine-ripened tomato such as canned tomatoes are prepared from, is superior to the green fruit or to tomatoes ripened off the vine. The tomatoes purchased in the market often have been picked while still green and ripened while en route to the purchaser, while canned tomatoes are prepared from the raw product when it contains the maximum amount of vitamins. In the canning process there is only a slight loss of vitamins B and C and none at all of vitamin A. As there is plenty of water in tomatoes, no additional water is required for canning, so the canned fruit comes right into the kitchen delicious, naturally ripened, with its full quota of health-giving vitamins.

The new generation is acquiring the tomato-eating—or rather we should say the tomato-juice drinking—habit at a very early age, for doctors are now recommending tomato juice as a substitute for orange juice, the usual vitamin C carrier for infants. In fact one authority states that twice as much tomato juice as orange juice may be taken by infants without digestive upset. Recent experiments also tend to show that tomatoes and lettuce are very helpful in the cure of certain forms of anemia.

So, if you wish your family to be well, rosy and smugly contented with home fare, give them such appetizing dishes as the following several times a week.

Now For the Recipes

Scalloped Tomatoes and Pecans: Season one No. 2 can of tomatoes with three-quarters teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, and five grains of pepper. Have ready one-half cup finely chopped pecans and one-third cup grated cheese. Put into a buttered baking dish alternate layers of tomatoes, pecans and cheese. Cover top with three-quarters cup of buttered crumbs and bake in hot—400° oven—twenty-five minutes.

Stewed Tomatoes and Mushrooms: Drain one 4-ounce can of mushrooms, and sauté gently in one tablespoon butter for three minutes. Add one No. 2 can tomatoes, salt, paprika, one bay leaf and one slice onion, and stew gently for ten minutes. Remove bay leaf and onion and serve with a diamond of toast on top.

Frappé Tomatoes: Remove paper from one 8-ounce can tomatoes and immerse in a mixture of ice and salt for four hours. Remove top from can and slide out frozen mold. Slice thin, and lay on bed of shredded lettuce. Serve with meat course. Serves six.*

R. P. Ainsworth was in from the Spade ranch Thursday. He reported livestock conditions in his part of the country in fine shape.

Fifteen persons died last week in New York from the effects of drinking prohibition bootleg booze. That is the only kind they make these days, and it is a good thing not to drink it. You can't go wrong by laying off from it. No matter if someone tells you it is all right, it is safe to take his word for it and let it alone.

The great Rockefeller city development in the heart of New York, seeking to avoid competition with other New York property owners, has wisely arranged to bring tenants from European countries.

England and France through their governments will exhibit their finest products. Rockefeller city space and a bill signed by President Hoover makes that center, bounded by certain New York streets, a "free port."

Objects sent there for exhibition only can be admitted free of duty, no customs charge collected unless the goods are sold.

THE MACHINE AGE
SPOILS A PROPHECY

By H. L. RUSSELL

Advisory Council, Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association.

A NOTED British scientist forecast thirty years ago that by 1931 all available wheat land in the world would be under cultivation, and the yields per acre could not be increased beyond that which then prevailed there would be a world shortage. The average yield then was 12.7 bushels per acre. During the past seven years, the world over, it has been 14.1. On the 320,000,000 acres in cultivation this increase would amount to almost a half billion bushels more production than the world standards of thirty years ago. In place of dire distress due to shortage, we have had dire distress due to surplus.

Wheat farmers have shown no great inclination to curtail materially their output; perhaps a 10% decline compared with 70% reduction in steel. This unwillingness, or perhaps inability, to adjust production to current needs makes the problem all the harder to solve.

Not only are we now growing more wheat per unit of land, but acreage has been very greatly extended. In twenty years Canada has increased acreage 250%, Australia almost as much. Another significant fact is the materially lessened use of wheat. A much more diversified diet has developed. More vegetables and fruits are used than formerly. The reduction of 1.2 bushels consumed per person per annum since the last generation necessitates nearly 150,000,000 bushels less wheat than was formerly required.

Machines Increase Supply

The factor that has exerted the most potent influence in this rising world flood of grain has been the rapid development of the machine. The old days of the cradle required from thirty to forty hours of hand labor to harvest an acre of grain. Then came the binder, which reduced the process to four or five hours per acre. Now the combine does the work in forty-five minutes per acre.

Where it used to cost ten cents a bushel merely to thresh the grain, the modern combine cuts and threshes at a cost ranging from 3 to 5 cents a bushel. With this reduced cost of production, the possibility of acreage expansion is tremendous. Lands heretofore regarded as worthless except for grazing have recently come into competition with the older wheat belts.

The Russian Effort

Within the past two or three years another disturbing element has come into the picture. Soviet Russia is attempting a comeback fraught with possibility that cannot yet be fully evaluated. Russia is eagerly utilizing the very latest of scientific knowledge to enlarge her agricultural possibilities. With feverish anxiety she is literally pouring millions into the expansion of her university research institutes, experimental stations and breeding farms. Her scientists are combing the earth for new crops and new methods. No country in Europe is manifesting more interest and activity in laying hold of the best science, wherever it may be found.

It is of more than passing interest that the wheat yields reported on the huge trust farm known as the "Giant" ran last year as much as 18 bushels to the acre. On this single farm the crop harvested is reported to have been 3,865,000 bushels. A single farm of 427,000 acres under government control and mechanized as fast as human energy can be applied is a new factor in the world's picture.

There can be but little doubt that the Russian situation may yet assume quite a different attitude from what obtained even in pre-war days.

Election returns, both State and County, will be on the blackboard and screen at Sterling Theatre on Saturday night, August 27.

"Ma" and Sterling can be seen on both screen and board Saturday night, August 27, at Sterling Theatre.
