The Crown Remains
Veterans Reach the Top
The Useful Red Cross
Oxygen Is Life

Behind the gray walls of Windsor castle, on the hill above the Eton school, where young England learns discipline and cricket, King George's coffin was lowered into the vault to lie beside his father, King Edward VII, and his grandmother, Queen Victoria.

The magnificent crown of England was taken from the coffin before it disappeared and placed before the altar. Kings go; the crown remains.

The services were broadcast, new feature of a royal funeral. The simple Church of England burial service, read by the Archbishop of Canterbury, was heard far over the earth, wherever Britain's 400,000,000 subjects live.

Veterans having successfully climbed the long, long road, the government began the biggest "pay-off" job in history, the printing of two billion four hundred million dollars' worth of bonds, to be distributed among 3,518,191 World War veterans. The mere distributing cost alone will be $7,000,000.

Now government wonders what new taxes can be invented to pay the two and one-half billions.

Interesting news from Ethiopia sent by an American correspondent says the residence of Haile Selassie's son has on the roof a large red cross, although it has nothing to do with the Red Cross. Associated Press sends news of a Swedish "field hospital," captured by Italians in the South, carrying ammunition on five trucks adorned with Red Cross flags and insignia. The "field hospital" automobiles contained, in addition, 27 cases of munitions. In modern war, the safe plan seems to be bomb everything. The war drums of the Ethiopian hero, Ras Desta Demtu, were captured. He will miss them.

"The Blood Is the Life," according to an old Hebrew saying, and oxygen is the life of the blood. No oxygen means death, in three minutes or less; too little oxygen means premature death, inferior health meanwhile.

The Dionne quintuplets are marvelous in their health. The marvelous babies sleep outdoors every morning and afternoon; on one occasion the temperature was 30 degrees below zero.

All five walk, all have gained weight during the past month, and have new teeth. Annette has three new ones, twelve in all. All have beautiful big eyes, high foreheads, pretty faces and look as French as the Marseillaise; get plenty of oxygen, but wrap up well.

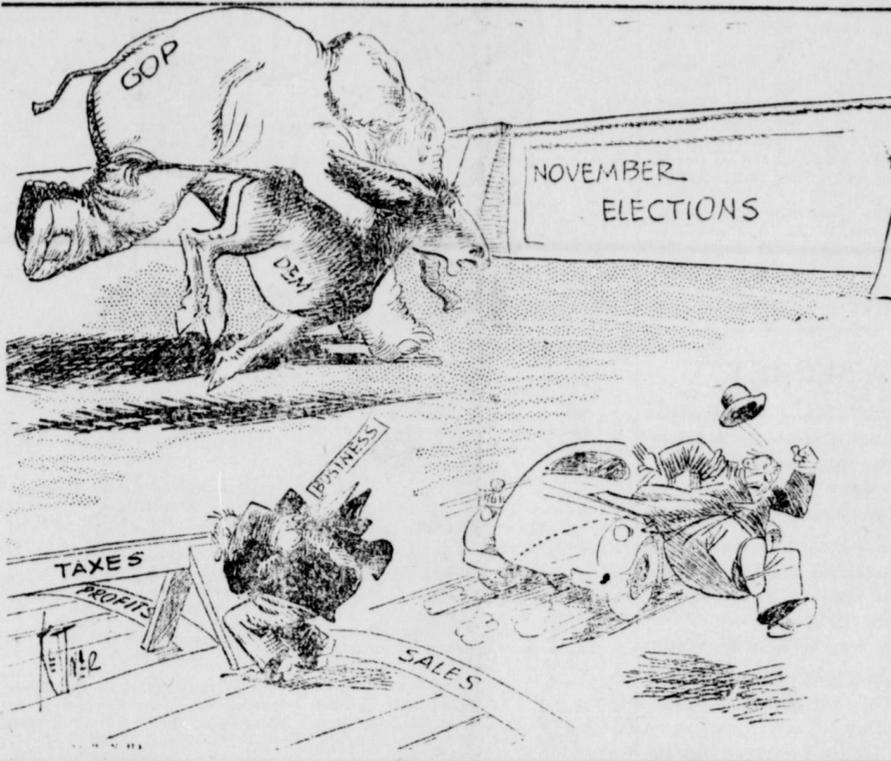

Lloyd George says the new king, Edward VIII, has the magnetism of his grandfather, Edward VII; that he comes to the throne with such great troubles ahead as few kings have ever encountered, but "his courage and his sure instinct will not fail him."

The unnecessary air disaster in Hawaii, two United States bombing planes destroyed in collision while plying "in formation" and six men killed, causes aviators to say that they object to night formation flying. They may well object; nothing more densely stupid could be imagined than sending up planes to fly at high speed, almost wing to wing, inviting disaster and death. Even in these busy times there ought to be somebody sufficiently intelligent to stop that nonsense, at night, and in daytime also.

Mr. John Horan of Milwaukee, called by his fellow workers "Soda Ash Johnny," first used soda ash to clean locomotive boilers, a discovery that should have made him rich, but did not.

It's Leap Year

Henry Radde Died Monday

Henry Radde, 79, died suddenly at his ranch home on the Divide last Monday afternoon at about six o'clock.

He had been out in his pasture a part of the day and was apparently in good health. Just before sunset, he was found dead at a stock shed. It is supposed that a blood clot on the brain, from which he had previously suffered, was the cause of his death.

He was buried the following Tuesday in the Lower Divide cemetery. Rev. W. W. Lipps, local Sterling City Methodist pastor, conducted the funeral services in the presence of many sorrowing friends and relatives.

The pall bearers were: Neal Munn, W. A. Bynum, R. J. Welch, C. J. Copeland, J. L. Copeland, Tobe Whitley, R. J. Welch and L. R. Knight.

Roland Lowe had charge of the funeral and burial arrangements.

Henry Radde was born in Laufenburg, Germany, September 21, 1856. He came to America in 1875. Later, in 1880, he came to this part of West Texas 50 years ago, and settled on a section of land on the Divide where he resided until his death.

In the early 1900's he was married to Miss Alice Chapman. From this union two sons and two daughters were born: Sam and Leo, and Tilda and Lucy.

With the sons and daughters above named, he is survived by his widow, four grandchildren, and one brother, Carl Radde who resides in Coke County near the home of deceased, and two sisters, one in Illinois and one in Germany.

He was among the early settlers of this part of West Texas. He was a successful stock farmer. He proved to his pioneer neighbors that crops could be successfully raised in this country. His crib almost always had some corn in it and his stack lots rarely failed to have feed in them.

His industrious habits, thrift and rugged honesty begat the esteem and admiration of all who knew him as well as a comfortable competence for himself and his splendid family. But the old man has laid himself down from his earthly labors to his eternal rest. He leaves a long life of honest mein and industrious habits as a heritage to the world. He was my friend. For his simple and gentle bearing, I loved him. I am a mourner in this hour of his passing.—Uncle Bill

Texas History In Great Cavalcade

The romantic history of Texas from the landing of the Spaniards 400 years ago until the present day will be portrayed in a Cavalcade of Texas at the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens in Dallas in June.

Exposition authorities have appropriated $150,000 for this spectacle which will be one of the feature events of the $25,000,000 World's Fair. On an artificial river in the Exposition grounds will float Spanish galleons, LaFitte's pirate ships and war boats of the Republic of Texas. A huge screen of spraying water tinted by vari-colored lights, will curtain the shifting acts.

From conquistadore to cowboy from the quest for gold to the discovery of oil, the glamor of Lone Star state history will be recounted in detail. Three hundred Texans will be in the cast, many of them direct descendants of the historical characters they impersonate. Cowboys, Franciscan friars, revolutionary and Confederate soldiers, trail drivers and rangers will sing in massed chorus. The dramatization of Texas history will be set to music with songs of various periods interwoven in its throne.

The Exposition's research department is searching the State for authentic properties for use in the show such as longhorn cattle, buffalo stage coaches, ox teams, covered wagons, Spanish armor and the long rifles of the frontiersman. Charles E. Turner, former West Texas cow puncher and recent mayor of Dallas is in charge of the spectacle with William M. Hamilton, playwright and composer as director. The script is written by Jan Isbell Fortune, Texas writer of note.

Tax Collections Up

Tax collection in Sterling County for 1935 show a decided increase over 1934. At the close of the year on January 31, a total of $51,274.96 had been collected for 1935, as against $47,176.70 for 1934, 538 poll tax receipts for 1935 were issued, while only 388 were issued for 1934.

The total taxes assessed for 1935 totals $53,938.58, of which $2,663.62 remained unpaid of January 31. Of the unpaid balance, $2,308.12 is split tax, which is not due until June 30. Thus, it will be seen that the actual amount of unpaid taxes for 1935 is only $355.50, or a little over 6 1/2% of the total assessment.

It is noted that Sterling's voting strength has increased by 150 polls. In addition to this 21 exemption receipts were issued, making a total increase of 171 votes over 1935.

We Know But Little

One of the most surprising statements ever uttered by the distinguished scientist and inventor, Thomas A. Edison, was the following:

"We don't know one-millionth of one per cent about anything! Why, we don't even know what water is. We don't know what light is. We don't know what gravitation is. We don't know what enables us to keep our feet, to stand up. We don't know what electricity is. We don't know what heat is. We don't know anything about magnetism. We have a lot of hypotheses, but that is all. We are just emerging from the chimpanzee state mentally."

FREE ADVERTISING

Perhaps editors of county newspapers will appreciate the following advice to promoters of various schemes to secure free advertising.

If you are promoting a hospital for crippled jackrabbits, an association for de-stinking polecats, a home for orphan tomcats, a society for the prevention of cruelty to de-tailed dogs, a school for the training of boys to sit on a cactus without howling, an institute in which to reform gum chewing girls, a city of refuge for drunks and dope fiends, or a league to train people in the best methods of getting a drink of booze, or any other organization or scheme, plan or proposition, don't forget that you never get anywhere without advertising, and plenty of it.

The first thing to do is get a good supply of fancy stationery printed. Then install a battery of typewriters and hire a squad of typist. These will cost you money, but they will come cheap when you think of the acres of free printing that you will get.

After you get all set, employ some student of journalism with a lot of imagination to get out your copy for the typist to pound on, require him to use four words where one would tell the tale, one comma every four words and a period at the end of his long windy. The longer the article, the better.

Then in an unsealed letter with your name printed in the corner and a 1-cent stamp on it, send your copy to all the country editors together with a personal letter entreating, requesting, commanding, directing and demanding that they print it not later than these next issue. Remind those editors that it is for the good of the cause that the request is made. Tell them that Mrs. Maggie Sobgusher is a member of your league and that she will think ill of them if they failed to print your article. Also tell them to please send nine marked copies carrying the article to our headquarters office at 204, Mudturdle Street, Shamtown.

This will get the job done, providing a part of these editors are suckers and afraid of the wrath of Mrs. Sobgusher. There being not more than two columns about the beauty morality, desirability and pious motives of the thing, a surprising large number will swallow it, hook, line and sinker, and you get the job done FREE!

Then when you get your scheme to going in full blast, don't forget to pay your typists, your amateur journal student, your mail messenger the postmaster, the stationer, in fact all who helped you, except the country editor. Don't offer to pay him anything lest he die of sudden and unexpected shock. Remember the country editors are free jackasses on which many institutions ride on the journey to the palace of wealth and then they are hitched on the outside.—Uncle Bill

J. T. Davis returned from a business trip to Dallas a few days ago. He says the Dallas boys will have to bump themselves if they get those big buildings finished in time for the Centennial show in June.

"Soda Ash Johnny," a proud man, refused to let his son accept a pension, told the authorities: "I am still able to work, and no boy of mine is going 'on the county.'"

It will surprise you to hear that the son, aged sixty-six, has applied for an old age pension.

The statement that imagination is worse than reality applies to everything—death included, let us hope.

A SECRET

Says Pronto Pete to Whispering Mike

"You are just as crooked as can be; That horse you swapped me yesterday

Is just as blind as blind can be."

Says Mike to Pronto, "You are wrong

No man can say that I would cheat But when you are swapping horses, friend,

You are very likely to get beat.

"This swap was like the one I made

When I got the horse last Stray Sale Day.

The man I got it from was honest,

Not a word did he ever say.

"About the poor horse being blind.

It must have been a secret deep That he learned from observation

And resolved he had better keep.

"I likewise have kept the secret

And you must do the same by me. For now we both are Honor Bound

To be as shut mouth as can be."

That bunch of 1500 representing Texas farmers who gathered at Waco last week were in decided contrast with the views of Al Smith and his Liberty League as to the administration of President Roosevelt. When the question of how they liked our President Roosevelt, 1500 hats were flung at the ceiling as they shouted, "Bully!" These farmers may not know as much about New York as Al, but they know a friend when they meet him. They haven't forgotten the raw deal they got under Hoover.

If Mr. Groundhog came out of his den last Sunday, he would have seen his shadow had he remained out all day. The day was partly cloudy here, and it was only at odd moments that the sun shone clearly. Of course there are no groundhogs in these parts. The prairie dog, the groundhog's cousin, came out and went back into his den when his day's work was done as he will do most every day. We may look for some cold snaps for the next forty days, but nothing serious.

He was racing in his car to beat the on coming train to the crossing. He lost the race. The hospital took charge of the driver, the junk man got the car and the undertaker took care of the three dead people. The driver was racing the train. He was in a hurry to get there. He could not wait 30 seconds for the train to pass.

I haven't met anyone in Sterling who is sore at Jimmy Alred because he did not call the Legislature. I didn't find anyone sore because Jimmy goes hunting, fishing or to a ball game. They say when a man gets too old and pokey that he has lost his taste for these, he is dead except being buried.

A Ghostly Frolic For HALLOWEEN

HALLOWEEN parties rate a bit of additional time spent in planning them. Not many of us have the time to spend collecting woodland leaves, hollowing out dozens of pumpkins and doing the things which made Halloween parties of years ago such momentous events. But let's see what can be done with a few yards of black and white cloth toward giving a smart silhouette Halloween party.

Get Out Scissors And Ideas

Cut out masks for your invitations, using black cloth. Attach to the tie-around cords of the mask a white tag on which is lettered:

*Heigh-ho—it's Halloween
Don this mask, or you'll be seen
Sneak around to our back door
When you come, we'll tell you more.*

Place a black cardboard shade over a white light at your back door and be ready to greet your guests. Previously cut white cloth into as many ghost-shrouds as you have guests, and when each black mask appears at the door slip the wearer a white shroud. Placed to each shroud is an envelope labeled PRIVATE TO YOU. On a piece of paper inside each envelope instruct each person as to whose ghost he represents. Use ghosts of living prominent persons—George Bernard Shaw, Joan Bennett, Hitler, Mussolini, or whom-ever you choose.

Guess Who!

After the ghosts have mingled in the living-room for a half hour or so, let each person write their guesses as to the various identities. The person making the most correct guesses receives a prize—a book of good ghost stories.

Then, masks off—and on to the feast, which incidentally is also a black and white affair and very delicious. The recipes serve eight persons.

Museum Gets Ancient Rifle

The West Texas Museum here, beating a story from Big Spring about a gun there which was used in the battle of San Jacinto, has an old Queen Ann flintlock which was used in the American Revolution.

The gun, made by H. Ketland & Company and bearing the king's crown and coat of arms engraved on it, is still in good state. The flint will still snap fire.

Don Chamberlain, the owner relates that it was used in 1776 by John Chamberlin while scouting in the Green Mountains in Vermont. It is said that he encountered an Indian named Pogus. Both hid behind a tree. Chamberlin stuck his cap on the end of his bayonet and stuck it out. The Indian fired and Chamberlin then shot the Indian.—San Angelo Standard

The story of the old gun, as given by the Standard is truly interesting but the dates of the slaying of the Indian chief, Pogus, with this gun in the hands of Mr. Chamberlin differs in the matter of dates 51 years according to an old volume of American Biography published by Samuel L. Knapp of New York 1833 in the "Treasury of Knowledge," in which he gives a brief account of Pogus, and his tragic death.

Here is the story as given by the old book: "Paugus, an Indian of the Pig-wawket tribe, was a bold, chivalrous sagem, known to all the border people of New Hampshire. Paugus was killed the 8th of May, 1725 by Lieutenant Chamberlain.

"Captain Lovewell with 34 men proceeded to a pond in Fryburg, Maine, and there he met a body of Indians in ambush, commanded by Paugus. Lovewell and eight of his men were shot dead at the first fire."

The remainder of the heroic band retreated to a favorable position and defended themselves until late in the day.

Paugus and Chamberlain discovered each other while each was scouring out his gun. In time of peace, they had known each other for several years. Paugus could speak English fairly well.

At sight of each other, they agreed to commence loading their guns at the same time, and he who could load and fire first would be victor, because they rarely missed their aim with a gun and each knew this fact. In good faith the duel began.

Chamberlain had a large King's-Arm musket that from the size of the vent, (touchhole) primed itself. He put in the charge of powder and ball, and striking the butt on the ground, without ramming down the charge or stopping to prime, he shot Paugus dead just as he was lifting his gun to his shoulder.

At this, the Indians fled from the field of battle. Paugus was dead and they retired to mourn his passing. The date of this noted conflict was May 8, 1725. If this is the same gun Lieutenant Chamberlain used

NEWS OF BERRIES
BERRY-TIME, a bright spot in the old dietetic year, when delicious little tarts and topped short-cakes make their appearance at feast-time, has become an all-year-round period, now that housewives have learned to pack canned berries into these popular dishes.
Raspberries lead the list of canned berries in the quantity consumed, and because they are so easy to pack, they are the most popular to you with that right-off-the-shoulder flavor and with their gay natural color, owing to the gold enamel lining of the cans in which they are packed, the following recipes will be welcome news:
For Breakfast and Dinner

Melons Waldorf: Cut small honeydew melons in halves and remove the seeds, allowing half a small melon for each serving. Scoop out small balls of banana and place three or four in a melon. Sprinkle with a few drops of lemon. Then fill the rest of the melon cavities with canned raspberries and their syrup, and chill well. Serve for breakfast for a first course at dinner. The size of the melons will vary, but No. 2 cans of berries should be enough for twelve servings.

Black Raspberry Triangles: Roll pastry thin and cut in four squares. Put a heaping tablespoon of canned black raspberries, which have been slightly drained, on each square. Sprinkle with about one tablespoon of sugar and a few drops of lemon juice. Fold the pastry over diagonally, pressing the edges very well together so that not a drop of juice will leak out. Bake in a hot oven for twenty to twenty-five minutes, until brown. A No. 2 can of black raspberries will make four or five triangles.

in the conflict at the historical place in Fryburg, Maine, on the 8th of May, 1725, it should be held as a very precious relic.

If at any time you should visit the West Texas Museum at San Angelo, you should read a ballad written by Miss Susannah Rogers, a 14-year old sweetheart of Jonathan Frye who was slain in this battle. The beginning stanza reads: "Of worthy Captain Lovewell, I propose now to sing.

How vall antly he served his country and his king. He and his gallant soldiers did ramble the woods full wide, And hardships they endured to quench the Indians pride."

First Aid Treatment Taught Thousands By Red Cross

More than 187,000 certificates showing completion of first aid courses were issued last year by the Red Cross. This shows a gain of 56,000 certificates over the previous year. Approximately 64,200 boys in C.C.C. camps throughout the country passed first aid tests. Since the Red Cross first entered the field of first aid teaching, being one of the first organizations in the world to do so, almost one million persons have been trained in handling emergency treatment.

The annual report of the Red Cross further reveals that more than 327,000 copies of the Red Cross Aid Handbook have been sold at home and abroad.

The Red Cross has assisted 54,305 veterans in clearing their cases through the U. S. Veterans' Bureau this past year.

Last year 3,837,941 persons became members of the Red Cross. The annual roll call takes place each year between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day.

Annual Junior Class Play

The Junior Class of Sterling High School will present its annual three-act play, "Climbing Roses" on Tuesday, February 11, at eight o'clock in the High School Auditorium. The cast has been rehearsing intensively for three weeks and is ready to give a fast, entertaining production of this extremely exciting, hilariously funny, and charmingly romantic comedy.

Miss Helen Little, class sponsor, is directing the play, assisted by Mr. Gus Barr. Prices will be ten cents for grade children, fifteen cents for high school students, and twenty-five cents for adults.

A Card of Thanks

In this day of our deep sorrow for the loss of our beloved mother we are not unmindful of the kindly ministrations and loving sympathy of those who came to us and did what was humanly possible to lighten the burden of our bereavement, and we invoke this method of thanking them for things they did in our behalf. We thank and may God bless you.—The Dunn Family

That Good PINEAPPLE JUICE

YOU don't have to give an alibi for a good drink. You have every reason in the world to want it. Irvin S. Cobb tells the story of a distiller down South who sent a baby-sized barrel of Bourbon to a friend of his, back in the hills. About ten days later, the man returned with the empty container and an expectant look. "Look here, Shep," the distiller said "aren't you crowding the members just a little? It hasn't been more than a few days since I gave you eight whole gallons!" "That's right," Shep agreed, "but Kernel Goodman, sub, you got to remember a kag of likker don't last very long in a family that can't afford to keep a cow."

To Your Health!

However, the good drink we have in mind is not "likker." It's health-giving, sun-ripened pineapple juice which comes in cans and which even the family that doesn't keep a cow can afford. There is no need to mix this juice with other juices or seasoning. Serve it cold, just as it comes from the can, and the flavor is entirely satisfying.

Perhaps, however, you would like to vary it for a lunch or a dinner cocktail. Don't let anything stop you, for it is a delicious addition to other fruits and milk shakes. Even Cobb, who is an authority on Kentucky mint juleps, would no doubt approve the recipe which follows for Pineapple Mint Julep.

Pineapple Mint Julep: Boil four tablespoons mint jelly, four cups water and four tablespoons sugar until the jelly is all melted. Cool. Add two cups of pineapple syrup and the juice of four lemons. Serve very cold with a sprig of fresh mint in each glass. Instead of ice, use ginger ale flavored with the mint syrup from green cherries and then frozen in cubes. This makes six long drinks.

Pineapple Egg-Nog: Put two eggs, two tablespoons sugar and the contents of two 12-ounce cans of pineapple juice into a cocktail shaker or jar, add cracked ice and shake until well mixed and frothy. Serve with a sprinkling of nutmeg on top. This makes four and one-half cups of egg-nog.

Pineapple Milk Shake: Shake together in a glass jar or shaker one-half cup of canned chocolate syrup, one cup of fresh cream and one cup of syrup from canned pineapple. Add one cup water and cracked ice. This fills four large glasses.

Cranberry Cordial: Make a syrup of one cup sugar and two cups water. Add two cups tea, one cup lemon juice, the contents of one No. 2 can of cranberry jelly, one No. 2 can of unsweetened pineapple juice, and six cups of cider. Serve very cold. This makes four quarts.

Pink Lady: Boil one-fourth cup sugar with one-half cup water for about three minutes. Cool. Add one-half cup of raspberry syrup, two tablespoons lemon juice, the contents of one No. 2 can of Hawaiian pineapple juice and one pint bottle of charged water. Serve over cubes of frozen tea. This fills ten punch glasses.

MOVING

I wish to announce that I have purchased Pickett Bros' service station and will operate a filling station and garage at that location.

I am now handling Gulf products, and am prepared to give prompt and efficient service, not only in oil and gasoline sales, but also in washing and greasing at reasonable prices.

Upon making this move, I take the opportunity to thank the public for the liberal patronage I have received in the past, and to extend a hearty welcome to trade with me at my new location, one door east of Sterling Bakery.

Stop and GAS with me. Your business will be appreciated.

Don't miss the Junior play "Climbing Roses" February 11.

Senator Sanderford is one of these boys who "rush in where angels fear to tread." He got sore at Jimmy Allred because he wouldn't call a special session of the legislature. Unlike the Senator, most everybody else is so happy because Jimmy did not call the legislature that they are going to vote for him again. Jimmy knows a thing or two about special call session. Most everybody else does too, except the Senator who comes tearing out of the wilderness of Bell County.
