A planned 'Issues and Answers' type discussion on Channel six, between Jerry Hicks and Bob Henderson was cancelled, according to Magann Rennels.

Mrs. Rennels said Henderson had initially agreed to the discussion prior to the June 7th runoff election, but called her and said he had decided not to appear. Hicks had agreed to appear anytime.

Panelists were to have been Gil Lamb, Magann Rennels and Clea Williams.

HORACIO CAVALLERO

Argentina Highlighted At Rotary

Horacio Cavallero, who resided in the Alex Williams during the 1963-64 school year, and graduated from Muleshoe High School with the Williams' son, Don, has been visiting again in the Williams home. He was guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday at noon.

Cavallero, of Santa Fe, Argentina, was a student in the home of the Williams on the American Field Service program, and returned to Argentina following graduation where he is the business manager of a hospital.

He showed slides on glaciers, waterfalls and general points of interest in his country. He also thanked the local people for the hospitality and friendliness shown him while he was a resident here.

Accompanying Cavallero on his trip to Muleshoe was a friend, Sergio Medima, a surgeon from the Argentina hospital.

Other guests at the Rotary meeting were Prentice Mills and J.B. Sudduth, both of Farwell, and Rex Harris, manager of AVI in Muleshoe.

CORN GROWING GOOD—Although the weather is still a 'little cool' and in some places, a lack of moisture still hurts, Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley shows off some of the corn that is in the five and six-leaf stage at this time. He said the corn crop is doing very well, although some producers are experiencing a little iron deficiency, which is expected to be helped as soon as days get hotter, with more sunshine.

Cloud Seeding Vote Bringing Opposition

Claiming that cloud seeding is "dangerous", officials of the Citizens for Natural Weather are urging a vote against plans to launch a new hail suppression program in four South Plains counties.

Balloting will be conducted on June 11 in the southern one-third of Castro County and portions of Floyd, Hale and Lamb counties.

Necessary petitions forcing the special elections have been secured by supporters of Plains Weather Improvement Association, Inc. of Plainview, which has been

For Summer

Muleshoe Public Library will again sponsor the summer reading program for local youth, according to Librarian Anne Camp.

Mrs. Camp said registration will be taken starting Wednesday, May 28, and films will be shown from 10-11 a.m. preceding registration.

For a certificate, the young reader will be required to read 10 books, with additional books gaining ribbons, pins and other prizes.

Parents are encouraged to be at the library with their youngsters to register for the reading program, and children registering without their parents will be limited to eight books each time they check out books for the program.

Theme for the summer reading club program this year is "Sports Splash" and Mrs. Camp said there will be many books on all types of sports on display and featured on the shelves.

Each week, sports films will be featured, including water sports, tennis, and baseball to sky-diving.

"This accent on sports will give the older child an enjoyable summer at the library," said Mrs. Camp. "However, no subject matter is required, and boys and girls may read any book they want, as stopped in 1978 after foes successfully brought the issue to a vote and forced its suspension.

"Citizens for Natural Weather are strongly opposed to the cloud seeding now as in the past," Bennie Claunch of Bula, Co-chairman, said.

"Cloud seeders claim to be able to suppress hail and increase rain by applying silver iodide to the clouds," he noted. "But, there are many meteorologists who say that cloud seeding does not suppress hail and that cloud seeding interrupts the rain-making cycle."

Claunch said that sta-

Contracts approved included the employment of Cassandra Cargile as Home Economics teacher and Janet Wilke as library aide; the contract to participate in Region 16 Education Service Center's media services for the next year.

They also approved raised for band director Carl Wilke and shop instructor Nick Rusciolelli. Wayne Jesko, Gene Paul Jarman and Demp Foster were named to serve on the equalization board and the board approved securing bids for 15 electric typewriters for the classrooms.

Election Creating Interest

From 7 a.m.-7 p.m. on Saturday, June 7, a democratic run-off election will be conducted in Bailey County.

Location of voting boxes for the election will be Bailey County Courthouse voting box one; West Camp Baptist Church, voting box two; Richland Hills School Cafeteria, voting box three; Three Way School, voting box four; Junior High School Library, voting box five; Bula Community Center, voting box six; Needmore Community Center, voting box seven and Old City Hall (Fire Station) voting box eight.

Contested on the ballot are three state offices and two local offices, including one countywide and one precinct election.

In 1972, a runoff election was held in Precinct Three to determine a winner for county commissioner between incumbent Bill Eubanks and Bob Sanders. Sanders won the election.

Statewide runoffs were held in 1972; 1976; and in 1978.

Most attention is focused on the sheriff's race, with Lt. Jerry Hicks of the Muleshoe City Police Department and Deputy Sheriff Bob Henderson vying for sheriff.

Also for Precinct One, R.L. Scott and L.K. Dean will be contesting for county commissioner.

Other names on the ballot will be John C. Phillips and James P. (Jim) Wallace for associate justice, supreme court, place one; Mike McCormick and W.T. Williams for court of criminal appeals, place two; and Tom Davis and Edith Roberts for court of criminal appeals, place three.

Bailey County Democratic County Chairman Dick Pylant said anyone interested in the office of justice of the peace for precinct one, or constable in precinct one, needs to contact him by Monday, June 9.

He said if he is contacted their name can be placed on the ballot for the November general election.

assumed management of G.E. Gollehon's Cashway Grocery.

To move to Muleshoe, White left Lubbock Cash Wholesale Grocery, which he had managed from 1936 to October, 1945.

The first Cashway was in a 25 foot by 80 foot building owned by the late Irvin St. Clair at 102 Main Street. In 1947, Gollehon built his own store where the El Jacalito Tortilla Factory is presently located.

At that time, there was only Cashway on one corner and the Muleshoe State Bank on the other end of the block. The present location at 402 Main Street was built in 1951, replacing the old Blackwater National Bank building.

In June, 1959, Cashway Grocery was purchased by Thurman and Marie White from G.E. Gollehon becoming a home-owned and operated business. It was after the death of Marie White in January, 1970, that Cashway became White's Cashway Gro., Inc., with the stock being held by White, his

THURMAN WHITE Senior Babe Ruth Team Is Leading

Muleshoe's Senior Babe Ruth is in first with a 4-1 season record right now; Friona has 4-0; Olton, 2-2; Dimmitt, 0-4; Nazareth 2-2 and Morton 1-3.

The Muleshoe Babe Ruth defeated Nazareth 5-4; Morton in a doubleheader 11-8 and 8-5; lost to Olton 6-7 and defeated Dimmitt, 10-4.

Because of three cancellations due to end of school activities, makeup games are scheduled. Dimmitt will play here at 2 p.m. Sunday. Next Tuesday a doubleheader with Friona will be played at Friona; on Saturday June 7, Olton will play a make-up game here and on Sunday, June 8, the Muleshoe Babe Ruth will play Nazareth at Nazareth.

Monday afternoon, .33 inch of rain added another boost to crop prospects. Although fierce clouds appeared, only a light smattering of hail marred the moisture picture in Muleshoe.

Amounts of .10 to just over .30 dotted the area in the fast moving storm. Very light showers again showed up on Tuesday afternoon, amid predictions from the National Weather Service of possible severe thunderstorms, damaging wind and some large hail.

Very heavy rain fell to the north of Muleshoe, but out of the area, around Dumas, Hartley, and Vega, where many roads were reported to be closed due to high water, in some instances 10 feet deep on the roadways.

To the east, both Abernathy and Lubbock received wind damage, and some trees and roofs were razed by high winds, reported to be straight winds.

Wednesday morning, at presstime, the National Weather Service again predicted the same type weather as Tuesday, with some localized very heavy rains expected, along with the damaging wind and large hail.

Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley was cautiously optimistic when he discussed the young corn and cotton crops.

"Some cotton is in very good shape," he commented, "but some farmers are experiencing problems. Those who are in the worst shape received rain right after they planted and the seed crusted over. They are beginning to scratch out their cotton right now."

Also, according to Tanksley, although some producers have received adequate rain, other farmers are very much in need of rain to plant their cotton. Although most cotton has been planted, some farmers are still waiting for adequate moisture in order to plant. The county agent estimated some as many as 33 percent of the farmers may be somewhat behind on planting for this year.

Another deterrent to farmers has been the continued cool weather, with cool nights, and cool days, the temperature is not getting hot enough to produce growing conditions for the seeding cotton, and has produced some seedling disease, although the disease is not as prevalent as it was last year.

He noted that tenchometers are indicating that corn may have to be irrigated as early as next week, which is somewhat earlier than the crop needed water last year.

Tanksley also said the first cutting of alfalfa for this year got underway in this area last week. Yields are somewhat below first cuttings last year. The county agent attributed to

Second History Book For County

Members of the Parmer County Historical Commission are working with Craftsman Printers, Inc., a division of Taylor Publishing Company, to formulate a Second history book for the county.

Commission members are enlisting the aid of every resident of Parmer County so that every family in the county can have their family's history included in the book at no charge for the first 500 words. A charge of 10 cents (ten cents) will be charged for additional words in the histories.

The book will consist of history on communities, churches, organizations, education, historical landmarks, and family histories. "This book will be unique in that it will be written by all the people in the county who send in their family history, thus giving emphasis to the importance of the family life in our history," a spokesman for the commission said.

If you are presently living in, or have previously lived in Parmer County, we need and want your family biography, as the history of the county will only be complete to the extent we all participate.

As a nonprofit organization, the purpose of writing the history of Parmer County is to preserve historical records for the education and enjoyment of future generations. The book will be available on a presale basis only.

A logo for the new book has been established and work has already started on the project. The logo appears on this article and will be seen on successive articles as well as being used for letterheads and the front of the book. Bobby Weid was the artist who designed the logo.

Otho Whitefield has been selected to serve as County Chairman with his wife, Grace Whitefield as assistant County Chairman. Orma Flippen will serve as Record Keeper and Allo Reeve will be publicity chairman. Field representative have been appointed for each community and these will be published at a later date.

To produce such a book for the education and enjoyment of future generations, materials are needed for the family story section from NEWCOMERS as well as OLDTIMERS and from present residents as well as those who formerly lived in the County. Each eligible living family unit is entitled to the free space whether they have lived in Parmer County 1 day of 80 years. REMEMBER--A NEWCOMER TODAY IS HISTORY TOMORROW! So, if you have living sisters or brothers, aunts or uncles, cousins, grandparents, parents or other relatives who lived in Parmer County at one time or presently live here, be sure they write their family story and submit two photos too!

Remember we will be submitting more on this as time goes by but get busy on those family histories.

Six-State High Plains Study

The six-state, $6 million High Plains Study offers great promise for water importance to the High Plains. Dr. Herb Grubb, the director of planning and development for the Texas Department of Water Resources, told the board of Water, Inc., here Friday.

During his hour-long presentation, Grubb reviewed the work of the High Plains Study Council which is the appointive body overseeing the study and the four importation routes that have been selected by the council for additional investigation. The study, involving Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska, and Kansas, marks the first time the problem of the Ogallala has been examined on such a wide basis. That is a major step toward eventual water importation, Grubb said.

"With the High Plains Study Council in place and with a broader base of participation than before," said Grubb, "I think you have a better foundation on which to move. There will be recommendations made to Congress at the end of this particular study. I believe there is a chance for this study to lead to something but it is up to you to make sure that it does or to help me make sure that it does."

Grubb said Water Inc. and the people of the region must follow this study up by demanding action for it to be a keystone in solving the decline of the Ogallala aquifer and the resulting economic dislocations.

Although the High Plains Study is primarily an economic endeavor to determine the impact of a dwindling water supply on the local, regional and national economies, it does provide for limited studies of potential importance routes into the area. Of the six that were originally selected for closer examination, four have been approved by the council for additional study. The water sources for those four routes are:

(1) the Missouri River in Nebraska and South Dakota (2) the Missouri River on the Kansas-Missouri border (3) the White Arkansas, Ouachita and Little Rivers in Arkansas and (4) from rivers in Arkansas and Eastern

Oklahoma. Grubb said one of the routes or a combination of routes could prove feasible for alleviating the region's growing water problems. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will make the study of the four alternative routes.

Unless something is done, Grubb noted, the agricultural productivity of the Great Plains region will be greatly diminished because the area relies heavily on irrigation.

"Some studies have shown that the Ogallala's supplies gradually will play out within 30 to 40 years in the most optimistic scenarios," he said. "Some areas may run out of water within 7 to 8 years."

In Texas irrigation would suffer on the High Plains, but more than just farmers stand to lose in coming decades, Grubb said, because the state is water deficient. Within the next 20 to 25 years, Dallas and questions on your family's move... by Alice Bowman Allied Van Lines Home Moving Consultant

Dear Miss Bowman: How can I make the actual move into my new home easier? Ms. G. P. Atlanta, Georgia.

Answer: Here are 15 tips for making the job easier. Be sure the house is ready before the van arrives. It's much easier to clean an empty house than a full one. Decide ahead of time where you want the furniture to be placed. Make sure boxes are pushed into corners of the appropriate rooms; keep them out of the doorways. One last tip, set up your cooking and eating areas early, but leave permanent shelf arrangements for a more leisurely time.

Dear Miss Bowman: Are Americans really the most mobile people in the world? Mr. T. H. Providence, Rhode Island.

Answer: Citizens of the United States, Canada and Australia average 12 moves in a lifetime, making them the most mobile nationalities. This mobility rate compares with an average of eight moves in a lifetime for a Briton, seven for a Japanese citizen, six for a resident of Taiwan and three or four for a person living in Ireland. Although the level of industrialization and urban development in a nation is believed to contribute to the degree of geographic mobility, Census Bureau researchers offer three additional reasons for the high mobility rates in the United States, Canada and Australia. All three countries are nations of immigrants, and people who have moved once find it easier to move again. Each of the three nations also had a frontier. Their governments developed programs to encourage settlement and thus created waves of internal movement. Now each country has widely scattered urban centers that compete for industry, migrants and national pre-eminence.

Does dew fall? If so, when does it fall? How does it fall? How does it fall?

ever, dew is an interesting weather element and close observation of it can tell you something about the weather to follow during the day.

Dew collects on surface objects, like blades of grass, and is moisture taken from passing, warmer air. The earth objects which collect it from the air must be colder than the air--so as to condense some of the moisture out of the surrounding air.

Seeing dew, either at night or early morning, is a clear weather indication--though not a foolproof one. The absence of dew tells you that chances are good that rainfall is ahead--sometimes in the next twenty-four hours.

CIA Shackles Dead

One of the major legislative events of May, not much in the headlines, was the defeat of a once-broadly based move to limit the powers of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The so-called reform move came about when revelations about events in Chile, Iran and other questionable uses of power in covert operations came to light during sensational hearings by Senator Frank Church's International Relations Committee.

An idea that gained quick support, at that time, was for the Senate to draw up a so-called charter, which would limit CIA activities. By the first week in May, however, that boomlet had evaporated and a majority of Senators had come to the conclusion such a charter would not only be inappropriate but also harmful to national security.

Senator Walter Huddleston (D-Ky), who had been selected to lead the charter effort, recently admitted the move was doomed. (He nevertheless got a flattering front-page picture in the New York Times for his efforts.)

One can understand sentiment in favor of limiting covert operations to the extent that excesses are legally punishable. But putting such restrictions into a charter is next to impossible, in addition to opening up a bureaucratic can of worms.

The best assurance that CIA activities stay within bounds is to have the right person as director, personally charged by the President and the two responsible congressional committees with the responsibility of carefully overseeing CIA operations. Some in the past have obviously overstepped the bounds of good judgment.

Unemployment Confusion

Once again unemployment totals, now rising, are stampeding the politicians. Based on obsolete methods of measurement, the official estimate of the number of people unemployed is viewed with alarm, dismay and anxiety.

It will be cited by politicians as the reason for more social welfare spending, more unemployment benefits, food stamps, housing, etc., much of which is logical and justified but much of it is not.

Young people living with their parents are included in the unemployment totals. So too do these totals include working wives in families where the husband also works. In other words, in many families where one member, the wife, a youngster or the husband, is unemployed, there may be no hardship. One or more other members of the family might be working.

It is not the taxpayers' obligation to see—with government money—that every member of a family who wants work gets it. The purpose of federal aid is to alleviate hardship and suffering.

Thus, as television announcer after announcer reports the rising number of unemployed, keep in mind that a hefty percentage of this number suffer no hardship, since the family income is still sufficient for decent subsistence.

Where it is not, that's where federal handouts should begin. They should end when the nation can't afford to spend any more for handouts. States, local communities and local charities should step in and do their best when Washington's money runs out. It's not unlimited. That idea has already shattered the dollar, produced eighteen-percent inflation and piled up the highest national debt in U.S. history.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Readers,

Many of you have not had the opportunity to get to know Jerry as I have, thus the reason for my writing this letter.

Jerry and I became friends when he first moved to Muleshoe in 1955. We kept in touch during the times we both were away on tours of duty. Jerry is one of the most loyal, honest, and Christian men I have ever known. His dedication to any task is done professionally and in all sincerity.

Jerry doesn't know I'm writing this letter but I would like to share this with you—an attribute to his courage.

CITATION TO ACCOMPANY THE AWARD OF THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS TO JERRY N. HICKS

Captain Jerry N. Hicks distinguished himself by extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight as a F-100 Pilot in Southeast Asia on 9 February 1966. On that date, Captain Hicks was number two in a flight of two on a normal night mission. The flight was diverted from their planned mission to attack a trapped company of Viet Cong insurgents in a bunker system near Saigon. Despite a low ceiling and reduced visibility, Captain Hicks joined his leader in attacking the Viet Cong position in total darkness. On his first pass, Captain Hicks' right outboard bomb failed to release, creating a hazardous flight condition. With complete disregard for his own safety, he continued to dive bomb and then strafe with the jugs bomb. His pinpoint deliveries in the face of intense hostile automatic weapons fire contributed greatly to the annihilation of the hostile company. The professional competence, aerial skill, and devotion to duty displayed by Captain Hicks reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

At a time when concern about educational quality and integrity is at the forefront of interest, the issue of testing becomes especially important. Not only postsecondary tests will be scrutinized, but also public school testing instruments will receive attention.

With the proper balance of fairness and a demand for educational excellence, testing problems can be resolved. The experiences—past and future—of California and New York in this regard should help in determining what is needed in Texas.

"During the cloud seeding years which ended in 1977," he said, "weather watchers noted that rainfall in the affected area actually declined 45 in." He further noted, "while meteorologists bicker about the effects of cloud seeding, they are generally agreed on one thing: that cloud seeding disrupts natural weather patterns and affects the weather as far as 150 miles downwind."

In effect, he said, "A few people who are willing to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars are messing with the weather for

All in all, the county agent said crops are in better shape at this time than it was ever thought they would be, and added, "we need hot weather, really hot weather, so the cotton can get going."

Although some farmers are looking at their cotton seedlings that are up, with some expectation of replanting in some areas, the county agent said that where farmers are checking hail damaged cotton, or seedling disease, or for other reasons, check the fields carefully. He said that where there appears there will be one plant consistently in each foot of row, there is no reason to re-plant.

"May planted cotton vs. June planted cotton will leave the May cotton far ahead," he reminded.

Salvation Army Annual Drive Gets Underway

Kickoff meeting for the Muleshoe Salvation Army Service Unit fund drive was held at the Corral Restaurant on Wednesday, May 21, at 7:30 p.m., Judge Glen Williams, Service Unit chairman and Bailey County Judge announced. The committee chairman also revealed that Weldon Stevenson will serve as campaign chairman for the fund drive.

Stevenson noted that the goal of $2,000 will be used to pay for the Salvation Army's services for the less fortunate in this area. "We are confident that our community will support the emergency fund program as generously as in the past," he said.

According to Stevenson, the committee, composed of business and civic leaders, carries out a year round program of aid to people with emergency needs. Acting on behalf of the Salvation Army, the committee arranges for food, lodging, utilities or other basic needs that a family or individual might require in a crisis situation.

Also, the service unit committee acts as a liaison with the Salvation Army's statewide programs. Some of these services are summer outings for boys at the Army's Camp Hobbittelle near Dallas; help for paroled prisoners and emergency relief in time of natural disaster.

Members of the committee are: Billye Jones, Dee Clements, Roger Albertson, J.D. (Pete) Black, Frank Ellis, Bill Moore and Jeff Peeler.

their own selfish purposes and affecting all residents of the area."

"The hazy, unscientific approach to cloud seeding has developed without adequate controls, causing real dangers, both economic and physical," the CNW official added.

He said that personal safety may be a factor overlooked in cloud seeding because scientists agree that "after they are seeded...change and develop even more violent reactions as they move downwind."

"Silver iodide, the chemical used, can affect the ecosystem adversely as it combines with other substances in the atmosphere, such as lead from automobile exhausts, to form poisons that settle on grasses which are eaten by animals and possibly passed on at the dinner table," Claunch pointed out.

He also noted that silver from the silver iodide can concentrate in various organisms and thence to man, causing a buildup in the human body to a toxic level and possible respiratory or gastric ailments and cancer.

Claunch urged residents of the affected area of the counties involved to cast a no vote in the June 11 balloting.

Other officers of Citizens for Natural Weather include Nolon Henson of Happy, co-chairman; Lloyd Kurts of Canyon, treasurer and Mrs. Clifton Stodghill of Silverton, secretary.

Computers analyze oil spill effects

COLLEGE STATION — Computers at Texas A&M University will analyze information gathered by biologists studying effects of oil spills on the fragile tundra near the trans-Alaskan pipeline.

Findings compiled by scientists at three other universities and analyzed here this summer will be forwarded to the Department of Energy as part of a report on effects of oil on tundra.

Computers here will reveal any major differences in the effects of oil spills on soil, fungi, nitrogen and phosphorus compared to areas where no petroleum is present.

Plant oils can cause engine damage

COLLEGE STATION — Many American farmers, desperate to cut diesel costs, are experimenting with alternative fuels such as sunflower, soybean, cottonseed, peanut, and other plant oils and risking engine damage, warns an agricultural engineer at Texas A&M University.

"They will operate as a fuel, but with several hundred hours of operating time, they are harmful to the engine," Dr. Wayne LePori said. "There are people who will try it and damage their engines."

LePori said the primary problem is with serious carbon build-up in the engines that are run on plant oils alone or mixed with diesel fuel.

Water Bills Will Hurt Farmers

you just got your pre-plant irrigation energy bill and you're in a state of shock. More bad news may be in store as energy suppliers are indicating that we can expect prices to continue pyramiding, up by 80 percent during the next two years on electricity, and by about 30 percent annually on natural gas. Consequently, your future water energy bills may be even more shocking.

Now the good news. You don't necessarily have to live with the high cost of energy consumption. There is something you can do to cut your expenses and reduce your energy or fuel costs, dramatically in some cases. That something is to improve the efficiency of your pumping plant.

Results of the first batch of pump plant efficiency tests conducted during April by the High Plains Water District with partial funding by the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, indicate that there are tremendous opportunities to upgrade pumping unit efficiencies and realize substantial dollar savings.

They also indicate that the potential savings in fuel costs (at today's rates) normally will justify the cost of making adjustments, repairs or replacements IF you can get your pumping efficiency up to about 70 percent.

The example of pump efficiency figures in the chart generally agrees with data compiled by Leon New, irrigation specialist and agricultural engineer headquartered in Lubbock with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Leon has been working with county extension agents in the High Plains area for many years testing wells and conducting numerous workshops on irrigation pump plant efficiencies. A Texas Tech University study testing a large sample of pumps in the High Plains several years ago, pinpointed the average pumping efficiency at about 41 percent. That is well below the practical and achievable 70 percent which irrigators could be getting.

While the small sampling of eight efficiency test results presented here does not claim to be a statistical representation for the area, it should be a graphic example to farmers of why they can't afford to remain in the dark about their overall pump plant efficiencies while an energy Hobgoblin may be eating away their profits.

If you need help to cut your pumping costs, contact your area county agricultural agent, energy supplier or pump dealer.

Best Buys At Market

"Best bets" for the next two weeks' best buys at Texas grocery markets include poultry, eggs, lemons, apples, pineapples, mushrooms, rutabagas and sweet potatoes.

That word from Dr. Carol Akkerman, a consumer information specialist at the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System.

"Upcoming best buys" for the first weeks of June will be oranges, peas, beans, carrots, corn, eggplant, lettuce, dry and green onions, potatoes, tomatoes and turnips, as they will become more plentiful then.

Short-supply items--with higher prices-- are avocados, limes and broccoli, and latest reports show melons and strawberries in short supplies, so expect higher prices.

MEATS--Like inflation, beef and pork prices will continue to rise-- and the greatest increase will happen this summer.

Wise shoppers can use that news--along with careful comparison shopping, and buy extra cuts before price advances take effect, Dr. Akkerman advises.

POULTRY--Egg prices are stable.

Moderate your use of eggs to avoid too much cholesterol--however, remember that the U.S. Department of Agricultural points out the "near-perfection protein" of eggs. Scientists even use the egg's protein as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods, in fact, the specialist says.

Eggs also provide significant amounts of vitamin A, iron and riboflavin.

Eat two eggs, and you have one of your meat-group servings for the day.

CANNED GOODS----- Prices will keep climbing: on fruit cocktail, peaches, tuna, canned hams, peas and dehydrated peppers. Nut prices are up, too, with Brazil nuts and imported Turkish filberts leading the list. Even domestic walnuts are in short supply.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The Statue of Liberty has always been one of our most prized national symbols. Our nation was built by immigrants, and we have prided ourselves on providing refuge to the world's oppressed. So when we see Cuban refugees seeking freedom on our shores, our hearts go out to them. Our instincts are to provide help.

And, as perhaps the most blessed nation in the history of the world, we have an obligation to help those fleeing tyranny in other lands. But that obligation also extends to all of the free people of the world. The unexpected nature and tremendous size of the influx of refugees from Cuba threatens to tax our facilities and resources beyond our capacity to give a new start to those who wish to come.

The only way to cope, and to provide effective aid, is to enlist the aid of other nations--with or, more likely, without cooperation from the Cuban government. We must use all of the leadership and moral persuasion we have to get both the United Nations and the Organization of American States involved in finding new homes for those leaving Cuba.

I have urged the President also to take whatever steps are possible to encourage other nations individually to cooperate with us in finding new homes for Cuban refugees.

In the meantime, I also have called on the President to minimize the adverse impact on the Immigration and Naturalization Service's traditional responsibilities. Unfortunately, the influx of refugees is putting new strain on the INS, already hampered in meeting its responsibilities by unanticipated leaps in fuel costs and other budget problems.

The diversion of INS personnel and resources to cope with the refugee problem already has created severe problems for the Border Patrol in Texas and other states along the U.S.-Mexico border. In the long run, we will have accomplished little if we control the number of Cubans entering the country, but fail to maintain responsible oversight on our land borders.

Discretion in placing new burdens on the INS should minimize the problem. Where trained INS personnel are required to screen refugees, they must of course be used. But I have urged the President to draw from other agencies and federal resources wherever possible to perform tasks that do not require skills only INS personnel possess.

It is my hope that the dislocations that already have occurred in Texas will be of the most temporary nature.

If the United States is able to adopt a clear and reasonable policy, I believe we will be in a position to provide leadership and solutions to the current and potential problems the influx of refugees bring with them.

Within a short period of time, I hope we will be able to mobilize international support and organize our own efforts so that we can effectively process a justifiable number of Cuban refugees. I will work toward that goal, and also for maintaining a consistent approach to other immigration-related areas of concern.

The profit motive is not bad if it is coupled with the Christian motive, but it plays havoc when it is dominated by greed.

Sooner or later an individual discovers that the world does contain gentlemen and ladies as well as gold diggers and gents.

What you can do about TORNADOS

BEFORE

- Know how to get emergency weather information in your community and know what it means.
- A National Weather Service "tornado watch" means conditions are right for tornados to form.
- A "tornado warning" means a tornado has been sighted; take cover.
- Most communities use sirens or horns to warn of a tornado sighting; know what your system is and what it means.
- Plan and practice what your family will do in case of a tornado.
- Have a prearranged place in your home (basement if you have one or in interior room or under stairway if you don't) to go for shelter.
- If you're in a mobile home, get out. If a shelter is available, go to it. If not, lie in a ditch or other depression.
- If you're in a car, get out. Lie in a ditch or other low area.
- Be sure you have the right kind of insurance and enough of it to cover all damage a tornado could do.
- Make an inventory of everything in your house and keep it in a safe place away from home (like a safe deposit box). It will be a great help in speeding payment for your losses.

AFTER

- Cooperate fully with law enforcement and disaster service officials. Check your local news media for instructions and information on emergency services available.
- Notify your insurance agent of your loss as soon as possible. He can advise you what to do next.
- Stay with your property to guard against vandalism or looting until law enforcement agencies organize protection.
- Protect against additional damage; board up broken windows or holes in the walls or roof; cover or otherwise protect furnishings from further damage by rain or wind. If necessary, have utilities turned off to prevent damage from explosion or fire.
- Don't be rushed into signing repair contracts. Fly-by-night repairmen often prey on tornado victims. Be sure you know with whom you're dealing. Your insurance agent or adjuster should be able to help, or ask your Better Business Bureau or friends or relatives to recommend someone.
- Keep receipts for all repairs and additional living expenses. Most homeowners insurance contracts will reimburse these costs; casualty losses exceeding $100 that aren't reimbursed are generally tax deductible.

Tornados can strike almost anywhere in the United States. They can occur any time of year but March through August are the "danger" months. Between 1974 and 1978 there were 4,338 tornados reported in 48 different states. State Farm Fire and Casualty Company, a major home insurer, offers these tips on what you should do in case a tornado hits your community.

INDIANS & MX-MISSILE
The proposed MX missile system, already having some troubles in Congress, is under attack by Shoshone Indians who say it would violate their nearly 117-year-old treaty with the United States. Lawyers for the western bands of the Shoshone say that government plans to put the $33.8 billion MX system in eastern Nevada would violate the Treaty of Ruby Valley.
