O. D. Worthy Is Appointed Acting Postmaster Here

O. D. Worthy, local manager for the South Texas Lumber Company was appointed acting postmaster for the post office at Sterling City to fill the vacancy occasioned by the expiration of the term of the former postmaster Hal Knight, who received his appointment under the Wilson administration 16 years ago.

Mr. Worthy will serve as acting postmaster until the final appointment is made under the merit system of the civil service. The examination of applicants for postmaster at Sterling City will be held at San Angelo June 6. Under the law, one of the three high applicants will be appointed as postmaster,

While Mr. Worthy is not en old timer here, yet, in his capacity as local manager for the South Texas Lumber Company, he has become well and favorably known to most of the people within the range of the post office and it may be safely predicted that if he is the high man in the civil service examination and receives the final appointment, he will make us a good postmaster.

The people of the Sterling City postoffice, since the Wilson administration, have been used to the best of service, while postmaster Hal Knight has put his heart and soul into the work. It never got too dark or too cold for Hal to render a service to a patron of the office. In so doing, he endeared himself to the people and they did not want to let him go and take chances on inferior service. Then, too, he had lived here since he was an infant, and it is not any wonder that nearly 100 per cent endorsed his application for reappointment for postmaster.

Be it said to Mr. Worthy's credit. he did not make an aggressive campaign for the appointment. So far as we know, he did not seek endorsement from anyone, or let it be known that he was an applicant. He sawed wood, or rather sold wood while the campaign went on. He was Congressman South's favorite for the place. South had forordained him for the place for his marked service in his strenous campaign against Carl Runge two years ago. Mr. Worthy had no need to worry about the place, because, he doubtlessly felt that it was already won. For as Mr. South says in his letter to the writer, dated at Washington, D. C., May 1.

"From the day I first announced for Congress until the second primary was held, Oliver D. Worthy and wife were active in my support. They handed out literature for me, advertised my speaking dates, and assisted me in every way they could. During the campaign, I was advised that Mr. Knight was supporting one of my opponents. Had it not been for Mr. Worthy and others throughout the district who supported me for congress, I would have been without authority to make recommendations in this character of cases. It has always been my policy to reward my friends for faithful service rendered." xxx

While it is not ethical to make public a private correspondence, yet it is Mr. South's policy to do so, as many here can testify. So I am taking advantage of his policy in quoting a part of his letter to show that Mr. Worthy honestly earned Mr. South's recommendation. I believe Mr. Worthy will be O. K. if he gets the final appointment,-Uncle

HE MUST WORK

Contrary to the modern idea, I say that if you ever expect your girl or boy to get anywhere, he must work to get there, child labor preachments to the contrary, notwithstanding.

A girl or boy should be put to manual labor in some form as soon as his young limbs and body are able to stand it, without physical hurt or exhaustion. In this way you beget the work habit and they learn the things that are so necessary to their well being in future life.

I do not believe in commercializing the labor of children, but when I realize that a healthy boy or girl is full of energy, and that he is prone to work off that energy in some form of physical exertion, I know that it is far better to direct his pent up energy in some form of useful work rather than let him or her loaf around the place watching you do the work.

The other evening Billy Sam, the three-year old grand hopeful with whom I live, was standing around watching me chop stove wood. I saw that Sammy was wanting to do something, so I said, "Sam, get your little wagon and haul this wood to the kitchen for me." The little button was delighted at the idea, so he days of prohibition, are almost soon had his wagon on hand and among things that were. was loading it. I showed him how to load it so the wood would not fall He made trip after trip and soon had the wood all in. He seemed delighted with the idea that be was called on to do a man's work,

Now, I think that it was far better to direct the energy that Sammy spent in hauling junk to the front yard and cluttering the premises, by having him do something useful. He, too, appreciated the privilege of helping to do something useful.

Sammy is an ignorant little button but he is learning rapidly. He helps me work in the garden. At first, I had to bounce him out of the garden because he would destroy the plants. Last summer, Sam dug up nearly all my cauliflowers. He had seen me cut some heads and bring them to the kitchen for dinner, so he went out and cut a large supply. He knows better now. He likes to dig in the ground, so I gave him a place to dig all he wants to. He and his pal Jim likes to be on hand when I work in the garden, but they sometimes step on the plants and break them down. When they do, I explain matters by showing them the results of their carelessness. They already know the names of the different vegetable plants. They know corn, lettuce, beans, onions as well to attend. No church building in such as flying W, lazy S, 22P, turas carrots. They like to dig carrots town is comfortable when a crowd and eat them.

Well, now if I told Jim and Sam to not come into the garden, they Folks will go to meeting in the open wouldn't know beans from garlic, In this way, they will soon be learn- to a building on a hot day crowded ng something that will prove useful to them in the future, besides they will get a lot of fun out of it.

Lots of boys will work awful hard at baseball or some other game, and at the same time would disdain to two nervous breakdowns, was shellwork in the garden, chop wood or shocked in France, and I live in an help their mothers about the kitchen apartment above a family with wrong by their parents refusing to make pals of them in the necessary work of the home.

It is all right for the boy to play games, but he can be easily taught that work is a fine game. If directed properly, he will soon form the work habit and direct that quality of muscle and brain that will make him an asset instead of a liability to his parents.

My observation is that if you allow a boy to be idle until he is 18 years old, he will become a clockwatching loafer the rest of his life. He is apt to regard manual labor as disgraceful and shrink the responsibilities of life.—Uncle Bill

When President Roosevelt came upon the scene, these crooks had become so unbearable that something had to be done about it if civil law was to be carried on. Mr. Roosevelt called the best and most successful manhunters about him and told them that these crimes must cease.

He put unlimited money at their command and told them to bring them in alive if possible, but to bring them in.

They have been bringing them in -but they sometimes brought them in dead or in a very bad fix. STEEL MAKERS say—"Ford buys the best steel." Other suppliers of materials and parts will tell you-"Nobody checks up as closely on quality and price as Ford."

This means a great deal to you as a motorist. It is our way of safeguarding the interests of every purchaser and it leads to this-"The mechanical depreciation on a Ford is less than most cars, especially after the first year."

This is one sign of the extra value in the Ford V-8. Accuracy in manufacturing is another. (The Ford is made to unusually close precision limits.) And there is a long list of fine-car features that are exclusive with Ford in the popular field.

Have you a V-8 engine in your car? You pay $1645 for it in any other car but Ford. Does your car have Center-Poise Riding? Ford gives you this modern feature—"a front-seat ride for back-seat passengers."

Women endure pain more courageously than men. Childbirth has taught them to suffer and endure in tsolation. Man shows his heroism preferably in crowds, in squadrons, platoons; often he would not do that if it did not take more courage to stay behind alone than to go ahead with the others.

Two misguided Mexicans decided to ring bells of the ancient mission church at Juarez, Mexico, to celebrate the nomination of a National Revolutionary candidate for governor of Chihuahua. SPICES IMPROVE MODERN DISHES granted. Neatly arrayed, labeled, and within easy reach, they occupy as essential a space in our modern kitchen, as does the salt, or the kitchen range. No cook can do without them. Yet, because they are so intimate a part of our culinary life, they are out of mind until we reach for them.

Housewife, Today, Knows Value of Spices Which Men of Old Fought Wars For

In olden times, wars were fought over spices. New countries and new trade routes were discovered because of them. Tributes to Solomon and other mighty monarchs were paid with them.

These peaceful little spices, so neatly filed away in our kitchens were once vivid with deeds of bloodshed. History records entire native populations being massacred by the Portuguese and the Dutch in order that they might maintain their control over spices, and prevent the natives from selling to other countries.

History and Botany

Why, one asks, did spices take so important a part in the making of history? Chiefly because of the fact that food in those early days was often so poor, because of limited transportation and means of storing, that it was only by highly seasoning the food that it could Also, because spices were considered indispensable ingredients in the sacred oil of the tabernacles - and therefore no matter how rare, or how hazardous to procure, spices must be had in order to keep the altar fires

Botanically, as well as historically, spices offer a most interestwhich you keep in your kitchen, the cookies in the represent the various portions of their respective plants?

Ginger is the rootstock of its plant; cinnamon is the inner bark | cooking.

SPICES, today, are taken for of another plant; cloves are the seeds; black peppercorns are the whole fruits; and sage, thyme, and other herbs make up the entire upper parts of certain plants. Their aroma and their value as spices are contained mainly in their essential oils.

Kitchen Secrets

The housewife or the cook, who reaches for the spice cabinet, only for baking or for some few other uses, is cheating herself of ingredients which would transform her menus from the commonplace to the intriguing. For it is these spices which make all of the difterence between an uninteresting dish and one which is unusual and delicious.

When you bake a ham, for example, do you take it from the oven when it is partly cooked, crust it with brown sugar and stud it with cloves? If you do, the sweet and the spice permeate the tender tissues so that when you slice it, smoking hot, and serve it with apple sauce or with pears which have been cooked with cinnamon, you have a meat dish which men of old would have waged war in order to eat. Do you add cinnamon and a dash of nutmeg to your apple pies so that they emerge from the oven, flaky, sweet, tart and spicy, with a fragrance which tells the world that you've baked apple pie that

The "Black Widow" Spider

The "Black Widow" spider continues to be a menace even though the number of persons bitten is comparatively small, according to morbidity reports received by the State Department of Health. habit of this spider in building its web in dimly lighted places makes It difficult to establish any effective method of control.

Though the "Black Widow" is frequently found in basements, wood sheds, and other places which have dark corners or recesses, more cases of spider poisoning that have been reported in past years have occurred in old toilets in the rural districts. The spraying of creosote in cracks and crevices, particularly around the seats of old toilets, is an invaluable procedure, but precautions must be taken against fire. The egg cocoon may also be crushed.

The adult female spider is about half an inch long and has a shiny black body with a brilliant scarlet hourglass marking on the under surface. The name, "Black Widow" is derived from the fact that the female kills and eats the male after mating.

The web of the "Black Widow" is characterized by the fact that the strands are tough. If a straw is applied to the web of an ordinary house spider, the web will immediately break, but if a straw be stroked through a "Black Widow" web, the strands will be found so tough that the straw will bend or even break. The female spider stays close to her web but will rush out and attack violently any object disturbing this web.

The "Black Widow is not an aggressive spider, and rarely bites unless disturbed. Acute pain develops in the region of the surface bitten, spreading to other parts of the body. There is a general muscle contraction, difficult breathing, cold per spiration, nausea and an extreme rigidity of the abdomen.

The general public should be taught to recognize the "Black Widow," to take the necessary precautions, and to consult a physician immediately, if bitten.

Prickly Pear

Prickley pear for lunch? Yes, it's being done these days.

Now that the thoughts and tastes of the country are turning South west, some old Mexican recipes are finding their way to tables in Texas. and among them ways of serving the thorny plants.

Mrs. Frank C. Dickey of Ballinger makes the young leaf of the prickly Pear into an appetizing dish, in a manner long used in the Mexican capitol. The recipe is given by one who enjoyed the dish in masculine fashion.

Use the tender young leaves (not pears). Hold with a fork and pare off the outside layer only as deep as necessary to remove the thorns. then scrape with the knife until all, thorns are removed. Parboil with plenty of soda in plenty of water. When leaves are cooked tender rinse in clear water and cut in strips, cutting across the leaf.

Season with sliced onions, and fry quickly in hot grease. Drop in eggs and stir until eggs are scambled.

After the leaves are parboiled and sliced, there are a number of other ways of preparing them, one of which is to cook with chili pepper on ons, tomatoes, and ground meat. -San Angelo Standard

Thanks

I wish to thank the patrons of the Sterling City post office for giv ing me the opportunity to serve them as postmaster for the past sixteen years. Due to the perfect co-operation the public has always given me, my years in the office have been a pleasure that shall long be remembered.

Especially do I wish to thank all of those who have endorsed or declared themselves in favor of my re-appointment during the past few months. I sincerely wish to thank every individual who has given me his support. During the next few weeks some of you may be approached by applicants for the office who will tell you that I do not have a chance and ask you to transfer the endorsement you have given me to them. I am still an applicant for the office and will need and appreciate the continued support of my friends.

The revenue that the Government derives from the Sterling City post pockets of the people of Sterling County. Should it be their will that I again serve them as postmaster I will deeply appreciate the priviledge of doing so - Hal M. Knight

Resurrection Plant

The Resurection plant, a kind of litchen which grows on the rocks in Court. the Big Bend country, possesses the qualities of hibernation or suspended life as long as it is dry, but within a short time after it receives moisture, it spreads out its leaves and assumes a beautiful bright green

Two specimens were gathered in the Chisos mountains in November Record family home and placed in a dresser drawer where they were forgotten during the past 18 years.

Last Saturday the "Missus" was ridding the dresser drawers of their accumulate junk, when she came across the two dry balls of these remarkable plants. She placed their roots in vessels of water and by Sunday they had come alive, spread out their leaves and became a living green.

The only place we know where these rare plants grow is on the rocks in the lower Pecos and the Big Bend of the Rio Grand.

This being Centennial year, some one with an eye to business, could make a pretty penny by gathering them and selling them to visitors as souvenirs.
