Tugwell's Little Girl Holland Buys Planes Rev. Webber Knows

Childhood lasts longer in France than in America and it is real childhood. Boys in er than Assistant Secretary Tugwell's intelligent young daughter, Marcia, aged twelve, who, in partnership with her friends, Mary Frances Cottrell and Joyce Helmick, organized "a laundry for washing dogs." They advertised: "Small dogs, 30 cents; middle-sized dogs, 35 cents; groomed and washed. Dogs not good-natured must be sent with muzzles, and we cannot wash large dogs."

Too bad that parental severity broke up the dog laundry. It had announced working hours "10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturdays," the studious little girls' only holiday, "all hours after school on other weekdays."

What a good example for government enterprises: the little girls really meant to work to "groom and wash" the dogs, not merely stand around and collect the 30 cents.

Plucky little Holland and her wise queen seem to have decided that the 1914 "war to end all wars" did not finish its job. Holland went through the big war safely, selling butter, cheese, eggs, not disturbed, not making any bad $10,000,000,000 loans.

Fire Destroys Barns At U Ranch

EXAS STATE LIBRAR

Last Tuesday evening about eight o'clock a barn, horse sheds and other out buildings at the U Ranch headquarters were destroyed by fire.

The Sterling City Fire Truck made the twelve mile run in quick time, but the boys got there too late to do much except to save more -valu able buildings. While the loss was considerable, and will run into several hundred dollars. The fact that some of the buildings were very old, made the loss less severe. Spontaneous combustion is supposed to be the cause of the fire.

"We've certainly had a busy day" were the general remarks heard Monday afternoon, after the Clothing Demonstrators in Sterling County Home Demonstration Clubs had met

WHEN GRAND FATHER CAME TO TEXAS

In these days of wind, gas, steam electric motors, we take it as a matter of course, that motors were always thus. We rarely ever wonder what kind of motive power our grandfather used when they first came to Texas.

When grandfather got ready to leave Alabama and come to Texas, one of the most necessary things he packed away in his ox wagon was the little hand corn mill on which the corn was ground into meal for the family bread. Had he forgotten this most necessary machine, he would have been forced to dig out a mortar in a log and pound his corn into meal with a pestle, or boil it in a kettle, for there was no meal for sale in Texas, and as for flour, it was a luxury one heard about but never saw.

When he landed in Texas, he found others had preceeded him a few years and had made crops of corn, and he found that he could buy a few bushels for the family bread until a crop of corn could be made on the rich, virgin soil. While the work of opening a farm and building a cabin was in progress, each day some member of the family had to turn the little hand mill to make meal for the daily bread.

By and by, as time went on, time got to be valuable. It took time to turn the mill by hand, besides it was a hard and tiresome job. Grandfather began to think up an easier way to turn the mill. If he lived on or near a running stream, he would build an overshot, undershot or breast wheel and harnass the water to turn the mill. On every running stream in those days were to be seen crude water mills on which the corn of the settlements was ground. But if Grandfather happened to settle too far away from a running stream, he would use his horses and cattle to furnish power for his mill. He would build a large "bull wheel" with cogs on its outer perimeter to mesh with smaller pinions to trans mit the power to the mill. This wheel was set upright in a gudgeon and was made to revolve horizontally after the manner of a top, Levers were attached to the upright shaft of the wheel and a yoke of oxen or a span of mules or horses was hooked to the lever and they were driven round and round in a circle to make power to turn the mill. When more power was required, the number of levers was increased. I have seen as many as four pairs of animals hooked to the mill. Another form of the "bull wheel" was the incline tread wheel. Like the other wheel described, the tread wheel had a tall center shaft with a horizontal cogwheel. To this upright shaft was built a wide circular floor which had an angle of about 30 degrees from the shaft and was usually about 30 feet in diameter. This big wheel had a brake attachment on the outer circle so that it could be stopped when desired. It had stalls and hitch racks, so that when the animal to be worked was driven upon the floor of the wheel, he could be tethered to the hitch in the series on the Church will be was of cotton crash and was too rack with his head pointed up the large in every way. After ripping incline. When all was ready, the out the seames, Mrs. Bynum re-cut brake was released, the weight of the enimal on the incline plane started the wheel to revolving. The animal had no choice but to start walking and keep it up until he fell exhausted or the brake was applied.

Now Holland is buying 13 heavy bombing planes in Baltimore, spending $1,500,000 for the 13, and spending many other millions for other killing machinery.

That means work and wages in Baltimore; it may mean poison gas and death for some of Holland's neighbors.

Foreign countries read everything said about them in America; not that foreign countries care what Americans think, or attach importance to American opinion, as such; but America has money, raw products, and governments that are sometimes whimsical, changeable and boyish.

Europe, Asia and Africa watch with equal interest statements of Americans that count and more numerous Americans that float like feathers in the air.

One simple - minded Russian pointed with pride to the statement of a clergyman in our Union Theological seminary.

That gentleman, Rev. Charles C. Webber, has a plan for a better government, not based on the text about rendering unto Caesar that which is Caesar's. The big idea is to take away what is Caesar's.

Eight hundred young people were told by Reverend Webber: "God, who is not content with things as they are, is a revolutionary Being, custantly seeking to make all things new."

Rev. Webber, "recognizing this," about God being a revolutionist, has a plan to help God in his efforts; a plan as simple as A, B, C. Capitalism, he says, must be abolished. Rev. Webber wants a planned and planning social economy in the United States. Under the Charles C. Webber plan, people would own and manage such things as industry and property; no money would be spent for war, and youth would rule.

Those brought up with the oldfashioned idea of God might ask Rev. Webber, respectfully: "If God really is a revolutionary 'constantly seeking to make all things new,' why does He not carry out His will end 'make all things new' every few minutes? Can it be hat He

Two of the buildings destroyed by fire were about the oldest wooden structures in this part of the country. The Dan Barnett house was built more than 50 years ago, and was being used as a saddle house when it was burned.

The old ranch house, built by Holland in 1876 was used to store relics, when it and most of its contents were reduced to ashes. This old building was known as the Finous Bates house. Bates was the first foreman of the U Ranch. He operated the ranch when the Indians made neighborly calls at the ranch and borrowed the boy's horses on moonlight nights. There was a large auger hole in the wall next to the door. It was worn smooth from ropes to which a horse was tied on the outside and passed through the hole, and held by an anxious cowpuncher on the inside to keep the Indians from borrowing the animal for a little ride. After the Indians went somewhere else to steal horses the cowboys used this hole through which to spit tobacco julce.

Old Timers Visit Friends And Relatives Here

O. L. Pearson accompanied by his sister, Mrs. J. F. Butler of Cleturne were last week end guests of their brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pearson. It has been many years since these people have visited in Sterling City. They were among the pioneer settlers of Sterling County.

Klingman In Series of Sermons

Mr. Klingman is preaching a series of sermons each Sunday morning on "The New Testament Church." He has already delivered two of this series, one on "Its Origin" the other on "Its Organization." Next Sunday morning the theme will be, "The N. T. Church-Its Designation and Its Creed." Sunday evening the sermon will be "God's Will and Man's as follows: August 16, "Its Reception and Expulsion of Members" August 23, "Its Worship" August 30, "Its Purpose and Its Finances" September 6, "Its History and Its Destiny."

BARNUM-TOWNSEND

If T.P. Barnum understood human gullibility in his day and knew his gullibles, Dr. F. E. Townsend knows the whole gamut of human credulity and knows the credulous.

Dr. Townsend, before he entered politics was comparitively a poor man. He wanted to make money lots of money and easy money. He had studied human nature along with human anatomy and physiology Heknew that the greatest weakness of humen nature was the propensity for getting something for nothing. Getting money without working for it, or giving value received in return.

Knowing this weakness, even though it might not comport with common honesty, he set about coining this weakness into money. He first waded about hunting for gullibles. He found them in great schools in the waters of the Pacific. When the Doctor told them that when they got to be 65 years old, they could get $200 a month for nothing, they swallowed the hait, hook, line and sinker without blinking an eye.

Soon the fish of the waters of the Atlantic began nibbling at the bait, and Dr. Townsend landed scads of them. In the meantime, this wise old guy and his business associates.

they will find people enough who can't think any more than an oyster to make him and his associates the richest people on earth. They have made a good start .- Uncle Bill

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

It pays to advertise. If you have anything to sell, or find or lose any. thing, it pays to let the folks read about it, as the following will show, Last week, under the caption of 'Good Neighbors," among other things, I mentioned loaning a cross cut saw to a neighbor and said that he was gone and so was the saw.

Bob Martin, having read the article, remembered that he borrowed the saw from this neighbor and that he for, ot to bring it home, and was the innocent cause of this erstwhile neighbor of being suspected of being lax in his neighborly obligations. The lost saw has been located in good hands but if I had not beefed about it, it is likely that I would have still been ignorent of its whereabouts.

And this reminds me that some friend of mine last year borrowed a pair of fine field glasses, while another borrowed a 20-vara chain. These are a part of my surveyor's equipment and I need them quite often especially the field glasses. If anyone who reads this can let me know where they are, I will deem it as a special favor.

Speaking of kindly acts, last year I loaned my transit, chain and full surveyor's equipment to a surveyor who posed as my friend. He was to bring it back in five days. After months of patient waiting, I lost sight of the man and my surveying instruments.

I sicked Sheriff Davis on his trail: After nosing around awhile, Vern treed the transit head in a hotel at San Angelo, minus tripod, chain, pins and other things that belonged to it. I infered from the action of the hotel people that my friend (?) had left it to cover a board bill. The hotel people having taken a fancy

The incline tread wheel had the advantage of being operated without harnessing the animals. The favorite animal for this purpose was a large wild steer, horse or mule. No matter how wild he might be, if he could be gotten on the floor of the wheel -and they usually found ways to get him there-he would do the work whether he wanted to or not.

HELP US

School will open Sept. 3, and con tinue until about next May, 1937.

As in the past, I expect to do a I can for the school through th News-Record, I expect to devote the usual space under the caption of "Eagle Eyes", for the benefit of the kiddies as well as the faculty and patrons.

While I am trying to help you would you not help me? Printing school news costs quite a sum o money. If I were to sell this space to advertisers, you would be amazed at what it would cost them in period of nine months, but I am reserving it for you-free-but-

I am expecting every member of the faculty of the Sterling City school to become a paid up sub scriber of the News-Record and no a borrower of the paper. This ex pectation is based on a notion fair play. If I work week after week and spend good money to boost your calling and business, surely, you will admit that it is nothing bu fair that you contribute a sustaining crumb to your humble friend and servant who puts his whole existence into the school without stint. If there is a member of the faculty who thinks this is not fair and just, let him say so by ignoring this suggestion. This is not written to swell my subscription list, or to coerce anyone into supporting the News-Record, but it is to remind those who are inclined to neglect this important matter which they owe to themselves and their calling. The best school in the world can never get anywhere without the help of the press which gives it publicity. The brightest light in the world can not be seen, even in the darkest night if it is hid "under a bushel". The book teaches you that .- Uncle Bill have extracted millions of the "long green" from his great school of finny it. gullibles. So profitable has this business grown, Dr. Townsend has stored his pillbags in the attic and established a magazine which will serve as a funnel through which to feed his B, plus stuff to his scads of gullibles.

Dr. Townsend is too wise not to know that outside of a plan to assist the needy old age in a modest way, his plan is as untenable as the fabled Cat-Rat Ranch scheme, the tale of the Kilkenny Cats, or the doctrine of Metempsychosis. Baron Munchausen in all his flights of fictional imagination, never concocted a more unreasonable story than Dr. Townsend did in his plan to get $200 a month from the government for nothing.

The difference between Dr. Townsend and Baron Munchausen is this: The Baron wrote and sold his stories as plain lies. He did not expect people to believe that there was a word of truth or reason in his extra line of B plus stuff, but he knew that people of a humorous turn of mind would delight in a first class, unreasonable fable and buy it.

On the other hand, Dr. Townsend knowing that his scheme is an unreasonable fake, yet, he knows that his gullibles want to believe that the government will give them $200 a month for nothing. He understands the theorem of the "wish is the mother of the thought," hence he lables his B. plus stuff as practical tenable and true, and be sells it in great gobs, sections and townships to his guilibles.

Concluding that I was dealing with a bunch of deadbeats and sticky fingered gents, I swore out a writ of godamus ad sockum, as well as a search warrent, and with two sheriffs and a big strapping deputy, we raided the hotel and brought home what was left of my outfit.

After spending about fifty dollars my old transit is in fine working order again. I complained to the grand jury about these neighborly acts but that was all that was ever done about it. I reckon I got what was coming to me, but I'll bet if that fellow had soaked a five dollar dogy calf which he had borrowed from one of these boys for a board bill instead of a three-hundred dollar transit from me, that Jasper would now be in the pen. But it is all right, I am not complaining. Maybe it will be my friend (?) who will have cause to complain some day Some fellows have queer ideas about stealing.-Uncle Bill

Also arises this question: With capitalism abolished, who would build the churches, the Union Theological seminaries, and pay salaries to Rev. Webbers for reading the mind of the Divinity? Dean Swift should have known Rev. Webber when he wrote his tale of a tub.

France calls Paris the "aerial port of Europe," proudly. In America the still prouder title "Chief Air Traffic Port of the Whole World" is claimed by Miami, Los Angeles, San Diego, Chicago, Cleveland, and with a great deal of reason by San Francisco and Oakland, thanks to the magnificent bay, and to the fact that the greatest air line, running from America to Asia, starts from that neighborhood. It was Queens' Day in the lounge of the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas when five reigning beauties celebrated Railroad Week with a reception. Queen of Queens was Miss Mary-beth McGurk, of Chicago, who held court in the lounge with her maids of honor. Left to right: Mildred Kreher, St. Louis, Queen of the Cotton Belt; Dorothy Whitt, Chicago; Miss McGurk, Mildred Williams, Chicago, and Martha Bergersen, Chicago.

Too Many Pets

The U boys, aside from rattlesnake dinners now and then in which George McEntire Sr. plays host, the boys have some peculiar pets Among these pets is a skunk named Stink and a big bull snake named Stink and Tom lived under the floor of the barn. They lived sumptuously on rats and mice that came there to live.

When fire threatened the barn, Ralph Davis the foreman, ran in and began to pick up ropes, bridles, jacquimas and such other things he might salvage. In his haste, he picked up old Tom, and when that individual began to wriggle and hurriedly, because he might be a waste precious time in the rescue of

After salvaging all he could find Miss Archie Marie Garrett is in the dark barn, Ralph grabbed a spending the week visiting with Mr. hose and began spraying the fire and Mrs. Cy Foster of Midland. Mrs. with water. While doing this Ralph felt something tugging at his ankle. Looking down for an instant, he saw Stink trying to climb his leg. "Git down from there, you darned fool. You are the darnest fool polecat I ever saw. Gwan home and stay there, you gimlet-eyed sun of-astinker before I lose my temper and drop this hose." Then Ralph tried to spur the polecat, but missed his aim and spurred himself on the leg. Then he got mad, reached down with his free hand and grabbed the bunk house pet by the neck and pitched him clear out of his way. The polecat kindly reserved his fire and saved Ralph of having to sleep out doors for quite awhile. Ralph's experience had taught him that women folks are not very fond of a fellow after a polecat sprays him with stinkum. This polecat is a very considerate polecat. Perhaps he was scared.

Two Useful Fruits

VERBODY likes grapefruit, and everybody likes pineapple, but have you ever thought of combining these two useful fruits in recipes which should thus be doubly appealing to the palate? If you haven't, here are some which will show you how to do it.

Pineapple and Grapefruit Short. Boil three-fourths cup cake: canned pineapple syrup, threefourths cup canned grapefruit syrup and two tablespoons sugar five minutes. Cool, add two cups diced canned pineapple and two cups canned grapefruit sections and serve on hot, rich baking powder biscuits, split and but-tered. This makes enough for eight.

A Combination Salad

Pineapple and Grapefruit Salad with Cheese Dressing: Drain the contents of two 8-ounce cans of Hawaiian pineapple tidbits (or one and one-half cups diced sliced pineapple), and toss lightly with one cup canned grapefruit sections, one cup orange sections and one-half cup halved, seeded grapes. Pile in lettuce leaves and pour over the following cheese dressing. Serves eight. Cheese Dressing: Shake together in six tablespoons salad oil, one tablespoon lemon juice, one tablespoon pineapple syrup, and salt and paprika to taste. Smooth slowly into four tablespoons crumbled Roquefort cheese, and add two tablespoons chopped pimiento.

A Cocktall for March 17

Emerald Isle Cocktail: Combine the syrup from a No. 2 can of Hawaiian sliced pineapple and a No. 2 can of grapefruit, sweeten slightly if desired with confectioner's sugar, add one-half teaspoon almond flavoring, and tint a delicate green with vegetable coloring. Cut the pineapple slices in quarters, and distribute with the grapefruit sections among eight glasses. Pour over the syrup, and chill. Serves eight.

FRESH

"T SMELLS so nice and fresh!" "Yes--it must be freshly ground."

This dialogue dates back to the days before coffee was packed in vacuum cans. In those days if coffee was fresh when you got it -it was news. Today, we don't expect to find it any way other than freshly ground. It is freshly ground, and once it is sealed in the vacuum can-that's that.

The rest of its career is up to you. Once you have removed the top, inhaled its rich roasted aroma, the canner has done his part. Then, you are either going to have good coffee or bad coffee depending on what you do with it. For there are only two kinds of coffee, good and bad. Any cup of coffee that is less than perfect is a failure.

Do You Know the Rules?

A research laboratory which er. perimented for one year in order to find out how to make the best cup of coffee warns housewives to be sure that the grocer's supply of coffee has been delivered to him recently, unless it is vacuum-packed, for it will retain its fresh-bess for only eight or nime days packed, for it will retain its fresh-ness for only eight or nine days after roasting unless packed im-mediately under vacuum. They warn also against the old-fashioned recipe calling for "one heaping tablespoonful of coffee for each cup, and one heaping table-spoonful for the pot," for the rea-son that no two "heaping tableson that no two "heaping tablespoonfuls" are precisely the same. Instead use two level standard tablespoonfuls of coffee for each measuring cupful of water.

If you use a drip coffee-making device, and most people prefer this kind, set the device over heat on an asbestos mat. In this way the coffee does not boil. Boiling ruins the flavor. Serve the finished brew as soon as possible."
