OUR PLACE
by Fred Gipson

We are being invaded again around our place. Every year at this time we are invaded. The conquering hordes consist of red-capped city gents, who arrive sometimes as much as a week ahead of the opening of the deer and turkey hunting season, filled with high ambitions for blood and trophy and loaded down with enough guns and ammunition to start a young war.

Back home these hunters have left sad-eyed wives and wondering children to make their way in this world as best they can. But who can be bothered about wife and child when out yonder in the brush is an old buck with horns the size of a rocking chair and a wary old gobbler with a beard so long that it drags the ground?

Any one of these city gents knows there is game like that in these woods, because he saw it there last year. Of course, he failed to get it then, but that was because just at the moment he sighted the old buck the hunter had his pants down, picking off a particularly voracious swarm of cattle ticks that were sucking his blood as second choice. If it hadn't been for that fact, the hunter would have gotten that old buck.

And when that old gobbler took out up that long slope in a sweeping trot last year, the hunter just happened to hang his foot under a root at the moment he was about to fire and fell on his face.

But of course this hunter's had time to think things over since last year. He sees now where he made his mistake. He's got it all figured out just how he aims to do different this year. He's worried his friends and acquaintances for weeks about he aims to outwit his game.

So he takes to the woods the first morning. He draws deep, snorting breaths of keen, chill air. His clear eyes sweep to the high bald ridges and down to where the sun has set fire to the tips of the autumn-painted brush sticking up out of the early morning fog in the canyons. Gun in hand, he steps briskly forth—a man, a hunter!

All day long he toils up one long slope after another. Briars and brush claw the hide from his hands. The sun gets higher and hotter. He's stuffy and sweaty in his fancy hunting jacket. But he can't afford to remove it. Last year, he took off a fine coat and hung it on a bush, meaning to return for it later, and so far as he knows that coat is still hanging there. He never could find that bush again.

His feet swell. His legs ache. He's thirsty for water and he's not sure he knows the way back to camp.

Then out jumps the buck! A real old mossy-horn!

Quick as an eyelash the hunter makes his calculations. The buck will take to the brush to the left. Or he'll take to the brush to the right. Or he'll go straight ahead! Or—well, he's certain the old buck won't go straight up.

So he crouches to swing his gun up for the one perfect shot.

A prickly pear stabs him in the

Sterling Eagles Win District Six-Man Football Crown

The Sterling City Eagles sport the crown for District 8 six-man football, having closed the season with a 35 to 13 victory over Coahoma last Friday to keep their standing 1,000 per cent. Coaches F. C. Burnett and Walker Brown's boys chalked up seven wins and no losses during the district play.

The Eagles have another game Friday, November 21, meeting the Garden City team, but it is not a conference game.

Nearly all the Eagle lads joined in the scoring parade in the Coahoma game, Jack Mitchell accounting for a touchdown and a point; Davis getting a touchdown; Churchill gathering two touchdowns, and Fred Mitchell adding two points. It was clearly Sterling's game after the first quarter, during which time Coahoma scored twice, once a pass interception and again as the result of a pass interference decision near the goal line.

The District's final standing is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Per cent
Sterling City	7	0	1.000
Forsan	6	1	.857
Coahoma	5	2	.710
Courtney	4	3	.570
Garner	3	4	.430
Garden City	2	5	.285
Westbrook	1	6	.143
Water Valley	0	7	.000

We hope and believe that the Eagles will remain at the top when the football season closes next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Aiken and sons, of Sweetwater, visited friends and relatives here last week end.

He jumps and squalls. The half raised gun blasts a spurt of white dust from a limestone rock a few feet ahead. And the old buck has escaped, scaring up a flock of long-bearded old gobblers that with a roar of wing action are showing him a short cut out of the country.

By this time next year, however, the hunter will have figured out where he made his mistake this year, and be back, ready to do it all over again.

Praises Furrowing of Pasture Lands

"More grass than we ever had before," said B. A. Keathley, Glasscock County ranchman, in telling of the benefits of contour furrowing to his pasture lands, under the AAA range conservation program.

When this 80 year old ranchman gets talking the value of contour furrowing, his eyes light up and he points to the green grass which is growing on land which in previous years was "just plain naked." With his hand he points out the curve of furrows by the extra greenness of the grass.

"Why, the water used to rush off as soon as it fell," said the ranchman who complains that his sons have made him quit riding horseback. "On rainy days, the water would be stirrup-deep in the lowlands, while the uplands didn't have any water at all. But it is not that way any longer. Now the furrows hold the water and put it to work. Just look at that grass."

Mr Keathley claims there is six times as much grass on the land today as there was before it was furrowed, but others doubt his statement and say that there is only three times as much.

"I never bought anything in my life more worth the money than these furrows," said this ranchman who uses all his range building allowance and then digs into his own pocket to do more work.

Keathley operates a five-section ranch near Garden City and is running 750 ewes, 700 lambs and 80 mother cows on his range this year.

Coahoma Band Played For Game Last Friday

The Coahoma school band accompanied their football team here last Friday and livened the occasion with some good music which everybody appreciated. Coahoma has a fine band which reflects much credit on those people. We all must remember that when a girl gets sore when the game is not going to suit her and biffs a referee, nothing can be done about it. The joke is on the biffer.

Cooperation in AAA Defense Plan

Mrs. Ina Sproul states that we have had splendid cooperation in the Defense Plan Sheet Sign Up but lack a few having it 100 per cent and these few that have not signed are urged to call at the A. A. A. Office and execute one of these Defense Plan Sheets. These Plan Sheets are to be tabulated and sent to the State Office not later than December 1st, so it will look good for the County as a whole if we can get these figures in on time, for we are all willing to do our part for the Defense of our country.

CONGRESSMAN SOUTH

Last week, when Congressman Charles L. South joined Wheeler and the other birds of the Hitler feather in trying to defeat the amendments to the neutrality act, the newspapers expressed "surprise and dismay" because of his acts.

But to me, it came as no surprise, neither was I dismayed, because I have been expecting such a break from Mr. South since he made that speech at San Angelo and at Miles in 1939, in which he condemned the United States and her allies of the World War because of the terms of treaty of Versailles.

No one should be surprised at Mr. South, because two years ago he gave notice to the world that his heart was with Hitler because he was avenging the alleged wrongs suffered by Germany at the hands of the Allies. And from his speech it was natural for a thinking man to conclude that South's heart was against England and America, and with Hitler. No one should be surprised, because he gave due notice of his attitude toward the United States and England.

Under the pretense of being loyal to the administration in its national defense policy, he patiently waited for the opportunity to double-cross it, and he did it. At the crucial moment, when Uncle Sam needed friends, South stabbed him in the back. When this grievous blow fell, the Wheelers and the other traitors shouted for joy, while all Hitlerdom beiled for Herr South and the Twenty-first Congressional District of Texas hid its face in shame.

It is time that the people of this district realize that South does not represent their interests and sentiments where they conflict with himself and Hitler. By his acts, he has said to the world that the seven seas belong to Hitler, and no American ship must sail on those waters without Hitler's permission.

South has certainly "split his britches with West Texas." After his fool break in Congress last week, his usefulness to the people of this district came to an end. They have lost faith in him and would not trust him to chew grease in a soap factory for fear that he would swallow the grease. These people denounce him as the greatest double-crosser that Texas ever sent to Congress. The Twenty-first District feels the sting of disgrace he has brought upon it. He is hearing from those who otherwise would have delighted in honoring him for loyalty to his country, in no uncertain terms.

I arise to remark that the greatest service Mr. South can render the people who sent him to Congress is to resign, pack up, and go to Germany where his sentiments will be appreciated and his talents will shine.—Uncle Bill.

1941 AAA Program Ends December 1

Ranchmen are advised that the 1941 A. A. A. Program Year ends December 1st, and all work must be completed by that time if they expect to collect their Conservation Payment. A recent letter from B. F. Vance, State Administrator of the A. A. A., states that there will be no extension of time, and all are urged to finish 1941 work at once, then notify the A. A. A. office, and either W. W. Durham or Jerry Brown, can make final inspection.

AN APOLOGY

When Congressman South made that pro-German speech at San Angelo in the fall of 1939, I tried to take him to a cleaning in the News-Record of September 19, 1939, for it. Most of the boys hollered, "hurrah!" But I got myself disliked by some.

In this issue, I am trying to clean him again for joining Wheeler and other birds of the Hitler feather in an attempt to defeat one of the most vital measures to come before Congress in many years. A lot of the San Angelo boys have joined me this matter. I feel sure that a vast majority of true Americans in this district are with us in protesting the course of our Hitler-hearted congressman.

I hated to do this; but somebody had to do it, and I might as well be blamed for it as anyone. It has been said that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread," and I reckon I am one of the fools.

I apologize for having been forced to say severe things to Mr. South; but if he or his friends get mad about it, I shall then know that my rock hit the right dog.—Uncle Bill.

Whether right or wrong we are in the war up to our necks. No use to hang back and criticize the administration, because there is nothing left for us to do but to go up against the situation and have it over with. As long as Hitler and his wolf pack are running wild loose, there will be no safety in any land on the face of the globe. This is our country and if we fail to defend it against the wolf pack, we shall be in the same shape as those in France and other conquered countries of Europe. We must fight if we expect to be free.—Uncle Bill

Commercial production of oil began in Texas in 1878, but in the eight years 1930 to 1938 nearly sixty per cent of all the oil produced in the entire half century came from the Texas wells.

INDUSTRIALIST CLAIMS TEXAS CAN GROW RUBBER

William O'Neil Says Guayule Will Meet U. S. Needs.

WILLIAM O'NEIL

Farmers in California, Texas, and Arizona can grow enough rubber to supply the defense and commercial needs of the United States within two years, at no greater price than is currently being paid for rubber from the far east.

This was the statement today of William O'Neil, president of the General Tire & Rubber company, in urging that immediate consideration be given by Congress to subsidizing farmers in these states and financing rubber extracting machinery.

The plant from which the rubber may be obtained is guayule, a native shrub of the high plateaus of Mexico, which has been imported to this country and raised successfully in the area around Salinas, California, in Arizona, and in Texas.

Farmers are able to grow this shrub and produce real rubber at from 15 to 19 cents a pound, O'Neil said, as compared to the 22½ cents a pound now being paid for plantation rubber.

"It is easy to see that as an emergency measure, the growth of guayule in the southwest has many advantages over the synthetic rubber development," said O'Neil. "For instance, the same machinery can be used in working guayule as is used with plantation rubber. Guayule may be used for all purposes for which far eastern rubber is used and this is not true of synthetic products.

The capital expenditure necessary for expensive synthetic plants is not needed for the growth of guayule.

"And, most important, enough guayule can be produced in two years to supply all defense and commercial needs."

The only chemical difference between plantation rubber and guayule is that guayule has more resin content and deresinating has been made a simple process through methods developed by the Intercontinental Rubber Company at Salinas, O'Neil said.

Million Red Cross Volunteers Aid Defense Program

Washington, D. C.—Behind the front lines of U. S. defenses more than 1,200,000 Red Cross volunteers are on the job—making surgical dressings, knitting sweaters and giving comfort articles, learning the rudiments of emergency mass feeding and scores of other duties in an all-out effort for national defense.

The largest defense task now being undertaken by Red Cross volunteers is the production of 40,000,000 surgical dressings for the Army and Navy, according to Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, national director of Volunteer Special Services.

Home Service volunteers and Gray Ladies, whose duties are directly concerned with the man in uniform also are expanding their programs, Mrs. Davis said.

As a preparedness measure, thousands of women throughout the country are learning mass feeding and nutrition as members of the Red Cross Canteen Corps. Added thousands are being trained in the Motor Corps to serve as emergency drivers.

Sterling Homemakers Thank P.-T. A.

Our living room has its face lifted, its nails polished and even a new coiffeur, thanks to the kind parents, who are members of the P. T. A. The homemaking dept sincerely appreciates your cooperation and backing.

The divan was upholstered in rose and blue striped damask, and the two chairs for the living room were covered in a rose, beige and blue patterned cotton damask.

We couldn't show partiality to just one room, so we padded and covered in a most tailored and attractive way, two straight small chairs for the bedroom. These are done in beige, white, and brown cotton broadcloth.

Adding a new lamp shade to a floor lamp and two new floral pictures we have improved the looks of our dept. heaps to the tune of $13.29

Thanks again P. T. A. for giving us the financial backing.

This Turkey's Neck Is Safe

Holding the ax over his head doesn't scare this turkey a bit! He was declared the Grand Champion of Texas at the State Fair, and he knows these San Antonio students at Texas State College for Women, Mary Ann Curlee, left, Audreen Southwell, and Jo Meree Ridgway, aren't going to chop his head off for anybody's Thanksgiving dinner. The W. T. Halls of Denton own the turkey the girls are threatening.
