RELIEVED IN PRAYER

My mother was a devout believer in the efficacy of prayer. She said that when one was in real distress and helpless, the thing to do is to pray earnestly for relief, and if the prayers were for was right and just, the prayers would in some way be answered.

During the Civil War, we lived at Prairie Point (now Rhome) in Wise County. Our home was well improved, but we had to haul water from Oats Creek, two miles away, during a drouth. A well had been dug at the home, but it proved to be a dry hole. Heavy planks had been placed over the well to keep children from falling in.

It was a dry time, and we used a yoke of oxen with which to haul the water.

Comanche Indians raided the country every light moon and kept the women and children in a state of terror. The men were all in the army.

It was a hot, dry day and the water supply was exhausted. We couldn't find the oxen and we could not search very far because of the danger of being found by Indians.

When the last drop of water in the barrel had been drained out and the little ones were crying for water, Mother sent my oldest brother to Mrs. Teague's to borrow a little water.

Brother came back with his bucket half filled with water with the explanation that Mrs. Teague's barrel was nearly empty and that their team was missing. Mother rationed the water to the children and cautioned us to drink sparingly because it was all we had.

I never saw Mother so distressed. She seemed helpless and in despair. She walked the yard and muttered a prayer. She seemed in a daze as she sat on the porch and muttered her prayer for relief. Then suddenly she got up and ran to the old well that for years had been dry. She raised a plank and looked down. What she saw in the depths of that old well made her heart leap with joy. She saw WATER! With a loud cry, she ran to the barn and fetched a long stake rope and tied a bucket to it. She let it down and drew it up full of nice, cool water.

She gave us all the water we wanted. While she drew water and washed all her pots and pans with the precious fluid, she kept repeating: "The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want."

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures,"

"He leadeth me beside the still waters."

That was her way of giving thanks to the Lord for His mercy manifested.

When plenty of water was secured, she filled a bucket with the water and sent Brother to Mrs. Teague with it, with word that she had plenty water for all, and to come early and get it.

As long as I knew it, that well never went dry. It afforded water for us as long as we lived there.

Perhaps after the old well had been abandoned as a dry hole and had been covered up, a vein of water had broken in. Water may have been there in plenty for years until it was discovered when Mother led out to her God for relief.

Mother said as she prayed, that something seemed to tell her to go to the old well. She didn't believe a miracle had been wrought, but through her prayer, she was enabled to discover the water that was already in the well. — Uncle Bill

The Navy Relief Society

Since our citizens will soon be called upon to contribute to The Navy Relief Society, we give an idea of what that institution really is.

The Navy Relief Society was incorporated in 1904. Its object is to care for the dependents of the Navy, which includes the Marines and Coast Guard. Admiral Stark is president and Rear Admiral Train is secretary-treasurer of the Society. Its sole income in the past has been the liberal contributions of the officers and men of the Navy. The Navy has been proud of its slogan: "The Navy Cares for Its Own." It receives and disburses about $200,000 annually. In 1941 it loaned more than $500,000 and made gifts totaling $136,000 to 4,000 needy cases. The Society looks after the needy cases that Government compensation does not reach. No officer of the Society receives any salary or compensation for his services.

But the Navy has been hard hit during the present war. It lost more men at Pearl Harbor than in the Spanish-American war and World War I combined; hence, its pride in its slogan is tottering, and it is up to us to help it sustain that pride.

The Navy man has a fight on his hands. Let's take the burden off his heart by assuring him that the Navy will always "Care for Its Own"—his loved ones at home.

Attorney General Gerald C. Mann is chairman of Texas in the Navy Relief Society drive to raise $5,000,000. He has designated Pat Kellis to handle Sterling County's quota.

Typhus Fever on The Increase

Typhus is fast developing into a serious health menace in Texas, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who today issued an appeal for every Texan to cooperate in the prevention of this dread disease.

"Last year, the greatest number of cases in the history of the state were reported, and there was a total of 733 cases of typhus fever in Texas. While there were only forty-six cases of typhus fever reported during the first twelve weeks of last year, during the same period of this year there have been 131 cases." Dr. Cox stated. "With the peak of this disease occurring in August, if the present trend is continued, we may expect serious conditions resulting from typhus by the end of the summer."

The type of typhus fever occurring is known as endemic or Brill's disease, and is transmitted to the human beings from infected rats, by means of the rat flea. The eradication of rats greatly reduces this health hazard, and a consistent program of rat poisoning, rat trapping, and rat proofing will materially aid in the control of typhus in Texas.

Dr. Cox stressed the fact that it is the patriotic duty of every Texan to cooperate in maintaining the highest possible health level, and the eradication of rats will promote the control of typhus among our civilian population as well as our armed forces.

100TH BIRTHDAY FOR DALLAS NEWS

The Dallas News celebrated its 100th anniversary last Saturday, April 11th. On that day the News issued a wonderful edition, a copy which found its way to our table and will be hoarded until paper gets as scarce as hen's teeth.

A newspaper is like whiskey—the older it gets, the better it is. They won't even advertise a dog fight now-a-days in a newspaper that was less than a year old. Only unsophisticated colored men and bonehead white men will drink whiskey that is less than a year old and it would be far better if they would save it until it got as old as the Dallas News.

The Dallas News has served a wonderful purpose to humanity during its hundred years of existence. I have been reading it for the last 75 years and have learned to like it as an old friend.

I have seen its editors come and go. A. H. Belo came, and when he went, he left the great paper as a monument to his genius.

Here's hoping that the News will endure another hundred years. It is old, but it is good.—Uncle Bill

You had better consult Supt. O. T. Jones and H. L. Hildebrand as to details. They will gladly instruct you what to do in case you buy sugar. CALIJAPS OR "GRAPES OF WRATH"

Respectfully dedicated to those Ultra-egotistical "Native Sons" who are so pleased with their ego that they cannot give to honest, hard working Americans a kindly consideration but instead give them a "jibe." To the great bulk of the people of California this does not apply, for the great state does have thousands of real Americans, and Texas salutes them. So do the Oakies and Arkies, so called. "We do not need the Calijap."

The howlin' winds, and the scorchin' sun

Drives mercilessly on their way. Across the plains of the great Southwest,

Was the hue and cry of another day.

Hunger and want was the rule of the hour.

While God fearing people sought aid,

By trekking Westward to the promised land

In one great unending parade
The greed of the slave driving masters,

LIBERTY LIMERICKS

A storekeeper named Mr. Shedd,
Said—"Bombers and ships will be sped,
If we can arrange,
When people get change,
To sell them Defense Stamps instead!"

You can't buy freedom!
But your dollars do provide
The tanks, the guns, the planes to crush the Axis!
Buy a U. S. Defense Bond or Stamp regularly!

Decried that this drifting must stop.

They said "No more Oakies are needed"

Our "Native son" Japs can care for the crops.

The "Oakies" and "Arkies" and the Texan too;

Plain, ever' day American folk
Only sought their chance a livin' to earn

To escape from the debtors yoke.
The "Native son" and their favored Japs

Did not want them to have a chance
And were ready to kick 'em and send 'em home

To the tune of a Nipponese dance,
So we say to them now, as they cry and fume

And want us to help 'm clean house

Our friends you can keep 'em you wanted 'em then

Fair Texas don't want that kind of a louse.

These native folks of the great Southwest

Want to do their bit for our Uncle Sam

In good years, or bad, in peace or in war,

But we don't need the Japs our Texas to damn,

So keep 'em and love 'em you "Native Sons"

Until the goin' gets rough, you decree,

Then yell loud and long we'll be hearin' you

And we Texans can drive 'em into the sea.

We'll ask the Oakies to join us,
And the Arkies may help us too,
But when the job is definitely finished,

RURAL TRENDS
BY

FARM PRICES
This is a subject we approach with a good deal of doubt and uncertainty

For many years, farmers have been encouraged to think that they do not get a large enough share of the country's income—that they do not get enough of the money the consumer pays for the products of agriculture

There is a lot of truth in that statement. It is recognized in Washington, and the senators and representatives of farming states have constantly talked and worked to get higher prices for everything the farmer raises

Perhaps one of the things many of us have overlooked in thinking about the economics of this farm price situation is that no price ever stands by itself. The price of any one commodity is related to the price of every other commodity. That must be true just as long as all of us are independent, not only upon what we produce ourselves, but upon what others produce

The price paid to the producer should yield enough to cover the total cost of production, plus a profit. That profit is the thing we are working for, but it cannot be measured entirely by dollars and cents. The real value of the profit anybody earns is purchasing power

We have established money as a convenient measure of value, but we can't afford to fool ourselves about the value of money itself. It is actually worth only what it will buy

Let's illustrate by an imaginary example. Suppose dollar wheat yields the farmer a clear net profit of 10 cents a bushel. That 10 cents is what the farmer must use to buy clothes and coffee and sugar and tools—the things he cannot produce for himself.

Now suppose wheat goes to a dollar ten. Looks like the farmer would make twice as much profit, doesn't it? But it doesn't always work out that way.

That dollar ten wheat increases the price of the bread that must be bought by the worker in the shoe factory, who in turn demands a higher rate of pay. As a result, the price of shoes goes up, and the farmer has to pay more for them.

In that way, the farmer's 20 cents a bushel profit on wheat is absorbed by increased costs of everything he has to buy. The only way he can add to his profit is to demand another 10 cents for his wheat, and he soon finds out that the extra dime isn't the right answer, either, for it pushes up the price of shoes still higher.

The result is what students of economics call inflation. It is the constant tendency of the prices of everything to advance. And it always means trouble unless it is put under rigid control.

Nobody can criticize the efforts of any worker to get a bigger return for his work. That's the American system of private enterprise, at its best, and it is the thing that has led to our high standard of living

But in working for that higher return, let us be sure that it is exactly what we think it is—not mere money, but the kind of money that permits us to buy more of the things we need to make living better.

This column does not pretend to have a ready-made solution to this perplexing problem. We do, however, advise you to measure the real value of every price increase you get by the one and only real standard of value—purchasing power. Remember that money, by itself, has no real value; it is only the measure of value. Money is just like a bushel basket. It does not produce the wheat, but merely measures it.

For the third consecutive week, a dance provided entertainment for the high-school crowd. Hostesses were Jerry and Sue Everitt. Chaperons were: Martin and Mary Helen Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster were there. A visitor was flying cadet W. C. Currie, visiting home from Ellington Field, Houston.

After the dance nearly every one went to Fred's for cokes and hamburgers and listened to Bob Wills and Gene Kreysa, as is getting to be the habit every Thursday and Saturday night.

Seen getting excited over Roy Rogers' courageous actions at the "Palace" Saturday night were: Fred and E'Louise, Johnnie, Maudine, Jack, and others but I wasn't there and everyone else has forgotten.

The Junior play, "Don't Take My Penny" proved to be very entertaining. Hit of the play, Tom D., alias Gloria Lovely, wearing a blond wig and black traveling ensemble.

Alma Lawson is home again after an appendectomy at the Shannon.

Another one home, is Mrs. Corley who was Miss Mettie Dean before her marriage last week to Lt. Don Corley of the U. S. Army at Florida.

Future high-lights in entertainment: Seniors to be the guest of Juniors at picnic and informal dance Saturday. Other guests will be the high school faculty.

S. H. Sers absent the past week because of measles and mumps: Lloyd, Ewing, Winston, Anna Lou, Lewis and maybe Iris. We miss them immensely and hope they are back once more by the time you read this.

Ira Lee is sporting an early graduation present. A beautiful watch from his family.

From drifting rumors we hear two new cases in the Junior class are Chippy and Marylene. Johnny and Maudine and Fred and E'Louise.

Ping-pong has won over tennis for entertainment before and after school and at noon. S. H. Sers are so fond of school that they come early, stay after 3:00 and rush back at noon—to play ping-pong. Champions are as yet unknown but Jack and Weldon are looking good.

Since school is really under-way for three more weeks—we've got to go to work so—see you next week.

Marjorie Humble, Annie Lou Knight and Mrs. Don Corley will attend the Texas Future Homemakers conference which opens April 17 in Dallas. The purpose of the meeting is to plan for an all out youth participation in the war. The conference is being held under direction of the Homemaking division State Board for Vocational Education of which Dr. L. A. Woods, State Supt. of Public Instruction is executive officer.

Miss Ruth Huey, director of homemaking education, pointed out that Future Homemakers of Texas were practical in their choice of program for the year in that their five points stressed: To build self-defense for national defense; to organize and promote community service; to be a good neighbor, at home and abroad; to participate in the nutrition program for the Nation; to do in every way their part for Uncle Sam.

Marjorie was selected by the local chapter as their delegate for the conference, and Annie Lou is an Area officer, who will participate in the general discussion. Mrs. Corley is their sponsor. The group from Sterling will go with Miss Mary Steele and her club delegate from Garden City.

GREEN CHICKS ARE HATCHED FROM EGGS WITH GREEN YOLKS

It sounds almost unbelievable, but at the International Baby Chick Convention in St. Louis, Missouri, last summer thousands of persons had their first opportunity to see colored chicks hatched from eggs with bright, vivid green yolks.

For several years now, poultry nutrition specialists have been controlling yolk color. The range of control has been from yolks with almost no color to a bright red or green. The purpose has been to show that a hen's ration not only directly controls yolk color but that it also controls certain nutrients and vitamins that are in the egg.

This year, Purina Mills decided to try hatching chicks from eggs with green yolks. What happened was so startling that the Purina display at the big annual convention of hatcherymen featured chicks hatched from green yolked eggs.

The display included a pen of five pullets eating a laying mash in which the green coloring matter was mixed. Actually, eggs with green yolks were produced right at the convention. Naturally, the eggs attracted a great deal of attention.

Each day, two newly hatched chicks from green yolked eggs that had been previously set were autopsied and displayed in a glass case. The effect of the ration fed the breeders could plainly be seen. It was amazing how the green coloring matter had been transferred from breeder hen's ration to the chick to the egg.

According to C. S. Johnson, head of the poultry department at Purina Mills, the importance of properly feeding breeder hens so they can put into their eggs the proper nutrients for the development of the chick embryo is becoming better understood each year. As a result, embryo feeding is taking its place alongside breeding, disease control, and incubation as one of the most important factors influencing livability, growth and future profit with chicks.

HEROIC MESSENGER WINS SAFETY COUNCIL AWARD

Joseph L. Dunwald, who risked his life to drag a 200-pound man from the path of an onrushing subway train, is shown accepting the "Bulova Nick O' Time Award," for his courage and quick thinking, from Frank L. Jones, President of the Greater New York Safety Council.

Seventeen-year-old Joseph L. Dunwald received the "Bulova Nick O' Time Award" from the Greater New York Safety Council for saving the life of Joseph Lemmon, a post-office guard. The award—a 21-jewel Bulova "President" wrist-watch—was presented by Frank L. Jones, President of the Council, at the Annual Banquet of the Thirteenth Safety Convention and Exposition in New York City.

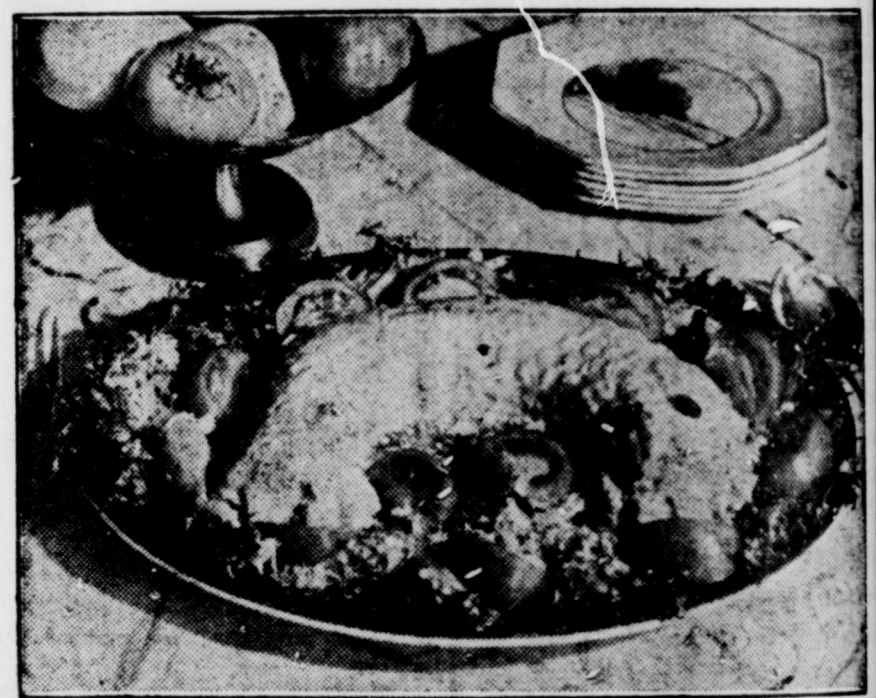

The Jamaica High School boy, who lives at 139-31 Eighty-seventh Avenue, Jamaica, and was working as a messenger in his spare time, saw Joseph Lemmon tumble from the platform of the 23rd St. Station of the Lexington Avenue Subway, in the path of a fast approaching downtown local train.

Young Joseph jumped to the tracks and hauled Lemmon into the narrow space beneath the platform, a hairs-breadth before the train reached the spot! Both were uninjured by the train.

(The "Bulova Nick O' Time Award" is a permanent award to a person who, with great danger to himself, performs an heroic deed in the nick o' time.)

SALMON CRASHES BEST PARTIES

A salmon's life is NOT a happy one! Not generally speaking. For, in the course of a typical salmon-life, he travels from river-bed to ocean and back again to the home river, battling his way upstream only to die!

But a happier fate awaits those thousands and thousands of salmon each year who, in the prime of their ocean existence, in the icy waters of Alaska are caught and canned for American table delicacies. They are endowed with a pleasant immortality—and are destined to be featured in the leading menus of many a memorable salmon dish.

Canned salmon has long been a great American favorite—a food packed with high protein value, rich in vitamin D, iodine, calcium, and other minerals. Economical and nutritious, it deserves an even greater use on dinner menus.

In fancy dress, for party salad service, canned salmon is a happy suggestion. Nothing so festive was ever more economical, or easier to prepare than a salmon mold. Made in a fish mold, the finished salad is humorously lifelike, colorful and delicately flavored as the most particular hostess could desire.
