

OLD-TIME DOCTORS

Sterling has ever been noted as the most healthful region to be found anywhere in North America. That is the reason why they selected the spot 26 miles east of Sterling on which to locate the Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

After the old timer who came from East Texas got well of the malaria which he had suffered most of his life, he got fat as the steers that roamed the range. He had no ailments to speak of except at now and then his horse bucked and off and bunged him up and maybe he would suffer broken bones and then he would need the doctor. And there were other times when he would need a doctor, and that was when he ate too many frijoles or his wife had a baby. These ailments were most common and occurred quite often.

About the only medicine we used was whiskey for snakebites, Epsom salts, Castor Oil and Calomel for constipation superinduced by the standard diet of baking powder biscuits and frijole beans.

For many years the late Dr. P. D. Coulson was the only doctor in the country. Dr. Coulson had been a Confederate Army Surgeon and he was a very able physician. The people swore by Dr. Coulson. We elected him County Judge and for nearly two decades kept him in that office. During all that time he had plenty of time to attend to his medical practice and his duties as county judge.

During those times, we had certain colleges that could take a cornfield and convert him into a full fledged doctor in three months—provided said cornfield had had the cash to pay for his diploma and certificate.

A product of one of these colleges practiced in Sterling City, I will call him Dr. X. He was a fine looking man and a very likable fellow. He wore good clothes, a fine watch and chain and sported a good buggy and team. It was thrilling to see him drive to see a patient, and inspiring to see him take out his gold watch grab the patient's wrist and count his pulses. Then he would go to Elbert Fisher, the pill roller, and say: "Elbert, fix this man up with forty grains of calomel and make it into four doses to be taken every hour. Also let him have a pint of castor oil to be taken in doses of two spoonfulls half hour after the calomel."

Then Fisher would say: "doc, you ought to know that your doses are too large."

"You know what I want, go ahead and fix it up," doc would answer.

It was a safe bet that Fisher would get the dosage right.

Dr. X never wrote a prescription while he was here. In serious cases he never failed to call in Dr. Coulson or some other doctor to help him out. He never prescribed whiskey except for snakebites or in case the patient was a "wet." A "wet" was told to use it three times a day.

Flag Day Observed By Presentation of Service Flag

Monday night, June 14, Sterling County celebrated Flag Day with a dedicatory ceremony of a community service flag with Senator Penrose Metcalfe giving the dedicatory address. The affair was sponsored by the Wimodausis club assisted by the other federated clubs of the town and the Lion's Club. Miss Ethel Foster, state president of the federated clubs of Texas presided.

The Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts preceded the Scout flag bearers who carried the Stars and Stripes and the Lone Star Flag. The group sang "Let's Bring New Glory to Old Glory" and Mrs. Rogers Hefley gave a tribute to old Glory. Rev. L. O. Ryan most fittingly presented the huge service flag with 122 emblems, three of which are gold stars, representing Sterling County's participants in the Armed Forces of the United States. The Scouts unveiled the flag while the audience stood at attention. Miss Foster introduced Senator Metcalfe who dedicated the flag. He spoke of the fine loyalties and patriotic spirit of the Sterling County people. The patriotic program closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The gold stars on the flag are in honor of Lyndal Buford Preslar, a marine, W. C. Currie, Jr. and Jack W. Mathis, bombardiers.

Senator Metcalfe presented the Wimodausis Club with a photographic copy of Travis' letter sent out from the Alamo, part of which he read in his address. The thought expressed then by that brave Texas hero, is the same as that of our heroes of today. The club is deeply grateful to Senator Metcalfe. The copy will be framed and placed in the court house.

Mrs. Jack Mims and young son, Jerry returned from a hospital in San Angelo last Sunday. Old man Jack is about the happiest old rancher in the country. All three of them are at home. It will be some time before Jerry will ride, but daddy Jack is making plans.

Other activities enjoyed by the soldiers were a stock judging contest, buggy rides behind a matched pair of Palomino horses, and a big turkey dinner.

County War Meat Committee Appointed

This Committee will assume responsibility for the meat programs in the county, study the needs and objectives of the permit system, black market problems, approve or reject applications for permits, direct the provisions of the meat orders to the attention of persons slaughtering meat for sale without necessary permits, and create public support of meat programs so that this extremely important food may serve its fullest possibilities as a weapon of war.

Rev. B. B. Hestir will conduct the morning services at the Presbyterian Church next Sunday. After which, further services will be dispensed with in order that all may attend the Baptist revival going on at the Baptist Church.

Salvage Uses Announced

H. M. Carter, chairman of the Sterling County Salvage Committee announces.

SCRAP IRON: No plans are under way for a state or nation-wide salvage drive on this type of metal. However, Sterling County farmers and ranchers have indicated that approximately 26,500 pounds of scrap iron has not been collected. This scrap should be gathered on each place and held in readiness for the next drive.

COPPER, BRASS AND BRONZE: It is understood that there will be a nation-wide copper drive probably within the next 30 days. When plans have been completed your full cooperation will be requested.

TIN CANS: All tin cans collected in Texas are used in the production of copper. A ton of tin cans will produce enough copper to manufacture a Flying Fortress. A tin can collection program will be announced in this paper in the near future.

WASTE HOUSEHOLD FATS: Our waste Fats Program, as a state-wide program, is still far from satisfactory. The last report shows that we have done only a 40% job in Texas. If every housewife in the nation would save one tablespoon of waste fats each day we can salvage 200,000,000 pounds of fats in the United States each year, and this would eliminate our glycerine shortage. If butchers are experiencing any problems in disposing of their collections this should be reported immediately to the County Salvage Committee.

SILK AND NYLON HOSIERY: More silk and nylon hosiery is needed. We are asked to arrange a one-week intensive collection in this county in the near future.

COLLAPSIBLE TUBES: To merchants who lack information on where to ship collapsible tubes: ship to Tin Salvage Institute, 411 Wilson Avenue, Newark, New Jersey, in minimum shipments of 5 pounds, transportation charges collect.

SCRAP RUBBER: Considering the large tonnage of scrap now available it would seem unnecessary so far as the rubber program is concerned to continue the activities of the Salvage Division in the collection of scrap rubber.

Lions Club Hostesses

Mesdames D. P. Glass, Allie Foster and Templeton Foster were hostesses to the Lion's Club at its weekly luncheon in the basement dining room of the Methodist Church last Wednesday. Mrs. Will Young Benge entertained with a splendid address on the subject of Girl Scouts. Miss Betty Donaldson gave several piano numbers. Rev. McGuire, who is conducting the Baptist revival, was a guest and talked interestingly to the club.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

John L. Lewis, laborite, is public enemy No. 1. Hitler has no better friend in America. For one dollar and thirty cents a day, Lewis and his gang deprive and hold up supplies and equipment for our boys over yonder and would subject them to total destruction for the sum of $130 per day.

These miners are the best paid workers in the world, yet, their greed makes them forget that they are Americans and citizens of the United States and their very lives and liberties depend on the winning of this war.

The friends of these yellow slackers and saboteurs say they are patriotic and loyal citizens because thousands of their sons are at the front fighting for their country. There is where the disgrace of these unholy strikes lies. After their sons had been inducted into the service, these yellow bellied fathers throw down their tools and refuse to work to produce the things on which the very lives of their sons depend. "Give us $130 cents more per day or we quit and the boys can go to hell for all we care."

These pretended friends of these traitors say that they gave their sons to the cause of their country. That is not true. They had no say in the matter. The facts are that these sons are brave and patriotic, and wanted to serve their country, and they went in and their slacker fathers had no choice in the matter except to strike, raise hell and slow down production of the vital things that meant life to their sons. These greedy devils would trade the well being and lives of their sons for $1.30 a day raise in their wages.

Organized labor is all right and should be respected, but when the organization uses its power to hijack the people of the whole nation and defy the government under which they live and prosper, it is high time the laws reach out and get them.

In the recent strikes that held up production of the things we must have, labor has disgraced itself and has forfeited the respect of every patriot in America.

These poor dupes have followed the traitorous John L. Lewis into crooked paths. They must and will be controlled.—Uncle Bill in dram doses. A "dry" patient was warned not to touch whiskey while he was treating him. Dr. X was well liked and many banked on him as a good doctor.

J. T. Davis and Elbert Fisher may get me for telling how they helped an itinerant doctor who had his office in the Doran Hotel, treat a cowpuncher for a broken leg that existed only in their fertile imagination.

One night J. T. drove up to Dr. Rx's office and wanted to know if he was a good doctor.

Dr. Rx assured him he was and asked Mr. Davis what he could do for him.

Mr. Davis informed the doctor that a cowpuncher at the Terry ranch on the Divide had suffered a broken leg and he wanted him to get there as quick as he could. He told the doc to get in his buggy and he would drive him there as quick as his team of blacks could take him.

"I've got to go by the drug store and get a bottle of chloroform," said the doc.

"Is it this here stuff they kill screw worms with?" asked J. T., "if it is, I've got plenty of it at the ranch."

The doctor climbed into J. T.'s buggy and they swung into the road down past a small building which was a popular resort of the court house gang. Fisher came out from behind the little building and sprang into the rear of the buggy without the doctor knowing that there were three passengers in the buggy instead of two.

Away they went up the road as fast as that pair of blacks could go and that was some going. When they came to a gate, J. T. insisted that the doctor should hold the reins while he opened the gate. He feared if he let the doc get out and open the gate, he would see Elbert and the jig would be up.

When they reached the ranch, J. T. told the doc to rush right in, and he would follow as soon as he tied his horses to a mesquite.

The house was dark and silent as a tomb, but the doc rushed in. Some girls were sleeping on a pallet on the floor and he stepped on one of them and she let a squawk. The doctor assured her that he was a doctor and had come to attend to the man with a broken leg.

Old man Terry hearing the hub bub came in and demanded an explanation.

The doctor explained the situation and Mr. Terry soon caught on that he was the victim of a prank. After explaining to the doctor there was no cowpuncher with a broken leg on the ranch and that he perhaps was a victim of some devilish boys in town, he soon got the unhappy doctor off to bed.

These two culprits were soon back in town and next morning they were looking as innocent as a pair of town dogs that had raided a flock of sheep the night before.

Next day, the doctor was in town and had a conference with the County Attorney. He told this official of his troubles and desired to lodge a complaint against the offender. (He didn't know that Fisher was an accomplice.)

When asked the name of the man who took him snipe hunting, he said he didn't know, but he thought it was "Buck" Davis.

The doctor left next day for greener fields. For over a quarter of a century, J. T. Davis was called "Buck Davis."

Some were of the opinion that the County Attorney had guilty knowledge of the diabolical plot.—Uncle Bill

Bring Back Those Books

A number of books are over due at the County Library. The Library Committee takes this means of asking readers to kindly return over due books and pay for back dues. Books can not be lent out in the future unless the library rules are observed. Books may be obtained on Tuesday afternoons or Monday nights. Please do not ask employees in the court house for entrance into the library at any other time. Let's care for the books we have, so that we can have a library of which the county may be proud, and one that will grow instead of decreasing due to careless borrowers.

COLLEGE BEAUTIES GET FARM POINTERS

ST. PETER, MINNESOTA—Gustavus Adolphus College girls who are planning to work on farms this summer and Fred Arneman, chairman of the Nicollet County War Board, took time off to look over the Farm Building Research Project being conducted here by the "Business of Farming" magazine, to show how Gyplap helps meet the current lumber shortage. Mr. Arneman is shown explaining to Myrtle Johnson, Lorraine Rule, Mavis McClure and Madelyn Hassar, how this new gypsum board is sealed to make it weatherproof. The Government is urging increased farm production, which requires additional farm buildings and new materials of this type are needed to meet the emergency.

Old Virginia's Williamsburg
Observes Double Anniversary

Historic Raleigh Tavern

Colonial Williamsburg, nestled in one of the most picturesque regions of Virginia, will have special interest for vacationists fortunate enough to visit that section during the summer. For 1943 is bold-faced on the historic town's calendar, as it marks the 250th anniversary of the founding of its famous college, William and Mary, and the 200th anniversary of the birth of a noted alumnus, Thomas Jefferson.

Williamsburg had an important part in the social, political and cultural life of Jefferson, both as college seat and capital of Colonial Virginia. One of the places most intimately associated with his Williamsburg days was Raleigh Tavern where the future author of the Declaration of Independence met frequently with Patrick Henry and other patriot-companions, planning steps that set the stage for America's independence.

Raleigh Tavern, now completely restored, was not only the social center of the capital but the scene of patriotic activity as well. Through the taproom resounded the voices of George Washington, Jefferson, Henry, Lafayette, Peyton Randolph, Richard Henry Lee as they clinked tankards and drank patriotic toasts in beer and flips. It is entirely likely that the beer which filled the patriots' tankards came from the college brewhouse which, on the authority of Dr. Earl G. Swem, present librarian of the college, was in the basement of the main building. None of the college brewhouse equipment now survives, but the minutes of the college's Visitors and Governors, dated June 13, 1716, show that brewhouse furniture for the college was then authorized to be purchased from England.

When its dissolution was ordered by the British Governor, the Virginia House of Burgesses repaired to the Raleigh Tavern, where it met in open defiance of the official edict. It was here, during these daring sessions, that Patrick Henry and Jefferson made some of the stirring speeches that kindled the revolutionary flame of the American colonists.

The example these loyal Virginians set was a great impetus in the fight that led to the independence of the United States of America.

It was also in this tavern, on December 5, 1776, that the honor society, Phi Beta Kappa, was organized. The fraternity's anniversary celebrations are still held there.

According to the best information, the tavern was acquired in 1735 by Henry Wetherburne, who had a wide reputation for many years as a host. Its most famous room was the Apollo Room, which had a romantic place in Jefferson's life. Writing to a friend in 1764, he stated that the night before he had been "as happy as dancing with Belinda in the Apollo could make him."

The Raleigh was operated as a tavern until 1854, when it was remodeled for use as a girls' academy. Five years later it was destroyed by fire.

The restored Raleigh Tavern was dedicated as a patriots' shrine on September 16, 1932—the year of the 200th anniversary of its most famous patron, George Washington.

To Lt. Jack Mathis

As a boy of eight Jack tackled each task
With a air of assurance and pride.
I would watch him and wanted so much to ask
If he needed some help on the side.
But he had that same determined will
To do the best of his little boy's might.
And he tried so hard his place to fill
We could count on Jack, alright.
And yet he was tender and comfort would seek
One day as I read "Our Little Boy Blue"
Two big tears slipped down his brown cheek
And he hoped so much that it wasn't true.
It takes this mixture of courage and might
To make us Americans rate
And I could tell you were mixed just right
As a little boy of eight.

RUBBER GOVERNORS

C. R. Stevenson John W. Bricker

Two rubber state governors are scheduled to get together June 28, when American Made rubber day is celebrated in Texas. The day has been proclaimed by Governor Coke R. Stevenson and all Texas will join in celebrating the important part Texas is playing in the vital rubber program.

Because most of the rubber is now produced in Ohio the arrangements committee, headed by Thornton Hall, of San Antonio, president of the Texas Newspaper Publishers' association and Deskins Wells, manager of the Texas Press association, has invited Governor John W. Bricker to take part in the ceremonies.

Four of the government-owned plants are being erected in Texas, and more synthetic rubber will be produced in this state than in any other. Occasion of the June 28 celebration is the opening of the Baytown plant, to be operated by The General Tire & Rubber company in association with the General Latex and Chemical company, of Cambridge, Mass.

A nation-wide broadcast on the night of June 28 will tell the nation of Texas' part in the solution of the rubber problem.

COMPANY IN WARTIME

by Nancy Turner

These are the days for having parties, and big parties, too, as often as you can. Don't gasp! We know all about ration points and the high cost of many foods. But there was never a time when friendliness and companionship and the warm comfort of getting together with relatives and neighbors was more important than it is today. The woman who figures out ways to entertain graciously and frequently now will go down in the history of her community as a truly "great lady."

Of course, it takes ingenuity and careful planning to get a meal for a dozen hungry people without robbing your family of their ration points. But it can be done! The secret is to keep your menu simple and to use all your culinary skill to make every detail perfect. One main hot dish, a big green salad, rolls or bread of some kind spread with margarine, a dessert based on the fruit that's in season and plenty of cool, refreshing beer or ale that adds its quota of food elements and vitamins as well as refreshment, is all you need for a delicious, balanced meal that will please men as well as women. Among the foods for that big, main dish are chicken and fish. But use these unrationed stand-bys in new, economical ways. You can make a perfectly wonderful casserole dish of chicken combined with shrimps and clams and made golden with saffron. Or try chickens marengo in which you put tomatoes, mushrooms and lots of spice as well as the fowl. There's a baked fish loaf in which bread crumbs and shredded white fish are combined that will feed a great many hungry people. And if you have a few stamps to spend, consider chili con carne or curry of lamb with plenty of rice. Serve this pièce de resistance piping hot, the beer or ale soothingly cool and your guests will rejoice. They'll eat and relax and soon be talking of the happier things of life and laughing as they used to in more carefree days. And you, my lady, can sit back quietly, wrapped in the pleasant contentment of knowing that you are not only a successful hostess. You have contributed to morale on the home front by daring to step out and have company at a time when it takes imagination and courage and a real affection for your friends and neighbors!

V-Homes Make It, Then They Make It Last!

To save materials and manpower for the war program, Victory Homes are busy homes—sewing, darning, and repairing. Besides conservation, the V-Home pledge of the Office of Civilian Defense covers preparation against air raids, salvaging of essential materials, guarding of facts, and war stamp and bond buying.
