Police Caution Shoppers To Take Safety Measures

Christmas shopping gives a lot of pleasure to most people—but, it is heartbreaking to spend hard-earned dollars for gifts which never reach those who were intended to receive them. Unfortunately, many persons do not believe in working for the money necessary to purchase gifts for loved ones, and those who have made happy purchases suffer as a result.

Those persons who would break into automobiles and homes have no compassion for the persons who perhaps have worked extra hours for the cash to go shopping.

Muleshoe City Police Chief Johnny Richards was asked what precautions could be taken to help assure the safety of the shoppers who are trekking to stores to do their Christmas shopping. He was also asked other safety measures that the shoppers can take for their homes.

Chief Richards said, "Do not carry or display any large amounts of money. A lot of people watch for displays of money, and have been known to accost the shopper as they walk on the street or start to get in their car."

Another safety precaution, according to the chief, would be to have all credit card numbers listed and kept in a safe place in case the billfold or purse may be stolen.

The chief admonished shoppers to be sure to return all billfolds to the pocket, preferably in an inside pocket and be sure a purse is securely closed.

He suggested trying to keep yourself in position to avoid being accosted by someone who may be attempting to take your purchases, purse or billfold.

Chief Richards said to be sure your vehicle is always locked, whether or not you are inside the vehicle, or inside a store, shopping. Lock your purchases in an inconspicuous place, such as the trunk of the vehicle, or on the floorboard if a trunk is not available.

He said that if a person

Irrigators Are Invited To Meeting

Irrigators with center pivot sprinkler systems are invited to attend an informal exchange of ideas and information on the benefits and problems of modifying a center pivot system to a low pressure drop line sprinkler system. The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District is hosting a meeting at their Lubbock headquarters at 2930 Avenue Q on Tuesday December 16, beginning at 1 p.m.

The three hour session for interested irrigators will focus on the experiences of irrigators using the modified drop line system and on what to consider before attempting to modify your present system to a drop line sprinkler.

Carl Butler, a center pivot irrigator at Anton, is planning to attend and share his experience of the past year with two unique low pressure drop line systems. One of the systems was a modified center pivot which circled a 640 acre tract over furrowed circle rows in Hockley County.

The second system was a lateral move sprinkler modified with drop lines to row water a 320 acre tract. His modified irrigation systems used a series of rigid and flexible pipes, joints, flanges and sockets to lay water down in the row in a diffused distribution pattern which prevented soil erosion and virtually eliminated evaporation loss

Lazbuddie Firemen Plan Hunt

Again this year, the Lazbuddie Volunteer Fire Department plans to sponsor a breakfast and shooting preserve for all pheasant hunters.

Lazbuddie firemen will serve breakfast at the Lazbuddie School cafeteria at 8:15 a.m. Saturday, December 13, at a cost of $3.50 per hunter.

Land in the shooting preserve will be posted and will be open only to hunters buying permits from the Lazbuddie Volunteer Fire Department, explained the chief.

A map will be given to each hunter showing the posted land and the hunter will be free to hunt on any of the posted land.

Hunting permits cost $25 for one weekend or $50 for season permit. The season starts this Saturday, December 31, and will end on December 28.

For additional information, contact Glenn Lust at 965-2828 or Gilbert Longoria at 965-2778.

Bands Schedule Holiday Concert

The Muleshoe school bands will present their annual Christmas Concert Tuesday, December 16, at 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School auditorium.

All Children Are Invited

To Visit Santa

Even though Santa Claus made his entrance into Muleshoe during the Christmas Parade last Saturday, he will be making two additional appearances before Christmas.

Santa is scheduled to be at the Santa Hut next to the Mule Memorial Saturday, December 13 from 2:30-5 p.m. He will also be at the same location, the same times, on Saturday, December 20.

John Gulley, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture said any area children, unable to visit Santa Claus after the parade will be welcome to visit him on those dates.

In addition, a photographer from Photography by Lonnie, will be on hand to record the children's visit for those who would like to have a picture.

Christmas Parade Draws 'Big' Crowd

In nearly perfect weather, hundreds of people lined the streets of Muleshoe last Saturday for the annual Christmas Parade. Warm, bright sunshine added to the afternoon to make the parade 'near perfect'.

Leading off the parade was Lt. Jerry Hicks of the Muleshoe City Police Department, followed by the U.S. Marine Color Guard from Lubbock. This was followed by Parade Marshal Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements and members of his family.

Down the parade route, the local and area people lined the streets, watched floats, bands and beauties; as well as antique cars and trucks, and a team of white mules pulling a cart.

With both the Muleshoe Junior High School and MHS Mighty 'M' Marching Band in the parade in full uniform, the persons enjoyed the extra treat of being entertained by the top-notch bands. Also, when the MHS band reached the nursing home on the final swing of the parade, they marched out of the parade line-up and formed another line-up in front of the nursing home as they played Christmas carols for the residents on South First Street.

Many persons said they wished to express their

Weather Contributes To Low Cotton Yield

There's again good news and bad news in the cotton picture for this area following long, deep back to back snowfalls. Many cotton ginners are facing a longer ginning season, that they didn't need, because of the adverse weather conditions.

This year, cotton ginnings in the cotton gins served by Bailey County Electric Cooperative are approximately one-half of those ginned during the same period last year. In 1979 on December 5, 44,000 bales had been ginned, compared to 21,199 on December 4 this year.

Much of the drop in number of bales can be attributed to the two early snowfalls. However, in the dryland areas, very little cotton was produced this year to further cut the production of cotton bales.

For instance, at Bula, Bobby Nelson from the Bula Gin said his output was down by two thirds this year. "We are at a complete standstill," he commented. "There is still very little cotton down here to be ginned."

Also at Bula, Bennie Clauch of Clauch Gin also said his gin was 'caught up right now'. According to Clauch, they will gin around 5,500 bales this year, compared to 15,000 in 1979. He estimated the gin is around one half through right now.

Clauch also spoke about good rains in that area last Sunday, and added that up to an inch of rain was received in the area.

However, at Clay's Corner, they are not caught up at the Clay's Corner Gin. "We are having the best year and more cotton than we have seen in the last several years," said an elated Don McDonald, manager of the gin.

He said the gin at Clay's

Corner is not caught up, and during the recent bad weather, they have continued to gin modules, which are up to nine bales per module, stored in the cotton fields. At Clay's Corner, they had ginned 4,500 bales Tuesday afternoon and estimated they were two-thirds complete with the season.

At the Lariat Gin, it was reported, the gin has 'caught up' after running most of the time during the recent bad weather.

From Maple, the Maple Co-op Gin had a dismal projection of 4,500 bales at the most for the year. Again, the dryland produced an almost nonex-

Forms Out To People In Area

Forms for the labor survey currently being conducted by the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation and the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture are being distributed this week at banks, grocery stores, the savings and loan and through the area schools.

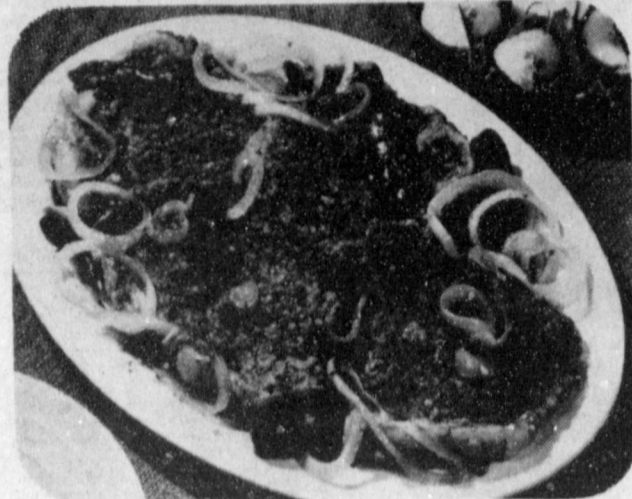

"It is extremely important that these surveys be returned immediately so that the results can be tabulated and returned by early next week," said John Gulley, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. "If you have received one of the surveys and are going to answer it, please don't delay in completing the form and dropping it in the mail. No postage is required."

If you wish, you may deliver the survey in person at the office of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture in City Hall at 215 South First.

FIRST PLACE WINNER..... "Frosty The Snowman" won a first place prize for the Distributive Education Club of America from Muleshoe High School last weekend. Frosty was the entry of the DECA Club in the annual Christmas Parade. Theme of the parade was "Songs of Christmas".

The Arizona Extension Service in a recent news release provided the answers to some of the most repeated questions that come to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

Several times a year someone comes to PCG to ask "How much lint cotton is in an ordinary shirt, blouse, blue jeans, etc.?"

Assuming each article is 100 percent cotton, the newsletter says a bale of cotton (presumably 480 pounds net) will make 330 pairs of men's jeans, 328 pairs for women, 764 men's shirts, 896 women's blouses, 1,217 T-shirts, 542 skirts, 782 bath towels, 364 dresses or 3,015 diapers.

The Extension Service calculations show this to mean there's about one and one-half pounds of cotton in a pair of jeans, six-tenths of a pound in a man's shirt, less than one-half pound in a T-shirt, nine-tenths of a pound in a skirt, six-tenths of a pound in a bath towel, one-half pound in a blouse, 1.3 pounds in a dress, and only .15 pounds in a diaper.

So, if you are a cotton producer and someone wants to put the blame on you for the cost of cotton items in the store, you can point out that at 80 cents a pound for lint, there's about $1.20 worth of cotton in a pair of jeans, 48 cents worth in a man's shirt, 32 cents worth in a T-shirt, 72 cents worth in a skirt, 48 cents worth in a bath towel, 40 cents worth in a blouse and only 12 cents worth in a diaper.

Another cotton industry "dream" may yet come true. After years of research and disappointing attempts to commercialize a process for making human food protein from common glanded cottonseed, hopes for success again are rising.

According to the National Cottonseed Products Association (NCPA), scientists at USDA's Southern Regional Research laboratories in New Orleans have not given up on removing the gossypol stumbling block from glanded seed and is accumulating technical knowledge on a new concept, using a process called "air classification." This system is a dry process, as opposed to the wet liquid cyclone process that so far has proven unsuccessful in commercial application.

Also encouraging, the NCPA points out, is that the air classification process uses "off-the-shelf" equipment already used in the wheat milling industry.

Souffle Deliciously Rich

Food assumes festive and majestic proportions during the holidays and desserts are no exceptions.

Though some families like to enjoy traditional desserts on these occasions it's often nice to add some change of pace to the menu. And if you select a souffle made with chocolate and cherries, you can expect no quibbling over the choice.

Those who think this is too rich for a holiday dinner may want to sip glasses of homemade eggnog and nibble a few of your homemade cookies.

Whatever their preference, most people like a little space between dinner and dessert. That will give you time to clear the table, put away leftovers and decorate the souffle with dollops of whipped cream and cherries. Another nice thing about this dessert: it's made in advance so there's no last-minute baking, steaming, etc.

Like all cold souffles, this one will look best when it's molded in a dish especially designed for it. Be sure to add a foil collar because the mixture fills more than the dish holds to give the souffle look.

HOLIDAY DESSERT SOUFFLE

Social Security Needs Correct Addresses

The Social Security Office in Lubbock announced that persons in this area who do not have the correct address on their Social Security or Supplemental Security checks may have them delayed. Delivery of mail by the post office department gets the best service when the correct address and zip codes are shown on the check.

If you want fastest delivery of your check, notify the Social Security office of any change of address as soon as possible to avoid delay in receiving your social security check. Ninety five percent of delayed checks or checks not received on time is due to a wrong address on the check, and the post office will not continue to forward checks indefinitely.

thinks they are being followed, just lead them directly to the police department. The chief also suggested that if you are being followed, try to get a description, color, and if possible, the license number of the vehicle following you. Also, the police ask that any person seen in a vehicle, or attempting to enter a vehicle you know or suspect is not their own, report it immediately to the police so they can check it out.

For home safety, and to protect the purchases you plan for your family and loved ones at Christmas, the chief offered another set of guidelines.

The city chief said to be sure all doors and windows are locked when you leave home, and if at night, leave a light on in the home.

However, for fire safety, he suggests that all Christmas lights and electrical decorations be turned off or unplugged.

He added that it would not be a disadvantage to notify a neighbor if you will be gone overnight or an extended period of time, and by all means, notify the police department.

City police officers maintain a list of homes to check on a regular basis when the home owner or resident is absent. Chief Richards explained that this service is offered for the safety of the personal belongings of the local residents.

Taking positive safety measures can help assure a happy holiday season for all the area, added the chief.

"Our department will be working to help try to assure a happy holiday season," continued the chief. "And, if the people will take the proper safety precautions, it will be a very good holiday season for all our residents."

The chief also added a word of caution to busy merchants, who will perhaps be a little lax in checking identification before cashing or accepting checks for purchases.

H cautioned merchants that a group is currently traveling cities in this area, passing fraudulent com-cial checks. "I can't urge enough," he said, "for all merchants to have good ID's before cashing any check, especially commercial checks. Be positive who you are accepting a check from, especially big checks."

"Many of the checks are signed with fictitious names, so please, get a good verification of the persons with the checks, or do not cash them."

Elves included Terri Whitecotton, Muleshoe; Lee Palmer, Amy Lewallen and Shonda Strahan, also of Muleshoe; Cristan Crow, Ralls; Jarrett and Nikki and Terrell Freeman, Canyon; Sandra Keller, Lazbuddie and Janet Elliott, San Antonio, a clown.

In many eyes, this was "the best Christmas parade ever" and was sponsored by the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agricultural, coordinated by Llano Estacado.

rible" said the manager of the Needmore Co-op Gin, when asked about production for this year.

He estimated his production down some 80 percent this year, adding they have only ginned 1,042 bales, compared to above 7,000 at this time last year.

Another brighter picture was painted by Charles Moraw, manager of the Muleshoe Co-op Gin. He said they have kept busy, and are still ginning around the clock, although most of what they are ginning at this time is modules, as farmers are still unable, for the most part, to resume harvesting following the snows.

By choosing the fields they are going to, the cotton gin has started picking up some modules during the day, and are not having to wait for the ground to freeze during the nighttime hours.

How To Get Along With That Nice Policeman!

Phoenix, Arizona. Officer Jim Fiebig has put together a few tips for drivers who get pulled over by police. Fiebig's suggestions appeared in a Phoenix Republic article headed, "How to Get Along with the Nice Policeman." Here are some of his thoughts:

"When the red lights go on, pull over. That may sound elementary, but you would be surprised at how many drivers become mesmerized with those revolving gumball machines and continue merrily down the road.

"Keep your hands on the wheel and don't hold a gun in either one of them. Policemen are paranoid about guns. From our earliest days at the academy we're indoctrinated with training films that convince us that anyone, from large old ladies to little kids, is capable of shooting us.

"Remain seated in your car. There's an old story going around, started no doubt by some short person, that you gain a psychological advantage by standing up to a policeman and lookin him in the eye, as opposed to sitting in your car and looking at the buckle on his gumbel. Policemen do not give a fig about psychology. If you immediately exit your car and begin advancing toward us while we're still trying to radio our position or hang up the mike, you have automatically made us nervous.

"Be pleasant. Most police officers make few traffic stops during a given shift. More than likely, when you meet us we've already been to some delightful family fight, taken an assault report, checked out a silent burglar alarm or even rolled like hell to a scene where somebody was supposed to be waving a gun at somebody else. The cop is probably not in a terrific mood. He is edgy, on guard and the last thing he wants to hear from you is, "What's the problem this time, Pig?"

To remove rust stains from concrete, scrub with a cleaner containing oxalic acid, says Mary Lou Rowland, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Mrs. Rowland is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Computers take to the fields

COLLEGE STATION — Engineers and scientists at Texas A&M are beating computers into plowshares, devising ways for a computer to describe a living plant.

They believe the capability will lead to higher food and fiber yields at lower cost, said Dr. Guy L. Curry. One result has been BUGNET, a computer-based antipest system used by county agricultural extension agents in advising farmers.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Merchants use many, different means to encourage you to buy their products. While most businesses are honest and straightforward, a few engage in misleading tactics to get you to agree to a purchase. With the holiday buying season upon us, we all need to be aware of the various types of deceptive sales tactics to which we might fall victim.

Advertisements using price comparisons can help consumers make buying decisions. In such ads, current prices for goods or services are compared with previous prices, with future prices, or with other stated values in order to show price reductions, savings, or sales. Such ads might say -- "Regularly $50 - Now on sale for $39.95" or "Buy one pair at regular price - get the second pair for 14."

Price comparison ads that accurately reflect current market value help consumers make buying decisions. But if such ads are based on inflated or arbitrary prices, they can be misleading.

A small number of merchants misuse price comparison ads. They may raise the price of an item just before a "sale" and then offer "tremendous price reductions." The ad may say "compare at $10" or "reduced from manufacturer's suggested retail price," when, in fact, the product has never sold at the higher price.

If businesses want to advertise a reduction in price, the previous price must have been in effect for a reasonable length of time before the sale and must have been sold regularly at that price in order for the "sale" to be legitimate.

Another type of sales tactic which might be used to mislead you is the "free gift" or "contest winner" approach.

This usually involves a telephone call in which the consumer is told that by answering a question correctly a "free prize" will be won. Usually, the question is on the order of "Who is our current president?" As a result, almost everyone is a "winner." Unfortunately, such "prizes" almost always have strings attached.

For example, you may win three years' worth of magazines for which you are required to pay just "postage and handling." They may express this as "only 25 cents a week." It doesn't sound like much; however, it amounts to $39.00 worth of "free magazines."

To avoid falling victim to such sales tactics, our

In Fashion

Lipstick shades for fall and winter are sharp and clear.

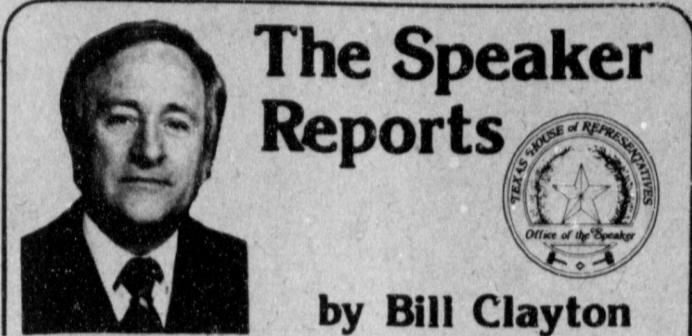

Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division attorneys suggest the following guidelines:
-Shop around to see if the "reduced" price is actually a good price and a savings from what the product can be purchased for elsewhere.
-If you are told that you have won a prize in a contest, ask if you will be obligated to listen to a sales pitch for a product or service. Many times, to obtain your "free" prize you must endure an intense, high pressure sales pitch.

-Find out what conditions are tied to getting the "free gift." Usually, it's not really free -- it is likely you will have to buy something to get it, and you may end up paying more than you would for a similar item in a local store.

-If you must buy something, shop around first to see how the cost you are quoted compares with the item without such a "gift." If the merchant tells you that you cannot have time to consider the offer, decline it.

If you have a consumer complaint about deceptive sales tactics contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, or San Antonio.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—The Crime Victims Compensation Act is a new program created by the 67th Legislature to provide restitution for those persons who are victims of certain crimes or who are injured while trying to prevent a crime from occurring.

Historically speaking, the concept of providing assistance to crime victims is not a novel idea. Ancient Babylonian custom provided that when a man was robbed or murdered, the city or governor in which the crime was committed should compensate the victim or his heirs for their losses.

Under the present-day Crime Victims Compensation Act, victims are compensated by monies from additional court costs imposed on persons convicted of felonies ($15) and Class A and B misdemeanors ($10). These funds are collected by county and district clerks and deposited monthly with the state comptroller's office.

However, there currently exists a tremendous shortage of funds for compensation. Ten Texas counties have failed to submit any funds toward the program since it began and several other large counties have fallen short of giving their projected share of monies based on the average number of crimes committed in the area.

The House Committee on

Employment Practices studied the Crime Victims Compensation Act and recommends that Class C misdemeanors, such as assault and battery and driving while intoxicated but excluding traffic violations, should result in payment of added court costs to increase revenues.

This recommendation is one of several that the 67th Legislature will be discussing in hopes of finding innovative solutions to the problems which currently plague the Crime Victims Compensation Act. I feel very strongly that crime victims should not have to suffer undue financial or emotional distress because of unfortunate and tragic circumstances.

Vernon Seed Laboratory Ready For Business

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown and a host of other state and local officials recently toured the Texas Department of Agriculture's new seed testing laboratory located at Vernon. The site is only the fourth such center in the state.

State Rep. W. S. "Bill" Heatly, State Sen. Ray Farabee, Vernon City Manager Sam Phelps, Brown, Vernon District Supervisor Ronald Bertrand, and other TDA personnel were among those attending the open house.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture is responsible for administering the Texas Seed Act, with the goal of making sure that farmers know what they are buying and get the very best seed for their money," said Brown. "Texas leads the nation in providing complete seed testing services, and the addition of these new facilities will allow us to better serve farmers and seedsmen in the Vernon area and throughout the state."

Livestock Slaughter in Texas Up 25%

AUSTIN— Commercial livestock slaughter in Texas increased 25 percent in September. Agricultural Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported. The increase is attributed to the large cattle sell-off brought on during the peak of last summer's drought. Brown said.

Current statistics from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service list the number of head slaughtered as follows: cattle at 517,400, up 29 percent; calves, 18,900, up 8 percent; hogs, 113,300, down 2 percent; sheep and lambs, 83,700, up 7 percent.

Brown attributed the increase in slaughtering to the large cattle sell-off brought on during the peak of last summer's drought.

The Texas Department of Agriculture also operates seed testing laboratories in Giddings, Stephenville and Lubbock. Under the Texas Seed Act, requirements are established for marketing of seed. All seed offered for sale in the state must bear an analysis label, and it is the duty of TDA to see that the seed actually conform to the specifications on the label. In addition, the Department regulates the production and sale of certified seed, which are the purest and best seed available. To maintain standards on certified seed, each year the Department inspects more than 330,000 acres on which are grown 49 different types and hundreds of varieties of seed.

More than 41,600 seed samples were tested in TDA laboratories during the past fiscal year.

The new Vernon seed lab will employ up to 8 area residents. The major types of seed tested will be wheat, cotton, guar, alfalfa and mung beans. The facilities have been operational since April.
