Around Muleshoe

Rev. Herman Schelter, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church at Lariat, said he and the church members would like to invite all interested persons to a New Year's celebration at the church.

The special services are scheduled at 7 p.m. at the church on December 31. Communion will be conducted during the services.

Mrs. Cordie Taylor is reported to be at home and recuperating from surgery at University Hospital in Lubbock over four weeks ago.

Following her surgery, she spent some time with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Osborn, at South Plains.

Coach and Mrs. Jim Leach are spending Christmas at Andrews, Colorado City and San Angelo.

Marine Sgt. Walter W. Coburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Coburn, Muleshoe, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with Marine Wing Support Group 27, 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, with Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort, S.C.

He joined the Marine Corps in March 1974.

The family of Ovie Masasco had their Christmas supper on December 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Manasco at Clovis.

Among the 32 persons attending the special occasion were all of the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Santa made a surprise visit to the children and gifts were exchanged.

Pre-Christmas visits to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Creamer on Monday night were Sgt. 1 and Mrs. Jim Champlin of Benning, Ga. and Herb Herzog of Columbus.

Following an overnight visit, the trio went to the home of the Crez's daughter and her husband, the Jerry Champlin of Las Vegas, Nev.

Ray Manasco was surprised with a birthday dinner December 15.

Area Invited To Reception For Retiree

Coordinators of the public reception for retiring Bailey County Sheriff Dee Clements have said they would like to invite all persons in the area, especially Bailey County, to attend the reception honor Sunday.

Scheduled from 6-8 p.m. in the conference room at the Muleshoe State Bank, the sheriff and his wife will be honored for 24 years of service.

A money tree will be available at the reception according to one of the coordinators for the event.

AWARDED FOR SERVICE--At the annual City of Muleshoe Christmas luncheon Monday, City Manager Dave Marr, center, presented a certificate of appreciation to Lorene Sooter, left, librarian for the now-defunct Bookmobile and Ruby Henderson, assistant librarian and driver, right. He praised them for their 'dedicated service' since the Bookmobile opened in the 1960's. They were also presented the Christmas arrangements shown in the foreground.

Sales Tax Increases Through This Year

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said late last week that December city sales tax payments to Texas cities will bring 1980 totals to more than $500 million.

Bullock said his office is sending $33.5 million in payments to cities who levy the one percent optional city sales tax.

The rebates to Texas cities is $93.5 million more than was distributed among Texas cities during 1979, an average increase of more than 20 percent.

Muleshoe's rebate check shows the largest increase in this area, at 16 percent. For December, the City of Muleshoe receives a rebate check of $7,018.51, a decrease from the $25,611.82 received as a rebate at the same time last year. But, for the year, Muleshoe reflects an overall increase, with the December check bringing payments for the year to $175,733.29, up from the $150,201.68 at the same time last year.

'80 Farmer Tax Guide Available

The 1980 Farmers Tax Guide is now available at the County Extension office in the Bailey County Courthouse. The Farmers Tax Guide explains how federal tax laws apply to farming. It gives examples of typical farming situations, and discusses the kinds of income you must report and the different deductions you are allowed. Sample forms and schedules show you how to fill out the federal tax returns you may have to file for your farming business.

This year some of the chapters have been revised to make discussion of tax laws more understandable. Some of the more important changes to the tax law this year are: (1) Investment Credit (2) Business Energy Investment Credit (3) Residential Energy Credit (4) Standard Mileage Rate (5) Alcohol Fuel Credit.

Anyone desiring a copy of this publication can come by the office for a free copy or call our office and we will be glad to mail you a copy.

Morton shows percentage of increase for the year, with payments of $46,783.20 through this year, down very slightly from the $47,156.47 at the same time last year. In December this year, Morton received a payment of $1,224.34, and in December last year, the rebate check was $7,349.53.

At Littlefield, a 10 percent increase for the year was noted. In December last year, the total received during the year at Littlefield was $209,516.96, increasing to $231,167.54 in December this year. Their rebate check was $6,047.98 for December 1980 and last year at this time, the payment was $36,349.06.

From Friona, an 11 percent increase was noted, with a total of $80,232.39.

Cattle Lice Control Should Start Now

It's the time of year when the nation's cattlemen need to put up their guard against a pest that annually plunders their pocketbooks of $100 million.

Lice are the culprits, and they begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

FFA Receives 'Top' Honors At Meeting

Muleshoe FFA took third in senior chapter conducting and second in FFA Quiz at the recent Littlefield District FFA banquet hosted by South Plains College, Levelland.

Muleshoe FFA also took a fourth place in junior chapter conducting and fourth in senior, farm skills and seventh in radio broadcasting.

About 300 participants from 15 chapters in the Littlefield District attended the festivities last Monday night in SPC's Texan Hall.

Ted Harrison and Dan Throckmorton, both of Muleshoe, also were named honorary state farmers.

Lone Star Farmers for 1980 include Curby Brantley, Benton Glaze, Kelly Harrison and Thurman Myers, all of Muleshoe.

They reach peak populations in late winter and early spring.

Uncontrolled, lice can soon infest a whole herd, because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more and the pests can easily move from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cold weather also afford protection for the parasites and allowed increased reproduction.

Costs to the cattleman--both in control efforts and dramatic production losses--increase as lice populations build.

There are two types of lice--bloodsucking and biting--and both infest cattle, says Tanksley. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab and skin discharges.

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or even death, points out Tanksley.

Lice infested animals may also be more subject to respiratory diseases, such as pneumonia. Heavy lice infestations also often

At this time, the Mules are all evened up for the season at 6-6.

Next game for the Mules will be January 2, when they travel to Lockney to take on the Longhorns on their home territory.

No White Christmas Say NWS Forecasters

Chances for snow and a white Christmas lessened during the early part of this week when a lingering mass of frigid air moved out of the area. However, by today, Christmas Day, the National Weather Service predicted another cold front from the north would keep Christmas very cold, but dry.

Last weekend, there was no doubt it was finally wintertime, when the temperature lingered in the low 20's for at least three days, and did not even reach as high as the freezing mark for the afternoon highs.

Cloudy skies accompanied the weekend cold front, but no moisture was reported other than some very light snow early Friday morning in southwestern Bailey County.

NWS said a slow warm-up through Tuesday would be turning back to the colder air for Wednesday and Thursday, today.

By the weekend, the air was expected to warm again with the afternoon highs expected to move back into the 60's. Sunday, with the official arrival of winter, the temperature failed to even make 30 degrees for the afternoon high, and winds made the air more frigid during the day. By Sunday afternoon, the clouds finally broke, and a cold sun failed to warm the air before sunset.

A slow moving warm front extended southward from central New Mexico into far West Texas earlier in the week, causing the cold air to slightly loosen its icy grip on the South Plains.

The warm southwesterly winds on Monday helped to slightly warm the air, although some high clouds were again moving into the area, still without the promise of any moisture.

Following record breaking weather extremes during 1980, from the record-breaking extended heat to the lack of moisture, two snowfalls in November also caused other records to fall for the year.

Jeff Meeks Chosen For Super Team

Although Clovis dominated the 1980 Globe-News Super Team as chosen by the Amarillo Globe-News, one player from Muleshoe was named to the elite team. Chosen as the only player from District 2-3A on the team was Jeff Meeks, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Meeks.

He was one of only two junior students named to the team for this year, sharing that honor with Aubrey Richburg of Hereford.

Meeks is 6-2 and weighs 188, and was named to the offensive team as a tackle.

Members of the Super Team were chosen from teams in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, with Clovis receiving six of the honor spots.

Despite early injuries, Meeks made his mark with the Muleshoe Mules during regular season play, and became well known for his hard hitting tackles.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

Longest Year Had 445 Days

Most of us know which is the longest day of the year. What about the longest year? Believe it or not, one year contained 445 days.

The longest year was 46 B.C. but we have to go back to the seventh century B.C. to find out why it was so long. That was when Numa Pompilius supposedly created the Roman calendar. Despite being revised several times, this calendar still fell some two months behind the sun by the time of Julius Caesar.

Caesar put his experts to work revising the calendar. They came up with a calendar, but couldn't decide what to do with the two months needed to catch up with the sun.

The only way they could find to solve the problem was to insert two months between the months of November and December to give the year 46 B.C. a total of 445 days.

We now mark time by the Gregorian calendar, instituted by Pope Gregory in 1582 and, despite efforts to substitute other methods of marking time, the Gregorian system will probably be with us for some time. Mathematicians guarantee the method will remain accurate until 2500 A.D.

The Gregorian calendar takes into consideration the solar year which actually consists of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. These extra hours, minutes and seconds are accounted for by a well-regulated system of leap years, which keep the calendar and the solar equinoxes congruent. The Gregorian calendar provides that the years divisible by four, exclusive of the years numbering centuries, shall have 366 days. The century-marking years are leap years only if they are divisible by four after the ciphers have been removed.

MJHS Coaches Comments

Dimmitt beat both our 7th and 8th grade basketball teams Monday night. We didn't play as well as I thought we were capable of playing with either team. However, with a week coming up without a game to worry about we work on many much needed fundamentals. What both teams really need is practice and improvement in ball handling, jumping and especially in the area of shooting the ball would make both teams much better. We have some boys in both grades and will decide to have confidence in themselves, things will be alright. Both teams compete pretty well.

Mullettes Stung By Bobcats

Last Monday, December 15, the Dimmitt Bobcats came to Muleshoe to take on the 7th grade Mullettes. The Mullettes played a tough game but lost 33-15. High scorer was Leonor Danial with 5 points, followed by Meichelle Logsdon with 4.

Coach Winegeart committed that to Muleshoe improved a whole lot and they are shooting more. All of it is paying off. Their next game will be January 5.

Mules Lose To Bobcats

The 8th grade Jr. High Mules met the Dimmitt Bobcats last Monday, December 15. It was a real close game even though the Mules didn't play as well as they could have. The final score was 21-30. Mark Moton received 2 stars--one for 100 percent shooting and 5 steals. Rob Donaldson received a star for 100 percent shooting and John Isaac received a star for 12 rebounds.

Bobcats Stopped Mules

The Muleshoe 7th grade Mules played the Dimmitt Bobcats in their third district game. The Mules played tough but came short 29-16.

Scoring points were Loy Triana, with 5 points; Lester Burks with 5 points; Mike Holt, with 2 points; Monte Horne, with 2 points; and David Vela with 2 points. Monte Horne received a star with 7 steals.

The Little Match Girl

by Hans Christian Andersen

It was terribly cold; it snowed and was already almost dark, and evening came on, the last evening of the year. In the cold and gloom a poor little girl, bareheaded and barefoot, was walking through the streets.

Shivering with cold and hunger, she crept along, a picture of misery, poor little girl! The snowflakes covered her long fair hair, which fell in pretty curls over her neck; but she did not think of that now. In all the windows lights were shining, and there was a glorious smell of roast goose, for it was New Year's Eve. Yes, she thought of that!

Her little hands were almost numb with the cold. Ah, a match might do her good, if she could only draw one from the bundle and rub it against the wall and warm her hands at it. She drew one out. R-r-atch! how it sputtered and burned! It was a warm, bright flame, like a little candle, when she held her hands over it; it was a wonderful little light!

She rubbed another match against the wall; it became bright again, and in the brightness her old grandmother stood clear and shining, mild and lovely.

And she hastily rubbed the whole bundle of matches, for she wished to hold her grandmother fast. And the matches burned with such a glow that it became brighter than in the middle of the day; grandmother had never been so large or so beautiful. She took the little girl in her arms, and both flew in brightness and joy above the earth, very very high, and up there was neither cold, nor hunger, nor care—they were with God.

We All Love The Music of Christmas!

What would Christmas be like without music! Can you imagine Christmas Eve without the strains of "Silent Night" to evoke thoughts of the tender mother and the Holy Child?

Indeed, music has been a part of the holiday tradition ever since the angels performed the first Christmas "concert" for a group of awestruck shepherds.

Since then, simple carols and great oratorios alike have expressed humanity's joy and wonder over the events of Christmas.

Interestingly enough, many early carols were actually folk songs without Christian content... so today's newer, secular compositions have a tradition of sorts behind them. But, the most meaningful Christmas music is, of course, religious in context. Handel's Messiah has inspired generation after generation since it was first performed before George II in 1743.

Not all Christmas music is as awesome, however. The simplicity of Franz Gruber's "Silent Night" has made it one of the most loved Christmas carols. Joyful hymns such as "Adeste Fideles" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" are other Christmas favorites.

Let Youngsters Make Holiday Greetings Cards

One way to keep youngsters occupied while they're counting the days until Christmas is to let them make their own greeting cards for special people such as grandparents or a favorite teacher.

All you need is construction paper, glue, scissors and some old greeting cards.

Have the children cut out holiday motifs from the cards: a Santa face or a Christmas tree, for example. Then, have them fold 9x12 paper in half and once again in half, to form the basis for their cards.

Next, have them draw a circle on the front of the card, using a round object such as a coaster or cup to define the circle. (Make sure their circle will accommodate the motif that has been selected.) Have children cut out the circle and then place their motif within the circle, gluing motif to the second sheet of the folded paper.

The inside sheets can be used for a personal message from the youngster, to be crayoned or penciled in.

To make an envelope for the greeting card, take another 9x12 sheet of construction paper and fold it 4 1/2 inches from the bottom, lengthwise. Then, fold along the lengthwise edges, approximately 1 1/4 inches in. Glue edges along 4 1/2 inches, leaving top edges open for card to slip in.

After the youngster's greeting card has been placed in the "envelope," fold over the top of it and seal it with a decorative sticker.

Have your youngsters hand-deliver their greeting cards to admiring family and friends.

Tuneful arrival of the Yuletide

In pagan times it was thought that noise would drive away evil spirits. Today, in many areas of the Scandinavian countries and in Germany, a delightful (though somewhat noisy) holiday custom is observed, that probably stems from that pagan belief.

A group of musicians take their instruments into the belfry of their local church where they play four Christmas carols, one in each direction of the compass.

Their music is played loud and clear and the finale is a joyful pealing of the church bells, announcing the arrival of Christmas!

The bride elect, Kanetha, her mother and the prospective groom's mother greeted the guests. JoRhonda Rhodes registered the guests.

Gina Wilkerson served assorted breads, cider, and coffee from crystal and silver appointments. The serving table was covered with a pink satin cloth overlaid with white net and edged with scalloped felt. An arrangement of silk roses in shades of pink and baby's breath enhanced the table.

Special guests were the bride's grandmothers; Mrs. Freddie Mae Hysinger and Mrs. Lorene Stewart, both of Olton; the bride's great grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Stewart of Hale Center; bride's aunt, Ruth Barnette of Hale Center; great aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Everette Loveless of Olton. Also the groom's sister in law and niece, Beverly and Michelle Foster.

The hostesses gift was a kitchen center. Hostesses for the occasion were Martha Young, Mary Brantley, Margaret Stevens, Frances Burrows, Ruth Williams, Rowena Meyers, Phyllis Angeley, Nelda Hunt, Donna Shaw, Anna Copeland and Janette Burden.

Also Donna Black, Ella Dunbar, Gina Wilkerson, Stephanie Barrett, Lauranette Mason, Darla Rhodes, Margaret Epting, Susie Hamblen, Wanda Griffin and Frankie Lunsford.

'Visit from St. Nicholas' written as Christmas gift

by Marjorie Miller

"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night."

These heart-warming and familiar words, so dear to all, complete Clement Clarke Moore's beloved poem, A Visit from St. Nicholas.

Dr. Moore, a classical scholar and part-time poet, wrote his immortal and whimsical poem on a cold Christmas Eve in 1822, as a present he had promised to his children.

Clement Clarke Moore is best remembered for having created the now popular image of Santa Claus, that happy, portly, white bearded figure, dressed in fur, smoking a pipe, and carrying a bulging sack of toys over his shoulder. It is thought that an old Dutch handyman who drove Dr. Moore's sleigh the night the poem was written was the model for the cherubic Santa figure.

Imagine how delighted the Moore children must have been with this colorful tale. How captivated, as their father read, "Now Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen! On! Comet, on! Cupid, on! Dunder and Blitzen!"

The young family memorized the poem they loved so, although Dr. Moore thought little of it and relegated it to a desk drawer.

Sometime after the holiday, a family acquaintance, intrigued with the fascinating and spell-binding tale, sent a copy to her local newspaper, where it was reprinted. Unfortunately, she forgot to say who had written the delightful poem, and for some years it was reprinted "anonymously" in other papers and magazines.

Later, in the 1860's, Thomas Nast, an American political cartoonist, created the rotund, kindly Santa we know, in his fur-trimmed red suit.

A collection of verse printed in 1837, called The New York Book of Poetry, carried Dr. Moore's poem with his name. And it was also included in a volume of Dr. Moore's poems, printed in 1844.

Although he did not consider A Visit from St. Nicholas a significant poem, it eclipsed all his other writings on the Bible and classical literature.

Clement Moore never received a single penny in royalties from his poem, although it has been reprinted countless thousands of times. Almost every American child, and millions of other children all over the world, have been delighted by this endearing classic.

There is no estimating how many people have read or heard it in the dozens of languages in which it has appeared.

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore has been likened to the kindly, humorous figure he gave to the world, a man who brought joy to others and whose own reward was the happiness he left as his legacy.

stunt calves. Undernourished cattle of any age usually have the heaviest infestation.

Some cattle appear to be physiologically more susceptible to lice than others and thus have higher pest populations. Such animals are called 'chronics' or 'carriers' and are usually instrumental in reinfesting the herd annually in spite of repeated insecticide treatments. Culling 'carrier' animals is a helpful management practice in reducing lice problems, Tanksley explains.

Insecticide control of lice is not difficult to achieve, but there are some problems. Most insecticides don't kill eggs; therefore, retreatment is required in two to three weeks to prevent another buildup. However if the initial treatment comes late enough in the season, there may not be enough time for lice to build to economic levels again before warm spring weather.

Spraying and dipping infested animals with proper insecticides is an effective means of controlling lice. However, control measures are usually required when winter conditions are most harsh—a time when cold stress is a good possibility and respiratory diseases prevalent. Some of this problem can be prevented by treating animals on a day when they can be dry before sundown, says Tanksley.

Pour-on and spot-on grubicides for lice are effective and considerably reduce the problem of cold stress associated with dips and sprays. However, the possibility of a host-parasite reaction is always a threat if the material is applied after the cut-off date for grub control.

Systemic grubicides labeled for lice control usually recommend a lower rate than that to control grubs, which would help reduce the host-parasite reaction.

Use of nonsystemic dust applied by hand or in dust bags would eliminate the possibility of host-parasite reaction. But because of a lack of penetration of Houston's final check for this year will be $7.8 million, bringing that city's 1980 total to $116.1 million, a 19 percent boost over 1979.

Dallas will get $4 million, raising that city's total for 1980 to $65.1 million, a $10 million increase over the previous year.

Fort Worth will receive $1.1 million this month, for a 1980 total of $21.6 million, up 16 percent over 1979.

heavy hair coats, dusts do not provide an effective lice control as dips or sprays, the county agent explained.

But, when used in a preventative program, properly placed and maintained dust bags offer effective control of lice. Bags should be hung in areas that cattle frequently use or hung in such a manner that cattle are forced to use them. One dust bag station should serve about 30 head.

The spot-on formulation of chlorpyrifos is a new product that has been effective against lice. The product kills all stages of lice -- eggs, nymphs and adults. One application is adequate for season-long control if the entire herd is treated and no untreated animals are later introduced into the herd.

Only a small amount of chlorpyrifos is required, thus eliminating cold stress from soaking animals with sprays and dips. The insecticide is not a grubicide, so it can be used anytime without fear of a host-parasite reaction. However, this product is not labeled for dairy animals.

Tanksley cautions that whichever lice control program is used, the cattleman should be certain to read label directions and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions, and pre-slaughter intervals.

Additional information on control of lice and other external parasites of cattle is available in the publication "Suggestions for Controlling Parasites of Livestock and Poultry" at the county Extension office.

CHEMICAL WEED CONTROL ALONG COUNTY ROADS

Herbicides can drastically reduce the cost of controlling weeds and brush along county road rights-of-way, points out an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. When comparing mechanical methods of weed and brush control with the use of chemicals, savings ranged from more than $1,000 in a Washington County precinct to more than $62,000 in a Wharton County precinct. These savings resulted mainly from reduced labor and fuel use when only herbicides were used.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature will be appropriating more money to build update prisons this session, an expenditure it has long avoided.

Last week a federal judge ruled the Texas prison system, largest in the nation, violates the constitutional rights of its inmates in virtually every aspect.

Among the violations cited by U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler are routine beatings, other forms of violence, poor medical treatment, unsafe working conditions, and unsanitary living and eating quarters.

The cost of making the sweeping changes ordered by Judge Justice is expected to run into millions.

Spokesmen for the Texas Department of Corrections point out they have not been able to initiate improvements on their own because the Legislature has repeatedly turned down requests for higher budgeting.

Justice's findings are not unexpected in a state where soft treatment of criminals is an unpopular stance with voters. Still, the depth of his court-ordered reform caught many Texas officials off-guard.

His 248-page opinion, which he took over a year to write, notes that the TDC system also violates several state laws and many of its own rules and regulations.

In apparently the first such ruling in Texas, the judge held that state job and safety laws apply to the 18-unit, in less than two weeks, accompanied by extremely cold temperature, caused moisture records to fall for the month, and according to some 'old-timers' herald a harsh, cold winter for the area.

25,000-inmate system.

His latest ruling is not the first controversy in Judge Justice's long legal career. In the past his rulings have desegregated Tyler schools, forced a Tyler junior college to accept students with long hair and forced a Tyler high school to stop using the Confederate flag for school emblems. Recently he ruled a Tyler school district must educate the children of illegal aliens without charging tuition.

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White said he will wait until a final judgment is handed down in February before deciding whether to appeal the TDC case.

$536 Million

LI. Gov. Bill Hobby said the Legislative Budget Board is recommending the Legislature approve $536 million for TDC over the next two years.

"The prison system is overcrowded. Basically, it is a system built for 16,000 prisoners and it now has 29,000," Hobby said.

"That there are deficiencies in the system is unquestioned."

Texas is not the only state to come under heavy criticism for its penal system. Eleven other states have been similarly chastised by findings.

Election Miscues

The outcomes of some state elections are still up in the air.

State Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, who lost his reelection bid to a retired military man, has charged discrepancies among the election's mailed in absentee ballots. The House of Representatives will decide which candidate to seat when it convenes next month.

Another legislator who won a state district judgeship may have to go to court to keep his new post. State Rep. Melchor Chavez, D-Harlingen, was declared ineligible to occupy the bench by Texas Secretary of State George Strake. Strake said Texas law prohibits Chavez from holding the judge's office, since as a member of the 1979 Legislature he voted for a 19 percent pay hike for district judges.

Chavez may seek an appointment from Gov. Bill Clements or a ruling from the Texas Supreme Court.

Clements has already called a Jan. 10 special election to fill the House seat being vacated by Rep. Chase Undermeyer, R-Houston. Undermeyer, a well-respected legislator, is resigning to become an aide to Vice President-elect George Bush. Several candidates are expected to seek that office.

Legal Funds Get Nod

Strake ruled last week that House Speaker Bill Clayton can use contributions from his officeholder's fund to defray legal and other expenses incurred in his defense in the Brilab prosecution.

Clayton had sought the ruling because of his $500-a-plate dinner a week earlier, which was well attended by state political movers and shakers to pay off Clayton's Brilab costs.

Strake said the fact that Clayton was acquitted rather than found guilty enabled him to use the funds for activity in connection with his office, since illegal activity is unquestionably not a part of official duties.

Origin of Xmas

Many people take offense at the term 'Xmas,' suggesting it is an attempt to take Christ out of Christmas, when actually it is merely an abbreviation of the word itself. In modern times the letter X is a way of crossing out unwanted information ... and so, the misconception.

The X in Xmas is the Greek letter Chi, the first letter of Christ's name when written in that language. It has always stood for Christ ... without any bad intentions.

Merry, Merry Christmas to all our families and friends from the Staff and Residents of the Nursing Home.

Thursday afternoon the Muleshoe Young Home-

ted the nursing home

t certainly gave us the Christmas spirit.

Judy Watson brought her cub scouts to the nursing to the residents Sunday afternoon. Fourteen residents attended.

The nursing home and hospital auxiliary came to hair Tuesday afternoon. About 20 ladies had their hair done.

Glenda Jennings from the Lazbuddie Methodist Church came to have a sing a long with the residents Wednesday afternoon.

Elaine Stout brought her group of Mission Friends

ping in to visit each resident and leaving them

Merry Christmas.

Letters To
The Editor

Dear Editor:
I am more than 80 years of age, a veteran of World War One, and am writing in the particular interest of all World War One veterans.

We do not believe that we have always received fair treatment -- and World War One veterans do not receive the benefits they should have now. Thus, if the President, together with his Cabinet, the Senate, and House of Representatives, want to do something good and patriotic for a very deserving group of people, they will provide more benefits for them. But they need to act promptly, for the average age of those veterans is about 86 years. And time is running out.

Personally, I fought all across France and Germany with the 36th Division during 1916 and 1917.
Not only so, but I have children and grandchildren that have served in the armed forces. So we have done our part toward the defense and protection of our country. And there are thousands of others in similar circumstances.

But we do not have the benefits that other people have, such as food stamps, welfare payments, and other types of assistance.
Even our social Security is counted against us as income -- often causing our veteran's pension to be lowered.

Furthermore V.A. hospitals have been closed which makes it much more difficult to obtain medical attention.

So I strongly recommend to President - elect Reagan that he give these matters his immediate attention. He and his cabinet together with the new Senate and House, can correct the wrongs if they so desire.

To do so will be a noble deed, it will be only a just reward for those who have given the most for our nation, and it will earn them the everlasting gratitude of the entire country.

If others want to use this letter they may feel free to do so.

Sincerely,
Clyde L. Newell
P.S. I also served in the Texas National Guard in Paris, Texas Battery F 133rd Field Artillery in 1916-1917. Was a Lieutnant
Colonel on the Governor's Staff from 1946-1951.

Purchasing a home
is still a good idea, notes economist

COLLEGE STATION --
While some families will find it harder than ever to purchase a home in the next decade, a home will remain their best investment, says a Texas A&M University real estate expert.

"It used to be that gathering several thousand dollars for a down payment was the biggest problem people faced when wanting to buy a house," said Dr. Arthur Wright, a research economist for the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M. "Now the problem is continuing increase in monthly payments."

By rule of thumb, house payments were about 25 percent of the monthly household income, Wright said, but today people can expect the percentage to be higher. In some instances, it has been as much as 35 percent of the monthly household income.

I can resist everything except temptation.
