LAMBS SET NEW ALL-TIME RECORD PRICES AT FT. WORTH

Two shipments of choice spring lambs from Sterling and Howard Counties sold at $25.75 per hundred pounds to establish a new all-time record high at the Fort Worth livestock Market Tuesday.

J. T. Davis marketed 800 lambs averaging 74.9 pounds that grossed better than $19.28 each that came from his ranch near Sterling City. "I thought my lambs might sell around the $20 or $22 mark, but when I read in the Star-Telegram this morning that my neighbor W. L. Foster had set a record at $25.50 I started thinking I might get more than I originally thought," Davis said.

T. W. Longshore of Big Spring sold 200 lambs that averaged 70.2 pounds at $25.75 also.

Both lots were bought by Bill Johnson for Cudahy Packing Company, and were sold by Bob Bramlett.

(Taken from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram of June 11.)

A new all-time record high price was established on genuine spring lambs at Fort Worth Monday as W. L. Foster of Sterling City marketed 1,324 lambs at $25.50 per hundred pounds.

The lambs averaged 72.8 pounds each and thereby grossed slightly over $18.50 per lamb. Carroll Farmer arranged the sale to Swift & Co. Several lots of strictly choice spring lambs were reported at $24 to $25.25.

Frank Percifull of Robert Lee had the top shorn old crop lambs with a string weighing 93 pounds at $20, the highest price paid recently for that class. Percifull's lambs grossed approximately $18.50 each and were sold by Thad Boswell to Swift.

OUR WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

Taxes, labor and national security were dealt with by the House last week. The compromise House-Senate tax reduction bill was adopted by the House and is now before President Truman. Effective on July 1, it would reduce income taxes from 30 to 10.5 per cent, with personal exemptions for all persons 65 years of age and older being raised from $500 to $1,000.

The appropriation bill to cover the War Department was passed in substantially the same form as recommended by the Bureau of the Budget. The Members took the attitude this is no time to economize very much below requirements for maintaining a fairly strong military program during the next year, and the overall cut from estimates was under 10 per cent.

Defying what old-timers around the capitol said the most active pressure lobby in modern history against its enactment, the House passed by a vote of 320 to 79 the revised labor bill.

The new measure, which is now before President Truman, is a much weaker and much milder bill than the one originally passed by the House. Its enforcement provisions are very inadequate. But it seems to be the best we can hope to get at this session of Congress.

Here are a few of its principal provisions and objectives:

1. It prohibits the closed shop but permits the union shop where agreed to by a majority of employees in a plant. The bill yields to the States jurisdiction to legislate on the subject.
2. It attempts to ban jurisdictional strikes and boycotts.
3. It undertakes to restore freedom of speech to employers, which has been virtually prohibited by the Wagner Act.
4. It bans featherbedding, such as Pettrillo engages in.
5. It outlaws strikes against the Government.
6. It prohibits political contributions by unions as well as by banks and corporations, and requires unions to make annual financial reports.
7. It attempts to prohibit Communists from holding office in labor unions operating under the Act. (There are now at least 9 big CIO unions that are Communist-dominated.)

8. It prohibits a check-off of money from a worker's wages for union dues unless the worker gives his consent in writing.

9. It gives the President authority to seek through the Attorney General an injunction to prevent a strike affecting the national health and safety of the people. The injunction would expire after 75 days. The President may then report the situation to the Congress with a request for additional legislation to meet the crisis.

10. It defines unfair labor practices by unions as well as by employers. Heretofore unions could not, under the Wagner Act, do anything that would constitute an unfair practice and were not even required to bargain in good faith.

11. It permits suits for damages against either side to a labor-management contract for breaches of contract.

12. Employers are no longer required to bargain collectively with with foreman, and any welfare funds provided by contract must be administered jointly by the employer and union.

13. It attempts to regulate picketing and to prohibit violence to employees going to and from work during a strike.

Unfortunately for the laboring people and the general public, the new bill does not attempt to curb monopoly over human labor as now practiced by certain labor leaders. Therefore the new law will have but little effect upon the present concentration of economic power in the hands of a few men. Industry-wide bargaining, which is the key to the power of John L. Lewis and some others, was banned in the original House bill, but is permitted in the new version.

The new law will not apply to railway employees who come under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

The new labor bill was enacted over bitter opposition from those who believe labor unions should be above the law and not subject to the same laws that other organizations and other people are. It is a bi-partisan measure, having received the overwhelming support of both Democrats and Republicans. It was passed by a margin of four-to-one.

Texas Members in Congress were almost solid for the new law. Of the 21 Texans in Congress, only three voted against the labor bill. They were Sam Rayburn of Bonham, J. M. Combs of Beaumont, and Albert Thomas of Houston. Practically all opposition to the bill came from those who don't want any labor legislation of any kind and who are afraid of political reprisal by the labor unions in their districts when the next elections occur. The union bosses are now raising money and have made many political threats.

Pleads For "Voice of America"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Soundphoto)—Secretary of State Geo. C. Marshall, right, again took to Congress his plea for continuance of the "Voice of America" foreign broadcasts and asserted that the United States is a nation which is "misunderstood" abroad. Marshall is shown with Rep. Karl E. Mundt, (Rep., S.D.), chairman of a House foreign affairs subcommittee, before which he pleaded with members not to kill the State Department's information and cultural relations program after the house refused to grant the $31,381,280 he requested for the 1948 fiscal year.

LEGAL NOTICE

Senate Joint Resolution No. 4 proposing an amendment to Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas by the addition of two new sections to be known as sections 17 and 18 providing a special fund for the payment of Confederate pensions and providing a method of payment for the construction and equipment of buildings and other permanent improvements at state institutions of higher learning; providing for a five-cent reduction in the maximum allowable state tax on property; providing for an election and the issuance of a proclamation therefor.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

SWING OF SOUTHWEST FARM MARKETS

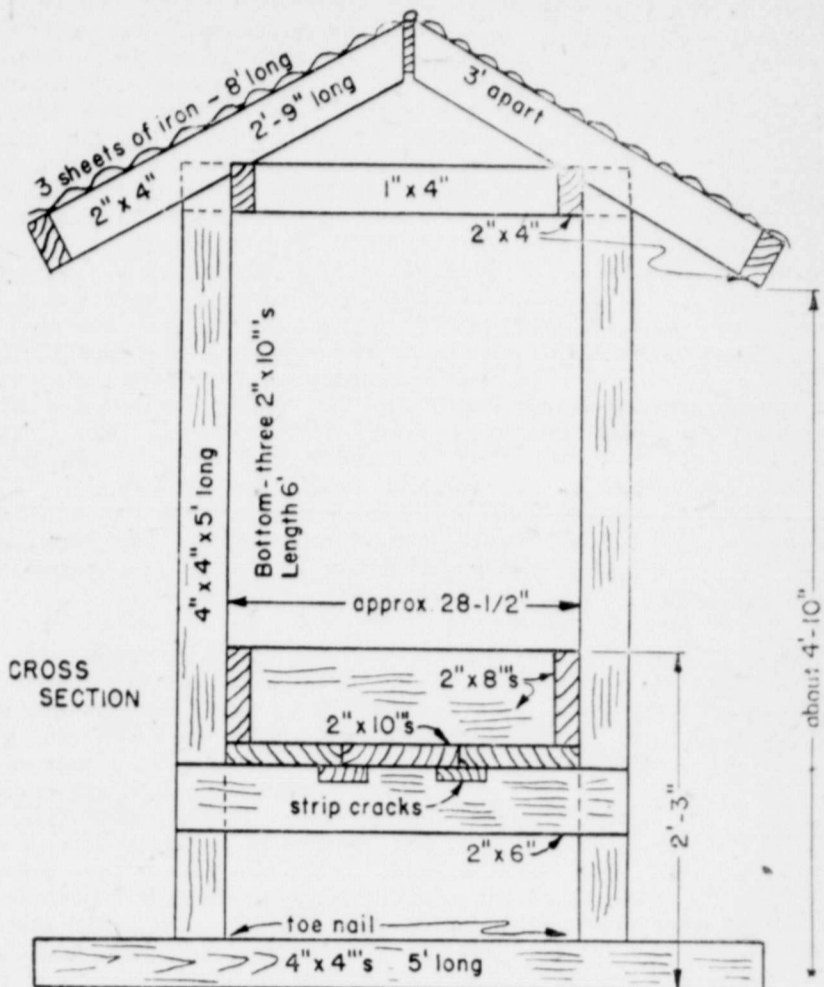

By United States Department of Agriculture

(USDA)—Active demand at firm to higher prices ruled the majority of southwest farm markets last week, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Wheat, cows, calves, shorn lambs, and hens were the losers.

Spring lambs gained mostly 50 cents to $1.00 at southwest terminals last week, but aged sheep and low grade shorn lambs dropped almost as much. Good and choice spring lambs brought $20 to $21.50 at San Antonio; $23.50 to $25 at Fort Worth; and $24.50 to $25 at Wichita. Oklahoma City bought medium to good kinds at $20 to $24.

Generally steady to slightly weaker prices prevailed at Denver last week for steers, heifers, and cows, while low grade cows and calves moved generally lower at other southwest markets. Bulls and some stocker classes showed weakness at San Antonio and Oklahoma City. Canner and cutter cows sold at $8.50 to $10.50 at Houston; $8.50 to $11 at San Antonio; $8 to $12 at Fort Worth; $9 to $12 at Oklahoma City; $10.50 to $13 at Wichita; and mostly $11.50 to $14.50 at Denver.

STERLING COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

Most Sterling County ranchmen appreciate the value of minerals for their cattle. From observation, however, it appears that there is considerable wastage from weathering and poor construction of mineral boxes. With this thought in mind, the plans presented here were ordered from Extension Service head quarters. It is hoped that they will be of some benefit.

A few facts about mineral supplements for beef cattle:

Two minerals, calcium and phosphorus, may be deficient in rations or forage common to Texas.

Phosphorous is most likely to be deficient in forage.

Fattening rations that do not include legume hays are deficient in calcium.

Pulverized limestone and pulverized oyster shell are common calcium supplements. Lumber yard lime is NOT recommended as a calcium supplement.

Bone meal contains about 20% calcium and 10% phosphorous. It is more important as a source of phosphorous.

When fattening cattle and legume hay is not fed, mix about 1 tenth pound of calcium supplement per head daily with the feed.

Breeding cows need calcium badly when no legumes are used. Pulverized limestone in salt lick, ordinarily fails to supply enough because it isn't palatable. Under range conditions, cattle have a greater need of phosphorous. Bone meal will ordinarily supply both needs for range cattle.

Young short grass generally contains ample phosphorous. Dry, dead grass is generally low in phosphorous.

Cattle fed an adequate protein supplement ordinarily get enough phosphorous from the protein supplement.

Bone meal may be self fed or mixed with granulated salt. A mixture of 2 parts bone meal and one part salt is recommended by the Extension Animal Husbandman.

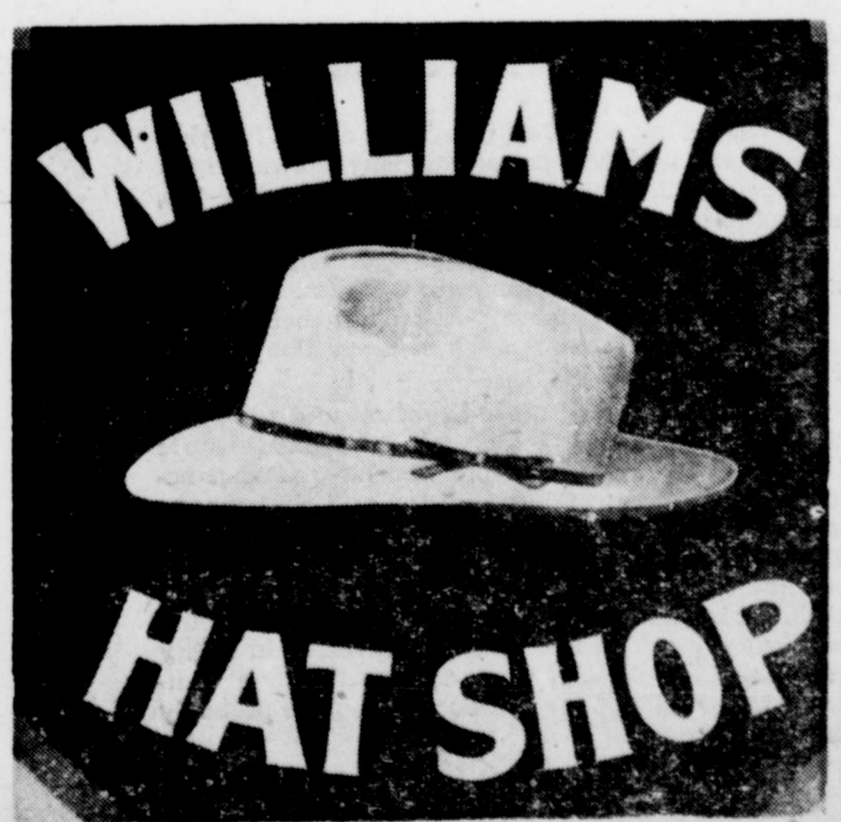

Bone meal is too expensive to waste. It is easily blown out of troughs. It is easily damaged by rain. The blow fly may strike it when it is wet. Feed it in a sheltered feeder.

THE HISTORY OF STERLING COUNTY

By IRA L. WATKINS
Mrs. Neil Reed

Mrs. Neil Reed was born in December, 1865, at West, McLennan County. She was reared an orphan, and was married in 1888 to Neil Reed. Mr. Reed had one hundred cows from which he made his living. Mr. and Mrs. Reed moved to Erath County in 1888 and about 6 months later in 1889 moved to Tom Green County. It took about six weeks for them to reach their destination. They had to travel slowly because they brought their cattle. They settled on the North Concho River sixteen or eighteen miles up the river from Sterling City. They found out that they had settled on land previously claimed by the McEntires of the U Ranch. Mr. Reed saw that he could not get possession of the land except through a law suit, so he moved six or eight miles down the river. He bought one half section of land from the railroad company for $3 per acre. Soon afterwards he bought another half-section for $1.50 per acre. Mrs. Reed early began to make butter and send it to Big Spring to sell.

There were four boys born to Mr. and Mrs. Reed and all of them have distinguished themselves in the cattle business. Mrs. Reed underwent the usual privations of pioneer women, hard work, few clothes, not a varied diet, but plenty of food raised at home.

Mrs. Erie Conger
Mrs. Erie (Foster) Conger was born in Ellis County in 1876 and moved to Coleman County when she was nine months old. In 1881 at the age of five she moved with the family to Sterling County. She was the eldest child and early took on the responsibility of helping rear a large family of younger brothers and sisters. She learned to ride at an early age and many times did the work of a man. She stayed with her mother while her father was away on roundups or looking after the cattle. A few years after the family came to Sterling County, a school was built at Montvale and Erie attended it part of the time. She had to ride six miles on horseback each way. Later her father employed a governess from Colorado City. This teacher stayed at the Foster home and taught the children. In 1888 Foster school was built and Erie attended that school. She later married George Conger and the couple had five children.

G. G. Ainsworth

G. G. Ainsworth was born in either Erath or Ellis County in 1872. His mother died when he was two years old and his father died about a year later. He was reared by an uncle, R. W. Foster. Gid, as Mr. Ainsworth was called, was eleven years old when the Foster brothers came to Sterling County in 1881. He was practically reared in the saddle, and went with his Uncle Bob on many roundups. He learned at an early age to ride broncs, and could as a boy out-ride many men. He has ridden many bucking horses and was never thrown but once and that was after he was fifty years old. He used to break horses to ride for $2.00 a head. When asked what was the secret of his riding ability, he said he had always been lucky but that he always tried to be ready to ride by the time a horse got ready to buck.

At about the age of twenty one he married Miss Elizabeth Drennan. They were married in a half dugout, and their first two children were born in the same dugout. Shortly before he married, Mr. Ainsworth had acquired some land southwest of Sterling City. He later traded it for land north of town.

Mrs. J. H. Bugg

Mrs. J. H. Bugg was born in Hickman County, Kentucky, in 1863. The family moved to Missouri in 1878. She married J. H. Bugg in 1880. They moved to Coleman County in 1885, stayed there a few months, and moved to Sterling County in 1886. The trip took six days in the covered wagon. At that time there were no fences between Coleman County and San Angelo.

The first house in which Mr. and Mrs. Bugg lived was a boxed house with a tent as a kitchen and one room made of pickets. The lumber for the other part of the house was brought from Ballinger. Mr. Bugg engaged in ranching and farming. Mr. and Mrs. Bugg had nine children, one born in Missouri, one in Coleman County, and the rest in Sterling County.

Mrs. Malinda Mitchell

Mrs. Malinda Mitchell was the daughter of S. J. Wiley, who moved from San Saba to Water Valley in 1877. Buffalo were still to be found in the country in that year. Before moving the Wileys had previously spent the winter of 1876 hunting buffaloes in the area. Their first house upon settling was a picket house. After a few years at Water Valley, the family moved to Sterling County. Mrs. Mitchell was first born to Joe Nelson and later to M. C. Mitchell.

Meet the boss!

MEET BABS BROWN, the Boss. We don't mean Mister Brown's boss, either. We mean our boss—and a very nice one, too.

Sound odd to you? Well, it isn't. It's a solid fact that your electric light and power company is owned by a lot of people like Babs Brown—and Bob Brown—yes, and yourself.

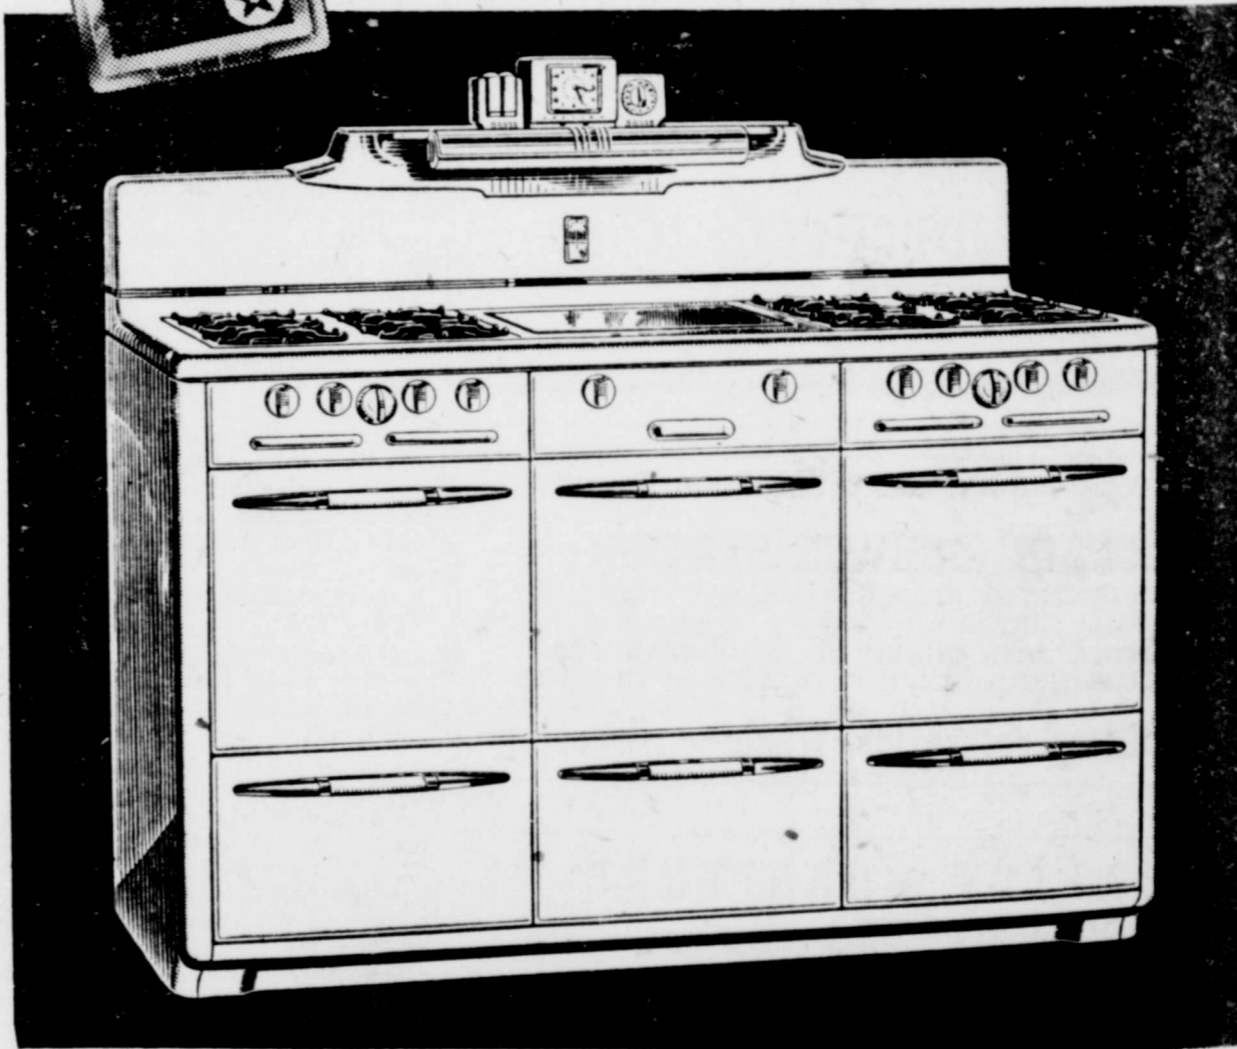

Housewives, doctors, teachers—industrial workers, craftsmen, farmers—mechanics and milkmen—people from all walks of life have put some of their savings into electric companies such as ours. They're the direct owners.

But there are countless indirect owners, too—and many of them have no idea of their stake in the electric industry. They are the people who have savings accounts or life insurance policies—and that means nearly everybody. It works like this: When banks and insurance companies accept your money they must invest it safely, wisely. And because business-managed electric companies have a long record of faithful public service, much of this money is invested in utility companies on physical property installed and dedicated to the public's service. So you, too, are probably one of our bosses.

Boyce House "GIVES YOU TEXAS"

Did you ever wonder whether newspapers reporters lead as interesting and as exciting lives as you've heard they do? Well, I was inclined to doubt it but I've just finished reading the proofs of a book which will be off the press most any time now and after reading the book, which is entitled "Cub Reporter," I'm inclined to believe that newspaper folks do have experiences as varied and thrilling as the novels and the movies proclaim.

"Cub Reporter" is not fiction but tells about some of the events that a police reporter on a city daily "covered" as a part of his daily work. The author, who was then just out of high school (this was back in 1916 and 1917) tells about Revinsky, the "one-thumb slayer" and "scar-faced killer," as he was known. Revinsky, convicted of murder, escaped, and as a posse unwittingly approached his hiding place, he drew a bead on the cub reporter but was dissuaded from shooting by a companion.

Then there was Wild Dan, who killed six people at one time. Wild Dan threatened to kill the cub reporter and, 10 minutes later, Wild Dan was dead. Of course, that's not the whole story.

And the book tells of the man who arose from the dead; of grizzled police officers and the tales they told around headquarters at midnight when things were quiet, and there are the word-pictures of old time reporters, a colorful crew, and of Bud the Bloodhound officer; C. P. J. Mooney, a great editor, and the climax is the story of Frank, the lovable little office boy.

"Cub Reporter" was written—let me see, what was that fellow's name? Oh, yes, I remember now. "Cub Reporter" was written by Boyce House.

Many years ago when Tom C. McRae was running for governor of Arkansas, one of his opponents was assailing him. McRae's only comeback was, "A wise hunter doesn't waste ammunition on a dead duck." McRae was elected and made a great chief executive.

In these days when so many best sellers are filled with filth, I am so old-fashioned as to count it a real tribute when someone says, "None of the things in your books have to be fumigated."

And a speaker can be humorous without being vulgar.

Touring Texas: At Guthrie, a big rock house enthroned on a hill is visible for miles. The castle-like mansion is the main ranch house of the 6666.

On west is Red Springs. I didn't see the springs but in nearly every yard were red flowers that looked like tulips.

It is a scenic drive. To one side is broken country which is the divide of the Wichita River. Then there is picturesque Blanco Canyon.

And in Plainview is a "honey house", a store where nothing but honey is sold. And a little ways north of the town is a row of trees, half a mile long, beside the highway. One house is surrounded by trees taller than it is and the house is two stories high. I can remember when it was said that trees wouldn't grow on the Plains. Now they have big nurseries up there.

Between Abilene and Coleman during May there were several miles of hills and valleys clad in solid sheets of light yellow flowers.

Hollywood has its Brown Derby and Bangs has its Sombrero, a little cafe built in the shape of a Mexican hat.

And approaching Brownwood on the highway from the west your car drops down on the city almost as though you were coming in on an airplane.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Here's to the Women-Folk!

There's a line at the heading of the Woman's Column in my paper that reads:

"Women through the years have stood keepers of the flame..." Pretty easy to see what it means; whether it's the flame on the hearth, or the candle in the window, or the feeling of warmth that surrounds a home.

It's the women who are guardians of the things we cherish about homelife—who are tolerant of ashes on the rug; the rings a glass of beer can leave on tables; or the comfortable but too-worn chair that we can't bear to throw away.

From where I sit, those little satisfactions become more and more important in this world of strife and change. Smoke rings curling from a mellow pipe; a glass of beer; a comfortable chair before the fire. And I'd like to salute the housewives—"keepers of the flame"—whose tolerance and understanding helps preserve them!

Lester Foster is building seven water spreading systems on his Glascock County ranch. The systems consist of 4 dams totaling 7,000 yards, 7 channels totaling 3875 feet, 7 water spreading terraces totaling 3-1/2 miles. The dams divert runoff water from range land into channels 25 feet wide and 18 inches deep. This water is picked up and distributed by water spreading terraces to flood irrigate 840 acres of side oats grama, buffalo, and tobosa grass. Approximately two inches of water will be added to this 840 acres each year, which will increase the production approximately 35 per cent.

Cecil Wilkerson of Garden City has drilled an irrigation well 15 inches in diameter to 220 feet. He entered water bearing strata at 70 feet and drilled through 150 feet of sand and coarse gravel to 220 feet. The water has risen within 50 feet of the surface. If the well produces sufficient water, Wilkerson plans to plant 50 to 75 acres in improved pasture grasses.

J. W. Cox, supervisor of the Glascock County Zone, is going to select a location for a well Thursday of this week and plans to start drilling in the near future.

The deferment of the Front Section, Thousand Acres and Horse Trap on the Hal Knight and Ralph Bynum ranch is giving the better grasses such as buffalo, spear grass and sand dropseed opportunity to make good growth. The improvement in range vegetation even in the first few weeks of the rest period is remarkable. All livestock have been sold out of these pastures and no stock will be grazed on this country until fall.

Foster Conger's method of controlling bitterweed is to graze the range grasses at the rate which will allow the higher feed producing grasses a chance to grow and reproduce during the summer growing season.

The divide group of ranchers and a number of others interested in conservation practices applicable on range land were invited by H. G. Garlington to make a tour of his Middle Pasture Tuesday afternoon. The group gathered first at Ralph Bynum's in the morning where the County Agent, B. W. Frierson, gave a demonstration of lice control on goats and horn fly and ear tick control on cattle. In the two acre enclosure near the windmill in Garlington's Middle Pasture, R. E. Burr, range conservationist, helped the group to identify the more common grasses, weeds, and shrubs growing on the range land. In this area vigorous plants of side oats grama, buffalo feather bluestem, and numerous other grasses and weeds were studied as a basis for further observation of range plants over the entire pasture. A typical Garlington dinner was served in the Dan Ritter chuck wagon manner by Mrs. Garlington, Mrs. Ritter, Margaret Ritter, Mrs. Ed. H. Lovelace and Mrs. Frierson.

After the meal the group gathered in a circle on a carpet of buffalo grass, within 100 feet of the windmill, as thick as most lawns in Sterling City and as palatable, nutritious, and plentiful to the cattle grazing in the pasture as the delicious meal was to the group. The purpose of the meeting was explained to be primarily the study of range plants, grasses in particular, not only from the standpoint of quantity and quality of forage produced, but also as they afforded protection from further soil erosion and for moisture conservation. Garlington gave the average rainfall since 1943 and explained to the group the improvement that the range grasses had made under the grazing use practiced in the Middle Pasture. The attention of the group was directed to the plots of cedar which have been sprayed with ammonium sulfamate, sodium chlorate, 2-4-D, and kerosene. All sprays except kerosene kills the tops, however, the crown buds in every case are putting out. Kerosene apparently has no ill effect on cedar when sprayed on the body of the tree. With atmospheric temperature at 100o the soil under the tall side oats grama registered 90o and barren ground 126o. An area of good to excellent range on soil less than 5 inches deep was carefully studied and analyzed with the assistance of E. J. Hughes, with the soil conservation service. Plant indicators, soil indicators, and animals produced by vegetation growing on the soil were all considered in making the analysis. This check revealed that this area was producing approximately 75 per cent of the feed that it is capable of growing, which represents 100 per cent increase over the production in 1943. Furthermore the area is still improving.

This meeting was concrete evidence of the progress in application of conservation practices that has been made through the organized efforts of landowners and operators cooperating with the North Concho River Soil Conservation District.

Those in attendance were Dan Ritter, Ralph Bynum, Billy Ralph Bynum, Joe L. Snead, C. J. Copeland, John Jr. Copeland, Lee O. Newcomb, Leo Rodde, Ruel Brown, Roland Lowe, Billy McEntire, W. B. Welch, Quinton Welch, R. J. Welch, Neill J. Munn, Rev. Ed. H. Lovelace, Byron Frierson, E. J. Hughes, A. T. Bratton, H. G. Garlington, Mrs. Ritter, Margaret Ritter, Mrs. Garlington, Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Frierson, R. E. Burr, and Benton Welch.
