Around Muleshoe

Horace and Lucy McAdams of Odessa are visiting with Bill and Ada McAdams in Kasciusko, Mississippi.

Curtis Hunt, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt, has been accepted into Texas Parks and Wildlife as a park ranger I.

He is employed at the San Jacinto Monument at Pasadena. He began his duties June 16 in charge of security.

Cecil Davis had as visitors the past week the following cousins: Mr. and Mrs. Don Roberts, Tucumcari, N.M.; Joyce Vandlingham, Socorro, N.M.; Annie Pearl Waller, Fort Sumner, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Word Whiteface, Tx.; Mari Word Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Frazier.

LET'S JOIN THE FIGHT.....Those in attendance at the producers and growers meeting were in 100 percent support of the planned GSPA lawsuit against the Government.

Area Farmers Support GSPA Legal Action

"United we stand, divided we fall," could well have been the theme of last night's meeting with area grain producers, elevator operators and Elbert Harp, executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association Monday evening.

The thrust of the meeting concerned the Commodity Credit Corporation sale of 1979 grain stored in Plainview. This grain was to be exported to Russia but was embargoed by Carter in 1979.

In an earlier statement, Harp explained: "The effect of this sale will put the local High Plains farmer in the position of competing against the USDA....this action....will most likely cost High Plains farmers a minimum of 50 cents per hundredweight -- or $5000 for a million pound producer on all grain currently being held or produced in 1981."

Monday, over 50 concerned citizens listened as Harp explained GSPA's stand on this sale and future actions.

"We are here to stir farmers up about this," said Harp, "to seek alternate solutions and see who wants to do anything about it."

According to Harp, the GSPA has been concerned with this situation for several months. "The grain organizations never resented the grain being shipped for storage in the first place for it was good for the community....as long as it was not sold in this area." It was originally not to be sold in this area but was bound for export only.

But it appears a promise has been broken for the CCC will be selling 169,000 bushels of this grain a week. If it is sold in the High Plains area it will take the place of any crops now in storage and/or 1981 crops being produced.

Harp stated that there was no reason to put a price tag on this action, but a great loss is in store.

"We have exhausted all political actions we could take...and now we are going to the legal courts," explained Harp.

"This is the most unfair action the government has taken to regulate the market, who along with interested farmers and the support of the GSPA plan to enter a suit against the USDA to prevent these sales.

"This is the only thing we have left to try," said Harp, who asked for financial support from those in attendance. "The law firms we have talked with say we have a case...but will need a minimum of $25,000 to have any chance," he added.

Information sheets have been sent this past week and according to Harp, initial response has been pleasing. This response is not solely from producers but also from several organizations and businesses involved in agriculture. Members of the Women Involved in Farming Economics and the American Agriculture Movement were present at the meeting.

Harold King, of King Grain, reported he received a letter response from the Secretary of Agriculture stating that it was not the intent of the government to disrupt the market, but he added "Korea had offered to purchase the grain but the

Moisture Boosts Farmers' Spirits

Heavy clouds yielded some moisture to the Bailey County area late Monday afternoon causing some minor flooding of Highway 214 for a while.

Mrs. Marshall Head reported approximately 2 2/10 inches of rain north of Muleshoe in about thirty minutes time. While further north and east towards Lazbuddie only light showers fell.

An employee at the Tolk Plant reported 3 inches in less than an hour at that location, and, Progress received a little over an inch of moisture.

Mrs. Jack Hodnett in the Three Way Community reported approximately 3/10 inch in Maple; then north of Maple reported from 1/7 to 7/10 inches.

According to reports, di-

Operation Motorcade To Continue 78 Hours

The Department of Public Safety estimated that as many as 44 persons may die in Texas traffic accidents during the upcoming July 4th weekend unless drivers exercise extreme caution.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS Director, urged motorists to maintain safe driving habits during the holiday to help minimize the loss of life.

"Texas is well on its way to yet another record year for traffic fatalities," Adams said. "We can put a stop to this dangerous trend if more motorists will slow down, refrain from drinking and use the most readily-available safety precaution -- seat belts."

"In Texas, the chances of being killed in an accident during 1980 were four times greater for persons not wearing seat belts than for those wearing the belts," Adams pointed out. "The odds are clearly in the motorist's favor when everyone in the vehicle remembers to buckle up."

Adams said DPS Regional Commanders will deploy additional troopers where heavy volumes of traffic are expected.

The DPS will be conducting "Operation Motorcade" during the holiday period to call attention to the dangers of holiday driving. The Department will tabulate traffic fatalities and release totals three times daily at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. The first report will be made at 10 a.m. Friday, July 3.

The 78 hour counting period will begin Thursday July 2 at 6 p.m. and continue until midnight, July 5.

Fireworks Create Explosive Hazards

"My best advise is not to shoot any," said assistant fire chief, Jack Reynolds, concerning shooting fireworks this July 4.

"It has been extremely dry here and we're hoping it will be extra wet," said Reynolds adding that the stubble in a dry field catches fire just like gasoline.

Although shooting fireworks in town is illegal, and the Chamber of Commerce has a big fireworks display, many choose to shoot them outside the city limits.

"I will caution those who set fireworks off in the country to know what they will do," said Reynolds. "You can watch a firecracker go out but with the bottle rocket, you don't know where they go or what they will do." Reynolds reports that the volunteer fire department answered only a few fire calls last July 4, along with one false alarm, but they were enough to stretch our force."

Personal injury is also a hazard in shooting fireworks. Dr. R.E. Margo, chairman of the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness, stated: "Last year alone, 9,400 people were treated in hospital emergency rooms for fireworks-caused injuries, 1,700 of these injuries were to the eyes."

Margo adds that youngsters under 19 suffer two thirds of all reported injuries each year. He encourages parental guidance.

AN ACROBATIC TRICK?.....No, he isn't an acrobat, but he is working on a trick. The trick? ---To put up a giant ferris wheel in one hour. The Muleshoe Rotary Club is sponsoring the Carnival which will be open 8 p.m.-12 a.m. Thursday and Friday, all day Saturday and Sunday 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

Q: If a bank customer has evidence to prove that a bank has made an error in calculating his account, what action can the customer take?

A: As a general rule, the law provides a remedy only if there is an injury. Therefore, if the bank makes an error but you catch it before any harm is done, you have no legal remedy — you can only complain to the bank.

If, however, the error causes you loss by dishonoring your check, the Court can require the bank to compensate, including damages for an arrest or prosecution.

Sometimes a bank mistakenly honors a check which was forged or altered and reduces the customer's account accordingly. In such a situation, it is the customer's duty to exercise reasonable care to spot the error and notify the bank. The bank must then credit the amount back to your account.

Q: I have a stack of sales and utility receipts dating back several years. I'm afraid somebody will challenge as to whether or not I've paid certain bills from years ago. How long should a person keep receipts for charge purchases, promissory notes, utility bills and etc? Isn't there a statute of limitations?

A: Yes, there is a 4-year statute of limitations which applies to contracts such as those shown by your receipts. No suit to collect the debts could be brought after that time.

Some of your debts will, however, be small enough that keeping the receipts showing their payment is really unnecessary for more than a few weeks or months. During these four years, you may also offer substitute forms of proof of payment, such as cancelled checks.

Q: I have any chance of restoring my rights to vote, own a handgun, or get a passport after being convicted of a felony? I've been out of prison for about eleven years and have a good job. I've kept my record clean. What can I do?

A: There is no restriction in federal law that prevents your obtaining a passport after a felony conviction.

Texas law governs the other two privileges you mentioned. Your voting rights, along with other civil rights, can be restored to you if you obtain a pardon from the Governor. If this pardon also states that you were not guilty of the crime for which you were convicted, you can possess a firearm. However, under a general pardon, you will be restricted to keeping a handgun only at your own residence.

Q: My brother and I own adjoining land. I don't want my brother's cattle grazing on my property. Do I have to build a fence to keep the cattle out or can I make him build the fence? Can I make him pay grazing fees?

A: Although your brother's cattle legally cannot graze on your land, you cannot force him to build a fence. Your brother will be responsible for any damage that his cattle do to your property, but this damage will be difficult to measure. The most practical approach is to agree to let the cattle on your land for a set grazing fee.

Q: I am considering hiring an attorney to represent me, but before doing so, I want to find out more about her. How can I check on an attorney's credentials?

A: As a minimum, make certain that your attorney is licensed in Texas by examining her law license and permanent law card. Talk to friends and acquaintances who may have used this particular attorney and ask about the service they received. If an attorney has been publicly disciplined for some violation of the Code of Professional Ethics, a record is available from the Office of the General Counsel, State Bar of Texas. Basically, however, the choice will be based upon your personal reaction to the attorney and the services you need.

Miss Pierce, Horton Vows Repeated In Sudan

Celia Dee Pierce and Gary Don Horton were united in marriage on Friday, June 19 at 8 p.m. in the Sudan Church of Christ. Art Lynch, former minister of the local church officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pierce of Sudan and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Horton of Lubbock.

The church was decorated with an archway covered in greenery and pastel colored silk flowers. On each side of the archway, there were large bouquets of pastel silk flowers.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white silk organza. Venice eyelet lace fashioned the fitted empire bodice with a high neckline accented in a Venice lace panel down the front of the gown. The attached chapel train also featured the appliqued lace motifs. Tiny satin-covered buttons closed the back of the bodice as well as the fitted cuffs of the full gathered sleeves.

Her headpiece was a Juliet cap of Venice lace and fingertip white silk illusion.

She carried a bouquet of pastel colored flowers. She wore a gold band ring in which belonged to her maternal grandmother and a garter of blue. Her bridal gown was something borrowed. For good luck, in her shoes she had pennies bearing their birth dates.

Mrs. Jenine Foster, sister of bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of blue dotted swiss trimmed with lace and carried a blue rose.

Bridesmaids were Teresa Pierce, cousin of the bride and Gene Horton, sister of the groom. Teresa was dressed in a formal length gown of pink dotted swiss trimmed in lace and carried a pink rose. Gene wore a formal gown of green dotted swiss trimmed in lace and carried a yellow rose.

Heather Pierce, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and was attired in a floor length dress of yellow dotted swiss and carried a basket of daisies.

Don McLenana of Lubbock, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Brad Pierce, brother of the bride and Roy Horton, brother of the groom. The groom was dressed in a white tuxedo and the groomsmen and ushers wore tuxedos of gray. The ring bearer was Cody McClean of Lubbock and wore a yellow tux.

Musical selections included "Let It Be Me" and "The Last Love of My Life" sung by Jenine Foster, sister of the bride, "The Wedding Song," "Faithful and True," and "May The Lord Bless You and Keep You" were sung by an acapella choir from the Sudan Church of Christ. Art Lynch sang "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception followed in the fellowship hall. The table was covered with a cloth of white lace and was centered with a pastel colored floral arrangement. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Pineapple sherbet punch, pastel mints and nuts were served.

Tanya Ray, Wnedey Wideman and Kathy Humphreys presided at the table and finger sandwiches, fruit and coffee were also served.

Lucretia Foster and Robin Foster, nieces of the bride distributed satin roses filled with seeds.

The registry table featured a hand crocheted tablecloth of ecru and a bouquet of rose gladiolus. Dora Black presided at the registry.

The bride chose for her going away dress, a pink floral dress with a pink jacket. She wore a corsage of pink silk flowers.

Mrs. Horton graduated from Sudan High School and is employed at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

The groom graduated from Monterey High School in Lubbock and is employed at Ecker's Drug.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Horton, parents of the groom, hosted a rehearsal supper June 18 at K-Bob's in Littlefield.

Sleeping Sickness- An Ever-Present Threat

Sleeping Sickness -- only one horse in four is protected against this ever-present threat.

The US Department of Agriculture recommends that all horses be vaccinated annually against Equine Encephalomyelitis (Sleeping Sickness).

This recommendation is emphasized by Dr. Ralph Knowles at USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). He points out that the recommendation includes vaccination against both Eastern and Western strains of the disease.

Although there is a trend toward routine annual vaccination, authorities say a reasonable estimate is that only 20 to 25 percent of the total US horse population now receives this protection.

Dr. Knowles' advice to horse owners is wholeheartedly endorsed by Dr. Thomas E. Walton at USDA's Arthropod-Borne Animal Diseases Research Laboratory in Denver. Both call Equine Encephalomyelitis "an ever-present threat." The probability of incidence of this disease in horses significantly where a large proportion of an area's horse population is not vaccinated against it. And, biting insects can carry the disease to humans.

Under the proper conditions, every horse, regardless of breed, age or sex, is susceptible. The ideal time for vaccinating is before the local mosquito season begins.

A key vector or carrier in the transmission cycle is the mosquito. Birds are the reservoir hosts. They introduce Equine Encephalomyelitis into an area via mosquitoes parasitic to birds. Then other mosquitoes transmit Sleeping Sickness from birds to horses or humans. The build up and concentration of infected birds, combined with large numbers of mosquitoes, intensifies into explosive Encephalomyelitis incidence. Horses and humans are dead-end hosts.

Mosquitoes can thrive even in a dry climate if they can find standing water to breed in. In the Western US, for example, irrigation canals and reservoirs provide a perfect base for mosquito propagation.

Once infected with Equine Encephalomyelitis, the horse exhibits various symptoms including fever, extreme nervousness, loss of appetite, depression and paralysis. Of the three principal strains of Sleeping Sickness -- Eastern, Western and Venezuelan -- the Eastern is the most severe because it usually results in death in 90 percent of the cases. The Western form may leave horses brain-damaged after a prolonged course of illness, treatment and apparent recovery. The Venezuelan strain causes explosive outbreaks with high equine mortality. It does not exist in the US at present.

Sleeping Sickness is a disease that affects the horse's brain and spinal cord. No antiviral treatment is available, and permanent damage may result if the horse survives. The only means of preventing Equine Encephalomyelitis is by vaccination. After the initial immunization, only an annual booster is needed.

Anton Farmer Devises System For Saving Water

Anton farmer Carl Butler believes he has devised a unique approach to irrigation with a center pivot sprinkler system which will result in a 50 percent savings of water, according to a story several months ago in Southwest Farm Press.

Butler has adapted a system designed by Dr. Bill Lyle, a research agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Lyle's system has drop tubes every 40 inches and nozzles have been dropped closer to the row to reduce evaporation and lessen the need for a high volume application of water. Butler, who is running short of water on his High Plains farm, decided to drop the nozzles even further and to fit each with a nylon sock which lays the water directly on the furrow. He figures his water needs per acre will be reduced by at least 50 percent, and there will be a saving in time-consuming labor.

Butler estimates he is spending about $75,000 for the system which is watering 488 acres of his skip-row cotton. Estimating an additional $500 for the unit modification, he figures he can pay for the center pivot system in 10 years with 50 cent cotton and an extra 50 pounds of lint per acre.

"I'm doing the same thing as row watering with a sprinkler system," he says. And Lyle adds that, "When you pump these high pressure center pivots at 60 to 80 psi, it's costing you nearly as much to distribute the water as it did to bring it out of the ground to begin with."

Mr. Corn Producer!

Over forty-five million bushels of corn which is equal to all the total 1979 corn production in Bailey, Castro, and Parmer Counties, which was sold to Russia before the grain embargo, is now stored in various Hi-Plains elevators within a radius of seventy-five miles of Plainview, Texas.

At their discretion the U.S.D.A. can sell all or part of this stored corn in direct competition against your corn production this year.

Minimum losses to the corn producer is estimated to be 50% per hundred and possibly more.

You can do something!!

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association (G.S.P.A.) is planning to take legal action against the U.S.D.A. regarding the corn sales--

But G.S.P.A. cannot contest the U.S.D.A. unless sufficient funds are available to hire lawyers.

You, Mr. Corn Grower, can get into this fight by contributing to the:

or call 806-298-2543

Deadline for funds is July 10, 1981.

Your contribution will be placed in trust and will be refunded on an apportioned basis.

Grass Mite Possible Corn Growers Problem

Growers in the Panhandle area of Texas won't argue the fact that the Banks grass mite is by far the worst insect they have to contend with throughout a growing season, especially on corn. The mite seems to come out of nowhere and, at a moment's notice, take over an entire field.

According to Joe Denney, veteran fieldman and director of field research for Valley Grain Products in Muleshoe, this year looks like it is going to be just as bad as last when it comes to mite problems.

"We've really been keeping a close eye on the population buildups in the area," says Denney. "At this time it looks as if the populations are there for a major mite outbreak. As a matter of fact, we have already started warning area growers to get into their fields and see how severe their problem is going to be."

Denney says that understanding the mite's migratory habits may help a grower in detecting his problem. Mites migrate from grass and small grains into the young, luscious green corn plants early in the corn plant's growing cycle. The mites move from the ground up and actually extract juices from the plant's leaves, causing the leaf to dry.

"Anytime you have a plant's leaves drying up, you have a dying plant," notes Denney. "The mites leave less leaf coverage and the plant's ability to take up valuable moisture and light is hampered. The end result is a low, if at all, yielding plant."

Denney says that Valley Grain Products is in the business of making more corn to the acre, not less, so, they are constantly trying to help their contracted growers with timely entomological, chemical and cultural recommendations.

"Our first recommendation to growers," states Denney, "is for growers to get into their fields and see if they have mites present. If there are signs of mites in the field -- lower leaves showing signs of stress and discoloration, fine webbing on the bottom of the plant and visual egg colonies on the under side of the lower leaves -- we recommend that they spray with a miticide when the corn is three to four feet tall."

Denney says the benefits of spraying early far exceed those of waiting till peak mite populations are present. He claims the number one reason to spray for mites early is the grower is getting better coverage with his chemical and water when he's working with smaller plants. The fieldman also notes another major benefit of early spraying is overall plant health.

"Anytime you have a healthier plant because you have stopped early insect damage, you will have a plant that is going to resist diseases and late season insects a lot more efficiently," says Denney. "Besides, a healthier plant produces more corn and that's the whole reasoning behind any chemical put on a crop -- improved productivity."

Denney says that in their extensive research they have tried several insecticides and general miticides at different rates and mean of application. Denney believes that their research data is some of the best in the area because they are using commercial chemicals under actual growing conditions on their growers' corn acres. "These aren't greenhouse tests," says Denney. "These are actual in-field tests where the grower is actually treating the test just like he'd treat any other acre of his farm.

"Last year we applied two pints of Comite in 20 gallons of water in a ground rig when the corn was three to four feet tall," he continues. "This application was put on in the middle of June when the mites were just starting to hatch and become active."

"We waited and sprayed the balance of the fields with a newer, broader spectrum insecticide material when the mites were at their peak, the recommended time of application for most insecticides. At harvest we noticed that the acres sprayed early with Comite yielded 2,200 more pounds of corn than the acres sprayed at peak mite buildup. That's a lot of corn per acre difference."

Denney says that this data showed that the early spraying helps the plant stay more productive by not having to ward off mite attack throughout the early part of growth. Denney points to another benefit of the early spraying.

"With the use of the specific miticide, we were controlling just what we want to control -- mites. With the use of the later season insecticides, we not only killed the mites, but we killed all natural predators as well. With all the natural predators killed the corn plant was wide open to mite reinfestation and other insects like worms. The early spraying of the miticide only killed the harmful mites, leaving the beneficials to help protect the plant throughout the rest of the growing season."

Denney says they don't like to give "blanket" recommendations because every field has a different set of circumstances. "We do though recommend that growers get out in every one of their fields and check for possible mite infestations so they still have the option of spraying early or not," concludes Denney.

"Break-bone fever" returns to Texas

COLLEGE STATION — A mosquito-borne virus called "break-bone fever" not only threatens to invade Texas again this year but also other portions of the South, warns a Texas A&M University entomologist.

Called dengue (dan-gee), the disease has been described as "so painful you wish you could die." The disease is known as break-bone fever because it's extremely painful in the joints. Olson had predicted the disease, carried by the yellow fever mosquito, Aedes aegypti, would come into Texas. Last year, cases were reported not only in Texas, but also Louisiana, Florida and North and South Carolina, as well as states along the Western Coast and Hawaii. In addition, cases have been reported as far north as New York, he said.

NEWS OF HEALTH

For The 15 Million Suffering From Asthma: A New Medicine

Medical researchers remain unable to identify completely the underlying cause of asthma, a common condition which affects approximately 15 million Americans at some point during their lives. Despite this lack of a breakthrough discovery, scientists continue to develop new medications which effectively control the wheezing and coughing attacks that are frequent occurrences for asthma sufferers.

Proventil (albuterol) inhaler, a new prescription medication from Schering Corporation, has recently been approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration. The drug works rapidly and is effective in keeping asthma under control for up to four to six hours in some patients.

Proventil for asthma was widely used and studied for 12 years in many countries before it was approved here. Its safety and reliability have been confirmed by its worldwide use by millions of asthma sufferers and in numerous controlled, comprehensive tests both here and abroad.

Asthma is characterized by constriction in the bronchi, along with wheezing, coughing, excessive mucus production and difficulty in exhaling air. This new medication is inhaled by the patient and in minutes it relaxes the bronchial muscles. That action opens the airway passages, making it much easier for the individual to breathe for about three to four hours. In some cases, relief lasts up to six full hours after inhalation.

Clinical tests have shown that Proventil has a low incidence of side effects, particularly those involving the heart, which is one of the problems with anti-asthmatic drugs now in use. And tests have documented the safe usage of the drug over periods of several years. The medication has also been found to be particularly effective in preventing asthma brought on by exercise, when inhaled right before taking part in vigorous physical activity.

Asthma is a chronic disease that affects virtually every facet of an individual sufferer's life. In addition, the economic impact of asthma is staggering. The total cost of allergic diseases is more than $1 billion. And a National Institute of Allergies and Infectious Diseases Task Force recently reported that there are about 27 million patient visits to physicians each year for the treatment of asthma—making it one of the leading reasons for physician visits. To an individual family, bearing the cost of this severe disease can be financially devastating.

The new medication should be used with caution by patients having cardiovascular disorders and by pregnant women and nursing mothers. It is not prescribed for children under twelve years of age.

While research into the cause of asthma goes on, Proventil signals better days ahead for those millions of Americans who are subject to asthma.

Cut Irrigation Fuel Costs

A fuel bill of $1,000 or more to operate an irrigation pumping plant for a crop season is no unusual. It also dramatically illustrates the fact that fuel is a major cost of producing irrigated crops. So cutting irrigation costs can boost profits.

Wayne Keese, an agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, recommends several steps to minimize irrigation fuel costs.

"Three main factors affect the amount of fuel used to pump water," Keese says. "These are water management practices, the pressure requirement and efficiency of the application system, and the efficiency of the pumping plant."

"In many cases, irrigation could be reduced without hurting yields or profits," says Keese. "Many crops have critical periods when yields would be drastically cut by lack of water. Then there are other growth periods when the need for water is not as critical."

According to Keese, crops should be irrigated only when yields will be increased enough to pay irrigation costs. "Never apply more water than can be held in the crop's root zone unless excess water is needed for leaching to control soil salinity," he points out.

Keese also suggests considering a low pressure application system. "Higher pressure means higher fuel use. Low pressure sprinklers could reduce fuel consumption, but at the same time, it's important to prevent water runoff," says Keese.

He explains that low pressure sprinklers usually increase the rate of water application. "An application rate that exceeds the soil's absorption rate is self-defeating unless furrow dikes or dams or some other practice is adopted to prevent runoff."

Research and demonstration results indicate the average pumping plant uses about 35 percent more fuel than a plant operating at an accepted, standard level of efficiency. The low efficiency of some pumps costs their owners thousands of dollars every year in excess fuel bills, notes the engineer.

Keese likens the evaluation of a pumping plant to determining the mileage performance of an automobile. However, acre inches of water are calculated instead of miles per gallon. It's a matter of comparing actual fuel use (gallons of diesel, kilowatt hours of electricity or thousand cubic feet of natural gas) per acre inch of water to a standard performance rate.

To follow Keese's evaluation procedures, first determine the plant's pumping rate (gallons per minute), pumping lift (number of feet from ground surface to the well's water level), discharge head or pressure (feet or pounds per square inch), fuel use and operating time (in hours).

Convert the pumping rate to total acre inches pumped by dividing by 450 and multiplying by the operating time.

Determine the fuel use by checking the gas or electric meter or measuring the amount of diesel fuel used from the storage tank during the operating time. Divide fuel use by acre inches pumped to determine fuel use per acre inch of water.

The figure the accepted standard performance rate for your plant and compare it to the plant's actual fuel consumption.

Fuel requirements for a plant operating at standard efficiency are:

*for each 100 feet of pumping lift: 1.046 gallons diesel, 12.92 Kwh electricity or 0.171 Mcf natural gas.

*for each 10 pounds per square inch of discharge pressure: 0.24 gallons diesel, 2.98 Kwh electricity or 0.0396 Mcf natural gas.

"Repair or replacement of inefficient engines and pumps may cost several thousand dollars, but annual fuel savings may amortize the capital investment in a short time," says Keese. He advises that careful record keeping is an important aspect of evaluating pumping plant efficiency, irrigation system operation and water management practices.

CHINA & ARMS SALES

PEKING -- Despite official statements strongly opposing U.S. arms sales to Taiwan, China's leaders are expected to take a more flexible stance during Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig's visit. Sources said China is ready to tolerate continued U.S. weapons sales to Taiwan so long as they do not exceed the sophistication or volume of arms currently sold by the United States to Taiwan.

SOVIETS BUY GRAIN

LONDON -- The Soviet Union will be allowed to buy from the United States an additional 6 million metric tons of grain to be shipped before Sept. 30, U.S. officials said recently. They said the Soviets will be able to buy "reasonable" amounts of grain after that date.

FBI & COUPON THIEVES

CHICAGO -- Federal agents said recently they are investigating a nationwide racket, totaling as much as $250 million, in which grocery stores are redeeming newspaper coupons that have been counterfeited or stolen from printing plants.
