Spectators View Variety Of Events

Despite some blustery weather, the Fourth of July in Muleshoe drew large crowds again this year.

In the Pony Express Race, Gerid Shanks was injured when the horse that he was riding decided to buck and Shanks was thrown hitting the graveled side of the pavement. The race was declared a draw with no awards being given.

Many flocked to the annual 4-H Omelet Rodeo after the race to enjoy the food prepared by Bailey County 4-H Council and members.

From the omelet rodeo, pleasure seekers could travel a two-way street-one to the Muleshoe pitching contest and the other to the Muleshoe Ex'es reunion which gathered in approximately 300 ex-students.

Kid's Activities and other entertainment could be found at the Bailey County Civic Center. Top county officials could be seen on the dunkin board and many townspeople turned out to take their turn at dousing their favorite person.

The Old Settler's reunion saw approximately 200 guests registered with the oldest being 94 years young. Many old friendships were renewed and a good time was had by all present.

At 5 p.m. the annual Freedom Parade was started under skies which threatened to rain. The sun won out and spectators enjoyed the sights and sounds of the event.

The Fine Arts Boosters float, depicting the raising of the American Flag on Iwo Jima during World War II, received the first place award of $100 in cash. The first prize in the senior riding club division was presented to the Lamb County Sheriff's Posse, with the West Texas Raiders of Lubbock placing second. The Lubbock Rangers Junior Riding Club placed first in the junior division.

To end the day, citizens chose the fireworks and picnic with entertainment by the Flatland Bluegrass or the Muleshoe Junior Rodeo and the array of riders there.

Sudan Celebrates Fourth Traditionally

Amid sounds of the brass choir, in the corner of the park, playing "America," children shouting cheers during human croquet and whinnies from a young horse tyed to a post; friends, relatives and pioneers gathered in the Sudan park for a day of celebration and togetherness.

A town tradition since July of 1976, the Sudan celebration has grown to be a yearly highlight including activities for everyone.

Sudan pioneers received special recognition and the Sudan Hotel, which is being restored, was open for exhibition. Members of the community have put many hours of volunteer work into the hotel.

Although an early rain dampened the festivities, the moisture was welcomed and activities moved inside.

It was not long before the sun and the people came out and activities continued with live entertainment provided by local entertainers including "Last of Its Kind" and other bands and vocalists.

Local organizations provided the food energy with hamburgers, homemade ice cream, drinks and other booths. Results of the popular Young Homemakers' booth were seen everywhere. The group painted designs such as Snoopy, sunshines and hearts on arms and legs.

The afternoon parade included the Sudan band, local dignitaries, children on decorated bikes, antiques cars, riding clubs and of course the old red fire engine.

The Lamb County Sheriff's Posse received the first place trophy for riding clubs and the West Texas Rangers received second place.

In the float competition, the Jr. High Cheerleaders won first place for the theme "American For Me, Because I Can Be What I Wanna Be." Second was the Little League float and third was the High School Cheerleaders.

Awards and ribbons were also given to all the children who rode decorated. Cont. Page 8, Col. 1

Rain, Hail, Wind Batters County July 4

July 4th was explosive in more than one way this year. Late Saturday evening wind, sand, rain and hail swept southern Bailey County destroying up to 800 acres of cotton near the Goodland-Three Way Communities. Estimates of damages were being checked out by ASCS and County Agents offices. A tornado reportedly touched ground near the small community of Goodland, causing damage to out-buildings and power lines. One car was reported damaged. One resident described the storm as "a big sheet of rain and sand."

Although some damage was sustained, the rainfall over the county in general was very beneficial to the dryland cotton, according to County Agent Spencer Tanksley. From one to 1 1/2 inches of rain was reported around Maple and Needmore. Baileyboro received approximately one to two inches and the West Camp area reported heavy rains and washed-out roads in that area. Eastern Bailey County also received some good rain with amounts varying from one to two inches.

The City of Muleshoe proper received rain around 5 p.m. as well as later in the evening. Parade contestants and contest entries were delayed in the onslaught of the rain and wind.

Grain Producers Express Decision

Following the June 29 kickoff meeting in Muleshoe, the Grain Sorghum Producers Association is continuing its area meetings in Dumas and Plainview to solicit support for their cause.

Believing that the Commodity Credit Corporation's sale of imported grain in the High Plains is "unjust, damaging and illegal" farmers, elevator managers and bankers are taking their case to court.

The GSPA is ready to file a lawsuit in their behalf if sufficient funds can be raised. GSPA has been joined by Texas C... Growers, Texas WIFE, Texas Farmers Union and members of all area farm organizations.

North Plains elevators are sponsoring a luncheon in Dumas, July 8, in the Community Building. The luncheon is free.

Farmers in the Eastern High Plains area will meet in Plainview, July 9, at 8 p.m. in the Hale County State Bank Meeting Room.

July 10 has been set as the deadline for raising the legal fund. It is estimated that the CCC sales will cost a million-pound producer at least $5,000 in lost market prices. GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp stated, "I am now convinced that we will raise the money if the farmers and elevators continue their interest."

For events of the Fourth of July other than the rain and wind, see the inside pages of the Journal for a picture story of "July 4 - Mules Style."

COURT RULES
The Supreme Court recently restricted the ability of American towns and cities to use their zoning powers to keep nude dancing and other forms of sexually explicit entertainment from their commercial areas.

Vegetable Consumption Changing

Along with weather, insects and other problems, farmers must also consider consumer demand. That's certainly the case with vegetables.

"It's important for farmers to keep up with the ever-changing trends in consumption of individual vegetables," says Tom Longbrake, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Of the total amount of vegetables purchased from 1977-1979, 45.5 percent were fresh, 44.8 percent canned and 9.7 percent frozen, Longbrake explains. This compares to the 1947-1949 average of 60.3 percent fresh, 36.4 percent canned and 3.3 percent frozen.

The average American consumed 226 pounds of vegetables per year in 1977-1979, up from 198 pounds in 1947-1949, Longbrake says.

An increase in consumption of certain vegetables is balanced by a decrease in others.

However, watermelon consumption has declined 26 percent since 1940, Longbrake notes, while cantaloupe consumption has dropped 10 percent.

"Despite a decrease in per capita consumption of some vegetables, overall production has remained generally steady due to population growth," notes the horticulturist.

REAGAN & SUMMIT
After insisting that Fidel Castro be excluded, President Reagan accepted the invitation of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo to a summit conference of industrial and developing nations.

Hardage Services Held Sunday

Services for Lacy M. Hardage, 78, were held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church with Rev. J.E. Meeks, pastor, officiating assisted by Rev. J.J. Terry of Bovina.

Burial was in the Oklahoma Lane Cemetery under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home. Hardage died at 5:30 p.m. July 3 in the Farwell Convalescent Home.

He was born October 16, 1902 in Arkadelphia, Arkansas and married the former Bertha Britton September 3, 1922 in Seymour, Texas. He had lived in the Muleshoe area for 50 years moving here from Seymour. He was a farmer and a member of the Muleshoe First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Bertha; two sons, Wayne of Vernon and Billy of Plainview; one daughter, Mrs. Dortha Mason of Clovis; four sisters, Mrs. Fairy Stovall and Mrs. Lela Doublas of Farwell, Mrs. Francis Billingsley of Texico, and Mrs. Lucille Smaltz of Vernon; three brothers, Walter of Lubbock, Will of Farwell and Ed of Texico; six grandchildren; and three great grandchildren.

Sugar: A Not-So-Sweet Situation

For some 8,000 years, sugar has been man's primary sweetener. Since the start of the 20th century though, it has become increasingly recognized for its preserving characteristics -- a significant fact since two-thirds of the sugar Americans consume is in processed foods.

But what few Americans realize is that preserving domestic sugar supplies may be a not-so-sweet situation in the very near future.

Today, most Americans know little about the important role sugar plays as a preservative. The dramatic changes in American lifestyle, including the advent of the working woman over the past few decades, has all but eliminated time of families to prepare food.

Earhtones Suggest Top Security

Looking for insight into someone's personality? Take a look at the colors he or she favors at home, advise psychology experts.

Purple, for example, is said to indicate wit, charm and eccentricity. Soft pastel shades, on the other hand, suggest calm and cheerfulness. Green is soothing.

Brown is earthy and creates a feeling of security. That makes it a popular color for exterior decorating. It is ideal for your roof, since the roof is the part of the house that works around the clock to protect everything underneath.

Earhtones Popular

Increasingly popular as roofing colors these days, notes the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association, are the earhtone shades of three-dimensional asphalt shingles. Among the eye-appealing shades are handsome browns and beiges that help relate a home to its environment while adding rugged and attractive shadow lines.

These long-lasting, low-maintenance shingles can also be used to blend with other exterior color elements of a home.

Color experts advise that the exterior of a home should have no more than three basic colors: one for the roof, one for the siding and one for the trim.

plumpness and overall physical state of the food. On fruits, sugar acts as a protective coat, preventing browning and dryness caused by exposure to air.

In jams, jellies, preserves and fruit butters, sugar deters the growth of harmful bacteria. Small amounts of the sweetener added to salt help stabilize iodine which is added to prevent goiter. In many other processed foods, sugar assists in color development, moisture retention and luster. The fact is that sugar does play a crucial role in enabling Americans to choose from a variety of preserved, canned, frozen and prepared foods.

Unfortunately, though, not all the sugar Americans consume is produced domestically. Today, US growers account for over half of the domestic sugar supplies; the remainder is imported from GEPLACEA, an international sugar cartel comprised of 22 Latin American and Caribbean sugar exporting countries.

By manipulating the sugar market, these countries could wipe out the domestic industry, making us reliant on them for sugar. Such action has already resulted in more buying abroad and a subsequent decline in domestic production. If this situation continues, it could result in the demise of a domestic industry and subsequent total dependence on GAPLACEA.

The answer to this not-so-sweet situation may exist in the proposed Farm Bill; it calls for a US policy to assure domestic supplies while averting an OPEC situation. Considering the extensive use of sugar in the American food system, such legislation is imperative. Otherwise, Americans may find themselves in another OPEC-like situation, this time controlling sugar.

Miss Wall, Elder United In Marriage

MR. AND MRS. LEE ELDER [nee Tammy Wall]

Richland Hills Baptist Church was the setting June 12 for the marriage of Tammy Wall to Lee Elder. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wall and James Elder and Mrs. W. F. Wimberly, all of Muleshoe.

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by both mother and father, Mrs. Elder was attired in a gown of silk organza, featuring Queen Anne bodice, re-embroidered with crystal beads. Flowing lace sleeves were caught at the wrist with satin bows. The skirt was swept into a lace bordered train in back which was caught on each side with satin bows. Her veil of lace bordered silk illusion fell from an organza head band to waltz length. She carried a nosegay of assorted silk flowers in shades of blue, trimmed with white lace and blue streamers.

Connie Vaughn, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Traci Walker and Jalayne Collins were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of blue on white with sheer bodice over camisole and a-line skirts. The carried bouquets of blue silk flowers.

Curtis Elder, brother of the groom was best man. Groomsmen were Glen Green and Mark Bruns.

Rickey Wall, James Atwood and Mike Henry seated the guests.

Cassie Tunne, of Earth, was flower girl and David Vaughn, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Stacy Elder and Candy Long lighted the altar candelabra which formed an arch, flanked by spiral candelabra bearing white tapers and entwined with silk greenery and flowers. White mums and foliage plants ringed the outer perimeter of the altar area.

Following the ceremony, which was performed by H.O. Huff, Jr., the couple lighted their unity candle from tapers which had, been lighted by their mothers at the beginning of the ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by organist Betty Hausman. Special selections of "The Wedding Song," "Always and Forever," and "Color My World" were sung by Linda Chesnut. She was accompanied by Tena Landers at the piano.

For her wedding's wedding, Mrs. Wall chose a floor length gown of yellow featuring crystal pleated skirt. Mrs. Wimberly was attired in a gown of smoke gray knit.

Tina Collins registered guests at the reception in the church fellowship hall, Pam Young and Tonya Gartin served the tiered wedding cake and punch from a lace covered table. The wedding cake was decorated with love birds and roses. The centerpiece was a candelabra containing blue tapers and featured the bride's bouquet. Crystal and silver appointments were also used.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, the bride chose a white shirt dress, beited in blue with white accessories.

The couple are at home in Muleshoe where both are employed.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.....Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyer of Independence, Kansas announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen Meyer of Amarillo, to Bryan Travis of Muleshoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Travis of Akron, Colorado. Miss Meyer is a medical Technologist at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo. Travis is plant engineer at the TOLK Station.

Summer Weather Demands More Water

Water loss is greater during hot weather because your body perspires more than usual in an effort to keep cool. Maintaining a proper water balance will help regulate your body's temperature and prevent overheating.

According to the American Bottled Water Association, water is especially important to your body when playing warmer weather sports. During long periods of exercise, water intake minimizes dehydration that can result from sweating. It reduces stress on your circulatory system, and it helps your blood carry energy-providing carbohydrates to your body's cells.

The average adult needs to drink at least eight cups of water daily, more in hot weather, to maintain the body's proper water balance. The body's intake of water must equal the body's output of water to ensure proper water balance.

Remember as summer approaches, water is an important element in both work and play.

PSYCHOLOGY

Moderate fatigue is not harmful to you or your work, psychologists say, but extreme fatigue should be avoided. Experiments show it takes three times as long to rest up from being overly tired as from ordinary tiredness. Short rests, however, and relaxing with a refreshment like a glass of iced tea can help keep you up to par.

How To Make Prize-Winning Jam

Does it take a special "knack" to make prize-winning jam? "No," say fair judges, who pick the winners. Using fully ripe, high quality fruit, a good recipe and following procedures exactly are the secrets of blue-ribbon success anyone can copy.

For perfect jam that can win approval from fair judges or your family, use this recipe for Spiced Peach Jam and follow these tips:

- Use high quality powdered fruit pectin. A recipe with powdered pectin eliminates guesswork and allows you to use fully-ripe fruits, for best flavor and color.
- Measure accurately. Top quality results depend on exact amounts of fruit, pectin, acid and sugar.
- Use a large, flat-bottomed pan, so jam will cook quickly and not boil over.
- Make only one batch at a time.
- Time cooking exactly.
- Stirring and skimming for five minutes helps distribute fruit evenly in the syrup.
- Check fair rulebook for jar size. Most call for standard 1/2-pint jars or glasses.

SPICED PEACH JAM

5 cups prepared peaches (about 4 lbs.)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 large cinnamon stick
7 cups sugar
1 pkg. Jel Ease/Pen-Jel Fruit Pectin

Wash and sterilize 8-oz. jelly jars; scald lids and rings. Wash and pit fully ripe peaches; peel, cut into pieces and grind. Measure fruit into 6 to 8-quart saucepan; if necessary add water to make 5 cups. Add lemon juice, peel and cinnamon stick. Measure sugar into large bowl; set aside.

Combine pectin with fruit mixture. Cook over high heat until mixture comes to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar all at once. Cook and stir over high heat until mixture comes to a full rolling boil (one that cannot be stirred down). Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from heat; skim and stir with metal spoon or skimmer for 5 minutes to remove foam. Remove cinnamon stick. Ladle into hot jars, leaving 1/8-inch rim at top*. Immediately wipe jar rim clean, place hot lid on jar and screw metal ring on firmly. Check for seal in 12 hours. 7 to 8 cups.

High Plains Aquifer Maps Available

Maps showing irrigated cropland in 15 counties in eight states of the High Plains Aquifer region, stretching from South Dakota to New Mexico, have been prepared by the US Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.

The maps are part of a five year project started in 1978 by the USGS to develop a ground water flow computer model of the Ogallala aquifer and associated water bearing sediments that underlie about 177,000 square miles of the High Plains region. Once developed, the model can be used to evaluate alternative ground water management methods and proposals in the region.

Ground water levels have been falling in most parts of the region since pumping for irrigation of farmlands began increasing shortly after World War II. Most of the irrigation water is being pumped from the Ogallala aquifer.

"The computer model will help state and local water managers to better evaluate how best to use and conserve the supplies of ground water in the High Plains region," said John B. Weeks, a USGS hydrologist in Denver, Colorado, who is coordinating the High Plains regional aquifer study.

The nine irrigated cropland maps, showing 15 counties, depict Cherry County, Neb.; Chase, Dundy, and Perkins Counties, Neb.; Todd County, S.D.; Cheyenne and Sherman Counties, Kan.; Laramie County, Wyo.; Kit Carson, Phillips and Yuma Counties, Colo.; Texas County, Okla.; Hockley and Lamb Counties, Texas; and Curry County, N.M.

In order to complete the computer model simulating ground water flows in the aquifer, Weeks said the USGS first has to determine pumpage of ground water in the region. This is being documented through preparation of irrigated cropland maps.

The USGS scientist said the nine maps of the 15 counties were prepared by the Survey's Office of Geographic Research using Landsat Earth resources survey satellite images taken in 1978. Landsat images taken in 1980 will be used to prepare an irrigated cropland map of the entire High Plains region.

Outdoors & Travel
by E. L. "Buck" Rogers

Let's chat about the Florida Keys. "The Keys" is a 4000-square mile area of shallow water and islands stretching southwest of Miami for almost 150 miles. Much of this area is preserved as national parks, and virtually all of it offers superlative fishing at certain times of the year.

Within U.S. waters, the Keys is the place to go to fish shallow water flats for such species of fish as bonefish, tarpon, and permit. Here, flats fishing with a fly or spinning rod is a well developed science, and there are ample services and facilities for the visiting angler.

Biscayne Bay, just south of Miami, offers excellent fishing for bonefish and permit, despite its proximity to a large metropolitan area. Although a lot of people live here, serious fishing competition is not a problem.

Islamorada is the place where I have done the most fishing and is the center of the Keys' complex. Here are numerous facilities for anglers, plenty of professional fishing guides, and a good supply of tarpon, permit, and bonefish most of the year. During peak fishing periods, Islamorada can be crowded, however.

Marathon lies 40 miles farther down the Keys Overseas highway and is also a center of civilization with marinas, hotels, restaurants, and fishing guides.

Key West, the end of the Keys, is a historic little city, which offers charm in addition to facilities and services for the visiting angler. Bonefishing is not as good here as it is up the line, but permit and tarpon fishing are excellent most of the year. Winters are a lot nicer in the Keys than they are elsewhere in this country, but the fishing is not. For all species of fish mentioned above, March through August is the time to go.

How do you get there? I recommend hopping a Braniff jet to Miami and picking up a rental car. This is the most practical way I know of to visit this area.

Frankly, the scientists are getting ahead of the popular imagination.

Can you remember the good old days when a man's word was his bond?

The problems of agriculture cannot be successfully settled by conferences around a desk.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Less than a month after the Legislature ratified new boundary lines for state House and Senate districts, the entire redistricting process is in upheaval again.

Governor Bill Clements has vetoed the plan for the Senate, thereby allowing the plan to be redrawn by the constitutionally provided redistricting board, composed of five state officials.

The board, headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, tried to meet for the first time last week, but postponed action pending the outcome of a lawsuit filed last week which challenges the new House districts.

The class action lawsuit, with three legislators heading up the list of plaintiffs, charges that counties have been illegally split in each of the five major metropolitan areas: Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Houston and El Paso, as well as Laredo and Amarillo.

A state district judge was scheduled to hear the case this week. If the judge finds for the plaintiffs, the new House districts will be invalidated and the redistricting board will assume the task of drawing an acceptable plan.

Congressional Redistricting

Meanwhile, Clements has not backed down one iota from his announced intent to veto any plan approved during the coming special session which does not provide for a black congressional district in his hometown of Dallas.

The Legislature adjourned last month without reaching a compromise on new congressional districts. Due to population growth, Texas is entitled to create three new congressional districts.

No one can dispute with that is our due.

The Texas Consumer Association Education Fund's Report from Austin
By Jim Hightower, President

"Leave the driving to us," advertises a bus line. "Ship it by rail--we deliver," the railroad industry assures freight customers. "Humpin' to please," claims a truck company.

But is transportation service all that reliable in Texas? Company managers, as well as state regulators of the industry, say it is almost flawless. They boast that truck, bus and rail service in Texas is "the envy of the nation."

Well, maybe so, but the executives and regulators have been so busy patting themselves on the back that they don't seem to have noticed that the customers--those Texans on the receiving end of the line--have not joined in this chorus of praise. "Try getting merchandise delivered from Dallas," says a downtown merchant in Athens--"They come when they're good and ready, and they don't care if my business withers on the vine out here."

"Up in Knox City, a town official recalls that the whole town joined hands to keep their freight depot open, but the railroad shut it anyway--"They admitted they were making money here," he said, "but some manager at headquarters wanted to centralize operations in Abilene, so they chopped us off."

"An elderly woman in Alamo says that she wants to go to Houston every few months to visit her grandchildren. "But the bus service is a joke now, so I don't go as much."

What's happened is that our state regulators have allowed the trucking firms, railway companies and bus lines to establish territorial franchises in various areas of the state, and too often these monopolistic companies leave customers a mighty rocky road to travel, if any at all.

The three members of the Texas Railroad Commission are the public's overseers of the multi-billion dollar transportation industry in Texas, and they are the ones to talk to if you've got problems with the way things are being run.

The commissioners, who are elected, say they want to hear from you. On June 18, they even held an open hearing about the state of the transportation industry, and their press announcement invited industry executives, shippers of goods, local officials and "any other interested persons" to comment.

Trouble is, the public hearing was a bit more "open" to the industry itself than it was to customers, so the commission's meeting was stacked and the testimony one-sided.

In the first place, the billpayers were expected to learn about the hearing through the press, which would have been fair enough had all parties been notified that way. But the commissioners played favorites with the industry by mailing special letters of invitation directly to the executives of rail, bus and truck companies. No such letters went to farm groups, county commissioners, passenger associations, transportation unions, chambers of commerce or other "outsiders" who also have a stake in the industry.

Worse yet, the commissioners actually held their hearing at the annual convention of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, an industry lobby group! This was done "as a convenience to participants," said the commissioners. That's not letting the fox in the hen house; that's hauling the hens to the fox den.

Well, just because the Railroad Commission put on this hearing strictly for the convenience of the industry doesn't mean they can ignore you. These are elected officials, duty-bound by law to hear what you have to say. If you want to get hold of the commissioners to let them know what you think, write to them at this address: Texas Railroad Commission/Capitol Station/Austin, Texas/78711.
