STERLING CITY NEWS-RECORD

VOLUME 60 PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY AT STERLING CITY, TEXAS. "Since 1890" FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1950 No. 11

New School Building Studied By Board

The school board has hired C.V. Head, architect with Wyatt C. Hedrick, to study and appraise the present old school building and to prepare figures for a new or remodel school here. Earl Koeppe, chief designer of the firm, is working on project with Head. Their report will be forthcoming to the board in about a week. Head has already made a temporary survey. The board is thinking in terms of a $250,000 plant, to be built and receiving aid from the state under the Gilmer-Akin school aid.

A bond issue would be the only method of paying for such a plant. A bonding company has guaranteed interest rates of 2% for 11 years, 2 1/4% for 9 years and 2 1/2% for 5 years, with an option to pay the bonds in fifteen years.

The board has asked the firm to prepare the following in such a new plant: 9 elementary class rooms, high school home rooms, 1 study hall and library, 1 science lab complete with electric facilities, 1 cafeteria for 125 capacity, 1 shop for student capacity, 1 music and dramatic room with stage, 1 administration office, book room and storage room, bringing gym and H.E. building up-to-date with new dressing rooms and wash rooms for girls.

The board is not certain that it will all be had for $250,000, but the space as mentioned will be a mark to aim for.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

The Army, Navy and Air Force last week concluded the biggest joint military maneuver in our peace-time history when the little island of Vieques, off the shore of the Puerto Rican mainland, was "captured" from an "aggressor" enemy. The simulated invasion was known as Operations Portrex.

Along with a few other Congressmen from the Armed Services Committee and two Senators, I witnessed the operation. There were hundreds of other observers including about 1800 "umpires", assigned to assess and evaluate the success of every phase of the mission. Among those present was Secretary of Defense, Louis Johnson. I saw Col. Jim Roberts, Commanding Officer at Goodfellow, along with interested observers. Sarah McClendon, popular Texas newspaper correspondent was among a dozen women writers who were there.

A total of 160 naval ships, including the battleship Missouri and the giant aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, took part. The 82nd Airborne division participated, dropping over 900 paratroopers shortly before the beaches were "invaded" by the infantry. Unfortunately, there were a number of injuries among the paratroopers including one missing at the time this is written, a number of fractures, at least two considered serious. We visited the injured at the base hospital before leaving the island.

It was explained that the purpose of the maneuver was to exercise the troops, test modern weapons and techniques, and practice a carefully planned joint operation under unification.

The island of Vieques is right interesting. It is the second largest in the Puerto Rican group, is approximately 21 miles long, and is three and a half miles wide at its widest point.

There are around 12,000 natives (Continued on Back Page)

Twenty-two were present.

CORRECTION

In last week's paper we erroneously gave the price paid by J. T. Davis for the boys lambs at the San Angelo Stock Show. He paid 37c for a group of 14; he paid 38c for a group of 13 and 41c for a group of 14. Also we stated that he and Nathan Donsky and Jeff Davis had pegged the price of the lambs at 25c a pound, guaranteeing the boys at least that much. That pegged price was for the lambs that were put up at auction here at the local show, before going to the Angelo show.

Discuss Soft Coal Wage Contract

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-pooh's" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

Five Beauties At Chicago's Automobile Show

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS — Four beauty queens and a car being shown publicly for the first time — Buick's Riviera in the Super Series — were outstanding hits at Chicago's huge automobile show. More than 400,000 visitors jammed the International Amphitheater for the show, which was the first event of its kind in Chicago since 1940. The four smiling beauty queens posed in the Riviera to illustrate one of its principle features — the broad sweep of vision equivalent to that of a convertible. The car, however, has an all-steel top. Other features which interested visitors were the wide rear window, the built-in bumper front end, one-piece windshield, the sloping fender lines, and the new F-263 engine.

presently assigned to Public Relations in the Office of Secretary of Defense. We spent the night at Guantanamo where we have a large Naval base, operated there since 1902. The following day we flew the remaining 700 miles skirting the coast of Haiti for some 200 miles. I was sorry that I did not have more time to spend in Puerto Rico. Congress is frequently called on for appropriations down there and many legislative problems arise from time to time dealing with our Puerto Rican territorial policy. The island is badly over-populated and the birth rate is terrific. About 80 percent of the income down there is from sugar refined from sugar cane. Some pineapple is raised along with some cocconut. A limited amount of mahogany is also produced. In 1917 we gave the Puerto Ricans their citizenship, and they are free to migrate to the United States with the same freedom that Texans can move to New York.

Since the war more than 200,000 of those native have moved in, adding to our housing, employment and health problems. Racially, they are a conglomeration of Spanish, Negro, Indian and what-not. In my opinion this unrestricted immigration should not be allowed. Perhaps it would be much better for us if we retained our military installations and gave Puerto Rico its independence like we did the Phillipines and Cuba. San Juan, the capital, is an attractive city, showing many signs of American commerce and investment. There you can see a blending of ancient Spanish culture and influence with Modern American progress. Several hotels have been built along the water front, the super-modern Caribe Hilton being the most recent. The clear brilliantly green sea water is said to be the most beautiful in the world. The island has an interesting history. It is the only island on which Christopher Columbus set foot that

Wrestling Is an Honest Sport, But Love Is a Different Story

By BILLY ROSE

The other night at Lindy's, I was introduced to a Popocatepet of a man named Ezaklios Pappanokiyulikos, the Greek wrestler—better known to the toe-hold set as the Hooded Cobra.

"You inressid in wrestling?" the mash-and-maul artist asked pleasantly.

"Not particularly," I said. "I hear tell the business is full of crooks."

"Is wrong," said the Cobra. "In United Schnapes, wrestling is mos honest sport what can be. Why? Because no wan bet Is lak betting on feenish of musical comedy show."

"What makes you think people don't bet on musical comedy shows?" I said. "But never mind, go on."

"Fristance, Ecuador, where tree months ago I ween plenny money by losing."

"I am amaze," I said.

"Is funny story," said Ezaklios. "Day before I wrestle Aloicio Macombo, champ of Quito, Senor Ramon, matchmaker, walk een my hotel room. Ramon is beeg shot in Ecuador."

"'Poot on show twanny, twanny-five minoot," he says. "Then Aloicio weel take fall for you. Mak it bear-hug an' body-press."

"I cannot believe ears. I say: 'You want me to beat champ?'"

"He say: 'That is only way you gat return match. Mak sure no mistake. I bet plenny for you to win.'"

"'NIGHT OF MATCH, when I walk down aisle, crowd have bottles, is boo, want kill me. When Aloicio comes in, they chuck flowers an' cheer."

"Everybody is bet on champ—poor, rich, Spaneesh, Indians—an' thesee mak me sad. I am honest man an' do not like cheatin' poor, ignorant peoples. So I decide to be fair and lose—I even bet all I got on Aloicio."

"Well, at first is very good match. For twanny minoot we poosb, mak noises an' stick fingers in eyes. An' then Aloicio says, 'Is too bot to wrestle more. I take fall soon.'

"I am smart an' say nothing, an minute later I fall on back with Aloicio on top. But Aloicio is smart too. 'Oh, no,' he says, an' begins to fight dirty. An' before referee can count tree, he twist my arm round his head so I got headlock. Then he geeve jerk, mak like he trip over my leg, an' fall on hees head. Only he fall harder than he think an' gats very deezy."

"Queek, I jump on heem, making beeg tangle weeth arms and legs — no one can tell who got who. Then I feenish up on my back. Referee counts tree, announces Aloicio ween, an' crowd go crazy."

"'WASN'T SENOR Ramon sore?'" I asked.

"I no wait for Ramon," explained the Cobra. "I slip out of the arena, then out of town, then out of Ecuador . . ."

Just then, a good-looking woman pushed her way through Mr. Lindy's revolving door, spotted the wrestler at my table, and began jabberwocky away at him in Spanish.

"Wait for me in car, babies," Ezaklios said, affectionately. "I am weeth you in minoot."

"'Who's the lady?'" I asked, when we were alone again.

"'Wife of Senor Ramon,'" said the Cobra. "When she got final divorce, she become Meesus Pappanokiyulikos."

"I thought you said wrestling was an honest sport," I said.

"Wrestling, yes," said Ezaklios. "Love, my frien', of course, is horse of different collar."

dies the United States flag. He landed there in 1493 in search of water. The news was relayed to Spain and in 1508 Juan Ponce de Leon was sent to take possession. Many Puerto Rican cities had sprung up long before the first American Colonies were established. Puerto Rico remained a Spanish colony for 400 years, but since December 10, 1898, has been a U. S. possession—ceded by Spain following the Spanish-American war. In San Juan may be seen many ancient stone structures, including forts, churches, and castles. Of these, Morro Castle, overlooking the sea, is the biggest and most impressive. Its construction began in 1540, became a permanent garrison in 1586, was unsuccessfully attacked by Sir Francis Drake in 1595, withstood another by the Earl of Cumberland three years later. Then, an attack by the Dutch forces was repulsed in 1625, and in 1898 it was bombarded by the U. S. Navy. Presently, the historic, well-preserved installation is under contr-

of the U. S. Park service by an arrangement with the Army. It stands as a reminder of by-gone days and the march of time.
