The film also stressed the importance of remaining in a car when an accident takes place.

'82 Farm Policy, Loans Cause Much Concern

Texas farmers failed to win battles with inflation, high interest and low farm product prices in 1981.

They stand to lose even more in '82. That is those who manage to stay in by the skin of their teeth. The new farm bill promises little in the way of aid to the farmers.

Local lending institutions have varied policies on farm loan for 1982.

Brian Pohlmeier, local manager of Production Credit Association stated that their policy will remain the same as in the past years. Loans will be worked up on a "one on one" basis, with each case being handled individually. Any new loans would have to be made on the same basis.

First National Bank president, M.D. Gunstream stated that there will apparently be no profit at all for farmers this year. He did state, however, that the bank presently entertains no plans to force a farmer to liquidate. Gunstream expressed the fact that there would possibly be some farmers who will sell out. Loans for next year will be under a closely supervised program.

The First National Bank will be unable to pick up farmers turned down by the Farmers Home Administration. Gunstream stated that "our local economy will definitely suffer a slow down."

In conversation with Clinton Kennedy of Farmers Home Administration, he points out that the FmHA is taking a close look at all accounts. His office has been notified that there will be a shortage of loan funds this year and FmHA will be trying to help each farmer look for ways to cut his expenses to that loans will not be as large.

Letters have been mailed to farmers who are delinquent, stating the amounts needed to be repaid in order to be considered for an '82 loan.

FmHA has not received an '82 budget as yet, so therefore have not made any concrete decisions.

Kennedy stated, "Between FHA and the local banks working together in a subordination agreement we are going to try to help everyone that we can."

"While our crop yields were good, low prices and high harvest and ginning costs virtually ate away most of any profits."

Bill Liles, Federal Land Bank manager told the Journal that the same loan policies that have been followed in the past will be

Final Months Viewed In Retrospect

The final four months of 1981 were filled with activity. Farmers were busy fighting boll worms and other pests. Prices continued to increase, not only in the county, but in the nation. Life did go on; however, and some of the highlights of the final months are touched on in this article.

September

Late August rains continued on into the first weeks of September, leaving already soggy Bailey County farmers concerned about croplands. Cotton crops were beset with boll worms to the extent that some crops were almost totally destroyed.

Billie Bayless, long-time Bailey County resident, died on August 30 at the age of 54 after a short illness.

The second annual Bailey County Fair was held again, drawing smaller crowds than last year, although entries were good.

The Muleshoe Triangle CB'ers once again headed up the local drive for Muscular Dystrophy and the Women's Division of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture planned their first un-official activity.

In a grudge battle, the Muleshoe Mules fell to the mighty Portales Rams 6-0 after a hard fought defensive game, kicking off their 1981 football season. The Mules came back the next week to scalp another arch foe, the Morton Indians with a 15-8 victory.

Barry Robbins, 21, a black student from Dallas drew 10 years probated sentence and a $5,000 fine after being convicted of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the stabbing death of Bailey County sheriff's son, Kenny Wayne Henderson.

While school taxes were lowered by one cent, interest rates continued to increase. The Mules stirred the Tullia Hornets nest with a 34-7 win, while the first cold front of the season dropped temperatures to the low forties.

Muleshoe Hospital Auxiliary funds raised for improvements to hospital and nursing home facilities hit the figure of $17,000.

Local WIFE members attend state convention. School renovations proposal aired in hope of the passage of a bond issue.

A landmark, the old Muleshoe city water tower was torn down. It was first constructed in 1926. Total rainfall from June 1 to September 22 totaled 12.63 inches overall. Bailey County Sheriff's office recovered stolen articles and arrested three males in connection with the thefts.

October

The talk of termination of revenue sharing checks for county and city sparked much controversy and an increase in county taxes was made in hopes of off-setting the lost revenue. Nelda Merriott, Bailey County District Clerk, was elected president of the "Jenny'slippers."

The county's first bale of cotton was ginned at Maple. The cotton however, was harvested from Cochran County, just across the county line.

Muleshoe's Mighty Mules continued their victory roll over the Abernathy Antelopes. National 4-H Week was observed and the Muleshoe FFA Chapter selected Kelli Overman and Kim Farmer to represent them as Sweetheart and Plowgirl.

Tim Sain and Tamara Gilliland received the coveted Gold Star 4-H award at the Bailey County 4-H Achievement banquet.

Muleshoe had a visitor who as "walking for those who can't". He was Craig Davis, a young man from California on a cross country trek to raise money for muscular

Cotton Harvest Momentum Slow

Harvesting of the 1981 High Plains Cotton crop slowed when harvesting passed the 90 percent mark and the final stages started. Many modules have been built in cleared fields waiting to be ginned, according to Mack Bennett, Area Director for USDA's Marketing Service Office at Lubbock.

Estimates indicate that 65 percent of the crop has been ginned and almost 60 percent has been received by the Lubbock office, added Bennett.

Cotton prices were mostly steady with a firming trend noted for some qualities. Growers sold mixed lots of mostly grades 42 and 52, staples 31 and 32, mike 35-49 at about 43.00 cents per pound, unchanged from one week earlier.

Lubbock Marketing Service Office classed 148,000 samples during the week ended December 23 for a season's total of 1,059,000. This compares with 1,082,000 classed by the same date last year.

About 31 percent was grade 42, 44 percent was grade 52 and nine percent was grade 53. About 65 percent was reduced one grade because of bark.

Staples were 10 percent dystrophy. Three Way FHA won second place at the Panhandle South Plains Fair in Lubbock.

Lazbuddie's FFA Chapter Sweetheart, Trestia Moore and Plowgirl, Tina Collins were selected, and Moore and Terry Steinbock reigned as Lazbuddie Homecoming King and Queen.

October showed bank deposits and loans on an increase. Edith Wilt, long-time Bailey County treasurer, resigned her position due to health reasons. Sheryl Waltrip and Marvin Reeves were recognized as Three Way Homecoming royalty on October 18.

Bailey County received lateral road funds in the amount of $90,258.45.

The Miss Tri-County Pageant was held with Kristal Taylor being selected to reign. Laurel Dillard, as Junior Miss, Keetha Glover, and Miss La Petite and Lori Oursbourne as Little Miss.

Bailey County recorded it's first freeze on October 23 when the temperature dipped to 30 degrees.

Charles Briscoe and Dennis Steinbock were recognized as players for the WTSU Buffs. Mules took their first conference game win against Olton at 33-6.

Dr. B.O. McDaniel, Pioneer physician in Bailey County, passed away on October 27. McDaniel had served 52 years in the medical profession.

November

Robin Burgess claimed the title of Homecoming Queen as the Mules lost a heartbreaker to Dimmitt 10-7.

The first actual bale of Bailey County cotton reported was ginned at Muleshoe Coop Gin and was produced by Matt Phelps.

Texans, let the hopes of a water trust fund go down the drain by putting a "No" vote to the Proposition 4 Amendment.

Dorothy Turner, longtime employee, was selected to replace retiring Edith Wilt as county treasurer.

Cotton harvest well underway in mid-November, grades and micronaire returning proved to be less than what farmers had hoped for.

Your Life's Blood Can Save Another

Various civic organizations in Muleshoe have agreed to help with a city-wide blood drive for the United Blood Services, which is the community blood center for this area. Jess Winn of Energas in Muleshoe has agreed to head this drive with several other concerned citizens who urge the community to help meet this need.

John Richmond, Executive Director of United Blood Services, urges interested donors to visit the blood drive center at the Community Room of the Muleshoe State Bank from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on January 7 or you may sign up at the Energas office.

President Reagan has joined the blood banking community in proclaiming January as "National Volunteer Blood Donor Month."

In the Bailey County community, eighty donors are required each day to provide the more than 68 units of blood and blood components transfused daily in area hospitals. More healthy people from ages 17 to 65 are desperately needed to give blood to assure that the ever increasing demands for blood is met.

Although more than 30,000 units of blood are used nationwide each day, less than 5% of those eligible to give blood do so. The need for blood increases daily. The next person to need blood could be you. The giving of blood is safe and harmless, and unless more people become aware of this need, the supply will not keep pace with the growing demands. Someday, you or your loved one's life could depend on this blood.

Make this a community project—donate blood so that others might live and at the same time, encourage every citizen to do the same. Only another human being can provide this unique medicine.

Holmes Resigns As Civic Center Manager

Joyce Holmes recently resigned as manager of the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum, effective December 31, 1981, and therefore it will be necessary for the Commissioners Court to appoint a new manager to replace her.

The Court will interview applicants for that position in their meeting January 4, 1982. All persons interested in it should contact the County Judge's office to schedule an appointment, and be prepared to meet with the Court January 4.

Dear editor,
Sometimes, trying to solve one problem brings on another. When the government ran out of money one day a few weeks ago and President Reagan ordered all non-essential offices closed, the bureaucrats in Washington were thrown into a tailspin.

Everybody wanted to be called essential and nobody on such short notice could prove he was. Some of them worked harder trying to prove they're essential than they'd ever worked before at their regular job.

This clearly demonstrates that Washington needs a new commission to determine, in case the government runs out of money again, who's essential.

Since this will be one of the most important commissions in government, you can't let just anybody serve on it. So that calls for a commission to select that commission.

There ought to be a better way. The next time Washinton runs out of money, if you call a deficit money, couldn't it just pawn something to tide it over for a few days?

This brings up the question of what Washington could put up that a pawn shop would lend money on.

I have given this considerable thought but wrack my brain as I will I can't think of anything, unless you know of a pawn shop that'll take a second mortgage on a political promise.

Wait a minute. Come to think of it, reckon some pawn shop would lend money on the engraving plates the government uses to print money with?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Cigarettes becoming health problem in Third World nations

COLLEGE STATION — Cigarette smoking has become as large a health problem in developing countries as disease; says a former assistant U.S. surgeon general.

So-called Third World nations are now the dumping grounds for tobacco products the industry can't sell in industrialized nations, Dr. James Steele of Houston said recently at Texas A&M University. Quoting a World Health Organization report, Steele said Third World smoking is "spreading like an epidemic" and already is equal to infectious diseases as a public health problem.

Holiday Dessert For A Dozen

Chocolate Pastry Loaf uses sweet cooking chocolate.

Chocolate Pastry Loaf

- 2 packages (4 oz. each) Baker's German's sweet chocolate
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 package (10 oz.) pie crust mix
- 2 envelopes Dream Whip whipped topping mix*

*Or use 1 container (8 oz.) Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, thawed.

Remove wrapper from one end of one bar of chocolate and shave 3 of the squares into curls. Set aside for garnish. Break remaining chocolate into pieces and combine with sugar, water and cinnamon in small saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until smooth. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Cool to room temperature.

Blend 3/4 cup of the chocolate sauce into the dry pie crust mix. Spread or roll on baking sheet into 15x12-inch rectangle. Mark with knife into four 3-1/2-inch strips. Bake at 425° for 6 to 8 minutes, or until pastry is almost firm. Trim edges with sharp knife and cut strips. Cool about 5 minutes. Carefully loosen with spatula; place on racks to cool. Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Fold in remaining chocolate sauce. Spread between and on top of pastry. Garnish with chocolate curls. Chill at least 8 hours or overnight. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

Note: Cake may be stored in freezer. Freeze uncovered until firm, then wrap and return to freezer. Thaw in refrigerator a few hours before serving.

When you want to make one great "splash" gathering during the holidays, give a dessert buffet. Plan for a group of 12 to 16 people and serve Chocolate Pastry Loaf. Here is an exquisitely fashioned dessert which leads guests to believe that more conscientious effort went into its creation than you'll ever admit. No need to report that the four-layer pastry torte was prepared last week, stored in the freezer and thawed a few hours before the party.

A mixture of sweet cooking chocolate, packaged pie crust mix and few other ingredients was blended, spread on a baking sheet and marked in strips before baking. Cooled pastry strips were layered alternately with a divine filling. Garnish of chocolate curls was the final step before storing the loaf in the freezer or refrigerator.

For another gathering, try Glazed Mocha Cake Surprise. A sweet cooking chocolate glaze complements a baked cake with surprise mocha filling.

Glazed Mocha Cake Surprise

- 1 package (4 oz.) Baker's German's sweet chocolate
- 1 tablespoon instant quality coffee
- 3 tablespoons milk
- 1 container (4 oz.) Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 baked chiffon, angel food or sponge cake, cooled
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 teaspoon butter or margarine

Grate 9 squares of the chocolate. Dissolve instant coffee in milk; fold into whipped topping with chocolate and vanilla. Slice 1/2-inch layer from top of cake. Remove center of cake ring, making a shell about 1/2 inch thick at sides and bottom. (Excess cake may be used for another dessert.) Spoon whipped topping mixture into cake shell; replace top of cake. Heat remaining chocolate in saucepan with water over very low heat, stirring until melted. Add butter and stir until smooth. Spoon over cake. Chill. Store any leftover cake in refrigerator.

Are You Washing Dingy Into Your Clothes

Are you washing "dingy" into your clothes?

Incredible, but possible, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist.

"Carbonates" in certain detergent types are one of the problems.

When carbonate in some detergents combines with calcium in water, calcium carbonate can build up on clothes. It "Masks" their true colors and makes them dingy, stiff and harsh feeling.

Fabric softeners of any kind, when used the wrong way, can stain clothes, the specialist says.

Saunders is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas water conditioner.

Agitate clothes about 1 minute until wet and leave overnight or about 12 hours.

Drain solution and spin. Do not agitate.

Laundry using regular cycle, no detergent, 1 cup non-precipitating water conditioner and appropriate bleach.

A&M University System.

Of course, other factors contribute to these problems—using too little detergent or too-cold water and pouring fabric softener directly on clothes will make directly in the laundry room,

Saunders adds.

To overcome dinginess, start by removing the build up on clothes, she advises.

Fill the washer, using lowest water level and hottest water appropriate for the fabric. Add four times the normal amount of phosphate detergent plus 1 cup of non-precipitating Rinse as many times as necessary to remove all laundry products from the fabric. Do not use this procedure on silk and wool.

Fabric softener stains are not permanent, but remove them as soon as you notice them. These satins can attract soil, rust or loose dye in the wash water.

To remove a fabric softener stain, dampen it, rub it with bar soap or liquid detergent and rewash the garment.

To avoid softener stains to begin with, never pour fabric softener directly on to clothes. If the washer has a fabric dispenser, follow the machine directions for using softener.

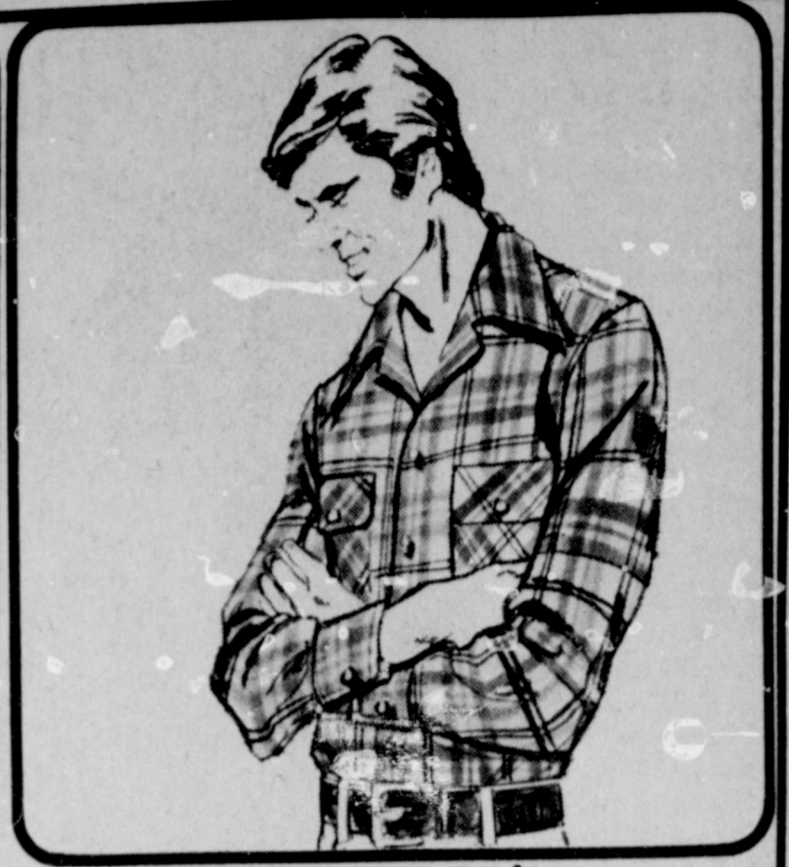

Watch out with dryer softeners, too. Staining in the dryer can happen when you overload the dryer, or underload it, and when you add a fabric softener sheet after the dryer has been running for several minutes, Saunders says.

Cotton harvest reached the midway mark in late November.

Debbie Schuster was the winner of $1000.00 in the Pepsi bottle top contest, and Muleshoe Ag Boosters held open house at the high school ag department. Muleshoe FFA officers were fortunate enough to be able to attend the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri in November.

Weldon Dennis captured the grand prize in the Journal's football contest this year, winning two tickets to the Cotton Bowl and a $50 expense check.

December

Jennyslippers served a barbecue lunch for the community on the 5th, and headed up the Christmas parade on that day.

Fifteen year old Jamie LeFebre, a Muleshoe girl was missing from her home from November 28 to December 14, when she was located in Arizona. Lions elected their new sweetheart, being Marleea Cox.

Annual Arts and Crafts Bazaar was a big success. Alpha Zeta Pi won first place with their entry in the Christmas parade.

Despite the many woes and worries besetting this farming community, the Holiday spirit seemed to work in spite of the highly volatile proposed 1982 Farm Bill. Hopes for a better year in '82 were expressed by many concerned people.

but, they are small compared to the problems of agriculture," Hance said. Consumers will end up paying a higher price for what the farmer is going through now at this time.

The family farmer as known in the past is fast becoming a vanishing breed. In agricultural communities such as ours, the suffering will only begin with the farmer. Total effects will be wide reaching.

Low prices for ag products are pushing many farmers out of business. Hance predicts 500-600 foreclosures and liquidations this year in North and West Texas alone. Prices are not covering the production costs.

Many farmers borrows operating funds at high interest rates. Many of these costs continue to rise, while market prices for farm products fell.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown states that "More farmers are being lost every day. Texas is down to 189,000 farms and we cannot afford to lose many more-and-farmers can't continue to produce at prices less than the cost of production.

Here, at a glance, is detailed rundown of some of the price support programs for major local commodities. The estimated four-year cost of the program is $11 billion.

COTTON

The current formula based on average market prices in previous years for determining the price support loan rate is continued but the minimum loan rate is increased to 55 cents a pound for the 1982 through 1985 crops. The loan rate for the 1981 cotton crop is 52.5 cents a pound. Target prices for the 1982 through 1985 crops could be set in one of two ways at the discretion of the agriculture secretary: either, 120 percent of the loan rate applicable in each year; or at a flat 71 cents a pound for the 1982 crop and increased by 5 cents a pound in each of the three following years. The target price for the 1981 crop was nearly 70.9 cents a pound.

CORN & FEED GRAINS

The price support loan rate for corn is set a $2.55 a bushel for the 1982 through 1985 crops. Loan rates for the other feed grains-barley, oats, rye and grain sorghum-are set at levels fair and reasonable to their feed-value relationship to corn. The loan rate for the 1981 corn crop was $2.40 a bushel. The target price for corn is set at $2.70 a bushel for the 1981 crop, $2.86 for the 1982 crop, $3.03 for the 1984 crop and $3.18 for the 1985 crop. Target prices for the other feed grains are set the same way as the loan rate. The target price for the 1981 corn crop was $2.40 a bushel, the same as the 1981 loan rate, and no direct federal payments to farmers will be made. But the national average barley price was 11 cents a bushel below its target level, meaning barley farmers will receive between $45 million and $50 million in direct federal payments.

WHEAT

The price support loan rate for the 1982 through 1985 wheat crops is set at $7.55 a bushel. The loan rate for the 1981 wheat crop is $3.20 a bushel. The target price, which triggers a direct government payment to farmers when the national average market price falls below it, is set at $4.05 a bushel for the 1982 crop, $4.30 for the 1983 crop, $4.45 for the 1984 crop and $4.65 for the 1985 crop. The target price for the 1981 wheat crop was $3.81 a bushel. The national average price for wheat from June through October was 15 cents a bushel below that, meaning the government will make about $400 million in direct payments to farmers on the 1981 crop.

SOYBEANS

The price support loan rate for the 1982 through 1985 crops of soybeans is set at 75 percent of the national average market price over the previous five years as calculated by the Agriculture Department but at no less than the 1981 loan rate of $5.02 a bushel. There is no provision for a target price program.

A Check In The Mail' (Income or Not)

by: Alex H. Williams, CPA

If you receive a check on December 31, is it income? If you pay an otherwise deductible expense on December 31 by check, can you take a deduction?

If you, as a "cash basis taxpayer," receive a check on the last day of your tax year, without restrictions on its use, it will be income to you even if it is received after banking hours. If the check turns out to be bad, you had no income in the year of receipt.

A cash basis taxpayer is one who reports his income and deductions on the basis of when money is received or money is paid out as opposed to an "accrual basis taxpayer" who recognizes his expenses at the time they are incurred.

Under the doctrine of "constructive receipt," the money must be available to you for immediate use and enjoyment. Therefore, if check is mailed to you and you do not receive it until the next year, it is not income to you until received. If, however, you could have picked it up by simply showing up in person, but chose not to do so, you have constructively received the money and it will be taxable to you. The same holds true if your "agent" received a check on your behalf.

If you sell an item and agree, even orally, that the money is to be received at some future date, you do not have constructive receipt. This allows you to perfect a sale and schedule the money to be received

Farm Economy Seminar Scheduled

LUBBOCK--To help farmers and ranchers cope with the continuing cost-price squeeze which has many of them reeling, and to make them aware of strategies that can lessen the risk in the new year, a conference on "Profitable Decision-Making in '82" will be held here Jan. 28.

The conference at the Koko Palace, 5201 Avenue Q, will be conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with support of the South Plains Development Program. It is one of eight such meetings being held throughout the state.

The South Plains meeting will feature outlook information on cotton, grain sorghum and corn, said Marvin Sartin, Extension economist-farm management. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:45 p.m.

Conference speakers will discuss policy and marketing trends, explain implications of the new farm bill on South Plains producers, compare marketing options for risk and return, and evaluate risk positions, credit stretching, crop insurance and selection of the best crop for 1982.

"The coming year will be crucial for many area farmers and ranchers," Sartin said. "This program is designed to help them better understand risk and the alternatives in managing it."

Tex-Pack Authorized For Larger Shipments

TEX-PACK package express carriers began carrying up to 200 pound shipments from each consignee-double the current allowable-on Monday, December 21.

Cotton Council Mailing Questionnaires

The National Cotton Council will mail questionnaires December 31 to a sample of cotton growers to assess their 1982 planting intentions, President Frank M. Mitchener, Jr., said today.

Mitchener said the Council is conducting the survey because the U.S. Department of Agriculture plans to consolidate its January and March surveys into one. It will be carried out in February, and results will not be reported until late February.

"The Council survey will provide planting intentions earlier. Individual cotton growers need this information for planning purposes. In addition, Council delegates will need it for their policy deliberations at our annual meeting early in February," Mitchener explained.

"We want to encourage every grower who receives a questionnaire to complete and return it promptly," the Council president said. "Results will be made available to all cotton growers through announcements in the media."

situation and provide opportunities for questions and answers.

for Express Carriers Association (TEX-PACK) said the new authority was granted by the Texas Railroad Commission after a series of hearings into the need for such expanded service.

The Railroad Commission authorization will allow each TEX-PACK carrier to handle shipments weighing up to 200 pounds as long as no single piece in the shipment weighs in excess of 100 pounds. Also there is no limit to the number of pieces which comprise a single shipment.

"TEX-PACK carriers are pleased to expand our service to include larger shipments," Westfall said. "We have worked many years to provide a badly needed service for all Texans, and these expanded limits will allow us to offer even more comprehensive service to persons across the state."

The TEX-PACK system is comprised of seven independent, home-owned carriers forming a network serving Texas with regularly scheduled dependable package express service. Local agents in small communities throughout the state form the heart of TEX-PACK.

New Drug Laws To Take Effect

Patients visiting their physicians and pharmacists will find some changes in the way drugs are prescribed and dispensed beginning Jan. 1, 1982, according to the Texas Medical Association.

Two new state laws will allow the substitution of generic drugs for brand-name drugs in many cases, and will require physicians prescribing certain narcotics to fill out a new form. The form is designed to discourage both the diversion of prescription drugs to street use, particularly by drug users pretending to be ill, and the possibility of abuse in prescription writing.

In approving the generic-drug law, the Texas Legislature's stated intent is to save patients money on prescriptions. The legislation allows pharmacists with the physician's permission, to substitute a cheaper, "generically equivalent" drug for the brand-name drug. The law says pharmacists should pass along the net savings on drug costs to the consumer.

The generic substitute must contain identical amounts of the same active ingredients as the brand-name drug. The substitute must also produce a therapeutic effect of the same strength and duration as the brand name drug.

To allow the generic substitute, physicians first must give approval on the prescription by signing the blank labeled "Product selection permitted." (The other option is to require the brand-name drug by signing the blank labeled "Dispense as written.") If "product selection" is permitted, the pharmacist can substitute with a cheaper, generic drug—but only if the patient agrees. Before delivering the medication, the pharmacist must inform the patient orally or by a posted sign that a substitution can be made.

The patient has the right to refuse it.

The law also stipulates that the pharmacist cannot substitute unless the cost to the consumer for the generic product is less than that of the brand-name produce prescribed. Some drugs are not subject to substitution.

The second law, part of Gov. Bill Clements' "War on Drugs" program, will prohibit physicians from prescribing or administering certain narcotics and other drugs directly to patients (except those hospitalized) without completing a triplicate prescription. The doctor and the pharmacist each will keep one copy, and the third will go to the Texas Department of Public Safety. The form will include the date the prescription was written; the drug prescribed, dosage and instructions for use; the patient's name, address and age. The information is intended to aid the D.P.S. in its efforts against illegal drug use. This computerized information will be available only to investigators from the licensing boards for physicians, dentists, podiatrists and veterinarians, and to authorized DPS officers investigating suspected criminal drug violations. The DPS officers, however, must have the appropriate licensing board approval.

Some of the drugs covered by the law include amobarbital, amphetamine, cocaine, codeine, meperidine, methadone, methaqualone, morphine, opium, oxycodone, pentobarbital and secobarbital.

Unemployment Confusion

One of the hoaxes of the era is the federal bureaucracy's compilation of the number of unemployed. This justifies, under existing law, vast outlays to be paid to these unemployed (and also the jobs of those in the bureaucracy running this vast program).

Everyone knows that many of those listed are chronic cases of individuals who won't work, who won't accept jobs they don't like, and who won't bother to look very hard for work, or to keep a job once they have it.

The federal figures also contain young people and wives in families where two or three or four people work--which makes the image conveyed by these statistics misleading.

A further distortion is found in teen-age figures--covering those between 16 and 19 years of age. The bureaucrats say 3.5 million of 16 million in this age group are unemployed. The white unemployment rate is 19 percent, for blacks 45 percent.

One columnist has suggested that the reason for unemployment among the 3.5 million, and the reason for employment of the 12.5 million, lies in the young people themselves. He feels that too many of today's youngsters have had things too easy, including permissive schooling, and that they are really not fit to hold jobs.

One recent survey, in California, found that 29 percent of teenagers there gave away goods or services to their friends and eighteen percent had been detected stealing. The government--the people--have no obligation to pay such citizens unemployment compensation. But it does, and we also pay many others who could work. There are jobs about for most people who really want to work. Believe it. Look at the want ads and check with employers, some of whom have had signs in windows for months.

Poland: Freedom Dies

The key to the climax in Poland was the decision of the union movement to propose a free and fair vote as to whether a communist government was the will of the majority.

Communists can't win free elections. Thus this call for true democracy by Solidarity brought an instant crackdown by the military. Poland's communist leaders had cleverly waited more than a year, tolerating union excesses, to gain some support. They also claim their move forestalls a Russian move. Thus the situation is conveniently confused and the people somewhat split.

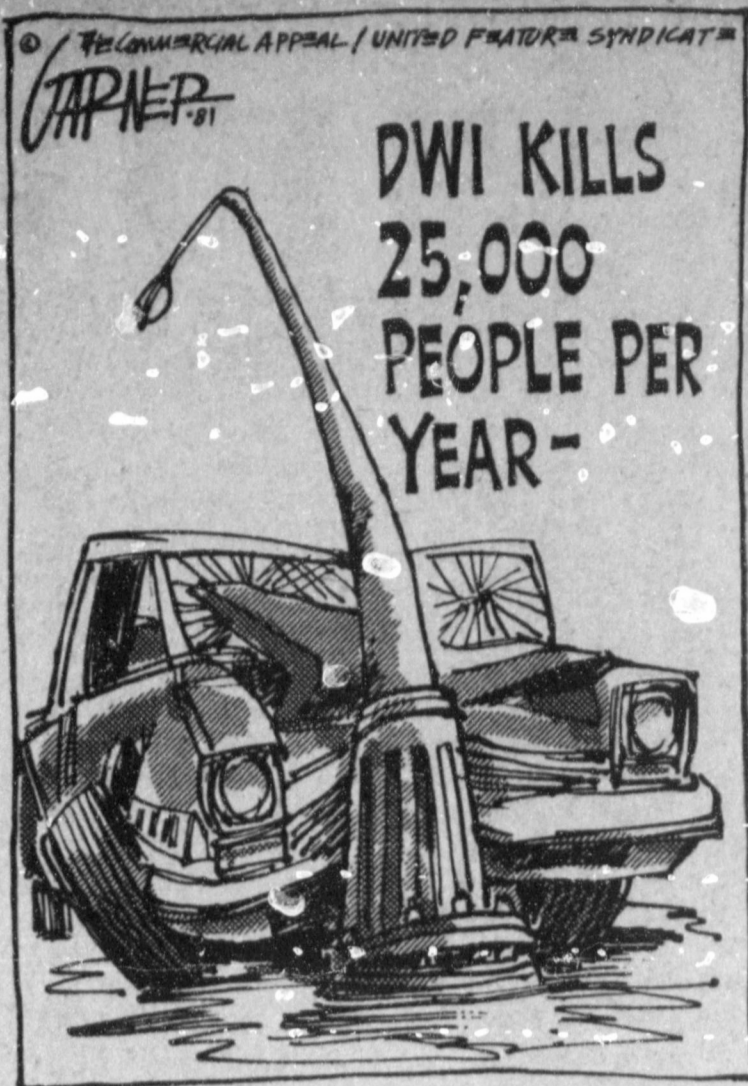

This naked resort to military force to thwart the will of a people is proof anew of the totalitarian nature of communist rule, the best possible PR for the democratic West. But it's the dashing of hopes for real freedom in 1982, and historic tragedy, for the Polish people.

and how much higher taxes can go without putting a hardship on the taxpayers. It is a fact, that a large part of the taxes come from the farmer or farm-related businesses. My point is, that the farmer is hurting now, so what will happen if he is not able to pay taxes?

Many think that will not happen, but I can speak from experience. It did happen here in Bailey County during the depression years of the thirties! Teachers were given vouchers which could not be cashed until the tax money was available. Sometimes we waited months and finally took a discount on them.

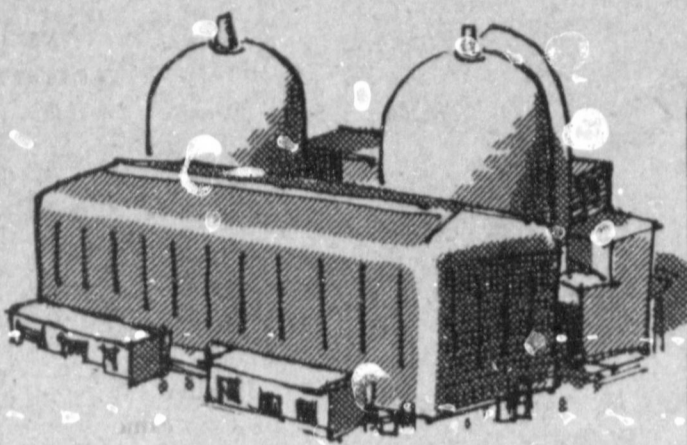

From all reports we get of the conditions of the high school, we are aware of the need for repairs. According to my thinking, this should have been done when it was needed. Surely, there are signs of neglect and also some abuse of the school property.

I am concerned that the needed re-conditions be done at this time. Hopefully, there will be a way to do the needed repair without placing a burden on the taxpayers. If this can be done, I will be in favor next time.

Just taxpayers, Byron and Velma Gwyn P.S. Byron says he sat on his "mule" and did not vote or the count would have been one more against.

Dear Editor:

The 1981 holiday season may remind many of us that some things haven't changed. This year, once again, we feasted upon a traditional and probably lavish turkey dinner, watched spectacular holiday parades, gathered around the television set to watch myriad football games and fought crowds in search of the perfect gift.

Some things haven't changed in other parts of the world either. This year, as in years past, people have been forced to flee their homelands, find shelter in crowded and unsanitary refugee camps and suffer the debilitating effects of malnutrition and disease.

In the Northeast African nation of Somalia, close to a million people are living in these camps. They are alive today because international relief agencies are providing them with the food, water and medical care they need to survive. But I am concerned about the dependency this assistance tends to create.

The 1981 holiday season should remind many of us that it is time for some things to change. It is time to put an end to widespread hunger and to dependence upon daily shipments of food. Some voluntary agencies, such as Save the Children, have taken a giant step in this direction by providing the Somali refugees with the skills and resources they need and want to provide for themselves. Instead of just handing out food, Save the Children is handing out techniques for growing food and for planting seeds, trees, and small plot family gardens.

The holiday season encourages us to share our love with family and friends. This season let's share our love, caring, and concern with members of the human family by helping the Somali refugees regain self-sufficiency. Any contribution, no matter how small, can help. Please mail your check today to: Save the Children, Somalia Relief Fund, Westport, CT 06880, attention Valerie Harper.

Sincerely,
Valerie Harper

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:
The Bailey County Journal

I want to say a word in defense of our position as taxpayers. I am grouped with those unconcerned, backward cockroaches that came out to vote against the $2,000,000 school bond election. I voted my conviction which is a privilege we all have. I believe I deserve that privilege after paying taxes many years to support the school.

We are both products of Muleshoe High School and our only daughter graduated from that school. We surely do have a certain dedication to Muleshoe High School, and we realize our obligation to support it.

Maybe I am the villain, afflicted with apathy, seasoned with a portion of ignorance, but I think it would do no harm to take a good look at where we are

Motivations For Volunteering

COLLEGE STATION....
Why do people want to give of their spare time to help an organization or promote a cause?

"Understanding the motivation of the individual volunteer is critical to his recruitment, placement, training, on-the-job support and recognition," according to Dr. Bill Jackson of Stephenville, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a state agency that relies heavily on volunteers to help with informal educational programs in agriculture, home economics, and community and youth development.

Although some people still base volunteerism on the philosophy that "it's better to give than to receive," many of today's volunteers have selfish motives, notes Jackson.

"In other words, they view volunteer experience as an opportunity for continuing education through in-service training or they feel the practical experience will provide them with an opportunity to try out a new career before actually deciding on that career," he points out.

Jackson also notes these reasons why people volunteer today:

1. They need a sense of belonging.
2. People profit from a sense of sharing in planning objectives and realizing that these objectives are within reach and make sense.
3. People need to feel that what they are doing has real purpose or contributes to human welfare.
4. They want to share in making the rules.
5. They need responsibilities that challenge.
6. People enjoy seeing progress made toward goals that they helped set.

'Baby Blues' What To Do About Them

Are you a new mother suffering from post-partum depression -- more commonly known as "baby blues?"

Typical symptoms of "baby blues" include crying for no reason and feeling sad or depressed
after giving birth, says Cindy B. Wilson, a family life education specialist.

"Baby blues" can range from mild to severe emotional changes due to physical changes and exhaustion, she explains.

Experiencing "baby blues" is a normal condition for many new mothers, and it can be stabilized to a great extent, the specialist notes.

To control these downward spiraling feelings, new mothers can do a few simple things, Wilson recommends.

- *eat well-balanced meals and rest adequately,
- *share inner feelings with someone else -- don't bottle them inside,
- *plan "alone time" to relax, nap, read, participate in a quiet, enjoyable activity and,
- *call on family, friends and neighbors to help out with housekeeping, cooking and care for the newborn the first month after giving birth.

Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that people volunteer primarily for humanitarian reasons. Some 200 reasons were listed by volunteers as to why they give of their time and skills, and these can be grouped into five categories: a sense of duty, to help people, they enjoy volunteer work, they were asked to do volunteer work, and to gain experience, help friends and relatives with volunteer work and aid people suffering from natural disasters or other calamities.

According to Jackson, certain social changes and trends also have nrbrought an increase in volunteer activity:

1. Increased leisure time.
 2. Changing status of women, making them feel a need to accomplish and fulfill themselves outside the home.
 3. Disappearance of the self-sufficient family, allowing more time to pursue other activities.
 4. Many religious groups foster the need to serve.
 5. Need to belong, to identify with some group or organization.
 6. Need to gain special knowledge.
 7. Opportunity to put talents to work.
 8. Desire to meet the expectations of others, to seek approval.
 9. Desire for status and community recognition.
- "So, people volunteer to help a cause or organization for a multitude of reasons. Being aware of these is important when working with volunteers so that their contributions will benefit both themselves and the organization," notes Jackson.
- Some of the smartest things that we have heard have come from the lips of children.
