AROUND THE COUNTY

ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

The 4-H Club awards barbecue which had been scheduled for Saturday night, January 28, but was postponed due to the ice and snow, has been set for Monday night, February 5, at 7:00 p.m. in the community center. Barbecued lamb will be served under the lamb promotion plan of the American Sheep Producers' Council.

Under the plan, the Council helps defray the cost of the meal by contributing up to 50c per serving where lamb is served to youth groups. Aim of the group is to promote the use of lamb throughout the country by making it available to the young people who will be the householders of tomorrow.

Twelve Sterling County 4-H Club members have sheep entered in the San Antonio Livestock Exposition which opens February 10. Those who have fat lambs entered are Mitsy Davis, Diana Cole, Rosanne Foster, Cecilia McDonald, Jeanie McDonald, Tommy Foster, David Foster, and Reynolds Lee Foster. Junior Rambouillet show entrants are Barbara Durham, Betty Jo Barrett, David Durham and Drew Durham. Barbara and David Durham and Betty Jo also have fleeces entered in the International Wool Show held in conjunction with the livestock show.

Boys fat lambs will be judged on Saturday the 11th starting at 8:30 a.m. Open show lambs, which includes the girls lambs will be judged at 8:00 a.m. Monday, the 13th. Judging of the wool fleeces will start at 9:00 a.m. Friday, the 10th while judging in the Junior Rambouillet show will get under way at 8:30 on Tuesday morning, the 14th.

Over 5400 head of livestock have been entered in the San Antonio show. Increases have been noted in every department. Over 1100 fat lambs have entered which is an increase of about 300; the breeding sheep department, all breeds and both adult and junior, number 1020. In the junior Rambouillet department there are 162 head entered.

Wool entries are also larger. Last year the show moved into a big airconditioned, dust proof specialty lighted building. The fleeces of wool and mohair, and the many exhibits by manufacturers were a big attraction and did much to promote the wool industry.

Now is the time to spray your fruit or nut trees for the control of scale insects. Recommendations call for the use of a dormant oil spray which can be used only when the trees are fully dormant.

Scale is a tiny insect which infests many varieties of fruit and nut trees and eventually kills them. The scale is a tiny dirty-white shell-like insect about the size of a pinhead or a little larger which is found on the limbs and trunks of trees. Usually the ends of the branches or the new growth dies first, then entire branches and eventually the entire tree. While the scale is working, the weakened condition of the tree usually permits it to fall victim to other insects and diseases.

For control of scale, use 3 1/2 gallons of a 97% oil emulsion in 100 gallons of water. Spray the entire tree being sure to get a good coverage on the trunk and branches. If the scale is particularly bad, another spraying in 30 days would be beneficial.

Mims Carl Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Reed, has enrolled in Texas Tech for the spring semester and plans to finish his college work there at Tech. He and Mrs. Reed moved to Lubbock last month.

- ½ cup light KARO Syrup
- ½ cup water

Wash and dry apples; remove stems. Insert skewers in stem end of apples. Combine sugar, Corn Syrup and water in heavy deep saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Then cook without stirring to soft crack stage (285°F.), or until a small amount separates into threads which are hard but not brittle when tested in very cold water. Remove from heat; add flavoring and coloring and stir only enough to mix. Hold each apple by skewer end and quickly twirl in syrup, tilting pan to cover apple with syrup. Remove from syrup; allow excess to drip off, then twirl to spread syrup smoothly over apple. Place on lightly buttered baking sheet to cool. Store in cool place.

Widows Get Full Social Security Benefits at Age 62, Says Ellington
 "Widows should apply for social security benefits as soon as they are 62", Floyd B Ellington, Manager of the San Angelo District Office advises. "It would be even better if they applied a month or two before they are 62. Of course no one should delay a first check by applying a month or so before."

should be careful to apply for benefits promptly." A woman's benefit based on her own account, or on the account of a living husband is reduced if she applies before age 65, but a widow's benefit is different. Widows' benefits are not reduced and the full amount is paid at age 62. "So, if you are a widow", Ellington explained, "And we once paid you a lump-sum or monthly benefits, you should apply again when you are 62. In fact, you can speed your first check by applying a month or so before."

March of Dimes Research Grants Awarded Only to Top Scientists

By THOMAS M. RIVERS
 Vice President-Medical Affairs
 The National Foundation

If there is any one point that we scientists must get across to the "average man" (if there is any such person), it is that conducting a first-rate research program is much more than just giving money indiscriminately to various laboratories.

The key to right giving is selecting the right people to whom to give. This is a most difficult task but it is a job at which The National Foundation has proven itself exceptionally competent.

Research may be said to be a journey into the unknown to push forward the frontiers of knowledge. Inevitably, its nature is such that no man can foretell exactly where it will lead.

But this "average man" to whom we just referred, and who is perhaps dissatisfied with the uncertainties over where research will lead, might be reminded that The National Foundation has shown in the past what it can do—as, for example, initiating the research that developed the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines. This and other major accomplishments constitute the credentials of the world's largest voluntary health organization for going ahead.

A great deal of basic research, of this journey into the unknown, was needed to create the bases which made possible the development of the polio vaccines. This again will be necessary as The National Foundation moves forward in its expanded program which includes birth defects and arthritis in addition to continued work in polio. Perhaps you have heard the comment that a camel is a horse put together by a committee. This illuminates what I think is one of the principles of research. Great research is done by great men, not by committees. It is The National Foundation's job, among others, to find those great men, and to see that they have adequate equipment with which to work.

Dr. Albert B. Sabin at his University of Cincinnati laboratory examines samples of his live-virus anti-polio vaccine, developed by him with $1,500,000 in March of Dimes public contributions. Sabin vaccine, to be taken orally instead of by needle, has been approved for eventual use in the U. S.

It is natural for the public to want immediate results. For the parents of a child afflicted with arthritis, for instance, to want quick cures is understandable. But we are trustees of public funds. We cannot spend those funds save for projects that have some promise of success, conducted by people who have shown what they can do.

If our aims in research could be summed up, I would say that The National Foundation operates like a rapier, not a bludgeon. We are selective. We put March of Dimes funds in the exact spot and under the specific man who will make the most of it. We do not dump millions into hundreds of projects with a vague hope that by the law of averages some may produce.

In short, we try to be as careful in the selection of research projects as an extremely fussy woman is in selection of a spring hat.

The research future is bright. With laboratory methods that have been developed, many under March of Dimes grants, we can move farther and faster than in years past. Indeed, I often think of the polio struggle as a time when we toiled up for what is to come. The methods that were so successful in that polio challenge are now being applied to the greater challenges that lie ahead.

To accomplish what The National Foundation desires requires great men. We have had them in the past. We shall have them in the future and, with public contributions to the March of Dimes, those men will accomplish much for the good of mankind.

"Say Gal— Who did you say owns the Electric Company?"

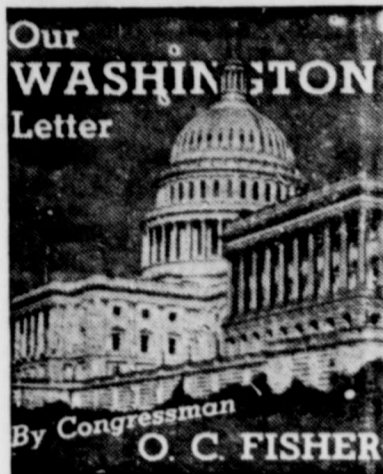

PEOPLE do—Big Boy—thousands of people... farmers, housewives, engineers, doctors, lawyers, secretaries, storekeepers and business men... all kinds of people.

They own the electric company because they invest money in it, and thus help it grow and serve you better.

This kind of ownership made this electric company an investor-owned company. We are not owned by the city nor by the state, nor by any government agency. We are owned by people—many of them are our customers and employees.

We think this is the best kind of ownership in America.

The tug-of-war that has been mounting in recent years between so-called radical-liberals and conservatives and moderates, is taking shape for the ensuing session of Congress. Two years ago a group of House liberals demanded that the power of the House Rules Committee be hamstrung in order to smooth the way for more liberal legislation to be pushed through Congress.

Last Fall the same group, styled the "Study-Group", announced another drive against the Rules Committee, and early this year became more vocal and insistent.

The Rules Committee sifts all bills that are reported out of the various committees, and decides which ones may be cleared for Floor action. It serves as a traffic signal system that channels the various bills toward debate.

Actually that committee has served a valuable purpose. It has on occasions applied the brakes that has stalled the movement of a horde of non-essential measures, and is credited with saving American taxpayers billions of dollars. It has been the thorn in the side of the free spenders and the radical-liberals.

But the Rules Committee is not all-powerful, as its critics contend. Any bill can be brought up for a vote if a majority of the members of the House ask for it, regardless of the Rules Committee.

Faced with a flock of spending proposals this year, the need for caution and sifting, such as only an effective Rules Committee can apply, is more pressing than ever. Another battle of the budget will soon be shaping up. The budget submitted to Congress by outgoing President Eisenhower anticipated a balanced budget for the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1, and a $1.4 billion surplus.

But the radical-liberals have amassed an ambitious program of welfare state and spending measures that could do havoc to the budget and push the Treasury back to deficit financing, with more money to be borrowed to pay current bills.

That would mean more inflation, lower purchasing power of the dollar, and more fiscal headaches for the future. In these times we can ill afford the luxury of deficit spending and a $300 billion public debt. Let us tighten up our belts and apply the brakes.

Outdoorsmen's Quiz-Column
by Joe Bates, Jr.

Q. Can you catch more fish by adding scent to plastic worms? If so, how do you do it?

A. Scenting plastic worms isn't necessary, but many fishermen think that it helps. The easiest way I know is to remove the sardines from a sardine can and to soak the plastic worms overnight in the remaining sardine oil. Bait-up with the oiled plastic worms, and judge for yourself how well it works.

Q. Do fishermen have to spend so much money buying so many kinds of plugs? Isn't there one universal plug that will do the work of many — and save us money besides?

A. The nearest thing to a universal plug seems to be one called the "Diamond Jim". This is a jointed, sinking plug shaped like a bait-fish. The secret of it is that it wiggles at both ends, rather than only at the tail. It can be fished near the surface or as deep as desired. Thus, it covers water at almost any depth. If a plug looks and acts like a bait-fish, and can be fished at whatever depth the fish are, it should do the job. This "Diamond Jim" does this, and is effective on nearly all game-fish. Your dealer can show you the one-half and one-quarter ounce sizes, in a choice of nine color combinations.

Q. Where can I get a free booklet that tells how to catch fish when they don't seem to be biting?

A. When fish are not feeding, it's pretty hard to tempt them. However, there are tricks that help. Mail a postcard to me and ask for the free booklet "How To Catch Bigger Fish". This booklet will give many of the answers. Address: Joe Bates, Jr., 195 Algonquin Road, Des Plaines, Illinois.

Q. Is there any kind of a dye which will make live worms a brighter red in color?

A. Easiest way is to hammer a red brick into fine powder. Mix some of this powder into the dirt in which the worms are kept. They should be a bright red in a few days.

Q. I've heard of a plastic body lure that works both as a wobbler and as a jig. Can you tell me what it is?

A. Probably the lure to which you refer is the "Vervette", made by Fastex Division, Des Plaines, Illinois. This has a nickel head and a fish-shaped, translucent plastic body which can be bent or re-bent for any degree of curve. The "Vervette" acts as a wobbler when being retrieved. On a slack line, it will dive head-first, and thus works excellently as a jig.
