The most hope lies in the most hopeless

Today leukemia is a hopeless form of cancer. But by one of science's strange paradoxes, leukemia research may bring the first breakthrough in the control of all cancer!

There is an undercurrent of excitement in the nation's cancer research laboratories. Suddenly, a new word appears in the leukemia story. The word is hope.

New drugs are already in use, prolonging the lives of leukemia victims. Leukemia induced in laboratory animals has been cured.

Most important, there is growing evidence that leukemia—one of the foremost disease-killers of children—may be caused by a virus. Why is this so important? Because it presents hope for the discovery of a leukemia vaccine—which might someday be the breakthrough leading to the control of all cancers.

The American Cancer Society is now giving one out of every six of its research dollars to leukemia-related research.

Your gift to the American Cancer Society makes this support possible. Your gift helps keep alive that giant word—hope.

THE KID AND ME

As a sportsman, I'm having a high time these days. As a sportsman-father, I'm not doing so well.

There's a ten-year-old boy in our house who is being sold short.

I have always prized my hunting and fishing time, and jealously resent wasting it. I don't care to hunt or fish with novices and dilettantes for they detract from the business at hand, intrude on my private ways and waste time. This feeling, I'm deeply ashamed to say, has even extended to my son.

It's pure selfishness, I know, and partly laziness. But I find that I covet my hunting and fishing trips more each year, and that I am taking them — and myself — much too seriously.

And so I'm gone a lot, and Chris stays at home and plays ball and watches television and waits for me. But I seldom return from hunting or fishing so late that he doesn't come out of his room to greet me, rubbing the sleep from his eyes and saying: "How was it, Dad? How did you do? Tell me how it was!"

And I cuss myself and make a firm resolution to take him along some time, and the next time I go it's with an old companion just as it has always been.

This is strictly one-sided, for Chris never lets me down. Anything he finds or sees, he shares with his old man.

All last winter there were chores around home that took up my spare time. But Chris pestered me constantly, asking me to "please come down to the creek and see Beaver Falls." That creek is a trickle that drains some hilly woods behind our home, and is much too insignificant for any grown man to bother with. Only boys know of it. And all winter long, Chris kept badgering me to see his private creek and his Beaver Falls. I finally grew angry and told him to shut his mouth, for couldn't he see that I was too busy to play and waste time puddling around in his blasted "creek?"

Last Sunday was a rainy, lowering day and I was obviously bored and had no excuse for him. Grumbling to myself, I slipped into a raincoat and followed him down to the creek. Chris capered ahead of me all the way, proudly scouting the easiest trails and leading me into a deep valley.

I heard the falls five minutes before I saw them. Then we came around the shoulder of a timbered hill and saw the rain-swollen stream plunging over a great ledge of lime rock. It was a lovely place with the fifteen-foot waterfall roaring through a narrow gorge down into a hidden pool rimmed with rock walls and shattered ledges. Beside the fall pool was a deep overhang out of the rain, with moss inside to sit on. We loafed there while I smoked, and Chris showed me how to skip flat stones and climb, and we talked all afternoon. A perfect host and guide, he even shared half a rather dirty candy bar with me.

I asked him how many other fathers had seen Beaver Falls. Radiant, he replied: "Dad, you're the first one!" Then, wistfully: "I wanted awful bad for you to see it last winter when it was froze up, but you were too busy."

I won't be too busy next winter, Chris boy. And I won't be too busy for you this Saturday when the bass will be hitting, nor next autumn when the mallards begin pushing through. You showed me your Beaver Falls, the best and biggest thing you know. I hope you'll let me show you some bigger falls and bigger rivers, and perhaps a bigger dad.

AROUND THE COUNTY by

ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

One of the major objectives of the 1961 feed grain bill is to cut down on the cost of storing the huge surplus of corn and grain sorghum. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the program could save as much as $500 million in storage costs.

This saving would be made possible by the program's plan to use surplus corn and feed grain in storage now to help farmers cut 1961 production to an amount more in line with needs. Cooperating farmers will divert from 20 to 40% of their 1959-1960 acreage of corn and grain sorghum to soil conserving crops. They will be paid for this cut with certificates for surplus grain which the government will sell for them if they like.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says that the feed grain program will:

1. Help increase farm income.
2. Help assure the consumer a continuation of fair and stable prices for meat, poultry and dairy products.
3. Reduce ultimate costs to taxpayers by about $500 million.
4. Prevent further build-up of the feed grain surplus and possibly reduce it.

Secretary Freeman recently said: "Every livestock, dairy, and poultry producer has a direct stake in this program. They cannot ignore the chaotic effects that continued and prolonged excess feed grain output would have on their production and their prices. Both consumers and producers have an interest in supply and price stability."

Last Friday at a meeting in Colorado City, attended by Eddie Braswell, local ASC office manager, and I, the details of the program were explained. About 75 ASC office managers, ASC county committeemen, and county agents from 16 counties heard the program explained by Henry Marshall of the State ASC office. Marshall had attended an earlier meeting in Denver to hear Washington officials explain the program.

Although Sterling County is not a major grain producing area, residents do have an interest in the program. Their interest in the program lies in the fact that this is a major livestock producing area and will be affected by the program as Secretary Freeman stated.

All county agents and ASC office managers have full details of the program and will gladly explain the details to anyone. They have available forms which the producer can use to help him decide whether he wishes to participate in the program or not.

Now is a good time to fertilize your fish pond if you wish to increase the size of fish for future fishing. However, ponds which are not going to be heavily fished (at least 300 man hours of fishing per acre per year) should not be fertilized. Also ponds which are in good condition due to the natural fertility of the run-off area or from barnyards should not be fertilized.

In this area, 300 pounds of 16-20-0 per acre is a good fertilizer. One half the amount should be applied now and the remainder in about three applications between now and June 1. June 1 is recommended as a cut-off date since fertilizer applied after that time will likely deplete the oxygen supply and cause a die-off of fish.

Bulletin 213, Improve Your Farm Fish Pond is available in the office for anyone who would like one.

What's the difference in the value of live mesquite trees and dead ones? Extension Range Specialist Garlyn Hoffman says that a dead one is worth more than a live one.

A live mesquite, 10 inches in diameter, will use a ton of water, or about 240 gallons, to produce one pound of beans. This same amount of water will produce four pounds of good grass which can be converted to meat and wool. The tree can be killed for 5 cents; let it live and it will cost you $9 per year.

Basal spray treatment can be applied anytime during the year. Trees up to four inches in diameter can be sprayed with a mixture of one gallon of 2.4.5-T in 48 gallons of diesel oil or kerosene. The sprayed area should extend about 18 inches above the ground.

Trees over four inches in diameter should be frilled with an axe before spraying. Spray into the frill or cut surface until it bubbles.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

If Red China is admitted to the United Nations next Fall, what will the United States do about it? That question is being raised, and properly so. A few years ago only the Communist bloc voted to admit the Chinese Reds. But last year the vote was only 42 to 24, with 22 abstentions, opposing admission. It's now hinted that even Britain and Brazil may join Norway, Denmark, Ireland and other non-Communist lands in favoring the seating of Peiking. A two-thirds vote is required to let them in and turn the Free Chinese of Formosa out.

The UN charter says an applicant must be 'peace-loving' if the Red Chinese can qualify, in view of their recent record, then it is evident that the United Nations is a farce. Red aggression in Korea, their genocide in Tibet, their never ending threat of force against Formosa; their incursions in India, and their subversions in places like Laos, should be convincing.

If a known tyrant and warmonger like Red China is admitted to the UN, that is at least supposed to be composed of people seeking peaceful solutions, then in my opinion the United States should get out of it.

Operation Abolition is a 30 minute documentary film of a Communist led riot that took place in San Francisco last May 13 when the House Un-American Activities Committee went there to hold hearings on communist activities in that area. It is a thrilling and living exposure of how Communists operate when they are on the defensive and are in danger of being exposed.

I recently acquired one of these 16 mm. films, and will be pleased to loan it to any church, school, club or other group that has not had an opportunity to view it. It would be a wonderful thing if every American could see this film.

cancer! where can you turn?

A PHYSICIAN must keep up with the fast developing facts in cancer control. He turns to his journals and the American Cancer Society publications and films for this information.

A BUSINESSMAN wants to protect his employees. He turns to the American Cancer Society for life-saving pamphlets, films, danger-signal posters and speakers.

A SCIENTIST needs funds to support research on leukemia. He turns to the American Cancer Society which invests millions annually in cancer research.

A PATIENT needs dressings and weekly transportation to a treatment center. She turns to the American Cancer Society which makes these services available to her.

The American Cancer Society is many things to many people — and is made up of many people — two million volunteer physicians, businessmen, union leaders, nurses, scientists, housewives, dedicated to one goal: saving lives from cancer. Through the Society's nation-wide research, education, and service programs, they hold out a lifeline to everyone threatened by cancer. You too can turn to the Society. Call your local Unit for more information on what it can do for you—And, in turn, you can do your part. You can guard your family by fighting cancer with a checkup and a check.

REMEMBER CANCER'S SEVEN DANGER SIGNALS

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere
3. A sore that does not heal
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits
5. Hoarseness or cough
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing
7. Change in a wart or mole

If your signal lasts longer than two weeks, go to your doctor to learn if it means cancer.
