County Eligible For ASCS Disaster Payments, Not Fm HA Disaster Loans

Contrary to some thinking, Bailey County has not yet been declared a disaster county for FmHA Loans, according to Clinton Kennedy local FmHA Director.

Sam White, an aide in Kent Hance's Washington office, told the Journal Tuesday that he felt sure that there was no problem with the declaration being issued. "FmHA disaster loans cannot be made until fall or about November, therefore, there has just not been a big push to declare any counties as eligible FmHA Disaster Loans." A statement that was first issued on April 16, led many to believe that the county was eligible for both disaster loans and disaster payments. In a meeting on July 28 in Bailey County, FmHA District Director Bud Leslie told Bailey County Farmers that Bailey County had NOT yet been declared as a county eligible for the FmHA disaster loans.

Bailey County has however, been declared as eligible for disaster payments, which will come through the ASCS office and ASCS official Rusty Williamson stated that he did not have a particular date as to when the issuance of the checks for disaster payments would begin. ASCS offices in other regions expect to be able to begin payments the last part of August. According to these official, there is more to process than just writing of the check. First, the farmer has to have met all compliances of the 1982 farm program; then a process of figuring estimated yields times 75 per cent, which is the percentage set for payment of disaster payments on cotton has to be completed in order to get the actual acreage payments that the farmer is eligible to receive.

Cotton and grain disaster payments will be handled the same basic way except for the price differences and percentage differences. Grain percentage level is 60 per cent, cotton is 75 per cent. Disaster payments are scheduled for $1.75 per bushel on wheat, $1.18 on sorghum, $.15 on Corn and barley and 20.5 cents on cotton.

County officials have stated that all requirements have been met, as far as applying for eligibility for the disaster loan program through FmHA. County Judge Glen Williams and Clinton Kennedy FmHA Director stated that "State officials say that all that can be done has been and the rest of the process is in the hands of the appropriate governmental officials." Williams stated that when

The board approved the payment of current bills and Superintendent Harold Horne gave a review of the bank balances in each school fund. It was noted that the school is in sound financial condition.

Tom Jinks gave a review of the expenditures in each function of the school budget. With August listed as the last month in the school fiscal year, it was noted that the school underperformed the budget.

T.F.U. Criticizes Reagan Wheat Extension

The Reagan Administration proposal to extend the grain agreement with the Soviet Union for one year will do little to bolster the sagging agricultural economy or improve the balance of trade, stated Mike Moeller, President of the Texas Farmers Union. "At a time when we need stronger efforts to open overseas markets for American agriculture, we are receiving little more than an empty breadbasket from the Reagan Administration," Moeller said.

"By stating we are not willing to enter into any long term agreements with the Soviet Union, the administration is violating their own so-called 'free market' philosophy," the T.F.U. President remarked. Moeller said the time is ripe to enter into a long term treaty as the Soviet Union has posted its third consecutive wheat harvest this year. With the harvest estimated at 170 million metric tons, the Soviets will probably be importing some 46 million tons.

The footdragging by the Reagan Administration has also allowed other countries to move into the vacuum created by the absence of any long term U.S. agreements. Canada has already signed a three year grain export treaty with the Soviets. "As other nations move to fill the void, the U.S. will end up being nothing more than a residual supplier of grain - a last chance market for the Soviets," Moeller said.

A long term treaty not only would help reduce current grain inventories in the U.S., they would also help stabilize the market for producers. "If we sell grain to the Soviet Union at a fair price, our farmers will be able to make a profit, the U.S. will improve its balance of trade and we could reduce the current cost of farm programs to the taxpayer," Moeller noted.

"Agriculture has been placed on the back burner too long by the Reagan Administration. As long as we have the State Department and the OMB dictating agriculture policy, we are going to have continuing problems both in domestic and foreign markets," Moeller said. The redirection of agricultural trade policy is needed, Moeller stated, to "place as much emphasis on price as it currently being given to market development. As long as the Reagan Administration continues to emphasize exports over domestic farm programs, we need to have these long term agreements to guarantee the U.S. its share in the world market," the T.F.U. president remarked.

Scanning Social Security

Like any insurance program, social security cannot payout more money than it takes in. Since the beginning of social security in January 1937, the social security trust funds have accumulated a total of one trillion, two hundred two billion, eight hundred million dollars. Of this amount, one trillion, one hundred seventy eight billion, three hundred million has been paid out.

At the end of 1981 the balance in the Social Security trust funds stood at 24.5 billion dollars.

Shown below are general categories of payments of 1981.

Retired persons and Survivors of deceased workers were paid 123.8 billions of dollars.

Disabled persons were paid 17.2 billion dollars.

These figures do not include SSI as funds, for that program comes from the general treasury funds.

Ninety four percent of persons age 65 or older were drawing or could have been drawing social security benefits had they not been working. Ninety five percent of the survivors of deceased workers received cash benefits upon the death of the worker.

Four out of five men and women aged 21 - 64 can count on monthly benefits in the event of the death of the breadwinner.

MHS Graduates Awarded Honor Scholarships

Two graduates of Muleshoe High School have been awarded $200 Don and Sybil Harrington Honor Scholarships to attend West Texas State University for the 1982-83 academic year.

More than 350 students who will enter WTSU as freshman students for the fall semester which begins with registration on Wednesday, August 25, have been designated as Don and Sybil Harrington Honor Scholars.

The Don and Sybil Harrington Honor Scholarship program has grown since 1979 with five gifts each of $200,000.

Of the 328 Don and Sybil Harrington Honor Scholars in 1981-82, 87 percent will return for this year and 51 percent of those who will return have maintained a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0 scale to be eligible for a scholarship the second year, said Keith Winter, director of development.

Don and Sybil Harrington Honor Scholars who score a 28 of a possible 36 on the American College Test and 1,220 of a possible 1,600 points on the Scholastic Aptitude Test entrance examinations also are designated as President's Honor Scholars and receive an additional $100 scholarship each academic year.

Honor scholars from Muleshoe are Dana Brewer, also a President's Honor Scholar and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brewer of 1722 W. Avenue D., and Wayne Precure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Precure, of Route 1.

Disaster Aid To Schools Taxpayers In Rural Areas

The head of Texans for Equitable Taxation has issued a call for state officials to implement a disaster aid plan for hard hit rural schools and taxpayers in the Panhandle and South Plains area.

According to Bill Baker of Knox City, State President of TET, school districts in the Texas counties recently declared an agricultural disaster area are faced with abrupt losses in both state and local funds.

"In many rural West Texas communities," said Baker, "Cotton gins and other agriculture-related businesses will be closed this year. This means that it will be difficult, if not impossible, for many of these businesses to pay property taxes. It also means that attendance will be down and this in turn will reduce state aid to the same schools."

Baker said that TET is calling on Governor Clements and the State Board of Education to support emergency legislation in January to help the disaster-struck schools and taxpayers. He said that, at a minimum, the legislature should act to guarantee that each of the impacted districts would receive at least as much state aid this year as they did last year.

In addition, he called for assistance to replace local taxes that will be lost due to the agricultural devastation.

"Most of these districts," he said, "will be forced to borrow money to stay in operation. Without some reassurances from the state, our already hard-pressed rural banks may be unable to make the loans."

Texans for Equitable Taxation, formed in 1975, is a statewide coalition of rural schools and taxpayers concerned mainly with property tax and school finance issues. TET President Baker is the Superintendent of the Knox City-O'Brien school district.

Wood Shingle Roof Can Last Longer

When John Oglesbee decided it was time to replace the wood shingle roof on his house in San Augustine County, he discovered that the cost was quite high. Since he wanted to retain a wood shingle roof, he began checking into the possibility of increasing the expected service life of the roof.

Oglesbee, past chairman of the San Augustine County Extension Forestry Committee, contacted Joe Janak, San Augustine County Extension agent, for assistance. Janak, in turn, asked Chuck Stayton, Extension forester - wood products at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Overton, to see if it was economically feasible to treat wood shingles to increase their service life.

Recent studies in Houston showed that the average life of wood shingle roofs has dropped considerably in that area, with 12 to 15 years expected for shingles without preservative treatment. Stayton concluded that the added cost of pressure treating wood shingles with a preservative would probably double the expected service life of the roof and make the investment worthwhile.

Thus, a result demonstration was established to show how pressure preservative treating wood shingles can double their service. Wood Protection Company, Houston, agreed to cooperate in the demonstration and treated the shingles to be used on the Oglesbee home.

Through this cooperative effort between the homeowner, private industry and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, citizens throughout the area will view the demonstration and see the value of pressure preservative treatment of wood shingles. Throughout the demonstration, accurate records will be kept of expenses and the condition of the roof.

'Raising A Ruckus' Performs At Fair

"Raisin' a Ruckus'", South Plains College's Country music show, will be making a pair of appearances at the annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here.

The free, two-hour show will be presented on the outdoor stage at 7 p.m. on September 25 and October 2, opening and closing days of the exposition, according to fair general manager Steve L. Lewis.

Featuring a 12-member cast and more than 50 classic and contemporary country music hits, the show is a spectacle of music, lighting, costumes, skits and dances which runs the gamut of country music tastes.

The show played to thousands throughout West Texas and eastern New Mexico the past two years. Special performances also were presented in Miami and Pensacola, Florida.

"One of the biggest production numbers, Ruckus through the Decades, touches on those tunes which have made country music great", says John Hartin, the show's music director and director of South College's Country and Bluegrass Music Department.

The number features the ragtime music of the 20s, the western swing of the 30s, the big band era of the 40s, the 1950s rock-and-roll of Chuck Berry and Bill Haley and finally, melodies inspired by the Beatles in the 60s.

Ed March, the show's vocal director who also has worked with Hartin in arranging the music for the production, believes the music demonstrates country music's broadening over the years.

The show contains a healthy dose of bluegrass music as well as a segment entitled "On the rhythm range." More solo numbers featuring the talents of SPC students also have been added.

Current members of the show, now in its sixth year of touring the area, include Darrell Thrash of Ropesville; Hartin; Bunk Lawson, Scott Barton and Carol Howell, all of Levelland; Doyle Martin of Lewiston, Idaho; Kay Stephens of Plains; Kathy Tutt of Muleshoe; Ira White of Tahoka; Randy Ellis and Ed Marsh, SPC instructors.

Seven shows have been booked for the stage of Fair Park Coliseum this year. The lineup includes: Mickey Gilley and Johnny Lee, September 25; Crystal Gayle, September 27; Don Williams and Lee Greenwood, September 28; Ronnie Milsap and the Maines Brothers, September 29; Louise Mandrell, R.C.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Dear Editor:
I've been thinking about the proposed Constitutional Amendment to prohibit the government from having a deficit.

As I understand it, if the Amendment were ratified by the states, it'd thereafter be Unconstitutional for Washington to spend more than it takes in.

However, there's a catch to it. The Amendment says the government couldn't spend more than it takes in unless three-fifths of Congress says it's all right this time. And this time and the next time and the next time.

A second proviso says Congress can over-spend if there's a war on.

This requires some thought. For example, the Viet Nam conflict lasted for years but there never was a formal declaration of war. So, before Congress could finance such an undertaking, would it be necessary to go to the Supreme Court to find out if we were at war? And what if the Court ruled 5 to 4 that we weren't?

Now as for requiring three-fifths of Congress to say we need to spend more money than we've got in order to abide by the Constitution, that provision needs to be re-worded. It should say that the Amendment applies only in off-years, not in election years. In an election year, Congress will be allowed to spend whatever it takes to get re-elected.

Even if the proposed Amendment passes Congress and is submitted to the states, it'd be three or four years at the earliest before it could take effect.

In other words, Washington would have at least three years of grace, which may explain why it's racing to beat the deadline by running up the biggest deficit in the history of the world. It's like a fat man tying to irrevocably tie himself down to a strict diet three years hence, provided he can over-eat in the meantime.

Low-Income Texans Get Help With Energy Bills

Some low-income Texans may be eligible for help with their summer cooling bills, if they haven't already received a Home Energy Assistance payment, a state official said.

"We need to hear from those low-income households which haven't filled out the Home Energy Assistance program questionnaire we mailed to them," said commissioner Marlin W. Johnston of the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Those eligible for the cooling payments include households which received June benefits for Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps, or Supplemental Security Income.

Certain Veterans Administration beneficiaries also may be eligible if they are "needs tested" and if their gross incomes don't exceed 75 percent of the poverty level as defined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Potentially eligible veterans are those who receive VA payments under 415, 521, 541, or 542 of Title 38 of

RRC Suspends Lone Star Gas Rate Increase

The Railroad Commission has suspended a $90 million natural gas rate increase requested by Lone Star Gas Company. The proposed increase would affect 451 Texas cities and outlying areas and more than 1.1 million bill-paying customers.

The 120-day suspension order signed by Chairman Jim Nugent and Commissioners Mack Wallace and Buddy Temple will delay the effective date of the proposed increase while the Commission's Gas Utilities Division examines the Lone Star request in detail. The company had asked that rates be increased effective August 2.

A hearing on the Lone Star application has been set for September 14.

The statement of intent filed with the Commission by Lone Star asks for an increase in its city gate rate. The city gate is the delivery point at which a city distribution system receives gas from its supplier.

In examining the proposed rate increase, the Railroad Commission will analyze Lone Star revenues and determine the reasonableness of the company's expenses.

Clothing Care-How Good Is 'Good Care'

How "good" is "good care" when it comes to clothing? "Good care" involves several steps -- in addition to reading and following instructions on care labels, says Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist. Miss Vanderpoorten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. Here are the steps she recommends: Have garments cleaned or laundered as soon as they are soiled. Fresh spots and soil are easier to remove than long-time ones. Gritty soil is another reason why fast action is important -- gritty soil acts as an abrasive, so if it's left in a garment it will shorten wear life. Avoid direct garment contact with solutions containing alcohol. Perfumes and lotions can change the color of some dyes, so be careful about applying them after you're fully dressed.

Also, allow deodorants and anti-perspirants to dry completely before dressing. Both products can stiffen and discolor fabrics. Don't press stained or soiled clothes. Heat will set many stains, especially those containing sugar. The result will be permanent spots. When taking clothes to the dry cleaner, be sure to point out invisible stains, such as soft drinks, since they must be removed with water before the garment is dry cleaned.

Protect clothing from excessive perspiration. It will weaken many fibers. Garments exposed to heavy perspiration should be washed or dry cleaned as soon as possible to avoid fabric damage. Protect clothes from prolonged exposure to direct sunlight -- to prevent fading of colors and weakening of the fabric. Keep clothes clean. Store them either hanging or neatly folded to prevent wrinkling.

Strict attention to following the above "good care" steps will help you enjoy wearing your clothes longer, the specialist says.

Sudan Community Senior Citizens Meeting Held

Sudan Community Senior Citizens and interested friends met at 6:00 p.m. Monday July 26 at the Community Center to enjoy a covered dish supper. Other than visiting, fellowship and food, the purpose of the get-together was to discuss the feasibility of organizing a Senior Citizens Club in Sudan and to determine whether there is enough interest and solid support to proceed with such a move.

An excellent representative crowd of 89 persons was present to participate. Mayor Hoyt Robertson called the meeting to order and after detailing the circumstances leading to the meeting and the various reasons why a Senior Citizens Club could have merit in Sudan, he called for the election of a temporary chairman to preside to discuss the matter and proceed with the organization if that was the desire of the group.

Marvin Tollett was elected as temporary chairman, and he then called for expressions of opinions from numerous of those present for their feelings and judgement about the value in Sudan of a club and whether it could be a success. Although all seemed to share the feeling that they were on unfamiliar ground and at best there would be many problems, still the benefits could be of real value and well worth investigating further. The majority seemed to feel the group should meet again, and it was decided to meet in one month for an ice cream supper. For the interim Chairman Tollett appointed a Goals and Procedural Committee of nine persons consisting of Hoyt Robertson, Paul Chisholm, Curtis Savage, Mary Olds, Chub Morrow, Joan Ford, JoAnn Chester, Billy Whitmire and Raymond Gage.

This committee will meet in two weeks and will hammer out a recommendation to the full group about near term plans and goals, future possibilities and goals, and will recommend to the group whether to organize or not. If the decision of the group meeting in one month is to organize a club, a board of directors will be elected and then an executive committee and officers of the club.

After the organization of the club, if done, the first action will be to file an application for incorporation under the laws of the State of Texas. This is a routine action that would give the Club an entity that could make application and receive benefits from any possible governmental programs. All interested persons in the community are urged to visit with members of the "Goals Committee" and express your opinions to help them in their decision making.

This should be done in the next week if possible. The actual day of the next monthly meeting and ice cream supper will be announced later.

Save Money Shop Sales For Best Clothing Buys

Clothing sales provide an opportunity to save money on family wardrobes.

"Sales are used by retail stores to increase sales volume and reduce surplus inventory," says Nancy Brown, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Some types of sales offer better prices than others, she says.

Clearance sales usually provide the greatest price reduction, ranging from 20 to 50 percent off regular price. "These sales are used by retailers to move discontinued merchandise or other fashion merchandise out of the store's inventory and make room for the next season's stock," Brown says.

Special purchase sales are pre-season or post-season sales of goods which the retail store has purchased at reduced prices. These sales may not offer as much price reduction as others, but they are more frequent and generally provide a full size selection that is more timely. Special purchase sales normally offer reductions of 15 to 20 percent, Brown says.

Annual sales -- regular stock or department manager's sales-- feature regular merchandise reduced 10 to 15 percent. These sales are of short duration and merchandise returns to the regular price when the sale ends, she adds.

Anniversary sales are storewide in scope. Every department marks down items and the sale may occur any time during the year, Brown says. Seasonal sales are repeated regularly each year. Coat sales in August and January are examples.

Stimulative sales are designed to stimulate business during dull periods. These may be called "midnight sales," "back-to-school," or "two-for-the-price-of-one" sales.

Sales are an excellent time to buy staple clothing items such as underwear, and lingerie. Stores usually offer sales on these items at fixed times during the year.

"A family that anticipates clothing needs in advance can save from one-third to one-half by shopping during sales," Brown says.

"Don't forget to compare prices. Retailers sometimes mark up the initial price, making the reduction seem greater. Shop around to find the garment's true value so you will know how much you are really saving," she says.

"Always study the label and examine the garment to ensure that you know what you are getting. An unused bargain is not a wise shopping decision," Brown warns.

Closing Loopholes In Your Will

Benjamin Franklin once said that death and taxes are inevitable. While this may be true, it doesn't mean that we shouldn't prepare.

If you don't have a will, have one drawn up. If you don't have a lawyer, the referral department of the local Bar Association will give you the name of one.

If you already have a will, make sure it's up-to-date. Circumstances that may affect your will, say the people at Colonial Penn Insurance Group, are: a move to another state, a change in your financial status, or a marriage, birth, death or divorce.

Older Adults Assist As Natural Helpers

Is it possible to develop the ability to be a "natural helper?"

Some people are easier to turn to than others for advice and understanding when the going gets tough, according to Mrs. Judith Warren, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

These "natural helpers" are easier to confide in because they have a genuine concern and an innate understanding for other people, Warren said.

Natural helpers are not paid workers or recognized volunteers, but the support and advice they offer can be worth a great deal to someone with a problem. "Older people in a community assume this role frequently," Warren said. "They have firm convictions and tend to view things in an historical and general context. In addition they are more relaxed in their approach to a given situation."

Older natural helpers are good listeners and sounding boards. They may help by performing household chores or providing transportation. They are also likely to offer information about the situation or problem based on past experience.

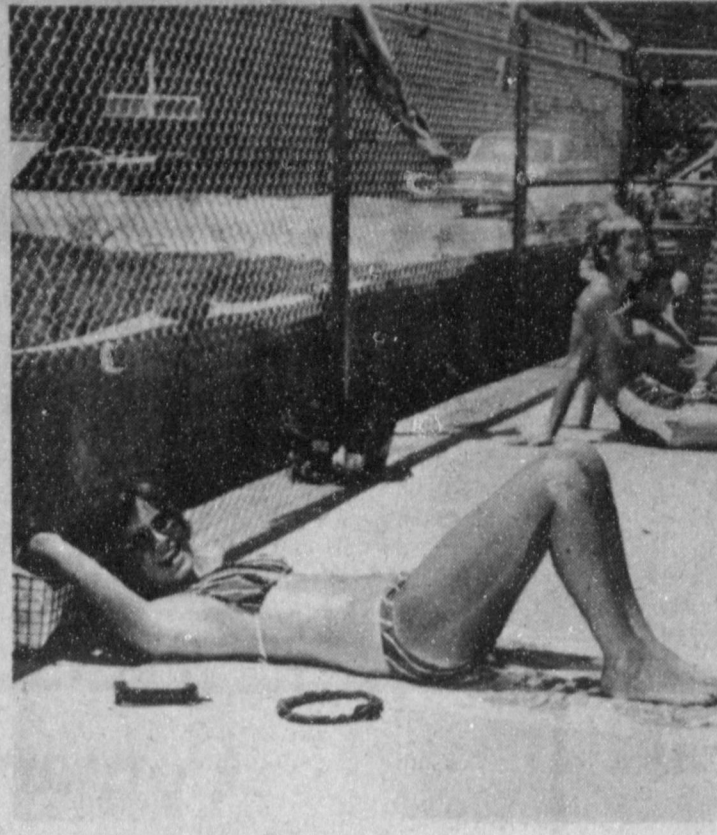

Everyone may not be able to become a "natural helper," but if you are genuinely concerned for others, you may be able to develop that concern into a new role for yourself, Warren said.

Recognize your helpful characteristics and develop them by becoming conscious of other people's need. Learn to adapt your "helping style" to the situation. Listen when someone needs to talk. Give advice when someone needs direction.

Remain flexible and relaxed and remember that every situation is unique. What might have worked for one person is not necessarily the answer for another.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

This is a dish which is just right for a large crowd since it yields about three quarts. Whole toasted almonds and diced canned pineapple can be used to dress it up. You need only a bowl of rice and perhaps chow mein noodles for accompaniments.

Chop Suey

- 1/2 c peanut oil
- 2 c shredded cooked chicken or pork
- 1 jar bead molasses
- 2 cans bean sprouts
- 2 cans water chestnuts
- 2 cans bamboo shoots
- 2 cans sliced mushrooms
- 4 c diced celery
- 2 c onion, chopped
- soy sauce
- 4 T cornstarch

Cook celery and onions in the oil until soft. Drain all cans of vegetables except mushrooms then add all vegetables, chicken or pork, and soy sauce. Add enough chicken stock to cover. Mix together 1/2 to 1/3 jar bead molasses, 4 tablespoons cornstarch and a few drops of cold water. Mix until smooth then add to first mixture and stir. Let this simmer 1/2 hour.

FREE SPEECH AND THE A.C.L.U.

On May 20, 1982, U.S. District Judge John Singleton ruled that the children in Aldine schools, outside Houston, could no longer include a phrase praising God in their school song.

That made the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) very happy. They had been party to the suit, claiming that the song violated constitutional provisions of separation of church and state.

On July 3rd, the Supreme Court ruled that states can indeed ban the distribution of child pornography. That made ACLU very unhappy. One of their spokesmen was quoted in the press as complaining this violated the constitutional provisions of free speech.

If this all seems strange to you, perhaps it is because it is strange. The ACLU is constantly worried about the "free speech" rights of pornographers, but seemingly is on the other side of the fence when the question turns on the free speech rights of school children. One cannot escape the conclusion that the ACLU would defend the "right" of school children to distribute smut, but they would deny them the right to sing the praises of God.

And if you ever wonder where the ACLU gets the money to pursue its goals, consider this: a lot of rich people in high places give them a lot of money. Our current Lieutenant Governor Hobby, for example, held a fund raiser for them in his Houston home that raised some $60,000. He is very proud of his efforts in this regard, defending it repeatedly while out on the campaign trail seeking reelection. That is one of the many areas where he and I are in disagreement. I think there are far wrighter organizations for Texans to champion. I would appreciate hearing your thoughts. Just write me at 1213 W. 34th, Austin, Texas 78705.

How Not To Get Conned

As the economy of tight money, high unemployment and other financial pressures cause many people to seek alternative incomes--or even "instant wealth," some will fall prey to con artists, warns Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

"In numerous cases, the persons offering 'get-rich-quick' schemes, are, in fact, con artists operating for personal gain rather than to assist others," she says.

Piernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

How do you spot a fraudulent scheme -- and how can you be sure?

"Being informed" is the most important protection against gyps and frauds, Piernot stresses.

"Don't confuse 'being informed' with being educated," she cautions. "Even a well-educated person can be deceived by the con artist."

'DE-CODE' ADS

An informed person is one who can read and interpret or "de-code" advertisements and promotional literature. Reading the copy, asking questions and reading between the lines are all important here.

For example, if something is "free," there should be no cost at all to the consumer--postage, handling fee should not cost the consumer anything either.

CHECK UP ON AD CLAIMS

Advertisements should prove-or justify--claims of instant wealth, success, so-called "big customer demand" for the product and product value. Or you should be able to check out the claims yourself locally--by contacting local retailers, the Better Business Bureau or the Texas Employment Commission.

In addition, remember that if a product or service is worthwhile and valuable, it still will be available after you have conducted an investigation of the product and the seller--so don't rush into the scheme before you have taken those precautions, Piernot says. ASK QUESTIONS

This is important when considering many of the "get-rich-quick" schemes. Everyone should ask about the following points:

- 1) any restrictions of a "satisfaction guaranteed or your money back" procedure,
- 2) service provisions for a faulty product in cases of starting your own business to sell another company's product,
- 3) availability of customers for a home-business scheme,
- 4) the company's return policy on merchandise,
- 5) actual size, value and quality of a product,
- 6) all conditions stated in a contract,
- 7) how long the business has existed, and
- 8) name and address of a previously satisfied customer for you to contact.

INVESTIGATE PRODUCT ITSELF

Finally, a person dreaming of "instant wealth" should investigate any item, product or service offered--whether it is an investment deal, new self-employment or a membership offer, Piernot advises. Ask the Better Business Bureau and the U.S. Postal Service to provide any information they have on any scheme or offer. If they have no information be careful about accepting or becoming involved, she says.

Prevent Hypertension

Are you on speaking terms with your blood pressure? If you are overweight, use a lot of salt or tend to be "up tight," you could be headed for a close encounter of the worst kind.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a major killer in the United States. And more than 90% of hypertension cases are caused by one or more factors which only you can control.

To help prevent hypertension, say the folks at Colonial Penn Insurance Group:

- Stay away from salt.
- Stay slim and keep moving.
- Learn to relax.

Arnold Price at Pivot Products

Continually striving to find more products to take the "Irritation our of Irrigation" has been the guiding light of Pivot Products Distributors. Since it was incorporated to distribute a unique product the "Adjustable Drop" Pivot Products has grown from a part time home garage business to its present operation located west of Muleshoe on Highway 84. Finding a need and filling that need keeps the personnel busy both finding products from other manufactureres and designing and manufacturing their own products to distribute through a nation wide dealer network of almost 300.

Beginning in January of 1982 Pivot Products Distributors began retailing to the local community and has assumed the Campbell Irrigation Systems service operation.

Pivot Products Distributors handle a complete line of drops for low pressure pivots as well as the nozzles and accessories to complement that line. They also manufacture a flexicoupler to replace u-joints on center pivot drive lines. This is one item of a complete electrical conversion kit they make to convert water driven pivots to the current electrical design.

They also have designed a drizzle type irrigation system for use with furrow dikes and circular rows to place the irrigation water in a nonerrosive flood pattern between rows. This method is gaining wide acceptance here on the high plains because the application efficiency can be 98%, far higher than spray and impact sprinkler patterns can achieve.

While the Ag market is very depresses at present Pivot Products Distributors is taking advantage of the opportunity to develop those unique products to keep agriculture alive and profitable.

Red Durham & Joe Condarco

Red Durham, owner of Progress Fish and Vegetable Farm, and his family came to the Muleshoe area in August, 1980 when he bought the Progress Gin at Progress, Texas.

Durham is a West Texas native born in Lubbock and reared in Littlefield, graduating from Littlefield High School. He has been in the gin business most of his life; in Hereford and in Seminole. He also farmed some while in those areas.

Red and his wife Lavillas decided after the first gin season was over to put in the catfish and vegetable truck farm. Mrs. Durham manages the vegetable shed and their partner in the venture, Joe Condarco, helps with both the fish and vegetables. Joe, originally from Junction, Texas, was raised in Hereford and was previously a manager for a gin in South Texas.

The Progress Fish Farm opened May 22, 1982 with the possibility in mind of raising fish. However, the partners decided to open the venture to the public and have ended up with a unique operation.

No charge is made for actual fishing, just by the pounds a customer catches. Red says lots of customers fish for the fun of it and just put the fish back in the tanks. They have channel catfish, and albino fish.

The Progress Fish and Vegetable Farm has just about any fresh vegetable that anyone wants: Watermelon, cantalope, beans, squash, corn, peppers and okra.

Their decision on the truck farm was made mainly due to the good sale and irrigation at their location.

Drop by and see Red or Joe anytime, and try your luck at fishing. If that doesn't work, you can always get fresh produce there.

way at about 6 p.m. at the Smith Barn, where the rest of the day's activities will remain. The races will be run out of regular starting gates, much like a quarter horse race, again according to the mule's temperaments.

At 6:30 p.m. hot air balloons and sky divers will precede the country cook out which will include calf fries, a roasted pig, potatoes, beans, and all the trimmings.

Daylong admission is cheap but donation jars will be around for those wishing to add a tad more to the Girlstown take. Five dollars will entitle participants to the activities beginning with the Mule Races. Cooking at the event will be done by the Muleshoe Volunteer Firemen. Caps and t-shirts which were donated by the First National Bank will be on sale at $5 each with proceeds going into the Girls-town fund. Friona and Peco Feed Yards are providing calf fries and a local farmer Randy Bush is supplying corn on the cob. Dixon Paper Company of Lubbock is supplying the paper goods and Roberts Paper Company of Amarillo is kicking in for the sticks for the corn on the cob. Winkler Meat Company and Valley Grain Company have also kicked in on their share of the expenses.

Beginning at 8:30, a dance featuring Henry Lester and his Drug Store Cowboys will begin the final wind-up of the days events.

Mule fanciers and spectators from nearby and far away are expected to turn out for the schedule of events. The bottom line of the story is the cause for all of the celebration and that is the benefit for Girlstown, U.S.A.

and if the designation is finally made, it will be a decision made by the Secretary of Agriculture and will be made public to all. One of the main requirements is that a county suffer a 30 per cent across the board loss to become eligible for the FmHA disaster loans. Only Cottle and King counties in Texas have been declared eligible for the disaster loans through FmHA.

Again, however, Bailey County is eligible for disaster payments from the ASCS office on crop losses, for producers who qualify by making less than 75% of their established yield for cotton and less than 60 % of the established yield for wheat and feed grains. If a grower does not have a base for a particular crop, he is not eligible for any program benefits on that crop.

The bottom line in this discussion was that Bailey County has been made eligible for disaster payments through the ASCS for farmers who qualify for Bailey County at this time, although the process for applying for these has been taken care of by local officials.

SMOKE DETECTORS SAVE LIVES, BUT ONE IS NOT ENOUGH

Studies indicate that where there's smoke... there's also a smoke detector. In 1980, 50 percent of homes reporting fires had a smoke detector, representing a 20 percent increase over 1978, when only one out of every ten homes had a unit installed.

The increasing use of smoke detectors spells good news to fire safety experts. A recent study by the International Association of Fire Chiefs concluded that smoke detectors can not only save lives, but reduce property loss, as well.

However, experts agree that in most cases, one smoke detector is not enough. Most multiple death residential fires occur between the hours of 8:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m.

"Smoke detectors serve as an early warning to fires, but are effective only if they can be heard by all family members. Unfortunately, many home designs preclude this," said King Harris, chairman of the board of BRK Electronics.

For minimum protection, each sleeping area should have its own smoke detector. In addition, smokers and persons who sleep with their door shut should have a smoke detector inside their bedroom, too. In a multi-story house, detectors should be located at the bottom and top of each stairway.

"Basement detectors are also important," says Harris. "If a furnace malfunction starts a fire in the basement, it would take some time for smoke to reach the first or second floor detector. The minutes saved by having a basement detector sound an alarm could mean the difference between life and death. One smoke detector is simply not enough," he said.
