1985: Last Half Is Busy, Productive

(Editor's note: During the second half of 1985, rain continues to pelt some farms, and construction continues to dominate the local spotlight. Local and area residents also kept a very cautious eye on the farm picture, as the farmer's future continued to look rather gloomy, despite very good crops as the year approached its end.)

JULY

Keith Madole resigned as Juvenile officer to attend law school and Deanne Herring moved from Amarillo to Muleshoe to take over the position.

During a banquet at the Bailey County Civic Center, Paul Wilbanks was installed as president of the Muleshoe Rotary Club. Gil Lamb was presented the Paul Harris Fellow award.

Muleshoe Church of Christ celebrated 55 years in Muleshoe with several former pastors, and members who had moved away attending the all day special services.

More than 500 people attended the all-school Reunion for the Muleshoe High School. B.H. Bickel, member of the first graduating class, 1924, was at the reunion, and was presented a plaque commemorating the occasion.

Renovation was continuing on Farmer's Cooperative Elevator, repairing damage done in February when the elevator exploded, apparently caused by grain dust which had collected.

Lubbock-based and nationally recognized Maines Brothers Band scheduled an appearance in Muleshoe, and performed to a very appreciative audience.

Los Tigres Del Norte, one of the most popular singing groups from Mexico performed in Muleshoe to a very large group.

A well-planned disaster drill was conducted in Sudan, and involved officers, Emergency Medical Technicians, fire departments and other emergency personnel from several surrounding communities. The Muleshoe Fire Department received the highest rating of any of the responding emergency services.

Southwestern Public Service Company fired up the second coal-operated generator at Tolk Station, located some nine miles east of Muleshoe. The second unit started producing some four years after the initial construction began.

West Plains Medical Center continued construction of the building to house the ambulance, and renovation of the former First Christian Church building to house the Intercept Program.

A committee formed to seek funds for renovation of the Girl Scout Little House, and members of the committee spoke to civic and social groups in an effort to obtain needed funds, volunteer workers and renovation supplies for the building.

During July, several new stores moved to Muleshoe. Most of the stores were small shops and offices located in Tradewinds Plaza.

Immaculate Conception Catholic Church held their annual Jamaica, with a large crowd enjoying the food, games and an afternoon full of entertainment.

Kakawate (Peanut) Road, the shortcut to Portales, was re-surfaced and opened to traffic. The road to the Texas state line, also became a state highway, with every expectation of staying in better condition for motorists.

Former Deputy Sheriff Jerry Hicks was employed as the new Bailey County Tax Appraiser for the Bailey County Appraisal District.

Fred Johnson, who had become the West Plains Medical Center hospital administrator, left the hospital to return to his home in Columbus, Ohio, where he expected to enter law school.

AUGUST

West Texas Native, Jack Reamy, retired from the U.S. Army, came to Muleshoe as administrator of West Plains Medical Center-Intercept. He spent 20 years in the U.S. Army following graduation from Andrews High School.

School renovation was well underway at all four local schools, in an effort to get the schools ready for the 1985-86 school year.

Thousands of dollars in stolen merchandise was recovered by the Muleshoe City Police Department. Merchandise from television sets to tools were recovered from a local residence. A local man was arrested in Clovis, and charged with several burglaries.

The Muleshoe Singles were reactivated, and new officers named. Set to meet on Thursdays, the new president is James McNew.

Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Extension Agent, received a state award during a meeting for 'distinguished achievement.'

Following a domestic argument, a 15 year old girl apparently shot herself in the chest. She was pronounced dead on arrival at West Plains Medical Center after being taken there by her father in a private vehicle.

Muleshoe Independent School District will be operating on a $5 million budget for the next school year, as the MISD is Bailey County's largest employer.

Thunderstorms again invaded the area, depositing little moisture on the city of Muleshoe.

Following a successful Mule Day Festival, some $3,000 was expected to be sent to Girlstown, U.S.A.

Muleshoe Heritage Foundation started 'gearing up' for a community-wide meeting to boost membership, and obtain funds to help move other historical buildings to the permanent location adjacent to the Mule Putt Miniature Golf Course.

A study on 'red ants' was conducted by a Houston firm, as the Texas Highway Department reported thousands of dollars spent monthly fighting damage to highways done by red ant dens running under paved roads.

Wind and dust dragged thunderstorms through the area. As the corn harvest got underway, producers were looking at very good yields, despite earlier predictions of less crops.

Jack Reamy, administrator at West Plains Medical Center, explained the rate charges at the hospital, along with other changes as instituted.

SEPTEMBER

Under new laws, stores could open on Sunday, effective September 1, and several local stores indicated they would start staying open, at least a part of Sunday, as the old 'Blue Law' was kicked out.

On the same day, the very controversial seat belt law went into effect with motorists having to December 1 to conform and 'buckle up' without fine or penalty.

With September's beginning, the Muleshoe Fire Department was seeking funds to help update some of their emergency equipment. They needed a new piece of equipment for the 'Jaws of Life,' and with contributions made, were able to obtain the equipment.

Robert 'Uncle Bob' Gooden, 78, was shot to death on a street in north Muleshoe as he stepped from his vehicle in front of a house. Austin Green, 52, resident of the house, was charged with gunning Gooden down with a shotgun, apparently fired from a window in the house. He was subsequently sentenced to the Texas Department of Corrections for killing Gooden.

Three masked gunmen broke into a mobile home northeast of Muleshoe, terrorizing several residents and robbing them of cash in excess of $1,000. One of the victims was taken to West Plains Medical Center for emergency treatment after apparently being pistol-whipped by one of the gunman.

For the season opener, the Portales Rams defeated the Muleshoe Mules by a score of 35-0. The Mules fought a long, losing season, but never lost their drive, determination or spirit.

Carmen Elizabeth Ramos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Ramos, was crowned queen of the Mexican Independence Day

Fuel Tax Providing Funding For Highway Construction

How far will a nickel go? About 8,224 miles, according to the latest figures from the highway department. That's the number of highway miles currently undergoing some type of work in Texas following the five-cent a gallon fuel tax increase and the increase in motor vehicle registration fees.

The surge in roadwork is the result of a special legislative session in the summer of 1984. During that session, the lawmakers enacted an increase in both fees, which pumped enough money into the highway system to restore the construction and maintenance program. Prior to the infusion of funds, the highway department had been forced to reduce its maintenance program.

"We had reached a real crisis point in 1984," said Bob Lanier, chairman of the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission. "We were trying to operate a 1980s highway system on 1950s economics. The state fuel tax had not been increased since 1955. And, except for a minor change in 1982, registration fees for motor vehicles had remained essentially the same since 1957."

"During the ten-year period prior to 1984, the number of drivers in the state increased by more than 46 percent," Lanier said. "but those same years coincided with a focus on fuel economy by motorists, so revenues from fuel tax were not keeping pace with the economy." And nearly thirty years of inflation, he said, had decreased the spending value of the long-standing five-cents a gallon state fuel tax. With motor vehicle registration fees similarly reflecting

Candidates May Start Filing On January 6

During a meeting at the Bailey County courthouse late Monday afternoon, plans were made by the Democratic County Committee for the upcoming Primary elections.

Chuck Smith, currently Bailey County Democratic chairman, said he is resigning that position due to increased responsibilities at his place of employment, but will be holding his position during the filing period for candidates.

Local offices scheduled for election this year, and currently holding that office are: District Judge, Jack Young; District Clerk, Nelda Merriott; County Judge, Gordon H. Green; County Clerk, Barbara McCamish; County Treasurer, Dorothy Turner; County Commissioners, Precinct Two, Roy Whitt and Precinct Four, Rudolph Moraw; Justices of the Peace, Precinct One, Jack Bates and Precinct Four, Todd Ellis.

With the Primary election scheduled May 3, candidates are eligible to start filing this Saturday, January 4. However, the Bailey County courthouse will not be open on that date, so filing will begin here on Monday, January 6.

nearly thirty-year-old economy figures, the highway department lacked the funds to meet the state's highway needs in the 1980s, Lanier said. Cars used less gas and were lighter in weight, a combination that had an adverse impact on both sources of revenue. And, in Texas, millions of new motorists crowded 73,000 miles of state-maintained highways. A system that, by then, was both inadequate and in a bad state of repair.

"We had, in effect, become a federal-aid highway system. If we could not get federal dollars to do a project, the project didn't see reality," Lanier said. "With federal budget cuts a constant worry, we felt it was time to let our fees reflect the current needs."

The state fuel tax was doubled, from five cents a gallon to ten cents. Motor vehicle registration fees were increased and restructured from a formula based on the weight of the vehicle to one based on the age and value of the vehicle.

The impact of the fee increases on the highway system has been far reaching, according to highway department engineer-director Mark Goode.

"As of November 1, 1985, we had more than $2.8 billion in highway projects under contract," Goode said. "That is nearly double the $1.5 billion we had two years ago." Goode said the number of projects jumped from 559 in 1983 to nearly 1,000 in 1985. And the scope of the projects includes

Meet The Italian Cheeses

Did you know that some Italian cheeses are stretched while they are being made? That's why they string when you melt them. Others, like Parmesan, are very hard and especially suited to grating. Some Italian cheeses were developed as a by-product when other cheeses are being made.

Mozzarella, Provolone and Scamorze all go through a curd-stretching process to get their characteristic flavor and texture. The curd is kneaded or stretched before it is formed into cheeses. Mozzarella is a semi-soft cheese, mild in flavor because it is aged for only a short time. String cheese is a form of Mozzarella in which the stretched curds have not been formed into blocks.

The name Provolone comes from a Neapolitan word that describes its ball shape, though it is also available in sausage shapes. Because Provolone cheeses are hung and smoked, they may be sold tied with a cord. The sharp, smoky flavor goes well with ham or with fruits such as grapes and apples.

Scamorze is another of the stretched-curd cheeses and is sometimes known as "pizza cheese." It is molded in small balls which are often tied and sold in pairs.

The familiar Parmesan cheese are originally made in copper vats or kettles. Its hard texture and strong flavor make it ideal for grating and adding to salads, sauces and pizza. In Italy a similar cheese is called "grana," meaning that it is granular and easy to grate. Asiago and Romano are other hard, grating cheeses which originated in Italy.

Ricotta cheese is a fresh, cottage cheese-like product made of cheese whey and whole or skim milk. It was first made in Italy in order to use the whey resulting from the manufacture of cheeses like Provolone. Ricotta is smoother than cottage cheese and is perfect with pasta but can also be used in desserts.

Another member of the Italian family is Gorgonzola, a blue-green veined cheese. This cheese, like Blue, was originally cured in caves. It is usually made in a flat cylinder, up to 11 inches in diameter and 8 inches thick, and wrapped in foil for sale.

All these Italian-style cheeses are now made in the United States. Their ready availability has been a factor in the popularity and growth of Italian cooking.

A&M continues to assist graduates, employers through placement office

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University continues to be a fertile hiring ground for prospective employers in most academic areas — particularly engineering and business — according to figures compiled by the university's placement office.

The placement center's primary objective is to bring degree candidates and prospective employers together for job interviews, to provide career counseling and to assist graduates in preparing for their professional life. Last year the center arranged for more than 30,000 student interviews with representatives from 733 companies and organizations. "Texas A&M was one of the first universities to offer an extensive job placement service to its students," said Louis Van Pelt, director of the center. "Each year, more than 5,000 registrants use our office for assistance in finding employment. We also have a large number of interviewees for teaching positions — at one point last year, we arranged for as many as 600 in a matter of three days."

Viola's Restaurant was closed for extensive remodeling and enlarging and expected to be closed until sometime in December.

West Plains Medical Center was informed they were the recipient of a very large grant to institute a computer-operated program for almost instant diagnosis of medical problems, as the computer would be tied in at Lubbock, facilitating patient diagnosis without the patient having to make so many trips to Lubbock.

Controversy raged over charges by West Plains Medical Center when the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal wrote a story about what was alleged to be very high and out of range charges for the WPMC. This was followed in a few days by WPMC announcing during a press conference that charges had been lowered to help the community.

Donnie McDonald was winner of the 1985 football contest and was presented a check in the amount of $100.

"We now have 8,224 miles under contract in the entire state, more than 10 percent of the entire state highway system," Goode said. "That is enough miles to cross the state from Beaumont to El Paso 10 times."

"With the increase in fees, we can now plan projects and begin construction in as little as two years, by using state funds entirely," he said. "By contrast, federal funding can take six to eight years to secure."

"Our state's highways can't wait that long," said Lanier. "With the increase in fees, we're quickly addressing the highway needs across the entire state."

Texas A&M to build exotic/wildlife center with private donations

COLLEGE STATION — Each year reduces the odds that exotic wildlife can successfully survive in its natural habitat, but Texas A&M University is trying to slow that trend by increasing its own research into reproduction and disease control, Texas A&M Dean of Veterinary Medicine Dr. George Shelton said at a recent meeting of the Exotic Wildlife Association.

The university, with its blend of veterinary and wildlife sciences programs, has begun raising private donations to fund a $1.5 million wildlife and exotic animal research center.

Project leaders said private support and pledges, prompted when state funds for the facility dried up in legislative budget-cutting, have now moved past the $600,000 mark.

"This trend (encroachment on wildlife habitats) can be slowed but not stopped. We will have to rely on reserves and zoos or this wildlife will be lost to us, our children and our grandchildren," Shelton said.

"Our objective is to provide medical training and background to support these kinds of facilities," he told veterinarians, biologists and ranchers attending the seminar.

By Pete Fritchle

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Johnny Unitas, former great of the Baltimore Colts, thinks the Superbowl will likely be played between Chicago's Bears and the Miami Dolphins.

If that happens (though Unitas says Dallas is also in the running for Superbowl play) it would be a fascinating rematch. Just a few weeks back Miami derailed the Chicago express, handing the Bears their first 1985 loss.

That loss might have taken some steam out of the Bear offense. The next week they barely managed a win over a not-too-strong opponent.

The Bears would be seeking revenge for their loss to Miami in the Superbowl and the Dolphins would enter it knowing they had already beaten the Bears one time. That would make for some added interest in the big game next month.

Neither team is in the Superbowl yet. And millions follow the Cowboys, and the Redskins. San Francisco could still, at this writing, get back into the finale. But a Miami-Chicago rematch would be a natural this year.

Happy New Year!

Resolutions

At the beginning of a new year Americans make resolutions. Some greet the process with cynicism, knowing most resolutions will be broken, some after only a few days of 1986 have passed.

But resolutions often signify that the maker is striving to better himself or herself. In that sense, they're an indication of an active mind, good intentions.

New Year's resolutions, then, whether kept or not, are a plan for better things in the future. That's what life is all about—hope and effort for betterment.

The Beetle

Next year the automobile will be 100 years old. Thinking of that, one naturally wonders what model has sold in larger numbers than any other.

The answer: the Volkswagen beetle. About 20,000,000 of them have been sold, topping the champion-until-then Model T Ford, which sold an estimated 15,000,000.

The Beetle is still being built in three countries and, periodically, there are those in the U.S. who say it could still find a market here. Perhaps. It was designed in 1935, the specifications originated by Adolf Hitler, and built by Ferdinand Porsche.

The Bug, as it was also called, was simple and had a certain personality. Almost anyone could work on it. If you want one, they're still built in Mexico. But meeting U.S. emission standards is said to be a problem.

A New Beginning

A scene like this says: It's dawn—time for a new beginning, a fresh start.

The calendar says: It's January 1, New Year's Day—time for a new beginning, a fresh start.

That's what the churches in our community offer; that's what they specialize in—new beginnings, fresh starts. Many people have found a new beginning for their life in some church in our town—forgiveness, a new sense of direction, different goals, inspiration and strength to do a better job from day to day. Many people find it worthwhile to make a new beginning at the start of every week—in worship, prayer, and praise every Sunday at church.

Why not start this New Year in church? Why not plan to get the spiritual strength available with a "fresh start" every week by attending church regularly this year? You will find a warm welcome awaiting you and the opportunity for a new beginning in the church of your choice.

"Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." (11 Corinthians 5:17)

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
