ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

The West Texas Fair at Abilene is running this week. Opening day of the fair was Monday the 11th and closing day is Saturday, September 16.

Amy Hodges is the only Sterling County 4-H Club member taking part in the fair. She showed her Rambouillet in the junior and open Rambouillet show on Tuesday with good results. Her placings included champion and reserve champion ram and champion and reserve champion ewe of the open show. Amy's placings in the junior show were worth $54 in prize money while her winnings in the open show totaled $119. Her prize money for the show totaled $173.

Placings in the junior show were as follows: second and fourth place ram lambs; first and second place yearling rams; second and third place ewe lambs; first and second place yearling ewes; and, first place pen of three, both sexes represented. In the open show placings were: second and 4th place ram lambs; second place pen of three ram lambs; fourth and fifth place yearling rams; third and fourth place ewe lambs first place pen of three ewe lambs; first and second place yearling ewes; first place pen of three yearling ewes; first place get-of-sire; and, first place exhibitor's flock.

Clinton Hodges showed two rams in the Abilene Fair. The two were both yearlings, or two-to-four tooth rams, and placed first and second in their class. They went on to become champion and reserve champion rams of the open show. Gary and Pat Foster were the only other Sterling County exhibitors in the fair. They took part in the Suffolk show, sweeping that show on Monday.

The West Texas Fair is one of the best attended fairs that you will see. Their night crowds are tremendous. Free, big-name attractions on the Midway and the chance of winning a thousand dollar bill given away as a gate prize each night really draw the crowds to a good fair.

Bobby Ragsdale, Extension range specialist with Texas A & M, spent last Friday in the county checking on the brush control demonstration on the R.T. Foster, Jr. ranch. The demonstration, one of a series of five across the state, combines aerial spraying and chaining of mesquite. All the demonstrations are long-time demonstrations with most of them having been in progress for four or more years.

Byron W. Frierson, a former county agent in Sterling County, was in the county last week. Now head of the agricultural department of the state prison system, Frierson and Paul Newton, head of the livestock division, were on a bull buying trip. He and Newton flew to San Angelo Friday morning and spent the morning on the Foster Price ranch.

Better known as "Pappy", Frierson left the Extension Service about 1949 to take the position as assistant to the head of the agricultural division. He is given much of the credit for putting the division on a paying basis. It is one of the few prison systems in the country which has this distinction. Much of the meat, milk, poultry and vegetables used are grown on the prison

Fosters Sweep Suffolk Show

William and J. Q. Foster swept the open Suffolk show at the West Texas Fair at Abilene this week, and Pat and Gary Foster, sons of the J.Q. Fosters swept the junior Suffolk show with the identical winnings.

Wm. and J.Q. had the champion and reserve champion in the open lamb class and also the open ewe class.

In the ram lamb class they placed first and second in the class, first in the pen of three ram lambs, first and second in the two to four tooth rams.

The had the first, third and fifth in the ewe lamb class, first in the pen of three ewe lambs, first and second in the two to four tooth ewe lambs, and first in the pen of three two to four tooth lambs.

Hodges' Top Abilene Rambouillet Show

Clinton Hodges, local registered Rambouillet breeder and his daughter, Amy, a 4-H Club member, took the top honors in the Rambouillet ram classes at the West Texas Fair in Abilene Tuesday.

In the open show Clinton had the grand champion ram and the reserve champion ram (registered.) In the junior show, daughter Amy showed the champion and reserve champion rams; and she also showed the top pen of three rams, and was first in placings of the exhibitor's flock.

Acreage Survey Started

Postmaster W. R. Brooks announced today that 1867 Acreage Survey cards will be distributed to patrons of the Sterling County postoffice about September 14. The post office department assists the U.S.D.A. in making this survey each year. These reports, directly from farmers, are the basis for official estimates for Texas acreage of all crops harvested in 1967.

To be sure this community is well represented in the survey, postmaster Brooks urges each farmer patron receiving a card to fill it out and return it to the postoffice or his mailbox.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Burleson, Member of Congress, 17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Because of Labor Day, most members of Congress visited their constituents this past week.

Many of them probably heard that the American people are dissatisfied today about many of the things the Government is doing or failing to do.

What are the people saying? What do they want?

If our area is representative people are tired of the state of fear and uneasiness which has enveloped them. Extremists in our midst, both whites and negroes, have resorted to a process of intimidation and blackmail commonly called "protests" and "demonstrations."

People want the agencies of government, particularly the Courts, to recognize the difference between "freedom of speech" and incitement to riot. Especially do they want to see more courage shown in high places in dealings with disorders.

Living conditions should be improved, but people do not believe that criminals and disturbers of the peace should go unpunished, nor that these circumstances be the sole excuse for lawlessness.

People are tired of reading what the Stokely Carmichaels and the Rap Browns say in rallies as they openly preach rebellion. They want to see such persons prosecuted. If existing laws are inadequate, they want Congress to strengthen the statutes. Most of all, they want to see the law enforced.

It is hoped that members of Congress get the message that people are tired of political legerdemain. A lot, if not all, are fed up with attempts to curry favor with groups by the use of taxpayers money. People have the right to know why Congress has not exercised a closer check on all Government spending. They are tired of seeing big deficits pile up year after year and to be told that deficit spending can go on indefinitely and that confidence in the future of the dollar can still be preserved.

Public officials in Washington should be getting the message that people are tired of the handling of the Viet Nam war. They want to know, and rightfully so, why our military men are not given a free hand to do the necessary to get it over with. Many have the feeling that we are playing "chicken", which involves the lives of American boys. They want to know why we do not bomb every enemy base and supply line, as well as blockade the ports of North Viet Nam.

People are tired of reading that their money has been used to make loans to some governments to help them buy arms and then lining up in the United Nations against us.

People have the right to complain of being told that

Heart Association Chairmen Named

Mrs. Chesley McDonald of Sterling City has been appointed chairman of the Sterling County Heart Association it was announced today by Dr. Saul Appel, president of the Texas Heart Association. Mrs. Riley King, campaign fund chairman for the 1967 drive, will serve as co-chairman to Mrs. McDonald.

Mrs. McDonald stressed the need for acquainting the citizens of Sterling County with the services, materials and aids now available from the Sterling County Heart Association, and to handle this phase of Heart Association activities she appointed Mrs. Billy R. (Patsy) Bynum to serve as Special Events Chairman.

Mrs. Bynum's first announcement was that the Heart film titled "SMOKING AND HEART DISEASE" will be available for showing to Sterling City schools early in October. "An early goal of the Sterling County Heart Association," said Mrs. Bynum, "is to establish a Heart Information Center where pamphlets and information and educational materials can be obtained."

"Additional appointments of volunteers will be made in the near future," Mrs. McDonald said.

SHOWERS THIS WEEK

Showers hit Sterling County about 11 a.m. Wednesday and left from a tenth of an inch upward in favored spots. Then Thursday morning a little earlier in the morning—about 9 a.m. showers began again. At press time for this issue of the paper it was still sprinkling.

big deficits are due solely to the Viet Nam war. They are tired of being told that the country can afford to spend unprecedented billions on doubtful programs.

People are not happy with the prospect of having their taxes and mail rates increased when they feel that Washington is not spending their tax money wisely.

There is reason to complain about the increase in the cost of living while strikes and the threat of strikes continues.

People want a peaceful society, a decent society, a society in which a fair deal for everybody transcends political deals in the use of governmental power at the Federal, State and local levels.

Maybe official Washington has gotten the word that "you can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you can not fool all of the people all the time." To sum up, our people want courage, integrity and a conscience that overrides the temptations of pure old politics.

The Sterling City Eagles 8-man football boys started the 1967 season by stunning the Woodson team 22-6 last Friday night here.

Phil Cole, quarterback, got the first T.D. early with a 15-yard run. Gary Foster racked up the two points following. Cole made a long flailing 50-yard gallop in the second quarter for six points. The try for extra point failed.

David Currington pushed through for ten yards in the third quarter for six and the two extra points were garnered by Esau Vargas.

Woodson's fourth quarter T.D. was made by R.Q. Whitmire.

Keep Records on Dependents

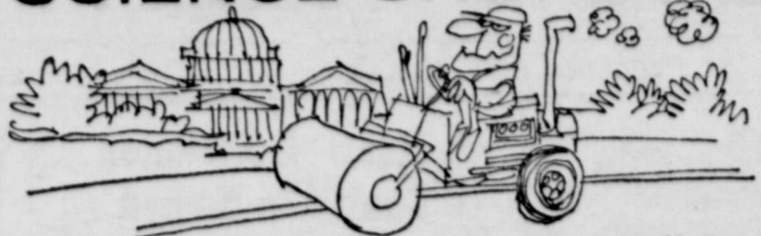

Taxpayers' failure to keep good records on the support provided to dependents who do not live in the household with the taxpayer continues to be a leading factor causing tax audits. District Director Ellis Campbell, Jr. points out that when you support a dependent that lives with someone else, you should keep careful records on the amount of support you provide if you plan to claim the dependent on your income tax return. Only one taxpayer can claim the $600 exemption on his tax return, even though several persons may have contributed more than half the support.

On the other hand, if someone else provides support for one of your dependents but you plan on claiming the dependency, you must keep a record of the amount of support you provide in rent, food, clothing, medical expenses, educational expenses, and other normal support expenses.

Cases requiring careful records on the support of dependents are: 1) children receiving support from both of their divorced parents; 2) support of Mother and Father by several children; and 3) support of a grandchild or other relative living with someone else.

Social Security Tips

Why should a man with a wife and young children concern himself with anything that seems as far away as social security?

A new booklet, "Social Security Information for Young Families," specifically designed to answer this question is now available, social security district manager, Ted F. Moellering announced today.

"Social security is not just a retirement program, and it is not just for old people," Moellering said. This new booklet gives the young worker important information about the survivors and disability protection that he and his family have now.

Nine out of ten families in Sterling City have social security survivor protection which can amount to over $75,000 in benefits if the breadwinner should die, Moellering pointed out.

Disability insurance is the other social security program of particular importance to the young worker. After just five years of work under social security, the worker and his family are eligible to receive monthly benefit payments if he should become severely disabled and the condition is expected to last a year or longer.

Moellering said "Social Security Information for Young Families" explains in detail survivors and disability protection, what it can mean to a family, and how to make an application should it become necessary. Also included is information on how to check your social security account and the financing of social security.

Copies of this pamphlet may be obtained free of charge from the social security office at 3000 West Harris in San Angelo, Texas.

Does the average worker get his money's worth for his social security contributions?

The answer is "Yes," according to Ted F. Moellering, social security district manager. Young workers can be sure, too, that the social security benefits payable to them and their dependents in the future will be substantially increased by the time they qualify for payment.

"The social security program is financed in such a way that benefits can be more than kept up to date with rising prices—without an increase in contribution rates," Moellering said. Because the social security tax is a percentage of payroll, income to the program rises more than benefit obligations as wage levels go up, he explained.

In an expanding economy, rising wages produce more income for the social security system and make it possible to increase benefits more than enough to offset any increases from time-to-time in the ceiling on the amount of earnings that is subject to the tax (and which counts toward the individual's future benefit payments).

"But even without considering the likely future improvements in benefit levels," Moellering said, "the average young worker will get retirement, survivors, and disability insurance protection under social security worth 20 to 25 percent more than he will pay in social security tax contributions over a 40-45 year working lifetime—even if you count accumulated interest on those contributions."

At the upper extreme—the young man who starts work in 1973 or later, when the maximum contribution rate for old-age, survivors, and disability insurance goes into effect, and who has earnings at or above the maximum annual amount subject to the social security tax, will no more than just about pay for the value of his protection.

People already at work, Moellering noted, get more protection for their tax contributions than those who will be going to work under social security in the future.

Under social security, as under practically all private pension plans, he pointed out, the employer's contribution is not earmarked for the benefit of a particular employee. A major part of the employer contribution under private pension plans, as under social security, is used to meet the cost of "past service credits" for older workers.

FILING AN ESTATE TAX RETURN

If you are worried about your heirs owing an estate tax on your property when you die, here are the rules: An estate tax return must be filed if the fair market value of your property is more than $60,000 on the date of your death. However, the community property laws usually allow the estate to be worth $120,000 in community property since each spouse is entitled to a $60,000 exemption. Remember these rules apply only to Federal estate tax and not to Texas State Inheritance Taxes.

NEW LEGISLATION TO HELP STERLING COUNTY FAMILIES OBTAIN HOUSING

The U. S. Departments of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration is better equipped to handle the housing credit needs of low and moderate income Sterling County families as a result of legislation recently signed into law, according to Patrick F. Sullivan, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor.

Sullivan said the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act, signed last month by President Johnson, makes it possible for a broader range of Sterling County families to qualify for housing loan authorities of the Farmers Home Administration.

The new legislation Sullivan continued, makes more mortgage credit available to low and moderate income families in Sterling County by increasing the level of activity of the Agency's rural housing loan program.

Here are some of the other changes in the rural housing loan program administered by the Farmers Home Administration:

—Many Sterling County who had to go the long route of planning, contracting and building a house can now buy newly constructed buildings. Before the new legislation, these families could only purchase previously occupied buildings.

—Qualified low-income families can now obtain housing credit from Farmers Home Administration on the basis of a cosigner. Previously, only those rural persons 62 years and older qualified for this assistance.

—The new legislation increases from $1,000 to $1,500 the maximum amount of assistance the agency can make for emergency repairs or improvements to owner-occupied rural housing or farm service buildings. This credit is not designed to upgrade a building but only to remove hazards to the health and the safety of the family and the community.

—Rural families on the verge of losing their homes through foreclosure may save their homes if a sound basis can be developed by the Farmers Home Administration to refinance their debts.

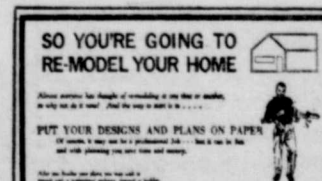

—Financial assistance can be given to construct rental housing for low and moderate income rural families of all age groups. Previously, rental housing financed by FHA had to be occupied by rural people 62 years and older.

Loans by the Farmers Home Administration are made to Sterling County applicants who are unable to obtain credit if they need from private lenders at reasonable rates and terms.

Behind the 8-Ball

By the editor.

Mayor Lee Reed and Jack Douthit attended the EDDD explanation luncheon and review at the River Club last Friday. Sponsored by the General Telephone Company of the Southwest, the affair was attended by mayors and newspaper editors of the dozen or so towns that cut over to direct dial Sunday morning.

Mayor Reed (on his free direct dial to anywhere in the country, tried to call his wife here in Sterling, but he never could get her. He said he supposed she was out in the yard. I called my mother in Abilene to bring her up on news of the family.

It works. Direct dialing, that is. Just be sure you dial all of those numbers right.

The city and county acting together are looking into the ways and means of financing a nursing home here. Such a home would be close or adjoining the Sterling County Hospital. A committee was named to look into such a project—as to cost, government grants available, etc.

The committee members are to go to Lubbock soon to meet with the FHA to learn more about such grants or loans.

Members of the committee are from the city council and county commissioners court.

Ross Foster, who recently returned home from an agricultural group tour of Europe—and especially Russia, said he regarded as high point of the trip—as being allowed to go through the Kremlin.

He said he went through the museum part of the Kremlin, and the size, the art objects, and magnitude was really something. He said the Moscow subway, with all its ceramic tile walls and murals—was something to behold.

Ross took a lot of slides and it is hoped that he can show them to the Lions Club, the women's study clubs and the church here.

Ross went with a group of selected agricultural representatives, on a "People-to-People" type of trip.

They visited farms, ranches, and agricultural projects, as well as the cities.

Social Security

About one of every five applicants for social security disability benefits delays so long before making his application that he risks possible loss of some payments, Ted F. Moellering, district manager of social security in San Angelo, said today.

In an effort to remedy this situation, the Social Security Administration is asking anyone who might possibly qualify for disability benefits to get in touch with a social security office as soon as possible.

"Some people fail to apply because they don't realize that they can benefit from the program," Moellering said. "Younger people often think that social security payments only for people in their sixties, whereas the disability was specifically set up to protect the wage earner who is forced to stop working before he is old enough to collect retirement benefits."

A person under 65 can receive monthly payments if he has a physical or mental impairment that has kept, or will keep, him from working for a year or more. Individual benefits range from $44 to $152 a month. If the worker has dependents, total family benefits can amount to as much as $339 monthly.

"Others don't file because they are under the impression that they have to be permanently disabled. This was generally true before a 1965 change in the law, but now payments can go to a person whose disability has lasted, or is expected to last, for 12 months or longer," Moellering pointed out.

Benefits begin after a person has been disabled for 6 full months. No benefits can be paid for months during this "waiting period." Also, the law limits the back benefits a person can collect to the 12 months before the month in which he applies.

This means that the latest a person can file without losing any back benefits is the month that comes after the 18th month of his disability. (These 18 months cover the waiting period and the 12-month limit of retroactive benefits.)

A recent social security survey shows that at least 19 percent of disability applicants file later than this, thus risking loss of benefits they might otherwise have received. An undetermined number of disabled persons do not file at all and so miss out entirely.

Moellering cautioned, however, that benefits can be paid only if a person's disability is severe enough to prevent him from doing not only his usual job, but also any work in keeping with his age, education, and experience. And, to be eligible, a person must have worked under social security for at least 5 of the 10 years before he became disabled.

Benefits continue for as long as the disability lasts, or until the beneficiary reaches 65. At age 65, disability benefits are converted to retirement benefits, without any change in the amount.

Currently, over a million disabled persons—plus more than a million of their dependents—are receiving benefits under the program.

"If you know of anyone who might qualify," Moellering urged, "tell him to phone, write, or visit the nearest social security office. Your tip may lead to his not losing out in whole or part in this benefit that is meant to help replace earnings lost because of disability incurred before retirement age."

Veterans Administration Information Service

Q. I wish to apply for training under the new G. I. Bill. Do I have to wait until I am ready to apply to the Veterans Administration?

A. No. The earlier you can apply and give us the name of the school and course the better the VA can serve you by having your approval granted well before you start. This will hasten receipt of the first training allowance check also.

Q. My father was a World War II veteran who died as the result of a non-service connected disability. He had no service — connected disability. I am 19 years of age and am attending college. Am I eligible for War Orphans' educational benefits?

A. No, but you may be eligible for death pension until age 23.

Q. I am receiving military retired pay for disability. I would be entitled to receive disability compensation from the VA if I waived my retired pay. I do not desire to authorize such a waiver. I would like to pursue a program of education as a disabled veteran through the VA. Am I eligible?

A. You certainly may be eligible. It is not necessary that you waive your retired pay to qualify for VA vocational rehabilitation. We would recommend that you make application to VA.
