Primary Elections Last Saturday

Many Sterling County voters turned out last Saturday for the Republican and Democratic primaries. Twelve voted in the Republican primary and well over 300 in the Democratic primary.

The Republican votes went 10 for Eggers, 1 to Sisk and 1 to Trice for governor, the contested race. On the referendum votes, 4 voted for liquor by the drink to 8 against; on pari-mutuel betting 5 for and 7 against; and 2 for fixing milk prices to 9 against. Larry Glass was renominated Republican County chairman; Hal Knight, precinct 1 chairman and F.F. Westbrook prec. 2 chairman.

DEMOCRATIC

In Democratic local contested races County Judge J. K. Martin won over Tom Asbill 233 to 135. Asbill is currently Justice of the Peace, prec. 1. In the precinct 1 County Commissioners race, C. W. Smith won over incumbent, H. F. Donalson 169 to 106.

In County Commissioner precinct No. 3 race, Billy R. Bynum received 17 votes and Jim Bob Clark and William Foster got 11 each. (a tie)

At the canvass of the votes Tuesday afternoon by the Sterling County Democratic Executive Committee, composed of precinct chairmen D. K. Hopkins, Reynolds Foster, Riley King, Perry Matthews, Jack Douthit and Mrs. Joe Emery, secretary, the tie was decided on the flip of a coin. Clark flipped a coin into the air and Foster called heads. It fell heads and Foster won the right to a place on the run-off ballot. Texas election laws call for a "casting of lots" to decide the place on a run-off ballot in case of a tie for second place.

Briscoe led Sterling County in the governor's race with 180 votes. Preston Smith got 49, Yarborough 43, Carr 41, Locke 30, O'Daniel 12, Hill 5, and Veloz 1. Yarborough and Smith will go into the run-off primary June 1.

For lieutenant governor, Ben Barnes polled 272, Glad-den 47 and Gene Smith 27. Barnes won handily over the state.

For state comptroller Cal-vert polled 263 to Dallas Blankenship's 65. The state vote went fairly heavy to Cal-vert, the incumbent.

For Supreme Court, Place 1, Davis got 144 votes to Mc-Gee's 157. For place 2 Tom Reavley got 155 to 147 for Denton.

All the referendum proposals failed here in Sterling. Liquor-by-the-drink went 202 against to 117 for; pari-mutuel betting 168 against, 151 for; and the milk price fixing was 221 against to 77 for.

Same Deal as Before

The vote on a $200,000 bond issue to build an extended care facility near and sharing some facilities with the present Sterling County Hospital will be voted on again this Saturday, May 11. Due to some technicalities in the wording before, resulted in the state attorney general's office turning down the bond issue. But after carefully having a bonding company man work on the deal, it is again being voted on by Sterling County property owners (taxpayers) this Saturday.

Voting will be at all the usual boxes over the county: at the courthouse, at Bill Blairs, at the T. H. Humbles, at the B. R. Bynums and at the Bill J. Coles. Voters will have to sign a form saying they own property and have rendered it for taxation.

The vote for the "home" carried by 226 to 10 back in February this year. The vote for the bonds for the Sterling County Hospital carried 228 to 6 back in 1949.

Sterling County has applied for a Hill-Burton grant to help pay for the facility, and if a grant is secured, the home plans call for rooms to care for about 28 persons, some being private rooms, and the home will share kitchen facilities and office space with the hospital. Architect John Allen, who has worked up the plans for the home, has complied with all federal and state rules and regulations pertaining to such homes, so as to qualify for the state and federal aid in the matter of building and operating. The building will be east of the local hospital, practically joining it.

Stuckwisch had had a very bad heart condition for five years. He was critically ill at the time of his transplant.

At the time of this printing, he was in normal condition, according to the doctor team at St. Luke's Hospital, Houston.

The Little League Park was in good shape for the first game of the season Tuesday night. The field was in perfect condition, with the grass all mowed close in the outfield and the infield all neat.

The local West Texas Utilities Co. employees had gotten the lights in shape (gratis) and the parents of the Little Leaguers (especially the mothers), had really policed up the grounds, said Jack Peel.

How You Can Curb Pandering Advertisements

Mail patrons offended by pandering advertisements can now take steps to curb such mail, Postmaster W.R. Brooks said today in announcing plans for administering a new law which gives each family the right to decide that an ad is "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

When an advertisement sent through the mails is offensive on these grounds, a postal patron can now ask the post office to direct the mailer to send no mail to him and to remove immediately the patrons name from all mailing lists he owns, controls or rents.

To assist patrons, the Post Office Department has published a brief pamphlet How You Can Curb Pandering Advertisements—which is now available at the Sterling City post office. In addition to explaining how the law works, the pocket-size leaflet contains a form letter one can use when sending his complaint to the post office.

The pamphlet explains that when a patron receives an advertisement which is, in his opinion, pandering, he must send the ad, its envelope and the form letter, or one which includes its language, to his post office with the words, "request for prohibitory order" on the face of the envelope.

Postmaster Brooks said: "This law should give some protection to American families offended by advertisements they believe to be morally harmful, particularly to children."

"Last year the Post Office Department received some 140,000 complaints from these offenders by pandering advertisements. While in most cases the ads were not legally obscene and were therefore available, they are often offensive and are usually not the type of material one would want his children to read," Postmaster Brooks said.

He added that "because the law gives a mail patron the sole right to decide what is offensive, and does not deny others the right to receive the same mail the Congress felt it does not violate Constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech."

While the patron's complaint will only be directed to the sender, Postmaster Brooks believes that one or two complaints will provide substantial protection because "the great bulk of this advertising comes from fewer than 20 so-called 'smut dealers' who are frequently swapping mailing lists."

If a mailer does not strike a complainant's name from this mailing list, and the patron receives a second mailing 30 days after the firm has received the prohibitory order, he may bring the matter to the attention of the postmaster issuing the initial order by writing him and enclosing the second pandering ad with its envelope. If the mailer still fails to respect the order, the Postmaster General may ask the Attorney General to apply for a Federal court order directing compliance. Failure to observe the order may be punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

By the editor.

Do you know why cowboys roll the sides of their hats up? I've heard that is so that three of them can ride in a pick-up.

8-BALL

A lot of hail and severe weather alerts have been bugging this area lately. Now I never was one to take seriously such scares. I've always figured that they wouldn't hurt me, or if they did there was nothing I could do about it.

We were never made scared by our parents when we were children. They were never disturbed about wind storms or tornados.

And I lived through one at Mertzon in 1938. The tornado took off the front porch roof of my house, blew my garage away and caused quite a bit of damage downtown. (I had parked my car in the yard the night before and it wasn't hurt). The phone rang a lot with all that lightning and I got up twice to answer it but of course, no one was on the line. THEN, when the storm was all over, some of our friends really did try to call us, and I wouldn't answer it; and they drove up and told us all about it. We drove over town and I was amazed what a tornado could do to houses.

But I'm still not scared of weather alerts.

I guess that some day one will have my name on it. I don't know how I'll feel then.

Dolph Briscoe, the only candidate that showed up in Sterling County during the governor's race, carried Sterling County. He got 180 votes to 181 for all the nine others.

Of course, his being a rancher and active in the screw-worm eradication program, as well as with the sheep and goat raisers groups, helped him here and in the southwest Texas counties.

Preston Smith was the second high man here. And the lady candidate that said that God told her to run for governor three times, Johnnie Mae Hackworthe, didn't get any votes here. But she has now run three times!!

So, her conscience is clear.

RAIN & HAIL

Heavy rains, accompanied by marble-size hail, was falling over Sterling as this paper was going to press. The rains blew in from the north and slightly west. The school had turned out early, due to the severe weather alerts that had been issued by the weather bureau.

It appeared that close to two inches of rain had fallen by four o'clock, and the hail damage in town was seemingly light at that time.

Spotlight on HEALTH

BEWARE OF MEASLES

Why are parents indifferent about protecting their children against measles? One answer, suggests Dr. R. Cannon Eley of Brown University, is that they are unaware of the serious effects of the disease.

When a safe and effective polio vaccine became available, he points out, parents demanded it for their children because they could see the crippling effects of polio. But children made deaf, mentally retarded, or emotionally disturbed because of measles do not obviously incriminate the disease.

Dr. Eley emphasizes that such measles effects—plus paralysis, blindness, recurrent convulsions, psychological disturbances, pneumonia, and ear infections—are not rare.

Encephalitis or inflammation of the brain occurs in 1 out of every 1,000 cases. It kills 50% of its victims, and leaves 25 per cent of the survivors mentally retarded, the doctor points out.

And in 1966, some 250 children died from measles in the U.S.—more than twice as many deaths from measles as reported cases of polio.

If unprotected, Dr. Eley says, "90 per cent of children have the disease before the age of 6 years; the remaining 10 per cent contract it later." During the period from January to December 30, 1967, there were 62,232 reported cases of measles in this country.

Today, polio is almost nonexistent in the U.S. Tomorrow, Dr. Eley stresses, the same could be true of measles. Measles vaccine should be given to all children between the ages of 1 and 12, he says.

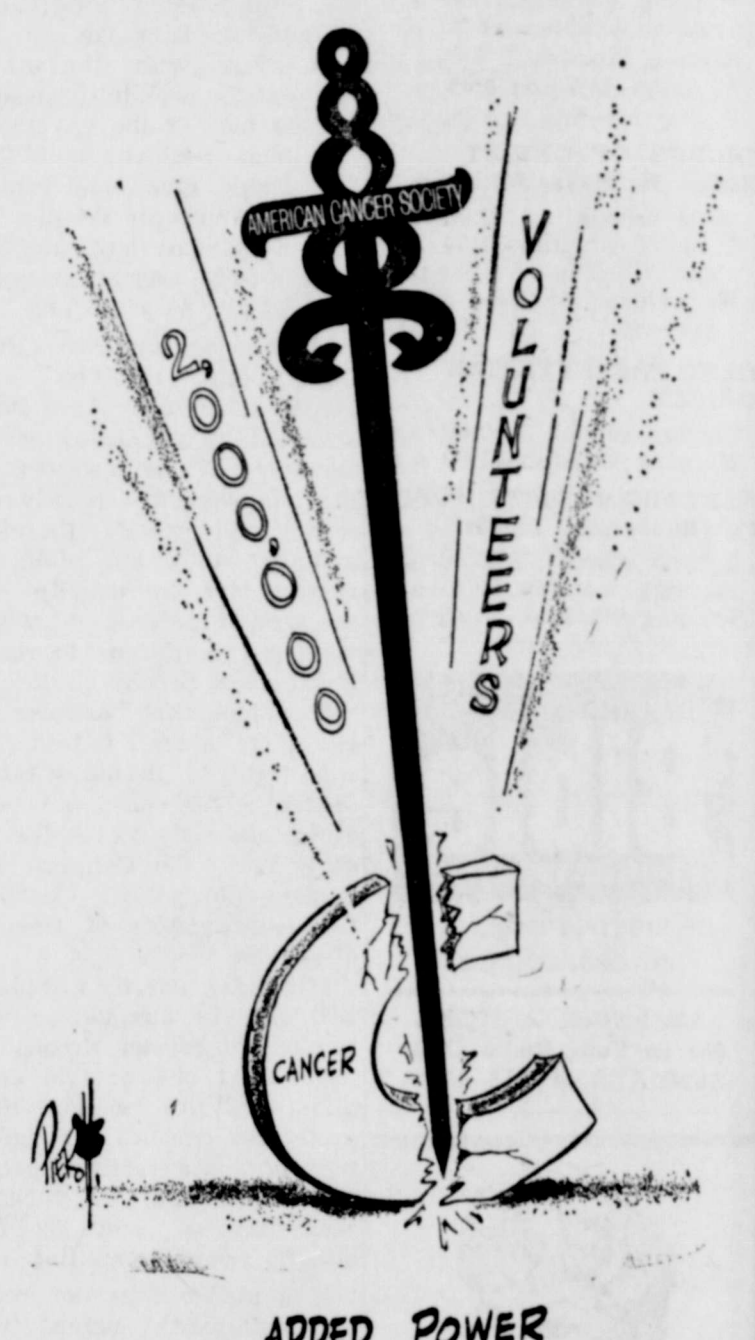

When they are immunized the disease will be under control, since these children—especially those in kindergarten and in the first 2 grades of elementary school—are most likely to contract the disease.

Only one "shot" is required with the Schwarz-strain vaccine, the type most commonly used in mass immunization campaigns. It provides what is believed to be lifelong protection similar to that which follows recovery from natural measles, but without the danger associated with the disease.

So don't jeopardize your child's health—or life—by neglecting his immunization. See your doctor about it today!
