New Education Bill Will Change Local ISD Format

With the many changes and revisions to be brought about by House Bill 246 of the 67th Texas Legislature, school curriculum reform in Texas is coming about. Because of the concern of many parents, teachers and leaders, the quality of school instruction has become a subject near and dear to their hearts.

Muleshoe Independent School District Superintendent H. John Fuller has written a news article in conjunction with the curriculum reforms which will require school districts to offer kindergarten through Grade 12 a well-balanced format. The following paragraphs contain the import of the upcoming changes and how they will affect Muleshoe Schools.

In 1979, through House Concurrent Resolution 90, the 66th Legislature directed the State Board of Education, in concert with appropriate interim legislative committees, to undertake a statewide study of curriculum for Texas Public Schools. This in turn resulted in approved recommendations to the 67th Legislature resulting in the passage of HB 246 which provided for dramatic curriculum improvements and reform.

The Texas Education Agency has worked with advisory committees made up of educators and local citizens for the past two years developing recommended essential curriculum elements which will be required to be taught in every school in the state.

This "state-mandated" curriculum will be implemented in the fall of 1984. Already this year, administrators from the Muleshoe ISD have been briefed on the contents of this curriculum mandate.

According to school Superintendent, John Fuller, the changes will be substantial and "could be the greatest thing that has happened in the field of education in Texas during the past three decades." Fuller stated that he felt that this curriculum bill (HB 246) would have as much impact on education as the Gilman-Aiken Laws of 1949.

The format for the new curriculum law will be the subject of several public hearings to be held in this area July 25-28. Educators, parents, and concerned citizens.

Housing Authority Members Appointed

The Muleshoe City Council met on Tuesday, July 12 at their regular meeting place in the City Hall, for the first regular session since May 3. Council members have, however, been busy with night sessions on the city budget through the past weeks.

Councilmen authorized the execution of a license between the city of Muleshoe and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway Company, which related to a sewer line easement. According to City Manager Dave Marr, the actual work has been completed and the lines are in operation. He further explained that the authorization was passed in order that the city could receive the easement on the property.

Mayor Charles Bvatcher executed a Certificate of Reappointment of Commissioners reappointed were Jesse Leal and Jim Cox. Other members who currently serve on the Housing Authority include Tim Campbell, Myron Pool and Max King.

In other council business, $879 of delinquent accounts were transferred to bad debts by the Council members.

City Manager Marr informed the Council of his intent to attend meetings this week in Plainview which have to do with an application under the Community Development Block Grant Program filed last year by the City for funds for the redevelopment of the east part of Muleshoe. Marr further explained that the entire CDBG program has now been turned over to the Texas Department of Community Affairs; and, the program offered in Plainview will be an update on the handling of it since the exchange of departments.

Marr reminded council members of the expiration of the local TV cable franchise later this year. A renegotiation of contracts will be necessary and the Manager suggested that an expert in this type business be called in to assist the Cont. Page 6, Col. 2

'83 PIK Wheat Entitlements Due

Bailey County ASCS Executive Director Danny Noble has issued a final reminder to all county producers regarding the final certification date upcoming this Friday, July 15. This is the final date to certify or request aerial measurement service for upland cotton, corn, grain sorghum, peanuts, sunflowers, soybeans and conservation use acreage (CUA). Noble emphasized that any farmer who misses this deadline "will become ineligible for price support loans, land diversion payments, deficiency payments and the PIK program." "If you have a "zero" certification on a program crop, that is also required," the Director explained.

"Accurate certifications of these crops is essential and important, so please don't guess at these," Noble stated.

Producers in Bailey County who have PIK entitlements for wheat due will be pleased to know that the ASCS office here has just received the loading order from Kansas City which gives the location of their 1983 PIK wheat. Noble says that most all of the PIK entitlements have been figured and typed and those that can be mailed out will be mailed about July 20.

Another important factor for area producers to be aware of concerns 1983 wheat harvested for PIK. Producers who are participating in the wheat PIK program, and do not have a sufficient amount under loan to satisfy their PIK requirement ARE REQUIRED to place 1983 wheat from an eligible farm under loan. Farmers who are in this category must adhere to this rule, or they will be subject to liquidated damage assessments. Noble said "Although individual letters have been mailed to producers, we have yet to receive response from some. If this situation fits you, be sure to bring your scale tickets or a copy of the ledger to the ASCS office in order to avoid any undue problems." the Director advised. Producers have until November 30 to take care of this situation.

Conservation Use Acreage spot checks will start on July 18 and these acres must be kept free of weeds, insects, rodents and kept from wind and water erosion. Should the acreage not be properly maintained, a producer would be ruled ineligible for any payments. Cont. Page 6, Col. 3

It Can Really Get Your Goat! Or Your Goats

Take one Department of Public Safety Trooper, throw in two Bailey County Deputy Sheriffs for good measure, stir in three frightened goats who have run away from home, and you have entertainment in downtown Muleshoe for Sunday night.

DPS Trooper Richard Fernandez came across the three goats taking an evening stroll down American Blvd (Highway 84) and in order to try to keep them from committing suicide, proceeded to herd them away from the highway. The goats didn't want to cooperate, so decided to take another stroll -- this time down Main Street. Fernandez, who quickly found out that goats don't respond real well to emergency lights and taps on the siren, asked for backups.

Responding were Deputy Sheriff's Jerry Hicks and Hal Bynum, who really didn't realize just what they were letting themselves in for -- but -- they found out.

As the officers decided to attempt to herd the goats to the outside recreation area at the Bailey County jail, lo and behold, they began to draw a crowd -- a rather large crowd -- on foot, on bicycles and in cars.

In fact, the crowd scared the already frightened goats and they really took off; headed down the alley between First National Bank and the GTE offices. Coming to a halt at the Muleshoe State Bank, two of them backtracked to Main Street while the third goat momentarily disappeared.

The two traveling on Main Street headed for the Robert Green, Inc. service building (the old Chevrolet Co.) There, they were trapped by the deputies.

Bynum's goat had a handle -- two horns, to hold onto. But, the one caught by Hicks had no handle, but he did have a nice goatie. Hicks took advantage of the goatie.

Next, was a decision on Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

Glider Lands Sunday With Canadian Pilot

For two weeks, the 18th World Soaring Championships were held at Hobbs, N.M. with pilots from all over the world competing for the World's title. During the two weeks, no gliders landed at the Municipal Airport at Muleshoe until the final day of the competition.

Late Sunday, two gliders landed at Muleshoe, one from Israel and the second glider from Canada. Canadian pilot Peter Lamla, who had been some 350 miles in his glider during the day before he lost his thermals, was the second pilot.

Landing in Muleshoe, he walked across to the Muleshoe County Club to call and let his ground crew know where he was, then was given a ride back to his glider in a golf cart.

Lamla said he competes each year in the glider event on a national level in Canada, but this was his first World Championship Competition.

He explained that the world championship is held just every two years, and this will be the last time the championships will be held in the United States for the next several years.

Lamla said every glider competition on a world level will have many countries represented.

Ingo Renner of Australia registered his eighth 1,000 point victory in 11 days of competition in the open class of the World Championships on Sunday. He already had 10,508 points going into the 12th day of competition on Sunday.

Renner completed the 407.8 mile course with a speed of 94.3 mph to win his eighth race on Saturday. He piled up a 613 lead over Bruno Gantenbrink of West Germany and Cont. Page 6, Col. 2

With July 4 behind us and the traffic toll now fact rather than prediction, I am reminded how Will Rogers summed it up. "We have killed more people celebrating our Independence Day than we lost fighting for it." Hopefully our children learn a lesson in the paradox.

Speaking of children, one tax planning technique frequently used is to employ children and other family members in the family business. It is especially useful with minor children as a means of shifting income from a high bracket taxpayer to low bracket taxpayers.

For example, a 50% bracket taxpayer who hires his two children and pays them each $250 a month will shift $6,000 a year of income from his return and save $3,000 in income taxes. Unless the children have additional income from other sources, they will pay no federal income tax on this compensation.

In order to be deductible, compensation paid to your minor children must meet these two tests:

1. The amounts must be reasonable, and
 2. The payments must be for services actually rendered.
- In using this technique, be sure to keep time records on the children showing the nature of services they performed, the responsibilities they assumed, and the number of hours they worked. In short, treat them just like other employees who are not related to you.
- If your business is a sole proprietorship, you needn't withhold social security from their paychecks, but partnerships and corporate employers must withhold. If the child's income doesn't exceed $3,300 for the year, there is no need to withhold federal income taxes either.
- There's another benefit in using the children as employees of the family business, and it may be more valuable than the tax savings involved. If properly done, the children should learn some good lessons about the value of an earned dollar and how it should be spent or saved.

 how to get the goats back over to the pen at the jail -- approximately four blocks -- so, they decided to walk the goats to jail.

Accompanied by their encourage of kibitzers and onlookers, Bynum and Hicks headed for the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center. Just before they arrived at the jail -- Trooper Fernandez showed up at the pen, with the trunk of his car open, and a small boy in the trunk of the car holding the third goat.

Shortly after the goats were locked up, and the tired officers were headed back to reclaim their patrol vehicles, the owner of the goats showed up and retrieved them from their quarters at the Law Enforcement Center.

By the way, the chase and capture was handled without the benefit of lassos, as the officers do not customarily carry such items in their cars. And -- they didn't even have to use their handcuffs, as the goats apparently relished the attention they received and quietened down enough to make the journey to their very temporary quarters.

4-H Congress Scheduled

Learning experiences about state government and the legislative process in action will be in store for approximately 400 4-H members who are expected to take part in the 1983 Texas 4-H Congress, July 19-21, in Austin. Theme for the 4-H Congress will be "Celebrate Citizenship."
Delegates will be involved in the legislative process of writing, debating, amending and voting on bills, with these sessions scheduled to take place in the Senate and House Chambers of the State Capitol. Headquarters for the State 4-H Congress will be the Sheraton Crest Inn.

"This year's 4-H Congress will provide an excellent opportunity for older 4-H members from each Texas county to visit and tour the capitol and learn the process of how laws are made. There will also be an opportunity to meet many dignitaries of state government," said H.T. Davison, state 4-H and youth leader.
Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, is scheduled to address the July 19 opening assembly, along with Senator Chet Edwards of Duncannonville. The assembly will be at 7:30 p.m. at the headquarters motel.

At the 8:30 a.m. assembly July 21, Ola Madison, motivational speaker from Nicholasville, Ky., is scheduled to address 4-H members on "Citizenship Action."
Seminars and tours will be among other special features of 4-H Congress. Besides the special 4-H Congress activities, the 75th anniversary of 4-H club work in Texas also will be highlighted. The Congress delegates will attend a birthday party the evening on July 21, which will conclude the Congress festivities with a special fireworks display at Fiesta Gardens adjacent to Town Lake.

It's smart to listen to most advice and equally smart not to follow it.
