Behind the 8-Ball

By the editor.

In the special amendment election next Tuesday, we feel that it is about time the boys in the state legislature got a raise. It is still not much of a raise—from $400 a month to $600. They are out a lot more money to live on now than when that $400 a month was set. They can spend a lot more than that by just being in Austin a lot during the two year terms. (Senator have 4 year terms.)

My guess is that this amendment will pass this time.

In the proposed amendment to raise old state and teacher pensioners, the state would raise their pensions more to conform with the pensions of today. The withholding from those now on state and teacher payrolls would be—never less than 6 percent of their salary and would place a limit on what the state would pay out in matching funds. The systems would have to be accurately sound and a careful watch kept on the pension funds. More so than now.

I think this amendment will pass statewide. It does not propose more state money for the present.

Special Amendment Election Tuesday

TWO AMENDMENTS WILL BE VOTED ON

There will be a special constitutional election here April 22. All boxes will vote in the courthouse this time and voting will be from 8 till 6 o'clock on that day.

There are two amendments to the Texas constitution to be voted on. The first deals with raising pensions of retired state and other government persons in respect to their retirement pensions. This would let the state raise their matching amount of money contributed to the pension funds.

The first amendment will not raise the amount an employe of the state pays in to the pension fund (6%) nor does it raise the matching amount by the state; but allows that the state could, if necessary, go up to 10 percent on matching funds.

This number one amendment is primarily aimed at giving now already retired workers and teachers as high a pension as is now being received by persons retiring now.

Number two amendment is to raise state legislators and senators from $400 a month to $600 a month salary. Their per diem allowance would also be raised to $30 per day during regular sessions of the legislature.

The new edition of your telephone directory is going to press soon.

If you have only a single listing, a lot of people are going to have trouble looking up other members of your family.

Certainly, your wife deserves her own listing.

And giving a teen-ager a place in the directory is a nice way of saying "You're growing up."

To add or change a listing just call our business office. They can tell you how little extra an additional listing will cost.

It's as easy as picking up the phone.

CERTIFIED AS FREE OF BRUCELLOSIS STERLING COUNTY

Dr. H. Q. Sibley, Executive Director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, announces receipt of the certificate designating Sterling County as a Certified Bovine Brucellosis Free Area.

This recognition signifies that there is no known foci of bovine brucellosis in the county at this time, and that if the infection is re-introduced into the county immediate steps will be taken to confine and eradicate it.

In order to qualify as a Certified Bovine Brucellosis-Free Area all herds of cattle must be tested and found negative or at latest ten per cent of all breeding cattle in the county two years of age and older must be blood tested each year when shipped to market or at time of slaughter with follow-up testing of herd of origin of all reactors disclosed.

EIGHTEEN YEAR OLDS DON'T HAVE TO REGISTER NOW; MAYBE LATER

President Ford issued a presidential proclamation on March 29 that called a halt to the present registration procedures for the Selective Service System.

April 1 was the last date that 18 year olds had to be registered by draft boards.

Col. Melvin N. Glantz, State Director of Selective Service for Texas, said that although registration is being terminated at this time, new procedures providing for periodical registration are being developed and will be tested at a later date.

Selective Service has a sufficient number of men classified now to maintain a pool of available manpower for the military as a part of the overall Emergency Preparedness Program of the nation.

Ingenious Triumphs Of Chemistry

GOOD NEWS ABOUT SCIENTIFIC ADVANCES

CRACKING GETS THE RUBBING ALCOHOL OUT OF YOUR GAS TANK

What do a washing machine agitator, dog food, aspirin and perfume have in common?

Without propylene, one of the basic chemicals made from oil and natural gas, these and countless other everyday products could not be made.

Propylene holds a unique position as a chemical raw material. It is one of the most important petrochemical building blocks and is also a significant component of gasoline. Catalytic cracking of petroleum to make high octane gasoline produces large amounts of propylene. Last year, only one quarter of this or about 11.5 billion pounds of propylene was separated from the gasoline for chemical use.

Although this is a relatively small volume when compared to other petrochemical building blocks, propylene, an odorless, colorless gas, winds up in countless products vital to the comfort and well being of Americans and to the strength of their economy.

A very significant end-use application of propylene is isopropyl alcohol. Whether it's called 2-propanol, dimethyl carbinol, isopropanol or just plain IPA, this propylene-derived product is, in fact, the rubbing alcohol in your medicine chest.

The Many Uses of IPA

IPA, in addition to its use as a household antiseptic, is also an important ingredient in the manufacture of hydrogen peroxide, solvents, antistalling agents, dyes, aspirin, de-icing agents, surface coatings, insect repellent, printing ink, paint and varnish removers, latex paints and fuel additives.

Another major use of propylene is to make polypropylene, one of the most versatile plastic resins. Because of its superior physical properties—strength, resistance to work fatigue, chemical and heat resistance, colorability and flex strength—polypropylene is finding its way into applications that dispell the myth that plastics are only good for cheap toys and olive stabbers.

The medical field recently has discovered the many assets of polypropylene. Pacemakers and artificial hearts now have parts made of polypropylene. It is also used as through-the-bone marrow pins, screws, staples, and as sutures to close contaminated wounds. Polypropylene has other medical uses such as dentures, disposable hypodermic needles and syringes, test tubes, soap dishes, graduated basins and thermometer holders.

The appliance and automotive industries are using a great deal of polypropylene these days. For example, washing machine agitators, dishwasher innerliners and many other parts for major and small appliances are made of it.

When the Going is Tough

One of the most revolutionary uses is in car batteries. Most of the 1974-model U.S. cars now have batteries—and numerous other parts such as steering wheels, bucket seat backs and accelerator pedals—made of tough polypropylene.

Polypropylene fibers are being also used by the furniture and carpet industries because of their resistance to stains. And its toughness is causing polypropylene to become widely used in making cordage. These are just some of the many ways polypropylene is being used to provide better quality products for American consumers.

In addition to IPA and polypropylene and their many end-uses, propylene finds its way into synthetic rubbers, medicines, cosmetics, safety glass, food flavoring agents, adhesives, photographic chemicals, epoxy resins, leather tanning products, perfume, antifreeze, brake fluids, herbicides, dog food and poultry feed additives, nylon, wood preservatives, polishes, explosives and paper coatings.

When the many vital chemical applications of propylene are coupled with the fact that it is one of the components of gasoline that keeps the car engine running efficiently, it's easy to understand why propylene often is termed "lifeblood" for American industry.

Lions to Recognize Outstanding Citizen

The Sterling City Lions Club will recognize the outstanding citizen of Sterling when they hold their annual ladies night banquet and program soon. The idea is to recognize the work for community betterment and improvement as well as unselfish public service. The members of the club feel that such persons need to be recognized. The winner will receive a plaque stating the award honoring him or her.

Everyone can vote. Anyone who lives in Sterling County may vote. Just fill in your choice on the ballot below—and mail it to the Sterling City Lions Club at Box 608, Sterling City, Texas. Just think who has done enough during the past year to get your vote, then fill out the ballot and mail it to the committee to tally at the proper time.
