AROUND THE COUNTY

ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

Sterling County's first sample of worms sent in to the Mission Laboratory of the screwworm eradication program has been identified as nonscrewworm. Let's hope that all the samples sent in are identified the same way.

The sample was sent in by Chesley McDonald from the McDonald & Son ranch. It was taken from a cow's eye. Confirmed samples have been sent in from as far north as Hamilton County already. This is the earliest that the pest has been confirmed that far north in a number of years according to program officials.

Sample collection vials and mailing tubes are again available in the county extension office. If you need any of these pick them up at the office or the feed store. Let's keep up the good work of the past years in submitting samples. While it is hoped that all are identified as nonscrewworm, the possibility of having confirmed cases remains with us. If they are confirmed, treatment will be the same as last year. This will consist of air drops of sterile flies plus ground release of sterile flies plus the area.

During the last half of May, a random sample of some 24,000 Texas ranchers and farmers will receive crop acreage questionnaires from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. While Sterling County is not a CROP County, it is likely that some local producers will receive the questionnaire. If, and when they do, they are asked to return them by return mail.

These questionnaires are the basis of estimated acreage of various crops. Not only do they furnish information on the state but the county as well. These reports are confidential and are used for the state and county totals.

The prospects for a pecan crop here are not what could be called bright as of now. Last week, we made a check of John Brock's along with John and the prospects there left a lot to be desired. Some of the earlier-blooming varieties, such as the San Saba Improved, have few if any flowers or catkins and even fewer smaller nuts. The Western Schley variety have very few flowers or nuts. Most of the Indian varieties John has—the Mohawk, Wichita and Apache—have very few flowers or small nuts. The Burketts and Mahans appear to be the only varieties now with a prospect of making any nuts. On some of the trees of all varieties, the flowers are drying up with no small pecans evident. This leaves little hope for these unless they bloom again and put on some small nuts.

The two heavy frosts on Mar. 29 and again on April 2 were very damaging. All buds were killed and the trees had to start over again with leaf buds, flower buds, and nut buds. Many trees around town are not leafing out as they should at this time. If you have not sprayed your trees with zinc sulfate or fertilized them yet, it would be wise to do so. With the prospect of no crop it is easy to forget these practices but the trees need them worse now than in a good year. The two crops of buds sap the tree of twice the normal nutrients used for this. They are badly in need of help to offset this demand for future growth.

Fertilize now with one-third pound of actual nitrogen—one pound of ammonium nitrate—per diameter inch trunk. Repeat in June. Spray the trees with zinc sulfate at the rate of three pounds of 32% zinc sulfate per hundred gallons of water. For smaller amounts, use two teaspoons per gallon of water.

The casebearer situation will be checked periodically. You may want to spray to protect the crop you do have. We will keep you advised through this column.

NEWS of Travel

LET YOUR CHILD TAKE YOU THROUGH DENMARK

One of the questions you hear over and over again when tourists plan their vacation is: "Where do we find a place where all members of the family can have fun and where prices fit our family budgets?"

The answer is easy. For tots and teenagers, for 20-year-olds to senior citizens, Denmark offers a variety of fun that can't be found anywhere else.

Your children will be completely captivated by a visit to a real fairy-tale park with its Renaissance castle Egeskov, erected in a lake, on the island of Funen. In the barn there is a museum filled with vintage aeroplanes, cars and motorcycles.

Denmark is truly a children's wonderland. Of course there are summer camps, riding schools and sailing schools. But what about the real children's traffic school at Legoland? The miniature village in Jutland is virtually a children's paradise.

From June through September, you can ride the Veteran Railway every Sunday from legendary Elsinore (site of Hamlet's castle) to the resort of Gilleleje, and there's a parade every Friday by the Elsinore Girl Guards.

For the adventurous, there is Givskud Lions Park, where you'll see African Lions, enormous elephants and gentle giraffes in natural surroundings. Driving your car among these exotic animals is comparable to enjoying a mini-safari.

At the Circus Building, Benneweis, Scandinavia's biggest circus, presents world artists in the ring every night, from mid-April to September 30. Tivoli, Denmark's world-famous fairy-tale garden in the heart of the city, is filled with amusements for children and adults, restaurants and dancing from May 1 to September 16. It features a fascinating playground, Children's Holiday Shows, the Pantomime Theater, The Open-Air Stage, the Tivoli Boy Guards, parades and fireworks. And every Tuesday throughout the summer, there is a very lively children's circus in the Odense Zoo.

Denmark even has its very special Hans Christian Andersen Festival held in the Funen Village, in his native town Odense, from July 6 to August 5, where children enact Andersen fairytales on an open-air stage, that will delight the whole family.

For more information on events for children in Denmark this year, write to: Danish National Tourist Office, Scandinavia House, 505 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Reddy's helpful tips for your Dishwasher

- A dishwasher will usually hold a whole day's dishes. It takes as much hot water and energy to wash 1 dish as it does a full load. Stack your dishes out of sight in your dishwasher and wait until you have a full load to turn it on.
- Use only detergents manufactured specifically for dishwashers. A wetting agent helps prevent water spots on glasses and silverware.
- Clean the filter screen often. A clogged filter can reduce the efficiency of your dishwasher.

Ingenious Triumphs Of Chemistry

GOOD NEWS ABOUT SCIENTIFIC ADVANCES

CRACKING GETS THE RUBBING ALCOHOL OUT OF YOUR GAS TANK

What do a washing machine agitator, dog food, aspirin and perfume have in common?

Without propylene, one of the basic chemicals made from oil and natural gas, these and countless other everyday products could not be made.

Propylene holds a unique position as a chemical raw material. It is one of the most important petrochemical building blocks and is also a significant component of gasoline. Catalytic cracking of petroleum to make high octane gasoline produces large amounts of propylene. Last year, only one quarter of this or about 11.5 billion pounds of propylene was separated from the gasoline for chemical use.

Although this is a relatively small volume when compared to other petrochemical building blocks, propylene, an odorless, colorless gas, winds up in countless products vital to the comfort and well being of Americans and to the strength of their economy.

A very significant end-use application of propylene is isopropyl alcohol. Whether it's called 2-propanol, dimethyl carbinol, isopropanol or just plain IPA, this propylene-derived product is, in fact, the rubbing alcohol in your medicine chest.

The Many Uses of IPA

IPA, in addition to its use as a household antiseptic, is also an important ingredient in the manufacture of hydrogen peroxide, solvents, antistalling agents, dyes, aspirin, de-icing agents, surface coatings, insect repellent, printing ink, paint and varnish removers, latex paints and fuel additives.

Another major use of propylene is to make polypropylene, one of the most versatile plastic resins. Because of its superior physical properties—strength, resistance to work fatigue, chemical and heat resistance, colorability and flex strength—polypropylene is finding its way into applications that dispell the myth that plastics are only good for cheap toys and olive stabbers.

The medical field recently has discovered the many assets of polypropylene. Pacemakers and artificial hearts now have parts made of polypropylene. It is also used as through-the-bone marrow pins, screws, staples, and as sutures to close contaminated wounds. Polypropylene has other medical uses such as dentures, disposable hypodermic needles and syringes, test tubes, soap dishes, graduated basins and thermometer holders.

The appliance and automotive industries are using a great deal of polypropylene these days. For example, washing machine agitators, dishwasher innerliner, and many other parts for major and small appliances are made of it.

When the Going is Tough

One of the most revolutionary uses is in car batteries. Most of the 1974-model U.S. cars now have batteries — and numerous other parts such as steering wheels, bucket seat backs and accelerator pedals — made of tough polypropylene.

Polypropylene fibers are being also used by the furniture and carpet industries because of their resistance to stains. And its toughness is causing polypropylene to become widely used in making cordage. These are just some of the many ways polypropylene is being used to provide better quality products for American consumers.

In addition to IPA and polypropylene and their many end-uses, propylene finds its way into synthetic rubbers, medicines, cosmetics, safety glass, food flavoring agents, adhesives, photographic chemicals, epoxy resins, leather tanning products, perfume, antifreeze, brake fluids, herbicides, dog food and poultry feed additives, nylon, wood preservatives, polishes, explosives and paper coatings.

When the many vital chemical applications of propylene are coupled with the fact that it is one of the components of gasoline that keeps the car engine running efficiently, it's easy to understand why propylene often is termed "lifeblood" for American industry.

Behind the 8-Ball

By the editor.

Last weekend, the Carlsbad, N.M. Chamber of Commerce got the tourist season underway with their third annual event calling attention to the attractions in that area—by having the news media and state officials of the state boards and commissions all in for a look see at such attractions. The head of the National Park Service was there, the heads of state tourist and state parks boards were there, and a lot of New Mexico notables. The news media people were from both Texas and New Mexico. A good time program had been lined up and a good crowd was there.

A get-acquainted cocktail hour was Friday night at the Stevens Motel. Kits were passed out and tours outlined. An early morning cowboy breakfast was held and then a tour of the New Guadalupe Mountains National Park. Or, you could go on the tour of the new cave, the Old Carlsbad Caverns, or the Living Desert, a botanical and zoological park at Carlsbad Too, there is the big park on the beach in Carlsbad, with lots of fun stuff for all the family.

The Carlsbad CoFC really go all out and have a nice deal. The members there have a name for getting things done for that area. The state and national officials brag on the CoFC for their efforts.

Carlsbad has some really ideal and wonderful retirement places to live; some lovely recreational areas (and a new lake coming); and never forget the old faithful crowd-drawer, Carlsbad Caverns. Industry is coming in to the Carlsbad area, and lots of construction workers are now in residence there, completing work on projects.

Saturday afternoon, the San Jose Plaza was dedicated. It is an area close to the San Jose Mission or church right in town. The houses have been fixed up and remodelled, being a delight to the eye. They are small houses lived in by Mexican-American families I presume. They look really good.

A cookout supper at the river side home of Ray Davis and Dewey Connell was given the visitors Saturday night. A rain almost ruined it, but it went off anyway. They have real big T-bone steaks, baked potato, salad, bread and coffee. Chamber of Commerce Gold Coaters attend to the details, such as cooking, tending bar, and handling the crowds. The rain had them all worried, too. In fact I called Mrs. Davis about an hour before the time and asked her what was going to happen—in case the rain persisted. She said that they welcomed us, but they welcomed the rain, too. She was (at their house) gloomy all day because of the threatening clouds and it did make them uncomfortable trying to have the crowd. Everyone I'm sure welcomed the moisture and on the way home Sunday (for 214 miles) we saw water standing all the way in the bar ditches and on fields—AND best of all, I had 2.60 inches of rain in my rain gauge here.

Carlsbad has two things going for them. They have the Carlsbad Caverns and now the new Guadalupe Mountain National Park and they have a big potash industry and some per-chemical plants in the offing.

They can look forward to a good era now, presuming that the recession is over AND that a huge tax gas bill will not be passed by Congress. (That will hurt tourism).

I have been through the Carlsbad Caverns six times and I never fail to get a bang out of it. It defies description really.

Years ago I walked through but now I ride the elevators. I have known people who got up early and left from around here, went through the Caverns and back the same day, getting home about midnight. But I hope exists in Carlsbad that one will find time to stay an extra day or night there.

The Elks Club invited the press day visitors to their dance Saturday night. They have a big hall right in town, only a block away from the old La Caverna Hotel. It was a nice weekend spent in Carlsbad.

Anyone can do it.
Try it sometime.
