LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, July 19.—Representative Hunton, of Virginia, has challenged Columbus Alexander, of this city, to meet him beyond the reach of the district police to settle a controversy between these gentlemen concerning the interests of this district. Alexander had charged that Gen. Hunton joined with the Radical ring in opposition to the interests of the citizens of Washington, and had further said he would not be bull-dozed by Hunton or any of his district appointees. Alexander replied to Hunton's letter that there was no necessity for fear of the police, but the reply was so worded that it cannot be construed into an acceptance or refusal of a challenge. It is understood that if Hunton's invitation can be legally construed into challenge, the commonwealth attorney at the challenge, the commonwealth attorney in south Carolina. Four officials while in seven of Redmon, the illicit distiller, killed in self-defense a man named Kodd in whose once Redmon was concealed, indicted for arriver. An attempt was made to have the set transferred to the U. S. Omer but this is been positively refused. The Attorney energl snuonneed that he would direct to the U. S. Marshal to take the control of the control of the U. S. Omer but this interview, confirming substantially the account of the affair heretotrors published. Anderson came to Washington on passes furnished by Marks at Anderson's request. Marks refused to go with Anderson to see Sherman, but insally went in company with Anderson and Governor Hahn at Hahn's request. Marks went after Shellabarger at Sherman's request, while Hahn and Anderson were waiting in the other sooms. Marks disclaimed intimacy with Anderson. Witness sending passes to Anderson had no connection whatever with the Sherman Anderson interview. Marks was a Republican elector. In answer to a question, he said: The first set of certificates were signed the day we met. All were present. The second set were signed two or three weeks later. Witness being shown copies of the first and said as recognized his signature. Witness haing shown copies of the first and said as recognized his signature in second set. The second set were signed two or three weeks later. Witness in the appearance of the signatures. He thinks Sheller, loop hand Burch were present when he agend the second sci. Did not know Hill was to take them to Washington. Witness lived in Doualdson-ville on February 6th, 1876. My attention was called to telegrams in the New Orleans Times of February 7th about a woman being them representing herself as Mrs. D. A. Weber. I knew Mrs. Weber very well; and being about to leave for Washington called on her and referring to the article asked her if she knew who the party was. Mrs. Weber seemed much surprised, and after studying the matter over said it must be Mrs. Jenks had come to har house and told of a document. Als. Weber and the surprised and after studying the matter over said it must be Mrs. Jenks had come to har house and told of a document when the surprised and after studying the matter over said it has been and the seemed much surprised, and after studying the matter over said it has had no such document. THE EXCITEMENT IN ENGLAND.

London, July 19.—The Marquis of Salisbury declared in the House of Lords last night that he had to state on behalf of his colleagues, Lords Beaconsteid, Carnes and Cranbrook, Sir Stafford Northeote, Mr. Smith, Duke Richmond and Mr. Cross that Lord Derby's statement relative to the servet expedition for the segzing of Gyprus was not correct. There was quite a scene of excitement during which Lord Salisbury was called to order for saying that the statement was not true. was not true.

London, July 10.—All the morning paper

London, July 10.—All the morning papers excepting the Dally News comment favorably on Lord Benconsfield's statement in the House of Lords last evening. The Times think, Derby transgressed his rights and customs which it is desirable to uphold in making public his recollections of former discussions of the Cabinet. The scene in the House is said to have surpassed in brilliang and animation anything within the Bring memory. Every part of the chamber was densely crowded. The passage between Salisbury and Derby was constantly making a revelation. This was his third speech since he left the Cabinet and on each occasion. bury said Derby was constantly making a revelation. This was his third speech since he left the Cabinet and on each occasion he had an installment of fatal tales like Dr. Oats. He said Lord Derby did not know how much the public would endure, so he gave his story in broken doses. So far as his, Salisbury's, memory served, he said Derby's statement was not true. On being called to order Salisbury substituted the term incorrect for not true and disclaimed any intention to impum herby's executive and intention to impum herby's executive and the second field Russia that she could go this far and nofurther. Asia was large enough for both and England was resolved to defend Turkey against any further attacks from Russia. The occupation by England was not a war measure but a step in the progress of peace, he assured his heaves that England did not fear war with any nation, nor did she seek war. He said the congress throughout had been marked by an earnest spirit of good will and true states manship. Throughout his speech Beacons field was repeatedly cheered and sat down

London, July 19.—The Marquis of Har-lington gave notice in the House of Com-

A child recently died in Troy, New York, by taking arsenic from a veil thrown over its crib to keep off files.

The Boston Journal of Chemistry states that they are now putting arsenic info toilet powders used in nurseries and by ladies, it being cheaper than starch, of which they were formerly made.

It would be well also for farmers to be careful in buying new kinds of cooking etensils. It was discovered last year that "marbleised iron ware," which had come into extensive use, was, in the works of the Harvard University chemist, who analysed it, "alive with poison," the enamel being largely composed of evide of lead in soluble form. We are assured that other poisonous ware is still sold.

Let Grangers refuse to buy new ware unless guaranteed harmiess.

Many flavoring oils and syrups contain poisons. It is well to avoid them so far as possible. Coloridge is the author of this curious story: A stranger came commended to a merchant's house at Lubeck. He was hospitably received, but, the house being full, he was lodged at night in an apartment handsomely furnished, but not often used. There was nothing that struck him particularly in the room when left alone, till he happened to cast his eyes on a picture, which immediately attracted his attention. It was a single head, but there was something so uncommon so frightful and uncerthly in its expression, though by no means unly, that he found himself irresistibly attracted to it. In fact, he could not tearnings if from the fascination of this portrait tracted 'ts.it. In fact, he could not tear-himself from the fascination of this portrait till his imagination was filled by it and his rest broken. He retired to bed, dramed, and awoke from time to time with the head glaring on him.

In the morning his host saw by his looks that he had slept ill, and inquired the cause, which was told. The master of the house was much vexed, and said that the picture ought have been removed that it was an over are an energy of the country are any this same man at he same place for two or three successive are and at length became so much interested about him that he speke to him. The ddress was not repulsed and the stranger seemed to find some comfort from the tone of sympathy and kindness which my fatter ased. He was an Italian, well informed, poor, but not destitute, and living economically upon the profits of his art as a painter.
