The creditors of the New York Belting and Packing Co., whose resources were seriously impaired by the troubles of the Boston Belting Co. a short time ago, held a meeting to-day. The President of the company said all they wanted to pay the debts in full was time. A proposition was made by one of the creditors that the company pay ten per cent to the creditors on the first of September from their available cash, and that the remainder be paid in equal installments running through thirty-six months from September. The proposition was accepted by the firm and a committee appointed to examine the books.

A Woman's False Arithmette. (Detroit Free Press.)

The other day, soon after a Congross street woman had decided to build a big strawberry short-cake for supper, she heard the musical voice of a peddler crying in the "Great big strawberries—8 cents a quart three quarts for 25 cents!"

"Great big strawberries of cents of the characteristics of 25 cents!"
"Nothing like taking advantage of discounts," said the woman as she ran for a dish, and in five minutes she had his three quartes of berries and the peddler had her silver quarter.

Time passed on. She sat in a rocking-chair looking over the luscious fruit, when all of a sudden she turned pale and began breathing hard. It was not a case of heart disease or spinal meningitis, nor had a new Triton and Eureka clube of Newark, New Jersey, and escorted to the Continental Hotel at Newark, where the Shoe-wa-camette's will be the guests of the Triton's and Eureka's. breathing hard. It was not a case of heart disease or spinal meningitis, nor had a new wrinkle suddenly developed itself on her forchead. Bhe had simply figured: "Eight cents per quart—three quarts for twenty-five cents—three times eight is twenty-four!"

Her son came in just as she had slipped a revolver into her pocket and tied her bonnes strings in a square knot, and when be asked her where she was going she solemnly re-

plk d:

"Harry, I am going out to kill a strawberry peddler—a seven story hypocrite and deceiver, who gave no wholesele rates on these berries! Tell your father to engage three lawyers and he at the Contral station in half an hour!"

But the strawberry man had passed on—had sought other shady and innocent neighborhoods, and the returned to her darkened home with a tootosche under her car and heart beating at 115 degrees in the shade.

Valdez, the new fledged General in Diaz's army, is reported to be near Newtown with a force of fifteen hundred men, ready and anxious to prove his fealty to his new master that the Valdez is there with that number of men, it being an unusually large force for that country, we may safely conclude that the Mexican government is preparing for some expected emergency. That the Mexican Generals have been ordered to rest thieves, there can be no doubt, and every thing tends to prove that the Mexicann are organizing and massing their forces to enforce those orders. This fact can be taken as evidence that the Mexicann government received no assurance that our troops would not cross the river.

—Judge Cotton's court was occupied yesterday investigating a quarrel between two women. Quarreiling and fighting females are on the increase in San Antonio, and as a general thing they are the most disagrecable characters to be found. One of the women, who was placed on the stand, swore to many things that were afterwards proven false, and a witness on her behalf was even made to say that the plaintiff in the case had approached her and told her what she must testify in court. The case was to be cut and dried, so far as her interests went, before it reached investigation.

the young men composing the organization deeply regret their loss, they are not of a disposition to fall supinely upon their backs and give up. For contra, they feel the necessity of putting forth more vigorous efforts than ever before to properly establish and equip their association. Actuated by this spirit, they will at once institute measures for the construction of a hall of their own—the one burned having been leased. The association owns several valuable lots, but the site for their hall will noet probably be on the corner of St. Mary's and Houston streets. There are several aliferent plans talked of in sounnection with building a hall.

The dramatic section of the association have already began to prepare for a series of plays as a means of making money to repair the heavy loss sustained on stage seemery and costumes. The zeal of the association as a whole is worthy of smulation.

The Express having been chosen by the Wool-Growers Association of Western Texas as an organ to represent the interests of those engaged in the production of wool, it is our pleasure to submit herewith a complete review of the business done in this city last spring. We also furnish such suggestions in connection with the review as we doem necessary, looking to important improvements in the trade. In submitting this article, we feel constrained to urge its thoughtful consideration by every individual interested in producing or purchasing wool.

As the wool season for the past spring is now over, and the clip has been sold in our market and gone forward for northern consumption, we take pleasure in reviewing THE LEADING FRATURES AS CONNECTED WITH THIS GREAT INTEREST of Western Texas for the period of seven months past, or from the close of the fall clip of 1877. The past winter was very favorable to the sheep raiser, being unusually mild, and with no severe, cold northers, such as sometimes prove very detrimental and complete to the sheep raiser, being unusually mild, and with no severe, cold northers, such as sometimes prove very detrimental and complete to the sheep raiser, being unusually mild, and with no severe, cold northers, such as sometimes prove very detrimental to the sheep during the winter and good handling at shearing. adapted to sheep raising by those coming from the North and East, can only result in a steady influx of men who will be owners of flocks. The great profitableness of woolgrowing is so fully understood that the business must steadily increase by its own attractiveness. We will mention one instance (and there are many others) of the result of a flock of 2,268 sheep, of fine quality, owned by David Browne. From these sheep, 13,875 pounds of wool were sheared this spring. Being a yearly clip it sold for 25 cents per pound, and amounted to 83,468.75. Any person who has any idea of the usual expense of berding this number of sheep annually knows that the profits were considerable, especially when we add to the above, the legitimate increase of the flock.

We expect to see great benefits come to the wool-growers from the Western Texas Wool Growers' Association, and trust all sheep men will be interested in this organization, for thereby will all become fully acquainted with the fullest information and best methods for profitable sheep raising. Its proceedings will always be fully published is the columns of the Express.

A called meeting of the San Antonio Medical Association was held last evening to discuss the city's health's interest, considering the prevalence of yellow fever at New Orleans and other places. There were general discussions as to the best means of preventing the approach of the malady. A committee consisting of Doctors Cupples, Chew and Bennett was appointed to draft a report upon the matter to be submitted for approval at a future meeting, from whence it will go to the City Council. The citizens are unged to use the spring water as furnished through the medium of the waterworks as far preferable to well, and more pure, even, than orable to well, and more pure, ever eistern water.

Minnie Warren, the youngest, brightest and prettiest of Mr. Barnam's dwarfs, died in Middleboro, Mass., on Tuesday evening, in childbed. She was the youngest of a family of eight children, all of whom except herself and her sister Lavinia, now Mrs. Tom Thumb, were of ordinary size. When Minnie was eleven years of age she joined the Tom Thumb troupe, and for fifteen years she traveled almost continually, visiting nearly all the civilized parts of the globe. She was forty inches in height, and never attained a-weight to exceed forty-five pounds, being considerably shorter and more slender than Mrs. Thumb. She was twenty-seven years of age at the time of her death. To a pretty face she added a pleasant disposition and wining ways, and she became the fast favorite of Mr. Barnum as well as the public. When Tom Thumb was married to Lavinia Warren the general opinion was that Commodore Nutt would take Minnie for his bride; but the little Commodore had set his affections on Lavinia, and his little heart was blighted when Gen. Thumb won her from him.

ed to possess procious stones of inestinable virtue. This helief was current through many ages. Matthew Paris relates the story of a miserly Venetian named Vitalis, who was rescued from a terrible death—having fallen into a pit-in which were a lion and a sorpent—by a wood cutter, to whom he promised half his property for the defives—ance. The lion and the serpent, who take advantage of the ladder by which Vitalis is brought to the surface, also testify their gratitude to the wood cutter by crouching at his feet. While the poor man is enjoying his humble repast in his little hut the lion enters with a dead goat as a present. The serpent also enters, bringing in his mouth a precious stone, which he lays in the countryman's plate. He next goes to Venice, and finds Nitalis in his palace feasting with his neighbors, in joy for his deliverance. On being remined of his promise the rich man denies having seen the wood cutter, and orders his servants to east him into prison; but before this could be effected the rustic escapes, and tells his story to the judges of the city. At first they were incredulous; but on showing the jewel, and proving further the truth by conducting them to the dea of the lion and the serpent, where the animals again fawn on their benefactor, Vitalis is compelled to perform his promise.
