regarding quarantine matters.

Mr. Robira, of the Galveston board stated that after Dr. Rutherford issued his famous visited Houston to assure him of the cooperation of the Galveston board in any peration of the Garveston board. In any reasonable action he might take in preventing the introduction of the fever from the North. Upon arriving at Houston he found Dr. Butberford in consultation with Captain Charles Fowler and Mr. Van Sickle of the

At the postoffice $129.73 has been received within the past 24 hours. The Princes Alice was a long and low river steamer built for excursions down the Thames, of which the middle and poor class of London were very fond. She had saloons on the forward and after deck. Her passenger carrying faculty was annusually large in proportion. Her passengers last evening were in the upper or saloon deck, and must have seen beforehand their impending death, but those in the stern of the steamer had no warning until they heard the ersash and found the passengers from the forward part of the vessel running to the after part.

The tide was two hours ob, which would enable the Princess Alice to east and stop sooner than the screw steamer, which would be borne on the tide. It is impossible to discover any of the circumstances connected with the affair before the boats came in collision. There were cries from one to the other to keep out of the way, but as usual in such cases the accident was due to one misunderstanding and misinterpreting the other. Etiles of salling were cast to the wind in a moment of danger, and each taking the wrong course to avoid each other, blundered. The Princes Alice was a long and low river
