The first of a series of cases involving the right of Mormons to contract polygamous marriages came up for argument to-day in the United States Supreme Court of Utah. The case is of general interest, because it presents to this court for the first time the question of the constitutional right of Congress to prohibit polygamy when it assumes the guise of religious duty and is held as an article of faith. The counsel for the prisoner contends that Congress is restrained from such prohibition by the first amendment to the bonstitution of the United States, which provides for religious freedom. Special Dispatch to the DAILY EXPRESS. TAYLORSVILLE, Nov. 14, 1878. ntered J. W. Wayman's store at Circleville, five miles north of this place, at 8 o'clock last night, forced the proprietor to open his safe, from which they took fifteen hundred dollars, and provided themselves with new suits of clothes. There were ten or twelve whom they secured by tying two together, hands on back. Some of the mon present think Jackson, one of Bass' men, was the leader of the party. The robbers started in

It is not explicitly stated in Mr. Evarts' dispatch that he considers any recent acts of the colonial legislature to be inconsistent with the rights acquired by the United States under the treaty of Washington, but if that is the case Her Majesty's government will in a friendly spirit consider any representation he may think right to make upon the subject with the object of coming to a satisfactory understanding. New York, November 14.—It is reported that the body of A. T. Stewart was taken to Canada and is now concealed there. The thieves, who demand a ransom of $100,000 for the remains, have placed the matter in the heads of a Mostreal lawyer and for the remains, have placed the matter in the hands of a Montreal lawyer and are negotiating through him. As there is no treaty governing matters of this kind, it will be impossible to arrest the ghouls. Another report says the body is hidden at or near Shamong, Burlington county, N. From Lippincott's Magazinetics & Only ...

If the truth be fairly stated, women leave many excuses for their infatuation regarding mall withsts. It is Mrs. Hawels who says The reason why a small waist is a beam a because, when it is natural, it goes together is because, when it is natural, it goes togener with the peculiar litherage and a many of a shenderly-built figure. All the bones are small, the shoulders and arms pute and the general look is denity and continued to other words, a small waist item in the in properties to the dering it a beauty in a lar it is a deformity that should be disguised;

if artificial, it is calpable, and masty to boot.

The Cheaper Way.

A woman of forty, who looked as if she could make a two-shilling dinner off a tencent soup-bone, called at the Postoffice yesterday to have a letter registered, but when informed that the cost would be ten cents, she fell back from the counter and began thinking. The right lets came at last, and decoming her letter into the mait she bought dropping her letter into the mail she bought a postal card, addressed, it to the same per-son, and wrote: on, and wrote: When she had maked the card her face lighted up with a cute smile, and she went out chuckling:

"When any Postoflice beats me out of nine cents I want to know it?"

Yesterday, however, our reporter met the man that had been robbed, and learned the whole story. The name of the party is Sparks, and he came to San Antonio a few days ago to self a lot of wool. This he succeeded in doing, and was shortly afterwards spotted by a gang of three-card-monte men. They introduced themselves to him as sheep men, and spoke generally of the sheep business in the West. One of them had 5000 sheep, and wanted to sell a portion of them. They accompanied him from saloon to saloon, drinking all the while, when it was proposed to go to the "Bull's Head," on Market street, attached to which is a gambling hell. the Casino last evening in "Lemons." The audience was not by any means a paying one, which is to be regreted, though it was very appreciative. The company certainly played well, and deserved a very liberal patronage. Dillon is undoubtedly an actor of ability. His power to amuse is hard to excel. The support he has is also far above the average, making the entertainments exceedingly interesting. The illness of Dillon, however, the election excitement and other matters, have tended to injure the success of the Wallack combination this time.
