Former Banker Here Buys Lubbock Bank

Bill Loyd, who moved to Muleshoe in 1969, as the president of Muleshoe State Bank, last Friday purchased the former Security National Bank in Lubbock. The bank then was renamed City Bank.

Loyd a native of Hubbard, began his banking career more than 35 years ago with the Security State Bank of McCamey. He is also a former examiner for the State Banking Department.

He spent three years with the West Texas Bank at Snyder, then five and a half years as the vice president of Citizens State Bank at Roby.

In 1959, he helped organize the Plains State Bank at Plains, and was president of that bank until March 19, 1969, when he was named president of Muleshoe State Bank.

About four years ago, Loyd purchased Clovis National Bank in Clovis, N.M. and moved his family to Clovis. He operated that bank as president until about two years ago when he purchased the First State Bank at Dimmitt. Very recently, he sold his interest in the Clovis bank.

Loyd and his family bid $2,451,000 for the Lubbock bank when it was announced the bank was the first bank in the history of Lubbock to fail.

Following his successful bid for the bank, Loyd opened the doors of the Lubbock bank Monday morning, and it was "business as usual," for the bank.

The Loyd family, which includes his wife, his two daughters and their husbands, are taking over all of the liabilities-the deposits-of Security National Bank and assets that include the present building, furniture, fixtures, equipment, cash,

Wayland Baptist University will offer four graduate level courses in Muleshoe beginning in the fall of 1984 and again in the spring of 1985.

These courses will apply toward the Master of Education Degree and to the ESL endorsement, according to Elizabeth Watson.

He said he did not purchase any of Security National's commercial loans or new construction, now owned by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Security National Bank officials had been planning to move into new facilities on the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock, just west of the present building.

Watch For Grass Tetany In Cattle

Bailey County cattlemen need to be aware of a condition called grass tetany that might afflict their herds this time of year, according to Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley.

Grass tetany is a metabolic disturbance resulting from low blood magnesium in the animal, explains Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

He said the problem occurs frequently in adult cows, especially those nursing calves and grazing lush pastures. However, it can occur in cattle of any age or condition and often develops in those grazing wheat or other cereal crops. Cattle in poor condition and exposed to cool, wet, cloudy weather also are subject to grass tetany.

Grass tetany appears more rapidly in lactating animals and more slowly on poorly nourished cattle, says Tanksley. It results mainly from low levels of magnesium and high levels of potassium and nitrogen in grass and other wheat pastures. Thus magnesium absorption is limited and the blood serum magnesium level drops.

In serious cases of grass tetany, animals start to tremble, stagger or run in a frenzied manner. Those that fall and show convulsions usually die rapidly.

Animals less affected may be nervous, walk with a stiff gait, urinate frequently and be sensitive to touch and sound. This may continue for several days before progressing to the convulsive stage leading to death.

Tanksley recommends calling a veterinarian as soon as possible once symptoms develop since use of intravenous magnesium and calcium compounds can save animals.

Aggie Muster Set Here On Saturday

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Muleshoe on Saturday, April 21, for the annual Texas Aggie Muster announced the local chairman, Dr. Barry Cowart.

Muster activities get underway at 7:30 p.m. at the Bailey County Coliseum, according to the chairman. This year the Muster is dedicated to a former Aggie-Lee Pool - Class of 1932.

Cowart said the Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students and friends of Texas A&M.

Texas A&M is in its "Second Century of Greatness," and during the last 100 years, Texas A&M has grown from a small land grant college to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the nation, Cowart reports.

Dr. Cowart said the Aggie Muster dates back to the mid-1880's and has been held annually since. More than 500 Musters will be held around the world this year, Dr. Cowart said, "wherever Texas A&M former students live or work."

During wars, the Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefields, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor shortly before the Japanese captured the island.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Cowart reported.

The Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent, because of death, since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers "Here."

FmHA Officer Is Speaker For Rotary

Henry Taylor, director of the local FmHA office, was special guest speaker for members of the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday at noon. He spoke of his four and a half years as area loan specialist for FmHA in Alaska.

Taylor told Rotarians that Alaska has only four FmHA offices to cover the entire immense state. Good farm land in Alaska, according to the local loan specialists, costs from $2700-$3500 per acre. He outlined the differences in soil and growing seasons in Alaska.

Persons wishing to visit Alaska in the summer are urged to take a camera and "lots of film," as the day is so much longer in the summer, Taylor said you can sit outside and read a newspaper at midnight.

As all building materials have to be shipped into Alaska, along with much of the food, expenses are very high. Taylor said it is very expensive to build a home, and expensive to buy food. All Alaskan grown foods are consumed in the state.

Also, Alaska has a population of some 400,000 people.

Guests at Rotary on Tuesday were Parker Woodall and Jarrod Embry.

Lazbuddie FFA Teams To Compete

On May 4-5, the Lazbuddie FFA Livestock Judging team will be competing in area contests in Lubbock, according to Rick Copp, vo-ag instructor at Lazbuddie.

At the South Plains competition on April 13, the team placed 10th out of the 84 teams entered and then placed fourth in the district on Saturday, April 14, at Texas Tech. Of the 111 teams entered, the Lazbuddie team was 20th. Team members include Sean Mason, who was also the eighth highest individual; Shane Mason, Scott Holt and Todd Daniel.

Also, on April 12, in Littlefield, the District Record Book Check competition was ended with Shane Mason named District Star Greenhand.

The Livestock Judging team won first place in the District at West Texas State on April 7 and the team was 15th overall of the 80 teams entered.

Sean Mason was presented the District Diversified Livestock Proficiency Award at the District Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Show.

In previous articles, the Journal has reported on a proposed coal slurry pipeline by Energy Transportation Systems, Inc. (ETSI), which was scheduled to be built to the Southwestern Public Service Company at Tolk Station northeast of Muleshoe. The pipeline in its entirety would run from Wyoming to Houston.

In late December, a certificate of public convenience to obtain right of way through eminent domain was applied for by ESTI. At that time RRC examiners scheduled a session for May to consider the route of the proposed pipeline. The Railroad Commission has now scheduled hearings beginning in May in ten counties to consider the route of this pipeline proposed by ESTI.

According to RRC officials the only issue to be considered at these local hearings is the effect of the proposed pipeline route through the county and adjacent counties.

According to state law, the Railroad Commission must grant a certificate of public convenience and necessity to ESTI before the pipeline can be built. ESTI must prove that the coal slurry pipeline will be able to move coal at least as "economically and efficiently" as current methods. These economic issues will be addressed at a hearing to be held later in Austin. Requests to move the proposed pipeline route will not be considered at the Austin hearing.

Local hearings will be held in Littlefield (for Lamb and Castro counties) on May 22, in Amarillo (Potter, Randall, Carson and Hutchinson counties) on June 5, in Lipscomb (Lipscomb, Hemphill, Roberts, and Ochiltree counties) on June 12, in Vernon (Wilbarger, Wichita, and Archer counties) on June 19, in Palo Pinto (Young, Jack, Palo Pinto, Hood, and Somervell counties) on June 26, in Waco (McLennan, Bosque, Bell, and Milam counties) on July 10, in San Antonio (Bexar, Wilson and Guadalupe counties) on July 17, in La Grange (Fayette, Lee, Gonzales, and Colorado counties) on July 24, in Richmond (Fort Bend, Austin, Brazoria, and Harris counties) on July 31, and in Beaumont (Liberty, Jefferson, and Orange counties) on Aug. 7.

The exact time and place for each hearing will be set later and notice published in the local areas.

The Commission has directed ESTI to supply specific information regarding the proposed route of the pipeline through each of the 36 affected counties by April 24. ESTI has also been directed to supply additional technical information, such as engineering specifications and drawings, by the same date. All this information is to be sent to the commission and county judges in each affected county.

Interested persons may still file a motion to intervene in the ETSI proceeding. Commission hearing examiners would then determine whether to grant party status.

Party status will generally be given to existing coal transporters in the state, landowners whose property will be crossed by the pro-

Monday Meet Will Focus On Gardening

The Bailey County Extension office Advisory Committee will sponsor a Home Garden program on Monday, April 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bailey County Civic Center.

Two extension specialists are scheduled to be on hand to direct the program. Those specialists are Dr. Roland Roberts, vegetable specialist and Dr. Pat Morrison, Entomologist from Lubbock.

The purpose of the program, according to Spencer Tanksley, County Agent, is to give local homeowners who have small gardens or farm families with larger gardens an opportunity to gain more information on the proper varieties for Bailey County, as well as the proper method of fertilization, irrigation and insect and disease control. Also to be discussed are the opportunities available for marketing such vegetables.

The program will cover from "container" gardens to larger commercial fields, and is geared to fit all gardeners in the area. Handout materials will be available and the public is encouraged to attend.

EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES IN STYLE...Last Saturday, the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Jennyslippers hosted the first Easter Egg Hunt for local youngsters held here in several years. Even the Easter Bunny arrived during the afternoon - and in style - in a helicopter. The youngsters seemed to appreciate the Easter Egg Hunt coming back to Muleshoe.

Sudan Track News

The Hornet boys track team competed in the Smyer Relays on Friday, March 9th. The track meet was held as a true relays type meet. Seven relays were run and all field events plus the hurdles were contested. The Hornets were the only team to place in all seven relays. No team championship was awarded but the Hornets were definitely the leading point winners on the track.

"Our athletes ran real well. I was disappointed that they didn't award a team championship but we competed every time we got on the track. Our field events went pretty well with Joe Martin cracking the 40' mark in the shot and our discus throwers all threw around 110' but got their marks pulled by some irresponsible officials at the site. Anyway our throwers know they're getting better each week. Our high jumpers and pole vaulters jumped off grass runways and still had good marks. I scratched our long jumpers for fear or injury because of the poor jumping conditions at Smyer's pit. I was tickled for all three of our high hurdlers to make the finals I think we're getting better every day both physically and mentally," commented the coach.

First Week In April Critical For Alfalfa

The first two weeks of April is a critical time for alfalfa producers on the South Plains, cautions Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Extension agent for agriculture.

This is the time when producers need to examine their alfalfa for the presence of alfalfa weevil larvae, he said.

With the beginning of warm spring weather, overwintering female weevils begin laying eggs. The young larvae which hatch out are very small, yellow-green in color and feed in the growing tips and developing buds. Older larvae are green with a white stripe down their back.

"We expect to have our peak alfalfa weevil activity in April in our area," said Tanksley. If larvae numbers are high enough to reach the economic threshold, one properly timed application should give control. Treatments should be applied in alfalfa 2 to 6 inches tall when two or more larvae are found per plant or when 30 to 50 percent of the plant terminals show weevil feeding damage. Taller plants, 7 to 14 inches tall should be treated when 25 or more weevil larvae per square foot are present. Several effective insecticides are registered for alfalfa weevil control.

The alfalfa weevil has only one generation per year and is only a pest of first cutting, said Tanksley. After the larvae finish feeding, usually by mid May in our area, the larva spins a net-like cocoon on the plant or in the soil debris. The adult weevil emerges from this cocoon and leaves the field. The weevils stay out of the alfalfa fields all summer and re-enter them in the fall. The adults overwinter in the field and the cycle then repeats itself.

Since the larvae are a pest of first cutting, it is sometimes possible to cut a little earlier than usual and avoid chemical treatments. Cutting results in exposure and a lack of food which kills many of the remaining larvae. Winter grazing by livestock helps reduce weevil populations.

I couldn't have been more pleased to name the Benny Bruns family as Library family of the year. Many thanks to every-one who participated.

I understand that the Study-club did very well on the booksale, tho it may be some time before the final amount is known, as they are contacting some used bookstores to try to negotiate a sale of all remaining books.

We are happy to show a collection of "bride dolls" of many lands, in the display case thru May this, loaned to us by Sudie Foster, and girls who live at Farwell, but have used our library for several years.

We had quite a few over-due books returned during the week, and we appreciate this very much.

Creative Woman

By Sheryl Borden

Topics to be presented on "The Creative Women" show on April 24 and 28 include tail gate meals and english smocking. Connie Moyers, Marketing Representative for Home Economics with Southwestern Public Service Co., Clovis will discuss and demonstrate several recipes for quick meals. She will emphasize how important organization is for meals at home or for meals that are to be transported to another place. Convenience and packability are the important points to remember in planning meals to be carried outside the home.

Thelma Craig, Janelle

Brock and Lillian Rozelle, all homemakers from Albuquerque will demonstrate how to do English Smocking. They will talk about where this sewing technique originated, show the different types of smocking, show how a gathering machine works, and display several items featuring English Smocking.

On April 26 and 29, the topics will include monster cookies, shadow applique and cooking for two. The segment on monster cookies will be especially interesting to kids. They're delicious and easy to make and this will be presented by Nina

Swan, Director of Consumer Relations with the National Oats Company in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Kathy Albright is a quilting instructor with The Quilt Works in Albuquerque and she will demonstrate how to do shadow applique by making a Victorian Needlecase. This is a quick, inexpensive and very pretty gift idea.

When you're used to cooking for a large number of people, it's sometimes hard to readjust cooking habits. Ms. Duncan will share several ideas and recipes for cooking for one or two persons.

Students For Combest Swing Thru Muleshoe

A group of Texas Tech students, touting themselves as College Students for Larry Combest visited in Muleshoe Saturday afternoon and stopped by the Journal offices.

The seven, Laura Houren, Johna Taylor, Glen Dennis, Mike Keck, Eric Rozier, Lowry Martin II and Lisa Sloan said they think Larry Combest is the most qualified and the most experienced candidate and will be the most effective in Washington.

They said they are members of the Texas Tech College Republicans and are members of the organization that was voted the Outstanding Club of the year at Tech.

Citing Combest's seven years in Washington as an aide to Senator John Tower, they said he is experienced in the fields of farming, oil and gas and the teaching field.

The group said the current agriculture program lacks consistency with each year being different for the farmers.

Larry Combest promises to look at all the options, and propose a program that will last for two to three years at a time," they said, adding, "the farm markets constantly change, and Larry (Combest) is looking for long time solutions to the farmer's problems."

In the field of education, the students believed the raises should be locally funded, and not increase taxes.

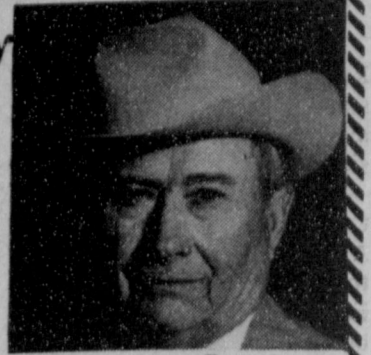

In 1985, a mandatory test will be given to all teachers in the form of competency tests. The group said they believe in the competency tests for teachers, but at the same time, believe that continuing education for teachers should be a tax write-off, much the same as it is for doctors and lawyers. Also, according to the students, teachers should have incentive pay instead of merit pay, to be sure teachers are paid for the work they do, and to eliminate politics from the teaching profession.

All the students said they are very much involved in the Congressional race this year, and expressed vital interests in the main issues facing the residents of the South Plains and West Texas.

PARTNERSHIPS - WATCH OUT
Joint ownership of business ventures can cause many problems. It makes little difference whether the business is large or small.

If you met someone on Friday night and got married the following Monday, you would probably be considered hasty and unwise. Yet in business it happens all the time. We have no cultural requirement for a business courtship. The shortcomings of hasty business marriages are endless.

Don't form a partnership unless you have a good reason to do so. If you don't need the technical expertise or financial backing of another individual, don't take him on as a partner.

All joint ventures, whether they be partnerships or closely held corporations, are going to terminate. It's possible, but rare, that they terminate because one of the partners dies of old age. More commonly, the termination is due to business failure, disability of one of the partners, disagreement of the partners or disagreement of the spouses.

What happens to your joint venture assets if you become totally disabled? What if your partner dies? Will his spouse become your partner? What happens if one partner simply wants out? What if all this happens just months or weeks after the joint venture is formed? What if it happens after the business is worth mega-bucks?

Engage the services of an accountant and an attorney to help draft a complete partnership agreement. Entering a partnership is not the time to try to save money on professional fees. All of the unpleasant contingencies should be covered in the partnership agreement so that the inevitable termination is provided for. This partnership agreement will not substitute for a courtship, but it will help eliminate some of the problems inherent in joint ventures.

Hightower Blasts Reagan Family Farm Policies

"We've had about all this Reaganomics that we can stand; Reaganomics is setting in across the countryside."

So said Jim Hightower, Commissioner of Texas Agriculture in an address to the 82nd Annual National Farmers Union Convention, being held recently in New Orleans. "America's rural economy is headed for a crash because the Reagan Administration is dismantling our country's most efficient economic machine—the family farm."

"I've listened to the President and heard him say that 'prosperity has returned.' But farmers, rural merchants, agribusiness and others dependent on the farm economy have seen no prosperity. "Bank failures are on the rise across the nation, with agricultural, rural and small town banks leading the way. These bank failures aren't slowing down, either, with failures in the first two months of 1984 tracking the level of the previous year. Texas has historically had only eight percent of the nation's bank failures, but our share of that pie is growing, reaching 15 percent on 1982, with almost all of the troubled banks in farming areas."

"This madness cannot continue for any longer. Let's write a 'farmer bill' in 1985, not just a new Farm Bill. Now a cotton program, and a feed grain program, and a dairy program, but a farmer program that focuses on farmers themselves, instead of bushels and bales and gallons.

"First, start with the farmer's price, cementing a floor at no less than the real cost of production; limit protected price to family farmers. Second, bring the immediate surplus under control through mandatory production controls. Third, aggressively seek new export markets, then expand production limits so farmers can produce for those new markets. Fourth, tap the humanitarian potential of American agriculture by re-establishing an aggressive, well-managed Food-for-Peace program that fairly compensates U.S. farmers to help feed the world's hungry. Fifth, incorporate soil conservation programs directly into the supply-management and farm-benefit programs. Sixth, write a six-year program that farmers can count on and plan on from one year to the next.

"We can't win this fight on our own. We've got to go to the people in the cities. Interview after interview at supermarkets show that consumers would be willing to pay a little more for food, three or four cents on a box, if it meant that the family farmer was going to benefit."

Agriculture

Is Big

Business

Without question, agriculture is big business in Texas as well as across the nation. But the agribusiness sector that supports the nation's corps of food and fiber producers also does a high volume business.

"Of the more than $300 billion consumers spent last year for domestically produced farm foods, about $215 billion was for services rendered by the so-called 'middleman,'" points out Dr. Forrest Stegelin, agribusiness economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

This dollar volume for services added between the farm and the retail establishment where consumers purchased the final product accounts for 72 cents of every $1 spent by consumers, notes the economist. The remaining 28 cents goes to the farmer.

"The agribusiness sector not only turns raw agricultural items into ready-to-buy products, but also supplies inputs to generate a long line of raw farm products," notes Stegelin.

"An interesting point is that there are about 16 people needed in the agribusiness sector to support one farmer," Stegelin points out. "These are the people who provide each farmer with all the inputs he needs to generate his impressive raw farm product output—that feeds almost 80 people."

farmer was going to benefit. "Those consumers would be willing to pay a little more for food, three or four cents on a box, if it meant that the family farmer was going to benefit.

Grover Cleveland is the only U.S. president to have been married in the White House.

Agriculture Public Hearings Planned

State Senator Bill Sarpalius, chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Agriculture, has announced dates for four public hearings of the subcommittee over the next several months. The results will form the basis for a report on agriculture in Texas to the 69th Texas Legislature.

Soil and Water conservation and the control of predatory animals will be the topic of the initial hearing in Amarillo on April 10th, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Texas A & M Research and Extension Center.

Hearings will be April 17th in Corpus Christi. Midland will be the site of a hearing May 23rd and a September 26th meeting will be at Texas A & M University. Hearings will be set in Lake Jackson and Tyler at later dates.

At the Amarillo meeting, the subcommittee will take testimony on reclamation of surface land from gravel pits and the efficient use of irrigation water. The predatory animal subject will deal with possible state measures for control.

Sarpalius said his subcommittee would welcome testimony concerning other

Pay-n-Save
 QUALITY AND SERVICE

Important Local Tax Information Deadline!!

All Applications - Exemptions - Renditions Due Before May 1, 1984

Home Owners

General homestead exemption

School homestead exemption: If you qualify for a residence homestead, you will be entitled to a $5,000 exemption off the market value of the homestead for school tax purposes.

County homestead exemption: If you qualify for a residence homestead, you may also be entitled to a $3,000 exemption from the assessed value of your home from county taxes.

Are you 65 or older?

If you are 65 years of age or older on January 1 of the tax year, you are entitled to an additional $10,000 exemption off the market value of your residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only and your initial application should be filed before the end of the rendition period, May 1, 1984.

Once a homestead exemption has been granted to a resident homeowner by the appraisal district, a renewal application is not necessary unless the property changes ownership or the person's eligibility for the exemption changes.

Are you disabled?

If you are disabled and qualify for the residence homestead exemption, you are entitled to receive an additional exemption of $10,000 off the market value of your residence homestead. This exemption applies to school taxes only.

Are you a disabled veteran or qualifying survivor?

Texas law also provides for a disabled veterans' or survivors' exemption. Certain disabled veterans or their survivors may be entitled to a partial exemption from property taxes. This exemption can be applied to any one property - not just a homestead - that is owned on January 1.

Business

Texas law requires that owners of tangible personal property used to produce income file a rendition (list) of such property owned on January 1. Additionally, the chief appraiser may require renditions by owners of real property.

Such renditions must be filed beginning January 1 and before May 1 on rendition forms meeting State Property Tax Board requirements. Contact your appraisal district office for additional information or for copies of approved forms.

Farm And Ranch

Under the Texas Property Tax Code, farmers and ranchers who qualify may have their agricultural land taxed on the basis of productivity rather than market value. Productivity valuation may lower the 1984 taxes on your agricultural or open-space land.

If you have never received open-space (1-d-1) valuation on your land, you must make application to the appraisal district office before May 1, 1984, to be entitled to tax relief this year.

If your land received open-space (1-d-1) valuation in 1983, there will be no requirement for you to reapply for 1984 in this appraisal district.

If your property happens to be situated in two or more appraisal districts. You must apply for your homestead exemption or productivity valuation in each district. Failure to do so may result in one or more taxing units taxing your property on its full market value.

This could occur if a taxing unit, such as a school district in two or more counties, participates in an appraisal district other than the district for the county where your property is situated.

The sun sends out millions of particles, electrically charged, and they stream into the earth's vicinity.
